"They told me here at the drug store," a voice came to him over the wire, "that you might be able to fix up my car. Something's gone seriously wrong with the clutch, and my wife and I are on the way to Detroit for the holidays."

"I'm sorry, sir, but we don't have night service at my garage. We're all locked up for the night, and my assistant has gone out of town."

"Can't you come down yourself?" the voice persisted.

"Tell you what," Chris suggested. "There's a train through here at 10.00, and it's only an hour's run to Detroit. Why don't you take it on in to the city and leave your car here. I'll get at it first thing in the morning after Christmas, and you can get someone to drive you down for it then."

"The hitch is," the stranger replied, "that we've got a new bicycle and a lot of other unwrapped gifts for our grandchildren crammed into the back seat. In fact, we've playing Santa, and we've simply got to get that stuff under their tree tonight."

Chris glanced into the living room and saw Karen holding the star, confidently waiting for him to return to their trimming party.

He was about to say into the phone, "I simply can't make it," when a vision of those unknown children in Detroit crowded into his mind. When a little fellow is expecting to see a shiny, new bicycle under the tree . . . and then it isn't there—

A FINISHED TASK

An hour and a half later he straightened up beside the gleaming black Cadillac, wiped his greasy hands on an old rag and said, "There you are, Mr. Baxter. You'll get that bicycle delivered in plenty of time now."

"Yes, if I can pry my wife loose from your house," the portly gentleman's eyes twinkled. "When I left there a few minutes ago, she and your Karen were in the midst of the coziest coffee huddle you ever saw. It certainly was nice of you to send us up there to wait."

"Oh, well, it was too cold in this garage tonight to have you people stand around for a couple of hours," Chris said diffidently.

"Maybe some day you'll have a garage with all the latest and the best," Mr. Baxter smiled. "Like warm waiting rooms and 24-hour service."

Chris sighed: "I'm just getting started, you know, and of course there's another older garage already established in the village."

"I know there is," Mr. Baxter looked grim. "As a matter of fact I called them first, and they wouldn't open up tonight for love nor money. The owner was having a party or something and just couldn't be bothered."

"Well, you know how it is," Chris murmured.

A GOOD RETURN

"I know how you are," the gentleman said firmly. "And because of that I also know what I'm going to do. Here's my card—"

Chris looked at the white slip and let out a low whistle. "State Auto Club, Harold F. Baxter, First Vice-president."

"We've been wondering about the advisability of designating an official garage for the Club in this vicinity, now that the new road goes through here." Mr. Baxter went on, "and after tonight, I know we need one."

Mistletoe Once Symbol of Evil

The mistletoe, once a weapon of death, later became to be considered as a magical medicine, is now a universal symbol of love and peace.

It was with a mistletoe arrow, (according to the Norse mythology) that Loki killed Balder, the sun god after Balder's mother had obtained a promise from all living things, other than the mistletoe, that they would not harm him. Balder was restored to life and it was ruled by the gods that the mistletoe would never again be used to do harm.

Ancient Europeans considered the mistletoe a magical medicine. They carried it about with them for health and luck, and believed it a cure for ulcers and epilepsy as well as a charm promoting fertility.

The present day custom of giving a kiss of love or peace beneath the mistletoe, although a relatively modern one, is derived from the fact that down through the centuries the mistletoe has been recognized throughout the whole world as a symbol of lasting peace.

Santa Comes To America

Just like most everyone else, Saint Nick prospered after he came to America.

In Europe, before he reached these shores, Saint Nick was a tall, angular man who rode a bony gray mare. He hadn't been in America long, however, before he had a new name, a new face, figure and a new and better mode of transportation.

The early English settlers in this country started Santa's "new look" process. They adopted the legendary figure from the Dutch, but couldn't pronounce "Saint Nicholas." The best they could do was "Santa Kalouf," which was corrupted to "Santa Claus."

In 1809 Washington Irving in his "Knickerbocker's History of New York" charged Santa's physical appearance by describing him as a jolly fellow with a broad-brimmed hat and huge britches. He also taught St. Nick to smoke a pipe, and traded his hay burner for a wagon.

Clement Moore in his famous poem, "The Visit from Saint Nicholas," went even further. He gave Saint Nick a sleigh, twinkling eyes, cheeks like roses, nose like a cherry and a round little belly.

Future writers may try to trade Prancer and Dancer off for a jet ship and trim down Santa's waistline. It will be a tough job, for though it isn't streamlined, Santa pleases the young folks and that's mighty important.

Christmas Rose Is Hallowed by Legend

The delicate beauty of the Christmas-rose (helleborous niger) is hallowed by legend. A poor shepherd girl, the story goes, wept bitterly as she watched the Wise Men on their way to the Christ Child bearing rich gifts when she had nothing. An angel appeared. Upon learning the reason for the girl's distress, the angel caused the ground to be carpeted with shining white flowers. The young shepherdess gathered some blossoms. When she presented her gift, the infant smiled and as His fingers touched the white flowers, the petals became tinged with pink.

Is the Christmas Festival Getting Too Commercial?

Every year about this time we hear the same story: Christmas is getting too commercial.

Last year, in fact, some grown-ups rebelled and said that Christmas was getting "so commercial" they intended to tell their children there was no Santa Claus.

Like little Virginia O'Hanlon, who wrote the famous "Is There a Santa" letter to the editor of the New York Sun, children are very easily disillusioned. But, like Virginia, they need only reassurance from someone they believe in to sustain their wonderful belief. It is entirely wrong for us to shatter their dreams.

Christmas is commercial in some aspects. Thousands of people earn a livelihood working the year around in toy shops or factories which produce Christmas specialties. This, in itself, does not make Christmas "too commercial," for toymakers have produced Christmas novelties for hundreds and hundreds of years. In the same vein, we can not say Christmas is too commercial, merely because newspapers, magazines and catalogues are filled with gift advertising as the holiday season approaches. They advertise spring merchandise, fall merchandise, etc., so why not Christmas merchandise, when the dominant theme is one of giving?

No—"Too commercial" is an overstatement. Christmas is too commercial only in the minds of grown-ups. If we think so, let's work to see that the "true spirit" of the season abounds about us and not attempt to take away from children the joy of one of the greatest moments in their young lives—the time when Santa visits.

For — "he exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there was no Santa Claus!"

Let there be a Santa as long as there are little Virginias.

It Can Be Wanted In Many Languages

"Happy New Year!"

As the year 1955 rolls westward from the Admiralty's date line, these words will ring out in many languages.

Should you be in gay Faree, the greeting you'd hear would be "Bonne Annee!". Down in sunny Italy, they say "Buon Capo d'Anneli" which doesn't sound too different. In Spain, it's "Feliz Ano Nuevo!"

If you have relatives or friends in Germany, they may write, "Ein Gluecklices Neues Jahr." If so, they wish you a Happy New Year. The Sewidsh and Norse greetings are different from the ones above, although they are almost the same. The Swedes say, "Got Nyti Ar," and the Norse "Godt Nyti Aar."

Any way you hear it, though, it seems the same. The three words mean not only Happy New Year but imply best wishes for all the days ahead.

Christmas Is For Giving

By MAUD McCURDY WELCH

Tomorrow was Christmas and Tommy was worried. It hadn't snowed at all, and if there was no snow to shovel, how could he make any money for Christmas?

Tommy lived in the neat farm cottage with his Uncle Pete and Aunt Lucy. Aunt Lucy had just told him he could go over and see Jimmy Reeder but be sure to be back by five o'clock. Tommy started walking slowly toward the Reeder farm, as he had a lot of thinking to do.

In the small sitting room Aunt Lucy and Uncle Pete were talking. Aunt Lucy insisted that two dollars was an awful lot to pay for a dog. They were poor people after all and could only afford to give Tommy sensible things.

Uncle Pete thought Tommy should have the puppy he wanted. He was only seven, and needed a playmate.

Tommy was walking along still slowly, trying not to think how a wonderful it would be if he could have this little puppy. His name was Blaze, and he was a runt; that's why he cost only two dollars. Tommy thought how the pup would frolic along beside him and wag his tail, and how they'd race over the fields when spring was here. But no use thinking about Blaze. He had to get a job.

It was when he was passing the big house where Mr. Robert Thatcher lived, that the idea came. Tommy went in and asked Mr. Thatcher for a job. Mr. Thatcher was said to be a bad-tempered, stingy old man, but Tommy wasn't going to be afraid of him. He said, "I need some Christmas money, and I thought you might give me a job to do."

The old man asked grumpily, "What do you want for Christmas?"

HIS CHRISTMAS WISH

Tommy explained about the dog and Mr. Thatcher said, "All right you can go to work in the orchard, cleaning out under my trees."

Tommy found the rake and other tools and went to work with vim. A little before five, the job was done. Mr. Thatcher took a look at it, and said he'd earned two dollars.

"Could you give it to me in new shiny dollars?" Tommy asked. The old man nodded. "Thought you were going to buy a puppy?"

"Nope. Can't have the puppy. Christmas is for giving."

The old man put two silver dollars in his hand. He said softly, "Glad you reminded me, Tommy. I'd almost forgotten."

Then it was Christmas. After breakfast Tommy proudly laid a shining silver dollar in Aunt Lucy's hand and one in Uncle Pete's. They were both so surprised for a moment they didn't speak. Then Aunt Lucy nodded at Uncle Pete. He left the room and they heard the chugging of the old Ford as it went down the lane.

"The dollar shines pretty, doesn't it?" Tommy asked.

"It's beautiful, Tommy. Thank you." Aunt Lucy's voice sounded choked up.

When Uncle Pete came back, he gave Tommy two packages, mittens from Aunt Lucy and shoes from Uncle Pete. "Just what I needed," Tommy exclaimed and gave them both a big hug. Uncle Pete cleared his throat, "Tommy your real present is on the back porch in a basket."

It was Blaze, the puppy Tommy gave a cry of joy. He ran back to the sitting room, the puppy in his arms. "Oh, thank you, Uncle Pete. Thank you, Aunt Lucy. Thank you a million!"

But that wasn't all. An hour later a car stopped outside and a chauffeur brought in a big basket of fruit and one filled to the brim with wonderful things to eat. Even a turkey. There was a note, which read:

"Christmas is for giving. I wish you all a very Happy Yuletide." It was signed Robert Thatcher.

Aunt Lucy and Uncle Pete looked at each other in amazement. Then Uncle Pete said: "Well, Robert Thatcher certainly did get the Christmas spirit, didn't he?"

"Everybody is so good," Tommy said. He looked down at the puppy which was now asleep in his lap.

Old Superstitions About Eating Of Mince Pies

Many writers say the mince pie originated in Germany, while others claim that its beginning is lost in the annals of history. Nonetheless, it was an essential part of the Yuletide celebration in early England.

Old superstitions held that any person refusing to eat mince pie would be unlucky for the coming year. Should he accept the invitation and partake of mince pie during the holiday season he would have the same number of happy months during the year as the number of houses at which he ate mince pie.

Christmas Was Once A Movable Feast

Christmas was once like Easter in that it was a movable feast, celebrated on a different date each year.

St. Cyril, bishop of Jerusalem, is responsible for establishment of the universal date we celebrate today. In 337 AD, with the permission of Pope Junius I, St. Cyril appointed a commission to determine, if possible, the precise date of Christ's nativity. The theologian of the church finally agreed upon December 25, and since the year 354 this date has been celebrated.

Together

By SHIRLEY SARGENT

As Alice Danforth moved from the desk, she saw the big calendar turned to December and the latent happiness within her swelled like a balloon. She hugged her secret to herself, glad now that she had kept it from Jed. What better way to start the New Year? Of course, if Jed had been here in Weed these last two months, she couldn't have kept it, but he had been gones on sales trips for the company. She walked into the living room to study their wedding portrait taken just three years ago.

Jed's expression was radiant. He was a tall young man with dark hair and warm brown eyes while Alice, herself, was slight with honey blond hair and a smile that lent her beauty. How happy they had been, Alice thought, when they had come to the town of Weed. The first year and the second year. It had been only recently that Jed had exhibited the restlessness which culminated in his transferring to the sales staff.

It had been only recently that Alice had paid particular attention to Weed's snow-covered parks, to its homey schools and its pervading air of "typical" as she had walked its broad streets. When they had first come to Weed, she had had little time for anyone but Jed, lately she had treasured every friendly greeting, every evidence of belonging. And soon, she wondered, will my interests narrow down again?

Jed arrived home too late and too exhausted to go to the parties they had been invited to. There were tired lines in his face, especially around his eyes. "Let's just see the New Year in together," he suggested sprawling on the couch.

THOUGHTFUL QUIET

For a while the living room was broken only by the noises of the crackling fire, and the popping corn. Outside, Alice knew, snow was falling in geometrically beautiful flakes that would heap together and mean shovelling tomorrow.

Jed sat up when she brought the bowl of well-salted, buttered popcorn to him. They sat side by side, sharing the bowl.

"'Good,' Jed mumbled, his mouth too full for clear speech.

"How was your trip?" The clock read 11.45.

Jed sighed from deep within him. "All right," he said, "considering how green I am at sales. The boss is pleased. In fact . ." he paused.

Alice was aware of his intent gaze. "In fact, what?" she questioned.

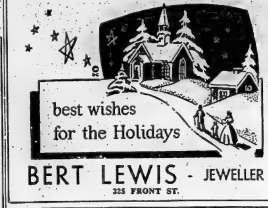
Jed rose, paced restlessly. "In fact, the boss is so pleased with my progress that he'll put me out in the field regularly. Now, don't interrupt. Let me finish. We would either move to Chicago or maybe we could buy a house trailer and you could go with me."

Jed poked another log on the fire. "Of course, it wouldn't all be fun and travel, but at least you wouldn't be stuck in Weed anymore."

"Stuck in Weed," she echoed. "Who said I was stuck? Why, Weed has one of the best stocked libraries I've ever seen in a small town, and in the summer we have the band and the people are so friendly."

"But, I thought you hated it here." His square face was set in lines of utter bewilderment. "That's why I took the darn job with the sales force."

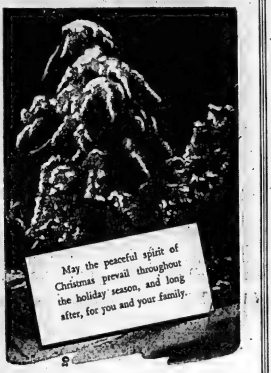
Church bells began to toll the old year out as Alice went to Jed. "Jed, dear, you couldn't be more mistaken. I love Weed, and our future lies here. A wonderful future. Why, next June we're going to have a baby."

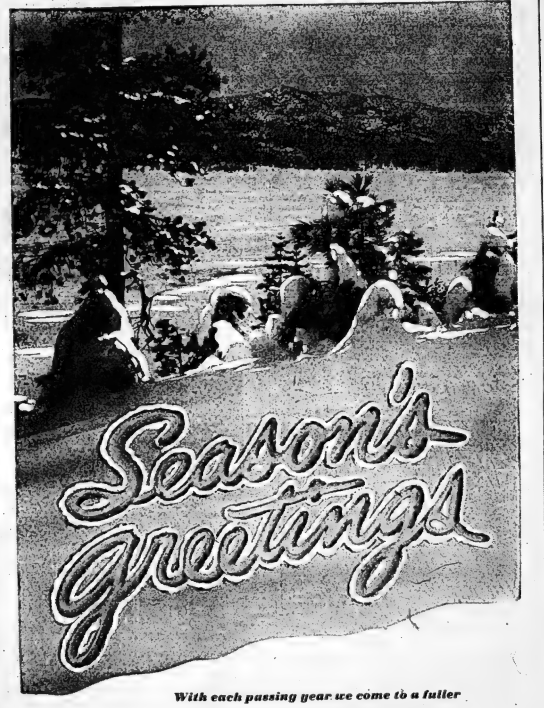


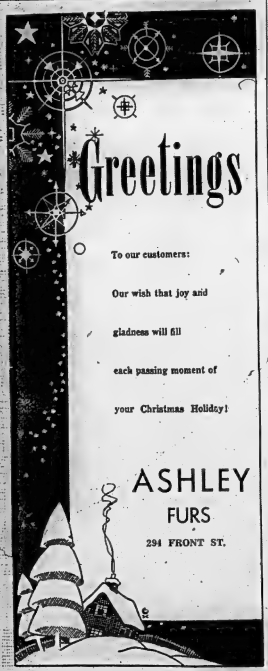
Jed whooped and hugged her tightly, then led her gently to the couch. "A baby. Our daughter or son! In June? Are you sure?"

"Of course, nitwit, and I want him, her, it to grow up in Weed."

"Then I don't have to stay with sales and we can live here and raise our child. Oh, Happy New Year, darling Happy New Year!"







With each passing year we come to a fuller appreciation of the bonds of friendship that have been forged by our pleasant business associations. Now, at Christmastime, we would like to say thank you and may you have a very MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Jolly Old Saint and Famous Reindeer Heading South With Heaviest Load in Years

Editor's note: "Will Santa Claus really come to our house?" That is the most anxious question today. It is answered in the following story, written for parents to read aloud to their children. Since its first appearance in 1943, it has become a scrapbook favorite in many homes.

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last!

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the Arctic skies right now, heading south.

Northern lights switched on for clear steady green—the "go ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lanes in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sled was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying hayrack as it soared through the crisp cold air.

"Oh, dear, oh dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of these presents fall out and beat some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

REINDEER LAUGH

"What is he fretting about?" sneered Donder to Vixen. "He's only riding in that sled. We have to pull it."

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on his harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa Claus climbed up into the seat of the sled, puffing a little because he has gained several pounds this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please," said Santa Claus. Then he said, surprised?

"Why what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

"Climb aboard, climb aboard," boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But I must say this is the first time I ever picked up three soldiers wearing tuxedos."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"Do almost forget your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," said Santa, "we don't need it. This year I am going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones need it, feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve it, nice presents will make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "First it does not reward you old softie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait, please wait."

It was Jerry, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped with Chuny and said she was funny at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her and knew she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? what's this!" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only for one child in the world," said Chuny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Chuny.

"Why Chuny!" said Santa. "This is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Chuny and gave her a big whisker-tickly kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frosty air.

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sled began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Santa was on his way. And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you are.

George Medal Winner Preaches Sermon on Peace

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A British major who was awarded the George medal for killing a Greek Cypriot terrorist "preached a sermon" on peace to a press conference Friday.

Britan Coombe, 34, appealed to the press and public "not to deepen the rift between the peaceful citizens of Cyprus and the equally peaceful Britons" over the incident which brought him the award.

Coombe was awarded the medal for fighting off single-handedly a band of terrorists and killing leading terrorist Charalambos Moukos after they ambushed his car and killed his driver last week.

Moukos, 24, was a nephew of Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union with Greece campaign here, and British authorities had posted a reward of £5,000 for his capture.

CIVILIANS COWED

Coombe's death he has become a hero to the anti-British terrorists in the island.

The major who killed him opened his press conference by saying:

"I am now going to do something I have never done before and hope never to do again—I am going to preach a sermon.

"My feeling is that civilians in Cyprus have been cowed by the gun and fear of a handful of murderers at large in the island.

"As a result they are afraid to bring these people to justice. Last week my driver was killed by one of them and it was my duty to bring justice to the people who murdered him—aided by my personal bitterness at my driver's death.

REACTION TRAGIC

"As a result, one frightened, pathetic young Cypriot was killed and the national reaction to his death has been tragic. . . .

"You may feel I am talking like a grandmother, but there is far too much hatred here.

"The Cypriots are not accelaiming the dead man as their hero and the British press is acclaiming me as their hero. This incident instead of doing good is separating the two camps over this so-called hero worship.

"I feel there should be no jubilation over this tragedy. I appeal to all to wipe out this evil in Cyprus so that we may save the island from any more deaths, tears and sorrow."

Santa Is Very Real to Children at Christmas

Most pleasant of dreams is that of a child who can picture Santa, beard and all, as he reads the child's letter, addressed to him at the North Pole. There's a smile on the old gentleman's face as he reads and nods . . . Yes, if you're a good boy, you'll get what you ask for Christmas. (Central Press Canadian).

Comet Jetliner In Toronto for Engine Overhaul

TORONTO (CP)—Jet pilot Capt. John Cunningham and his crew will switch from air speed to ice speed tonight when they take ride-side seats for a National Hockey League game in Maple Leaf Gardens.

The 10-man crew, grounded in Toronto for Christmas with technical trouble in their British four-engined Comet III jetliner, will watch some low-level manoeuvring between Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks. Sunday they will take Christmas dinners in Toronto private homes.

The plane developed engine trouble Thursday, shortly after taking off from Montreal for London on the first lap of a 20,000-mile global test flight. The 70-ton plane returned to Montreal and Friday flew into Toronto on three engines for a complete overhaul. Officials of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., said the defective engine may be replaced with one flown from Britain.

A PROTOTYPE

The Comet III is a prototype, forerunner of the Comet IV expected to go into commercial operation later. The big silver plane left Hatfield, England, Dec. 2 and flew via Egypt and India to Sydney, Australia. It hopped to Auckland, New Zealand, Fiji and Honolulu and touched down in Vancouver Friday. Sunday it flew to Toronto in three hours, 55 minutes.

Capt. Cunningham was also scheduled to land at Downsview airport in northwest Toronto Friday but restricted visibility forced an instrument landing at Malton.

Later Capt. Cunningham made the 814-mile hop to Downsview in a matter of minutes.

The Comet was wheeled straight into a hanger for inspection. It joins two predecessors at Downsview. Comets owned by the RCAF and grounded after two early-model Comets exploded over the Mediterranean with the loss of 56 lives.

The Christmas Story

I love to hear the story, of that first glad Christmas night
When the shepherds on Judean hills looked on a wondrous sight;
When the radiance of God's glory wrapt the hills in mystic glow
And the watching shepherds wondered on that night so long ago.

I can hear the angel speaking to the shepherds on the hills—
"Fear ye not I bring a message," with what joy my spirit thrills;
And I listen to the story of a Saviour sent to men.
Of the Christ-Child in the manger o'er the hills at Bethlehem.

Then I hear the angelic choir on that night so calm and still Filling all the air with music. "Peace on earth to men good-will";
"Glory be to God the highest", how the gladsome notes prolong!
As I listen with the shepherds to the angels' Christmas song.

And I follow with the shepherds o'er the hills so far away
And with them I hasten onward where the town of Bethlehem lay,
Where we find the little Christ-Child in a manger rude and old,
Oh! how thrilling is the story though its been so often told!

Oh! it is the old, old story but to me it's ever dear,
Bringing in the Christmas spirit, Christmas chimes and Christmas cheer;
And the world will grow the brighter, better still the souls of men,
If we tale to heart the story of the Babe of Bethlehem.

—HELEN B. ANDERSON.

Traffic Deaths Start Climb In First Hours of Weekend

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic deaths in the United States climbed steadily during the first hours of the long Christmas weekend holiday.

First reports showed at least 45 persons had lost their lives in motor accidents. Nine other violent deaths were reported, six in fires and three in accidents from miscellaneous causes.

A rash of traffic accidents in the Chicago area — more than 500 in five hours Friday night — resulted in 10 deaths. Police said the accident rate was the highest ever for a Christmas holiday season.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 560 persons will be killed in traffic mishaps during the 78-hour holiday period — from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday local time.

Of the six killed in fires, three were Dominican nuns who perished in a fire which destroyed Our Lady of Grace monastery in North Guilford, Conn., during 50 other nuns escaped.

Driving conditions were hazardous in many areas hit by rain, snow and fog. Fog extended over sections of the upper Mississippi valley, the Ohio valley and parts of Illinois and lower Michigan. Snow covered wide areas in most of the northern border states. New England and parts of New York and Pennsylvania. Rain continued in the far west.

From Arab-Held Bethlehem To Frozen Poles of Earth World Welcomes Christmas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians, wherever they are in a troubled world, turned their thoughts today to the little town of Bethlehem as Christmas observances again emphasized age-old hopes for peace and goodwill.

In Arab-held Bethlehem, within sight of the closely-guarded Jordan - Israeli demarcation line, everything was ready for the traditional Christmas Eve pilgrimage and midnight church services. Despite the lifting of a curfew after five days of political rioting in Jordan, the atmosphere continued more tense than usual.

Fewer visitors were expected this year for the ancient ritual of midnight mass in St. Catherine's church adjoining the Church of the Nativity.

From the winter-darkened top of the world where Canadians and Americans are building the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line, to the Byrd expedition on Antarctica, it was the same story. Christians were together in thought if not in fact.

Queen Elizabeth was with her family at Sandringham, the 7,000-acre estate in Norfolk where the Royal Family gathers for Christmas. Her Queen will make her customary broadcast to the Commonwealth and Empire Christmas Day.

Pope Pius made his 17th consecutive Christmas Eve appeal to day for peace and goodwill among men. His message will be carried in 26 languages during the next five days.

The annual Christmas midnight mass also will be broadcast from the Vatican (at 6 a.m. EST).

The Pope has a brightly lighted Christmas tree, a gift from Germany, in his apartment. He receives the tree each year from a friend of the days when the pontiff was apostolic nuncio in Berlin and Munich.

Teller Gambles Holdup Bandit Was Bluffing

TORONTO (CP)—Teller James Lavery, 26, Friday gambled that a bandit who threatened to blow the bank "sky high" was bluffing. He won out.

Police said the bandit passed Mr. Lavery, an employee at the Imperial Bank branch at Gowntown Yonge and Queen streets, a note which read:

"This is a stickup. Give me $6,000 or I don't care. This satchel is full of enough nitro-glycerine to blow us all sky high. Merry Christmas."

Mr. Lavery read the note, saw no bottle, left the floor behind his counter and punched an alarm button.

The bandit ran out of the bank and disappeared among Christmas shoppers.

"I hope you get a bonus this Christmas, Sidney" — I've just spent it. .

Legless Veteran Given Real Break, Pension Restored

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration Friday reversed itself and restored the monthly compensation payments it had cut from the pension of a legless Second World War veteran involved in a loyalty case.

The VA's decision, a reinstatement of Kutcher's $329 a month, which had been suspended Nov. 30 by a regional office pending investigation. The VA's action came a few hours after the New York Post printed a story about Kutcher's difficulties. In addition to his compensation trouble he lost his job and was threatened with eviction.

A VA spokesman said the payments were restored because of a "sense of fair play and to prevent hardship on the veteran" after Kutcher's lawyers had protested.

The action was made by Washington headquarters pending a determination of unannounced charges against Kutcher, who has been unemployed since 1948 when he lost his job as a file clerk in the Newark, N.J., VA office because of membership in the Socialist Workers Party.

ON THE LIST

This party, generally described as the Trotskyite wing of the Communist movement, is on the attorney - general's subversive list. Trotskyites for years have been a bitter odds with the Communists in command in Russia.

In New York, Kutcher said he is glad his pension has been restored, since that was the only means of support he has. He expects to come to Washington next week for a hearing on the issue of his loyalty.

Kutcher said: "The only thing I've ever said is that I prefer a socialist system of government to capitalism and that it should be accomplished by constitutional means. There certainly is nothing illegal about that."

Last Monday he won a court stay against being evicted with his parents from their home in Newark.

2,586 Lives Lost In Road Crashes During Past Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

So far this year 2,586 lives have been lost in highway-traffic accidents in Canada.

With seven days of 1955 left, the fatality toll already is larger than the 2,457 deaths reported in 1954, a Canadian Press survey shows.

With the start of the Christmas holiday period Friday night, officials predicted the 1955 toll will go still higher before the new year.

Traffic fatalities in Canada have climbed steadily since the end of the Second World War.

There were 1,663 traffic deaths in 1946; 1,759 in 1947, 1,976 in 1948; 2,276 in 1949; 2,270 in 1950; 2,412 in 1951; 2,701 in 1952 and 2,908 in 1953.

BASIC TOTAL UP

Sharpest increase this year was in Saskatchewan. The province reported 120 highway deaths to date, compared with 70 at the same time last year. Road deaths for the whole of 1954 were 74. Police said faster cars on flat, straight prairie roads may account for part of the increase.

Ontario headed the fatality list with 1,002 deaths for 11 months of 1955, against 928 for the corresponding period of 1954. During the same 1955 period 1,601,211 motor vehicles were registered against 1,476,618 last year. In both years the death rate for each 10,000 vehicles was 5.

In Quebec 674 were killed in traffic accidents by Dec. 15, 499 adults and 205 children. The 1954 figure was 626 killed, 429 adults and 126 children, but there were 60,000 more automobiles on Quebec roads this year.

At the low end of the list were Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, although both topped last year's figures. Newfoundland reported 44 deaths by Dec. 21 against 34 for the whole of last year. The death rate increased with the number of motor vehicles. In Newfoundland this year there were 6,000 new registrations.

P.E.I. HIGHER

Prince Edward Island also reported higher death figures—15 by Dec. 21 against 12 for the whole of 1954. Five of 1955's fatalities occurred in one accident at Clyde river, Aug. 10.

New Brunswick reported 174 deaths for 1955 up to Nov. 30, against 166 for the same period last year. In Alberta 206 were killed by Dec. 20 against 205 for the whole of last year.

A sharp drop in Nova Scotia traffic deaths were recorded. 115 to Dec. 20 against 149 for the same period last year. In Manitoba a decline in deaths was attributed to a driver - training program and safety drives. Figures to Dec. 20 for both years showed 96 deaths in each against 114 last year.

A small decrease in British Columbia deaths was recorded. Deaths in 1955 totalled 205 to Dec. 20 against 211 for all of 1954.

Kremlin Agrees to Let U.S. Distribute Magazine in USSR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials believe that despite the failure of the Geneva foreign ministers' conference, a gain may be willing to lift its Iron Curtain further in the next few months.

The state department announced Friday that the Soviet government has agreed to permit the United States to distribute a Russian-language magazine in the Soviet Union. This means revival of the magazine America, which was suspended in July 1952 after the Russians had sharply curtailed distribution.

Director Theodore C. Streibert of the U.S. information agency, which will prepare the magazine, said the first issue will be ready in three or six months.

In return, the Soviet embassy here will resume publication of an English-language magazine for the first time in more than three years. The Soviet embassy said its plans are tentative, and no name for its publication has been chosen.

Under the deal both magazines are to be distributed commercially. They are to deal with cultural and other subjects bearing on the life of each country but stay away from controversial expression of opinion on East-West issues.

The Soviet agreement came at Western urging. The two sat side by side at the Geneva foreign ministers meeting in October, when the Western Powers tried without success to get the Russians to agree on a many-sided program of travel and information exchange.

The fact that Russia now favors publication of the magazines is regarded by state department officials as evidence that there may be other agreements of this kind which it is willing to make over a period of time.

When Christmas Day Was Kept Secret

By Helen Cathcart

Is Christmas becoming too commercial? Is it becoming too absurd a racket with its department store Santas, halfprice Christmas cards and canned Christmas pudding?

In England over 300 years ago a zealous reformer named Richard Matthews decided that the whole Christmas season had got out of hand . . . so he began tugging every string he knew to have Christmas abolished.

Misery Matthews thought it a wicked waste of good timber to burn outsize Yule logs . . . and a shameful delight to feast on boar's head, the forerunner of the Christmas turkey. These were the days when England became a republic under the puritan dictatorship of Oliver Cromwell. And all too soon 'Misery' and his crusade had their way.

With a stroke of the pen the fiat was published, "That no observation, merriment or religious service shall be held of Five and Twentieth day of December, commonly called Christmas Day."

The results were startling. For sixteen years Christmas was officially banned in Britain—and for sixteen years it was celebrated in hush-hush secrecy behind closed and locked doors.

Military patrols tramped the streets on Christmas morning, sniffing for festive cooking smells. They had the right to search kitchens and peer into ovens. And all meat found being cooked was confiscated unless the soldiers could be bribed.

Shops were forced to stay open, but in nearly every case doorways and windows were blocked with bales and bundles. The shop-keepers pretended to be stock-taking while, in reality, Christmas celebrations were held behind the sacks.

Actors found guilty of appearing in pantomime and other shows were tied to a cart and whipped through the streets. Theatres were raided and closed, and the props and scenery destroyed. At one theatre, where an audience was caught in the act of listening to 'a carnal abomination called Dame Turtle,' forty people were fined. They were a minority who failed to get away during the wild rush to escape through doors.

Clergymen who dared to stage Christmas services were marched off to prison. At one time eighty parsons were lodged behind bars, awaiting trial for supporting 'heathenish customs and popish superstitions.'

Some Christmas services were held in cellars. But John Evelyn, the diarist, was one of the people who dared to celebrate publicly at Exeter Chapel. 'The chapel was surrounded by soldiers,' he wrote, 'and the assembly kept prisoners. But before the arrests were made and in defiance of the soldiers who stood on the altar steps with levelled muskets, the congregation took Communion.'

The newssheets of the day were forbidden to mention Christmas but there were plenty of propagandists who tried to tear peace and goodwill to pieces. A bigot who styled himself "Zeal-of-the-Land-Busy" published a treatise against the dreadful vice of kissing under the mistletoe and a writer named 'Tribulation Wholesome' ranted against the dangers of the flowing wassail bowl.

In Sussex villages farmers who dared to arrange a Christmas barn-dance were clapped into the stocks and there secretely regaled with Christmas pudding by their friends. Even a Punch-and-Judy show was an unlawful exhibition.

But at Bury St. Edmunds, where December 25th was ordained for 'business as usual,' 150 apprentices revolted and threatened to set fire to any shop that opened.

The mayor of Canterbury hurriedly read the proclamation that Christmas should not be observed — and then instantly rushed back into his house and barricaded his doors. Through the streets of the town grim armies of Kentish men marched to his front door, smashed all his windows and set blazing faggots against the walls.

The constables were called out, and in the ensuing free fight the sheriff was knocked out and several people injured. When the ringleaders of the riot were jailed, their comrades rushed the prison and released them.

From Oxford to Ipswich the supporters of Christmas rallied in similar riots. In a secret printing press in the inner Temple resistence men worked day and night turning out a tract, "Proving the Nativity of Our Saviour to be on 25 of December."

In Newcastle a group of constables burst in on a family group when illicit merrymaking was at its height. Three of the policemen joined in the fun . . . and three others were ducked in the Tyne.

The attempt to abolish Christmas, in fact, was not a success. "The people of England do hate to be reformed," a killjoy spokesman reported to Parliament.

Cromwell's so-called Parliament sat as usual on Christmas Day . . . but in the cellars wine Guy Fawkes had been arrested only fifty years before their rapscallion servants staged a secret Christmas party in whispers.

In May, 1658, King Charles II rode in triumph into London. And next Christmas a new carol was loudly sung from door to door.

'Now thanks to God for Charles' return
Whose absence made old
Christmas mourn'.

Season Greenery Will Make Home Echo Christmas Spirit

Did you ever notice that the prettiest homes around the community at Christmas are the ones decorated liberally with the green things of the season? Their festive appearances is obtained easily with proper display of such things as evergreens, berries, seed pods, and pine cones.

These simple decorations are readily available to most everyone at no cost and to use an old expression: "The woods are full of them."

A trip into the country to gather them can also be turned into a pleasant excursion for the whole family and a brief rest period from the "getting ready" for Christmas company parties, and holiday affairs.

One word of caution, however: Don't kill trees or bushes. Prune carefully when selecting your evergreens.

The Christmas tree—whether large or small—should be the centre of the decorations. Place your tree in front of a window, so that its bright, cheerful glow can be seen from within and without. Decorate the tree with balls of red, silver, blue and green, strands of popcorn and various decorations that are saved from year to year.

Be sure to hang a rope of evergreens, a spray or wreath on your front door—these signify to many who pass your home that you are celebrating this joyous season.

A rope of evergreens requires approximately four or five yards of rope. The place you plan to use it will determine the exact length. Next, attach several short lengths of wire, short sprays of evergreen, balls, bows, red berries or bells. Place a bunch of evergreens against the rope and fasten in place with the wire; in other lands.

repeat until the rope has been completely covered. The rope may be draped over the door frame, mantel, or along the stair rail. Pick out other spots where additional decorations, like berries, balls or bells will add to the effectiveness of over-all appearance.

Christmas at Sandringham as It Really Is

By Ronald Garth-Davis

Stationmaster Hodge has brought out his frock-tailed uniform and the red carpet is ready for unrolling at Wolferton Station. Two miles away, at Sandringham House, housekeeper Mrs. Robertson has supervised the special preparations in the scores of guest-rooms. All is ready once again for the Queen's great Christmas party at her country home.

The Sandringham house party is always the Royal Family's gayest and most festive gathering of the year. Nowhere, surely, is Christmas celebrated in more gladsome spirit.

Picture to yourself the crackling log fires, the flow of lamps on brocades and panelling, the avalanche of Christmas cards. From the moment when the fairy lights suddenly gleam on the Christmas tree and the Duke of Edinburgh flings open the front-door to the carol singers, Christmas at Sandringham goes with a swing.

To add to the merriment, two members of the Royal Family — the Duchess of Gloucester and her niece Princess Alexandra of Kent — celebrate their birthday on Dec. 25th and anniversary greetings and surprises enhance the Yuletide excitement.

LOTS OF ACTIVITY

Nowhere, surely, is there such a bustle of friends and relatives, so many young people scampering up and down the great staircase, nowhere such an interchange of brightly wrapped gifts. And nowhere in all the royal domains is there another house as large and comfortable enough to contain it all.

"We call it the royal hotel," the Queen's father, late King George VI, once told a friend, and Sandringham is in fact the only royal residence where every member of the Royal Family can be housed simultaneously, together with friends and personal staff.

When the Queen's great-grandfather, King Edward VII, bought the original lands for £220,000 — lavishing another £200,000 on the house — he intended to entertain as many as 100 people to shooting parties. Since then, the house has twice been extended. The main frontage alone is over 800 feet long. If guests want to enjoy a mile constitutional they have only to step outside the house and walk around it twice.

The sheer size of the rambling Norfolk mansion is part of the fun. A story is told of a peer who was trapped in the Serapis Room, one of the largest apartments in England, when the electric lighting failed. He floundered around in the dark for over four hours — according to the legend — before he found the way out!

LOTS OF DECORATIONS

Merely in decorating the house at Christmastide, Mr. Cook and his gardeners estimate that they gather nearly a ton of holly and mistletoe, besides flowers from the battery of greenhouses. In addition, Head Forester Jimmy Brown brings in at least six royal Christmas trees.

There is a 18-foot giant to stand in the ballroom, a big tree for the drawing room, spruce for the steward's room and the staff dancing room, a gift tree for the parish church of St. Mary Magdalene and, of course, the not-to-be-forgotten nursery tree for the Duke of Cornwall and Princess Anne.

So large is the Christmas party, indeed, that chaos would ensue if everybody arrived at Sandringham at once. Extra staff begin travelling down from Buckingham Palace, Clarence House and Windsor, nearly a week before hand and the station staff at Wolferton handle a startling array of mysterious parcels and packages.

On Christmas Eve, when the assembly is complete, there is much enjoyable coming and going as members of the Royal Family and their guests call on one another in their rooms. This is a true family reunion, with cheerful gossip and affectionate banter so oblivious of the Sandringham clocks — still always kept an hour fast! — that dinner that night is usually on the lines of a help-yourself - running buffet.

Guests wander in desultory groups of three or four towards the dining room, never knowing whom they will encounter. A friend of mine once discovered George VI supping all alone. "I can recommend the cold game pie," he observed, "though I've a reason for thinking it's rabbit.

CAROLLERS PERFORM

Often a highlight comes with a signal from the gatekeeper that the carollers are on their way. With a local nurseryman and an ex-lady's maid to lead them on the fiddles, a 20 to 30 choir of 20 generally comes up from Dersingham. Complete with an old-fashioned hurricane lamp on a pole, they sing the first carol before the door is opened and they are shown into the drawing room.

Around the fireside, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and others join in the old, familiar songs before the waits are rewarded with coffee and sandwiches and a generous donation.

Ghost stories, too, are bound to crop up, for the Sandringham ghosts have the proper tang of authenticity. The Duke of Edinburgh's uncle, Prince Christopher once saw the face of a woman framed in his mirror at Sandringham. She was wearing a little black mask, and her expression was one of beseeching entreaty, but when he turned round nothing was there.

The sequel came next day, while paying a neighborly visit at nearby Houghton, when he found in the picture gallery a portrait of the same lady, carrying an identical mask. It turned out she was a Houghton ancestress who had vainly petitioned the Court against her husband's cruelties!

One guest once saw an apparition in a burnished helmet in his bedroom but he proved to be a fireman who had come to his rescue. This was on the occasion of the Sandringham fire sixty odd years ago when thirteen subsequently crowned heads lined up with water buckets and seven fainting princesses were laid on the lawn.

Nowadays the only other spook is a bearded figure, curiously like the Queen's husband in build, who flits down the corridors in Santa Claus robes!

SANTA MAKES VISIT

On Christmas morning every child in Sandringham wakes to find that Santa has paid a visit with well-charged pillowcases and fully stuffed stockings. The main gift opening, however, is reserved for the afternoon. Breakfast in one's room is the order of the day. (The birthday girls each find a special posy on their tray.)

Later comes the Christmas morning visit to the ivy-clad estate church, a picture of white and granite in a snowfall, and whenever possible the Queen makes a point of walking across the park. At the church gate there is always a large crowd of visitors. At one time every servant in the household was compelled to attend church and villagers complained they themselves could find no room.

Nowadays the church is thronged by so many visitors that there's often no space for rightful worshippers from the household.

Even on Christmas Day the Queen is not free from her 'boxes', those red despatch cases that pursue the Sovereign with state business.

Preperations for her customary world broadcast are also afoot, and Her Majesty receives one of the B.B.C. engineers and takes a voice test. Main festivities, in fact, must still wait on royal duty. After a light lunch, the Queen makes her way to her study, a small and intimate apartment overlooking the terrace garden.

IS STILL NERVOUS

Though a veteran of over 200 broadcasts, the Queen still confesses to nervousness as the microphone flash lights give their 'ready' signal. Even the foolscap pages of her manuscript are separately arranged flat on the table to avoid the rustling of paper. Though addressing the world the Queen is perhaps aware that she faces critical family ears, for her relatives listen like the rest of us around the radio in the drawing room.

As the Duke makes a tape recording of her speech and gives the Queen her first playback. And almost before the comments and discussion have died away, he gives his wife her main Christmas gift, for now at last the time has come when the Queen can relax and enjoy her own Yuletide.

A myriad fairy lights shine from the Christmas tree. Everyone has gifts to give or receive, and an array of tables is ready on which the recipients can take separate piles of their presents. Sandringham is a house of wonderful treasures but the Christmas gifts of royalty are often pleasant home-made presents, true tokens of affection. Princess Margaret knitted the Duke of Edinburgh a cardigan one year. At art exhibitions the Queen has a watchful eye for modern paintings that will please the Queen Mother.

During a lull in this gale of Christmas trimmings and wrappings the Queen and her husband go to the ballroom where all the staff assembled. Christmas dinner in the steward's room proved a gay occasion. Veterans of the royal service unbend to crackers and paper hats, but now they have a moment of prideful loyalty.

The men — pages, wine butlers, footmen, gardeners — wear their medals. The women — housemaids, cooks, kitchen maids, stillroom maids — wear white gloves. Beneath the great tree are piled the gifts. The steward calls the names in order of household careful treasurers but the royal servants walk forward for their gifts.

They bow or curtsey. For each the Queen and the Duke have a present.

KEEPS LIST IN MIND

Incidentally, this always helps to settle an awkward royal problem. Throughout the year members of the Royal Family must visit many bazaars and exhibitions and cannot leave without making several purchases. The Queen never buys for herself, but usually has in mind that little list made up by the Buckingham Palace housekeeper, Mrs. Ferguson. On it members of the staff have candidly confided what they would like for Christmas — linen, lamps, gloves, scarves and so forth.

Yet the royal servants also have their own surprise and a member of the staff usually has a little speech to make as he hands over a gift to the Queen which has been the subject of palace subscription lists for weeks and weeks before hand.

Almost too soon — as with every Christmas household — it is time for tea . . . a children's party with iced cake and bonbons . . . often followed by a more restful film show.

With provender from 1,700 acres of Sandringham farms, appetites must wait in reserve for the evening meal, the true Christmas dinner. Though most members of the Royal Family prefer to eat sparingly, it is a cheerful and sumptuous spread. The candles gleam on the pale green walls, the crackers spill delightful surprises.

Afterwards, with valuable furnishing moved safely out of the way, there are favorite games of snapdragon and blind man's buff and of course charades at which the Queen Mother is so exceptionally good. Jollity reigns supreme. This is Britain's Royal Family's Christmas — the traditional embodiment of goodwill to all men.

With all the happy wishes
That come to you today

The Blue Silk Dress

By SALLY SANDUSKY EADS

Nancy Fowers counted her egg money, then put it into the teapot and set it on the mantel. There was more than enough to pay for that pretty blue silk dress she had tried on at The Style Shoppe. Cyrus would be mighty proud when he saw her in that dress. He was going to town right after dinner to try to swap cars with Tom Newell, but Cyrus would have to pay boot. Nancy hoped the boot would not be too much, because Cyrus had his heart set on having that almost new car for them to drive to the New Year's party.

She glanced at the kitchen clock. "My goodness! Cyrus will soon be here for his dinner."

When Nancy saw Cyrus walking slowly down the snow-covered path toward the kitchen door, she said, "Somethin' musta happened." He looked tired, and disappointed. She hoped somebody else hadn't traded for Tom Newell's car. Well, she wouldn't ask for awhile.

"What's the matter, Cyrus Fowers?" she asked when he had finished eating.

"Nothin, Nancy, only I've decided against tradin' for Newell's car. I'll have the old one greased and washed, and it'll look pretty good, again' to the New Year party."

"Cyrus Fowers, you know better, that," Nancy accused, "You was proud when we was young, and you've not changed. Why, you used to take me to the parties in the finest rubber tire buggy in the county. Your horses always matched your buggy in looks, and you still want a good lookin' turnout, when you go some place."

Cyrus laughed. "And I had the prettiest, best dressed gal of all."

AN OLD STORY

Nancy smiled. She'd heard that before. She started clearing off the table. "Cyrus, tell me the truth. Why did you change your mind about tradin' for that same-as-new Ford car?"

"Nancy, you're too inquisitive. But the truth is, I had Bud Carter take my bank book to town this mornin,' and have it balanced. We lack fifty dollars havin' enough boot money. I could borrow it, but that would worry you and me both."

"Uh-huh." Nancy reached for the teapot and laid thirty-three dollars on the table in front of Cyrus. "Now, get to town and trade for that car before somebody else beats you to it."

"No, Nancy. That's your dress money." He pushed the money away from him.

"Shucks, I don't want a new dress. Get goin' before I spill dishwater on you."

A GOOD CRY

After he was gone, Nancy sat down and, woman like, had a good cry. It had been so long since she'd had a new dress but she wanted Cyrus to have the car he'd set his heart on.

She mended and pressed an old dress to wear. Late in the afternoon, she went to the barn and fed the cattle and horses, and milked the cows. Then she locked up the chicken house. It was getting dark when she saw Cyrus coming into the driveway. She wouldn't get to see the new car until morning.

Cyrus was laughing when he came in. "I found a place in town where they paint cars, while you wait, and fix them to look like new. They said our car was in good shape." He was holding something behind him.

"You don't say! Cyrus, what's that you're holding behind you?"

He grinned and set a dress box on the table. "Since we only had a paint job to pay for, I knew we could afford something else for the party."

Nancy took off the box lid and lifted out the blue silk dress. She smiled, then her face crumpled. Cyrus really had wanted her in have the dress. She mustn't cry.

"Cyrus," she scolded. "I told you to get the Newell car. But you can't trust a man to do as you tell him."

Cyrus grinned again. A Happy New Year grin.

Make Christmas Cut Flowers Last Longer

The proper care of cut flowers during the Christmas season can greatly increase their life, says Prof. R. Goodwin-Wilson of the Horticulture Department, Ontario Agricultural College.

The woody stems of such flowers as roses, chrysanthemums, and carnations should be cut at an angle as soon as the flowers are received, in order that the bases of the stems will not be blocked off from getting water. Only a quarter or half an inch need be cut off. To help remove air bubbles which plug the stems and cause early wilting, especially of roses, the stems should be placed in warm water of 100 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit (just above body temperature).

When the flowers are not needed for display, as at night, or if the home is empty, they can be made to last longer by moving them to cool (43 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit), moist room.

To prevent the accumulation of bacteria which plug the stems of the flowers, chemical preservatives may be added to the water. These can be obtained commercially in a number of forms, or one may be made at home by dissolving one ounce of hydrazine sulphate in one quart of water. Two teaspoonfuls of this solution, together with a tablespoon of sugar in each quart of flower water, will be sufficient. An alternative is to change the water, cut the stems, and rearrange the cut flowers each day. Contrary to popular opinion, aspirin will not increase the life of flowers, says the O.A.C. authority.

Santa Claus–1955 Model

By CAROL MADISON

Betty Malcolm came down the stairs slowly. The twins had been difficult tonight. Putting them to bed without shaking them had required all her patience.

"It's the Santa Claus parade," she thought wryly. "They always get so excited that it takes days for them to calm down."

The sight of her husband calmly reading his paper caused another momentary wave of irritation.

"Bill," she said, as she sank into her favorite chair, "I think it's disgusting the way they're commercializing Santa Claus."

Bill glanced over the top of his paper. "Wasn't the parade up to the mark today? I thought you always enjoyed it almost as much as the children."

"The parade was worth watching. I liked it better than ever with all the floats. But it's the whole set-up. The whole idea of Santa Claus is gone. He has just become an advertisement."

"You must be tired tonight."

"When I was a little girl," Betty continued, paying no attention to the interruption, "Santa Claus was a spirit. Nobody ever saw him. You just don't see spirits. The mystery of his midnight visit added to the wonder. Every Christmas Eve you tried to stay awake to see him, but, of course, you never could. How many intelligent youngster of today can believe in Santa Claus I just don't understand. He's at Eemmond's; he's at Sanderson's; he's a dozen other places all at the same time."

Bill put down his paper. "I seem to remember that in your day and mine, Santa Claus was supposed to come down the chimney. How could any self-respecting child believe that!"

"Oh that!" sniffed his wife. "It was just faith. A dear benevolent spirit like my Santa could come in any way he chose. Besides he used to eat the cakes we left for him.

"Today children talk to him at the big stores. They tell him what they want, and sometimes they get it."

"Yes, and that's the worst feature of it. The twins want an electric train and tricycles. Nothing else will do. When I was a youngster our tastes were simpler. When we saw our presents Christmas morning we liked what Santa had left us, and actually forgot the things we had asked for that he didn't bring. I wish the twins would do that," she added wistfully.

"Why, so they will, my dear," her husband assured her.

But Betty had a clear vision of disappointed faces and accusing voices, when the twins failed to find an electric train and tricycles among their presents.

"Don't you remember the excitement of Christmas Eve? Don't you remember how you imagined Santa Claus coming over the snow, the bells of his reindeer making music in the night? Once I was sure I heard his sleigh bells. I never, never, could have believed in a Santa Claus who sat in a chair in a store."

"I seem to remember Santa Clauses who came to Sunday School concerts . . . ."

"Your mother explained that he wasn't the real Santa — just a pretend . . . ."

"Ever try that with the twins?"

"It's so hard today. They don't know much about sleighs, and Santa in an airplane just seems too-too-unimaginative."

"I'd hardly think of a 'plane as unimaginative. Didn't your own Santa Claus come by air across the housetops? I wonder if the twins don't believe in a 1955 Santa Claus just as firmly as you did in a 1923 one. What you're feeling is nostalgia for yesterday."

"I wonder if you're right. The twins are certainly excited over Santa Claus tonight . . . ." Mrs. Malcolm picked up her knitting.

"Just as excited as their mother was once upon a time," said Mr. Malcolm returned to his paper.

Their Christmas Gifts Go on for Ever

By Ronny Howard

Twenty-eight nice old ladies in England will spend Christmas in their own little homes this year at the expense—believe it or not—of Dick Whittington.

When Sir Richard Whittington, four times Mayor of London, died 533 years ago he left a plot of land in the City of London for the support of a dozen dames who could live in comfort and security in an almshouse.

Through the five centuries the original fund has multiplied so many times that the Whittington Trust today not only controls 32 houses and flatlets on Highgate Hill but also distributes £34,000 a year to deserving and necessitous persons.

Three centuries ago, too, old Jre Hopkins of Wednesbury left $500 to provide a Christmas gift for three deserving poor men and now the yearly income from his gift benefits 250 old folk. At Colney Ash, near Coventry, specially baked loaves are distributed every Christmas Eve, under the terms of an old bequest, through the fork of an old ash-tree. One rainy Christmas Eve only three people turned up for this annual dole. The ash-tree, it is said, is where the bread benefactor met and kissed his first girl friend.

There's a queer twist, too, to the extra place that is always set for Christmas dinner at Howth Castle, near Dublin. The extra guest never turns up, and perhaps that is just as well for she died 350 years ago.

Back in 1570 a woman named Grace O'Malley demanded that she should be welcomed to Howth and treated as a guest for a week or two.

When the owners refused, Grace kidnapped their infant son and kept him until they promised her "perpetual hospitality."

The descendants of Howth have kept the promise ever since and the free food for the ghost is even stipulated in the title-deeds.

St. Nick will find this little girl's stocking in the right place at the chimney — she has been practicing.

Charles Laughton Will Read From His Favorite Selections

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tonight at 9 p.m. jolly fat man will be opening his bag of delights on television. No, not Santa Claus. It's Charles Laughton.

NBC's Christmas gift to the people will be cherubic Charles reading from his favorite selections in the hour before midnight. And though he professes to shun sentimentality, he admits he rather nice to be thought of as something of a tradition at Christmas time.

At his home just off Hollywood boulevard, Laughton brought out his battered old reading script and displayed its contents. The satchel contained a dozen books, from Pickwick Papers" which he had read commercially, to other books he plans to read tonight: the Bible, James Thurber, Thomas Wolfe.

"This bag has seen a lot of duty," he observed. "It was always a good prop. If I had a particularly cold audience, I would pull it on my head at the start. That would warm them up for me. It also helped if I did some disreputable of chairs. Sometimes I've got a kitchen chair and cut off the back of it."

CLICKED WITH GREGORY

Laughton's reading for public consumption dates back to the Second World War when he toured service hospitals with the bag of books. He said he tried for years to get his agenda to book him theatrically as a reader, but there's no headway.

Then one night he did some selections on the Ed Sullivan TV show. A young eager beaver named Paul Gregory caught the act in a bar and sought out the actor. Gregory, a former actor himself and then an agent, was convinced the readings had an audience.

He booked Laughton for a tour and their association has led to a million-dollar enterprise producing attractions like "Don Juan in Hell," "John Brown's Body," "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" and "Night of the Hunter."

The pair has other ambitious plans. One of Laughton's pet projects is to buy Socrates in dramatization of the platonic dialogues. "I would fashion my acting's entertainment out of them, the same as I did with 'John Brown's Body,'" he explained. "I am certain that it would be commercially successful."

Little Benny's Notebook

I wanted to stay up late and help trim the Christmas tree, and Pa said I could, providin' that's rediculus.

Pa said, ma, I said, and she said, Of course you do, Willie, that's why he knows it's utterly rediculus.

Benny, you know it's utterly redickulous to stay up late and get out of the question, pop said, and I said, Fifteenminutes, pop, I mean buck, why is it?

Because you need your sleep on Christmas Eve as much as usual at the crack of dawn on Christmasmorning, pop said. Last Christmas Eve I was so exhawsted from trimmin' the tree that I didn't wake up till 10 o'clock Christmas morning. Imagine how you would feel to wake up at 10-aclock and realize that the sun had been shinin' on the snow on the tree and all your presents spread under it, he said.

Being a serious thought, and I well gosh, couldn't ma wake me and say, Benny, couldn't ma wake me up exter erly in case the thought of Christmas didn't wake me up?

Most certainly not, ma said. A little sleep you'd be stumbling around half awake, stepping on presents and breaking Christmas what all. Now go to bed nicely and next week you can help to untrim the tree and pack the ornaments away, she said, isn't that the same thing, only backwards? she said.

No man, that's just pure work, I I said, she said. All right, just trot off to bed and we'll excuse you from having to help untrim the tree.

Do you promise? I said, and pop said, We'll get it in writing and you can draw your own dotted line for us to sign on.

I'll trust you, I said.

And I went to bed feeling purty lucky.

CHRISTMAS!

It has been a good year. True it has had its ups and downs, but there was nothing wrong that a golden-brown turkey and all the trimmin's, a glowing Christmas tree, and the family around the festive board, won't cure.

There is something good about Christmas. There is something good about that intangible change that comes over people and things. There is something good about the neighbor dropping in with out-thrust hand, a smile on his face and a word of cheer. Maybe you don't see him as often as you should.

Maybe there has been a bit of difference between you over some petty thing during the year. It's gone with that magic greeting and warm clasp of the hand.

The "guys and the gals" you work with, good fellows all, take on a brighter, cheerier glow on the last day of toil. The folks on a brighter, cheerier glow on the last day of toil. The folks at home, in contact with during the daily routine, whether you are executive or laborer; straw-boss or ditchdigger; accountant or office boy; editor or copy devil, reach a common level in the Christmas atmosphere.

It is not only a time of remembrance and thanksgiving. It is a time for forgetfulness too. When you remember your friends and family with your gifts you experience an inward glow that is good to feel. You get a tremendous "kick" from the happy looks of surprise and happiness when the missus and the kids unwrap them, matched only by your own as you more or less clumsily, curiously, peer into boxes that contain their gifts to you.

And maybe we should take time out from these moments of joy and happiness to forget the petty things that we have been guilty of since last Yuletide. The little mental lapses that perhaps caused pain or worry to a loved one. The spoken word that was unnecessary and unkind. A little thing here—a little thing there that may disrupt temporarily a friend's way of life.

There is something about the Christmas atmosphere that makes a fellow recall these things, simple as they may have been at the time. And that is where forgetfulness comes in. Let's all vow to forget and repeat them in 1956. Let us try to "look before we leap"—think before we speak, consider before we criticize, hear all before we condemn, and judge not lest we be judged.

And let us be thankful too. Thankful that we have what we have. Thankful for health. Thankful for family. Thankful for what wealth.: Thankful, too, for the opportunity to inject a little happiness into the lives of those not so fortunate as us.

We attended a Shrine Club Childrens' Christmas party a few days ago. The kiddies, smiling through their tears, ate up the often dreary candy treat. The big broad smiles of happiness and joy that flooded the faces of these children when they opened their gift packages thrilled and moved everybody there.

It was a heart-warming sight. And the warm happiness that flashed the faces of the children could not be measured in dollars and cents. One man cried unashamedly.

It is good to be alive at Christmas. It is good to be able to enjoy all the good things that go with it. If we cannot have in its entirety that "Peace on Earth" as it was meant, let us have goodwill towards men. It will help immeasurably.

And so to all our many friends in the realm of sport and other circles, go our heartiest wishes for the best Christmas ever. And may the New Year bring with it all you want it to bring—providing it is good for you.

Marilyn Bell Awarded 1955 Outstanding Athlete Honors

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell, 17-year-old Toronto school girl who makes history nearly every time she goes swimming, today was named Canada's outstanding female athlete of 1955. She also won the honor in 1954.

Marilyn became the youngest swimmer to conquer the English channel last July 31 and sports editors and broadcasters rewarded her with an almost unanimous vote, just as they did in 1954 when she was the only person to swim Lake Ontario between New York State and Ontario.

The selectors, voting in the 21st annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll, were asked to name the three outstanding female athletes in order of preference. It was Marilyn's show all the way. Twenty-six others were mentioned and of these only eight caught the voters' eyes for No. 1 choice.

The voting, computed on a 3-2-1 basis, showed Marilyn with a whopping 218 points, nearly three times as many as second-choice Marlene Stewart, the golfing whiz from Dundas, Ont., who received a 77 point-total. Third on the list was Ernestine Russell, 16-year-old gymnast from Windsor, Ont.

YOUNGEST TO MAKE IT

Swimming the channel has been old hat since Captain Matthew Webb did it first in 1875 but the distinction of being the youngest to do it belonged to Philip Mickman, 18-year-old Briton, until Marilyn's crossing. Mickman swam it in 1949.

Adding to Marilyn's prestige in the aquatic world was the marathon madness last summer when 25 men and women, including some of the best swimmers in the world, tried the Lake Ontario swim. None made it.

Miss Stewart, No. 1 choice in 1953, won both the Canadian women's Open and Close golf titles at Victoria last summer, but she received only four first-choice votes, against 133 for Marilyn. Many selectors jotted down only Marilyn's name on the ballot and wrote "No other competitors."

Jackie MacDonald, Toronto track and field star who placed third last year, slipped two notches to fifth position with 22 points, two less than Rae Milligan, Jasper, Alta. golfer who won the Ontario Open and placed second to Miss Stewart in the Canadian women's Close.

OTHERS FAR DOWN

Others far down in the list included:

Swimmers Shirley Campbell, Fergus, Ont.; Beth Whittall, Montreal, double winner in the Pan-American Games at Mexico City; Lenore Fisher, Ocean Falls, B.C.; Helen Stewart, Vancouver; Sara Barber, Brantford, Ont.; Gladys Priestley, Verdun, Que.; Ella Lindell, Montreal, and Kathie McIntosh of St. Vital, Man. the first person to swim in Lake Winnipeg.

Three women who will represent Canada in the 1956 winter Olympic games at Cortina, Italy, also received votes. They are Carole Jane Prehl, Ottawa, Canadian ladies senior figure - skating champion; Anne Heegsveld, Ottawa Skier, and Toronto's Frances Dafoe who, with Norris Bowden, also of Toronto, will team up in the pairs figure-skating competition.

TO COACH MOUNTIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eddie Taylor, 48, has been signed as coach of Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League, the club announced Friday.

Taylor, who broke into pro baseball in 1922, coached the same team at Oakland before its transfer here.

Rangers Not Lost Yule Homer Since Christmas Night 1928; Canadiens Yet to Win in NY

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens, who visit New York Sunday night, can console themselves fortunate if they get out of town with anything more than a Christmas tie.

The National Hockey League leaders have yet to win a game at Madison Square Garden this season. In all fairness, it should be added that the second-place New York Rangers haven't beaten the Montrealers either—all three Canadien visits ended in ties—but the odds against a Montreal victory are higher.

In fair years and foul, the Rangers haven't lost a home game on Christmas night since 1928, when the old New York Americans beat them 1-0. In fact, at one stretch the Rangers went 20 years—from 1930 to 1950 — without losing a Christmas night game at home or away.

Only at Detroit, where they haven't won since Jan. 3, 1954, have the high - flying Canadiens gone longer without a victory. The last time they dumped the Red Wings on their home grounds was Nov. 27—their fourth game of the 1954-55 season, when they clobbered them 7-1.

DETROIT VICTORY

Two other visiting clubs will be seeking their first victory of the season on an historic rink tonight. Chicago Black Hawks will be at Boston, a place they haven't won since Dec. 11, 1954, while Detroit Red Wings will be seeking their first victory on Montreal ice since last March 17.

Detroit's last Montreal victory occurred in a somewhat un-Christmas-like atmosphere. It took them only two periods to take a 4-1 decision. That was the memorable night when the game was called as Montreal fans rioted in protest over NHL president Clarence (Rocket) Richard following a fracas in Boston a few nights previous.

Toronto is at Detroit and Chicago Black Hawks visit Boston Bruins in other Christmas night engagements.

Nothing drastic is likely to happen to the NHL standings as a result of the weekend's activities. The Canadiens' 13-point bulge over the Rangers is safe while the New Yorks' five-point edge over the third-place Red Wings also is unassailable.

Goodies Hoot Colts on Ice And Off It

Kingston Goodyears widened the gap between second place and third-place Brockville Maroons at their Community Centre last night, defeating the Cornwall Colts 3-2 before a Christmas crowd of 1647.

Don Murray sparked the Goodyears with three goals, with Nicholson and Senior getting the others. Barkley, Carpentier and O'Brien scored for Cornwall.

The teams battled to a two-all tie in the first period, then Murray scored twice in the second heat with O'Brien counting for the Colts. Senior scored the only goal of the third frame.

Playing coach Douglas, the Goodyears, suffered a head gash in the first play of the game which necessitated seven stitches.

The Christmas spirit was apparent. In the first-second period interim the Goodyears presented turkeys to the press and radio in appreciation of their work. Recipients were like Rodden and Don Soutter of the Kingston Whig Standard and Johnny Kelley, sports announcer of station CKCL. Kelley had to surrender his large white gobbler was let loose on the ice and the popular announcer was forced to catch the bird to claim it.

The Goodyears' management presented the Colts with neckties bearing their club colors of red and white, and similar gifts to the Goodyears' team, with their colors in white, blue and gold. The Colts were the guests of the Goodyears in the latter's dressing room following the game.

Dutchies May Play Exhibition Tilts in Europe

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's representatives in the 1956 winter Olympics, may play several exhibition hockey games in Europe, it was announced Friday.

Ernie Coman, Dutchmen's manager, said he spoke Friday on the transatlantic telephone with Harvey (Red) Stapleford, Ontario trade commissioner in London. Stapleford suggested the Dutchmen play two warm-up games in Prague on the way to Cortina, Italy, and games in Paris and London on the way home.

The winter Olympics will be held in Cortina Jan. 26-Feb.

Coman said Stapleford promised to supply definite information on the games within 48 hours. It has also been suggested that the Dutchmen might play an exhibition game for Canadian forces stationed in Europe.

Maroons Bow To Dutchies 4-2

CHATHAM (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen weren't in any mood to play Santa Claus here Friday night. In fact they found it easier to receive than to give, taking a 4-2 win from the cellar-dwelling Chatham Maroons in an OHA Senior "A" fixture played before 1,000 fans.

The game was fast and rough. Fifteen penalties were called, eight on the Dutchmen. Two unanswered goals in the third period proved to be the deciding factor of the game.

Ted Power scored his first goal at 1:43 of the third period. Jim Logan tallied for Kitchener. Clark Chalmers and Gerry Theberge for Chatham scored in the second period.

George Scholes' counter at 1:27 of the third proved to be the winner. Jack Kilbreath added an insurance marker at 9:07.

The loss was the second straight for the Maroons who have only a tie to show for their last eight outings.

HOGAN TO PLAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Master golfer Ben Hogan will participate in the 18-hole Pro-Amateur celebrity tournament preceding the $30,000 Los Angeles Open, it was announced Friday.

Hogan, who has retired from competitive golf, arrived from his Fort Worth home that he will be among 40 leading pros and amateur celebrities who will appear in the Jan. 5 affair.

Teeps Unleash Potent Scoring Power Come from Under to Whip Canucks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees, who rank second in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League as team goal - getters, demonstrated their scoring power with a vengeance Friday night.

The Teeps came from under a one-goal deficit in the middle of the third period and rolled on to a 7-2 win over the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks.

St. Catharines scored the win to keep their hold on third place over Toronto Marlboros, who vaulted from a three-way tie into sole possession of fourth place by edging Toronto St. Michaels 4-2 in a rugged game at Toronto.

BEHIND KITCHENER

The Majors retained their grip on second place, three points behind Kitchener and as many ahead of the Teepees. Guelph Mercurys and Hamilton Tigercubs, idle Friday night, remained deadlocked and Barrie Flyers trail by two points.

Marlboros could lock it up with the Teeps when they meet Kitchener at Toronto in one of the two Sunday games. In the other half of the doubleheader, St. Michael's goes against Montreal Junior Canadiens at Laurier Trophy affair.

The Canucks delighted a home crowd with a goal by Willie O'Ree with the game just two minutes old and Teepees came back with a pair in less than two minutes just past the midway mark. Before the period ended they had another.

They piled on three more in the final period after the teams split a pair of goals in the middle frame.

SCORED TWO APIECE

Ab McDonald and Gary Eatough notched two apiece while Pat Kelly, Art Stratton and Mitch Plata counted singles. Walt Bradley scored the other Kitchener goal.

Sixteen penalties dotted the Toronto affair and all but one figured in the scoring as Marlboros took their first victory in four encounters with the Majors this season.

The second period went scoreless after Marlboros tallied three times in the first six minutes of the game. They scored again in the third before allowing Majors their two goals, by Dick Mattiussi and Pat Hanniglan.

Marlboro marksmen were Ron Farnfield, Bob Devlin, Bobby Pulford and Ken Girard.

Not Counting Playoffs

Canadian Pro Football Drew Over Million Fans in 1955

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Professional football in Canada's two major leagues drew more than 1,000,000 fans through the gates during the regular 1955 season.

Playoff and postseason exhibition games boosted the total to a high of 1,302,180.

The total attendance for the 90 regular season games in the Western Interprovincial Football Union was 440,304. In the Big Four League, the 42 regular schedule battles attracted 361,647 fans.

Ten exhibition games, four WIFU and two Big Four playoff games, the Grey Cup final and the East-West all-star games sent about another 270,000 fans clicking through the turnstiles.

In the WIFU, with each team playing 18 games both in 1954 and 1955, this year's regular season attendance of 440,304 represented an increase of about 47,000 over 1954. The Big Four also boosted its attendance although each team played only 12 games in the regular schedule, two less than in the previous year. Its total of 361,647 was an increase of 19,106.

British Columbia Lions, in the WIFU's first year, topped every club in attendance record by drawing 397,366 to their eight home games in Empire Stadium, an average of nearly 25,000 a game—29,507 fans saw them play Edmonton Eskimos on Sept. 10, 1955.

It was the biggest crowd for a football game in this country until it was surpassed by the 39,417 who viewed the Big Four's Grey Cup game between Montreal Alouettes and Edmonton Empire Stadium.

Saskatchewan Roughriders were the only other team besides Vancouver's entry to pull in bigger crowds in the WIFU this season over 18-14. Roughriders drew a total of 100,462 fans, an increase of 2,800 compared with 1954. They averaged 12,557 for each of their eight home games.

The new WIFU teams—Edmonton, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders — reported lower attendance at their parks. Winnipeg ranked next to the Lions in attendance with 328,064, an average of 13,758 and around 10,000 less than the 1954 total for Winnipeg Stadium.

The Grey Cup champion Eskimos were only slightly behind the Bombers in total attendance, drawing 325,331 fans to Clarke Stadium for eight regular schedule games and an average of just under 16,000 a game. The total was 1,826 lower than the previous year.

Calgary, who finished in last place in the league, also ended up with the poorest, attendance mark. Only 90,628 came to Mewata Stadium to see the Stamps play this season, compared with 99,689 the previous year. They had a per-game average of slightly better than 11,000.

All the Big Four clubs except Argos reported higher attendance for the regular season despite the fact each played one less home game in 1955. Montreal led for the fourth straight time, with 99,000 drawing a total of 125,137 to McGill Stadium an increase of 9,132 over the previous year. Next was Argos' average attendance was 20,856.

Toronto's extravagant import spending policy and team manager Harry Sonnhalter's high, wide and handsome way of running the team failed to shove them over their 1954 mark. Their attendance at Varsity Stadium fell off 2,835 with a total of 104,993 compared to 107,828 the previous year. They averaged 17,832 a game although they never lived up to all the big pre-season ballyhoo.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats averaged 13,963 a game in drawing 83,778 to Civic Stadium against 79,701 in 1954—an increase of 4,077.

Ottawa Rough Riders, who finished last in the Big Four for the second successive year, also trailed in attendance. They reported a total of 77,728 for its six games at Lansdowne Park, compared with 80,023 for the previous season. The Riders' average attendance was just under 13,000.

Nashua Taken for Ride

Horseflesh Worth Two Million Travels in Lone Express Car

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP)—A special railway express car carrying Nashua and five other racers forsaked toward Hialeah Park today for a winter campaign.

The valuable cargo was attached to a Florida east coast passenger train at Jacksonville Friday night for the eight-hour run down the coast.

Floyd C. Sager, veterinarian from A. B. Hancock's Claiborne Farms, said in Jacksonville that Nashua, the millionaire horse, and his travelling companions are in fine shape and taking the 1,200-mile journey in stride.

In the car with Nashua were such performers as Doubledare, voted the top two-year-old filly of 1955; Misty Morn, three-year-old filly who won $210,650; High Voltage, regarded by some as the best three-year-old filly with a bankroll of $347,790; Homeplace, a full brother of Blue Ruler and second to Tiger Wonder in the Jockey Clubber and Signal Hill, two-year-old filly. Four saddlings also were in the car.

In all, they have won $1,831,544 in purses and horsemen estimate the value of the entire contract well in excess of $2,000,000 dollars.

When the train pulled into the Jacksonville yards it was given a 24-hour stopover. Marvin Fisher, special agent for the express company agency, climbed aboard to see that no harm came to Nashua and his companions.

Police saw to it that no curiosity seekers wandered too close to the valuable cargo. A few railroad workers peered into the car at the great Nashua, who only three days ago was bought by a Leslie Combs II syndicate for $1,251,200—record price for a thoroughbred.

Sport in Brief

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Showers peppered this area Friday and presented the possibility that mud will make the going difficult in Monday's professional football championship game between Cleveland Browns and Los Angeles Rams.

More than an inch of rain is expected today with showers again Sunday. Skies are expected to clear Monday, however.

If the turf is wet, the respective running attacks may prove the deciding factor in the National Football League title battle. The ground game brings into focus two outstanding runners, former teammates at the University of Maryland — fullback Ed Modzelewski of the defending champion Browns, and right halfback Ron Waller, 194-pound rookie.

Waller is the leading ground gainer for the Rams, having piled up 716 yards in 151 carries, plus 238 yards more as a pass receiver. Opposing tacklers swear that Waller runs low and hard. Indeed he does on occasion if his blockers fail to open a large enough hole.

The game will be televised over the NBC-TV network with Los Angeles shot out. Game time 4 p.m. EST.

ASKS REDUCTION

WINNIPEG (CP)—R. C. Speers Corporation, owner of the Polo Park race track, has approached the provincial government for a reduction in the pari-mutuel tax.

The corporation, facing the prospect of establishing a new track in 1957 if a projected shopping centre takes over the present Polo Park site, says the present parimutuel tax is the highest on the western racing circuit.

Last year the mutuel tax netted the government about $500,000. A 17.5-per — cent amusement tax, based on attendance, brought in about $17,000 and is not a factor in the corporation's submission, a spokesman said.

British Soccer Players Want Television Pay

LONDON (AP) — British professional soccer players insisted today that when television cameras are turned on them during league matches they automatically become actors.

So they refuse to play in matches televised by the BBC unless they get extra fees.

The BBC agreed to start discussions on the matter with the Players Union Dec. 31.

Major soccer league games generally are televised on Saturdays.

Entertainment unions are supporting the soccer players.

"If BBC does not agree we shall have to consider further action," said union chairman James Guthrie.

"Further action" could mean a strike.

'Babe' to Appear At Golf Game

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Sporting her first new permanent wave in eight months, Babe Didrickson Zaharias takes a plane to Fort Worth today for a three-day Christmas holiday.

The famous golfer, who had been in a Galveston hospital for a physical checkup, said she would not appear at, but would not play in, an exhibition golf match at Houston next Wednesday for the benefit of a cancer fund. Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan will play against Jack Burke and Jackson Bradley in the benefit match.

HANDWRITING ON WALL

Hamilton Tiger - Cats averaged Yet there were the signs that tell the angler to keep out or suffer the consequences. Surely the company which owns the land through which this stream flows should take itself under advisement. As matters now stand the handwriting is on the wall.

Recently the Bulletin of the Sport Fishing Institutite emphasizes the fact that sanitary water properties are being made available for public recreation. From Boston's 25,000 acre Quabbin Reservoir to San Diego's El Capitan water storage project, reservoir managers are bowing to public insistence and opening their gates to fishermen and the boating enthusiast.

The natural reaction to liberality of this sort is, primarily, one of revulsion. It is not pleasant to reflect that the drinking water of your community has recently been used for fishing; boating and even swimming. But, when second thought is given to the subject, take time to drive out and look over the water supply of your community.

Practically all surface - water drinkage comes originally from streams. The great majority of these are open to the public, right down to the headwaters of the reservoirs themselves. Inescapably, these streams receive the run-off bearing farm lands which, as often as not, are fertilized with good, old-fashioned farmyard fertilizer.

In addition, it is almost impossible to exclude washings from roadside ditches and even effluent from nearby farms and villages. These conditions make it imperative that treatment plants be installed and used before the water can be delivered safely to the community in question.

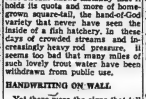
NOT INCONSISTENT

Thus, unless recreational use adds impurities which increase treatment costs, there can be little reason why the public be excluded. After all, who supports the water companies and pays in the money for their operation? Actually, recreational use of community water supplies is not too inconsistent with the original purpose for which this water was set aside—public use.

The reservoirs, both large and small, of our country are being opened to the public. New York's water supply system has been fishing for a great many years. Gradually other metropolitan water systems are falling in line. Public demand is making itself felt.

So, as I say, the board of directors of that little water company had best take stock of itself and face realities. Sooner or later public insistence will open that lovely little trout stream to the fishing public. To be sure, sanitary regulations must be established and enforced, but the precedent has been set.

One of these days, trout fishing will be in order in that pleasant valley. Here's hoping that this day is not too far distant.



Solmar Notes

Fishing in Reservoirs

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Science Tables.)

Early in November, scarcity of birds and the urge to find new and unshot covers resulted in having the nose of our car pointed up a little-used road and led toward a mountain top in the high country of Pennsylvania where we shoot woodcock each fall.

Gradually the road grew narrower and rougher. Obviously there had been few automobiles pass that way during recent weeks. Once over the crest, the reason became clear. Thinking the road were two-pass notices, placed there by the water company that owned the property.

All the way down that mountain the road was paralleled by a trout stream—one of those clear, shaded brooks for which Pennsylvania is famous. In the lower reaches it widened to the point where comfortable fly casting would be possible.

Any trout fisherman who sees that stream for the first instantly that it holds its quota and more of homebred brookies. In the hand-of-God variety that never have seen the inside of a fish hatchery, in these days of concentrated planting and increasingly heavy rod pressure, it seems too bad that many miles of such lovely trout water have been withdrawn from public use.

Yet there were the signs that tell the angler to keep out or suffer the consequences. Surely the company which owns the land through which this stream flows should take itself under advisement. As matters now stand the handwriting is on the wall.

Practically all surface - water drinkage comes originally from streams. The great majority of these are open to the public, right down to the headwaters of the reservoirs themselves. Inescapably, these streams receive the run-off bearing farm lands which, as often as not, are fertilized with good, old-fashioned farmyard fertilizer.

In addition, it is almost impossible to exclude washings from roadside ditches and even effluent from nearby farms and villages. These conditions make it imperative that treatment plants be installed and used before the water can be delivered safely to the community in question.

NOT INCONSISTENT

Thus, unless recreational use adds impurities which increase treatment costs, there can be little reason why the public be excluded. After all, who supports the water companies and pays in the money for their operation? Actually, recreational use of community water supplies is not too inconsistent with the original purpose for which this water was set aside—public use.

The reservoirs, both large and small, of our country are being opened to the public. New York's water supply system has been fishing for a great many years. Gradually other metropolitan water systems are falling in line. Public demand is making itself felt.

So, as I say, the board of directors of that little water company had best take stock of itself and face realities. Sooner or later public insistence will open that lovely little trout stream to the fishing public. To be sure, sanitary regulations must be established and enforced, but the precedent has been set.

One of these days, trout fishing will be in order in that pleasant valley. Here's hoping that this day is not too far distant.

Heart Attack Kills Wrestler

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A heart attack has claimed Nick Lutze, 54, former professional wrestler of more than a decade ago.

Lutze was stricken at his home Friday. After reiring from the mat ranks, Lutze promoted wrestling shows and in recent years operated an auto maintenance shop.

TRABERT BEATS PANCHO

DENVER (AP)—Tony Trabert of defeated Pancho Gonzales in convincing fashion Friday night in the eighth round of their cross-country professional tennis tour 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 victory in their third game against five losses.

Trailing 5-4 in the first set, the young Cincinnati ace took his own service without losing a point, then broke Gonzales for a 5-4 advantage. He used his powerful service and fine net game to maintain the edge the rest of the way.

Gonzales grabbed the first game of the second match, but Trabert twice aced the veteran pro to even the count. Trabert then went through for a 2-1 lead, upped it to 4-3 and after Gonzales rallied to 4-3, won going away.

Charge Youth Shot His Mother Over Lost Mitt

WINNIPEG (CP) — A murder charge was laid Thursday night against 19-year-old Leo Joseph Barron of suburban St. Charles in the Dec. 13 shooting of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Barron, 47.

Mrs. Barron died en route to hospital from a 22 - calibre bullet wound in her chest received in her home.

Opening of preliminary hearing on the charge was set for today in provincial police court.

A coroner's jury was unable to decide Thursday whether Barron or not the shot was fired accidentally or deliberately." The verdict named Leo Barron as holding the gun which killed Mrs. Barron, mother of 11.

WANTED HIS MITT

Loretta Barron, 16-year-old daughter said Leo had been looking for one of his mitts, Unable to locate it, she said, he told his mother to find it for him. Mrs. Barron told him to wait.

Leo then went into the bedroom, the girl testified, and came out with the gun. Loretta said she remembered Leo saying, "Find my mitt or I'll shoot you."

Loretta said Mrs. Barron was picking up a blanket when the gun went off, sending a bullet into her back.

Hotel Contract Is Awarded

MONTREAL (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways Friday announced that a contract for completion of the CNR's new hotel here has been awarded to the Pigott Construction Co., Ltd., of Hamilton.

The company was the lowest of five tenders for the contract, Mr. Gordon said. The amount of its bid was not disclosed.

Care of Christmas Gift Plants

By FLORA M. BAVILLE

Gift plants receive quite a shock when they are taken from the greenhouse to your home.

By duplicating the growing care and atmosphere you can extend the usual time of bloom and keep your plant over for another year of bloom.

The beautiful new hybrid poinsettias in pink or white are cared for the same as the scarlet types. They came from semi-tropical areas and need a uniformly warm temperature of approximately 65 degrees and high humidity.

Do not keep the soil saturated, but moist, and do not allow it to dry out or the leaves will turn yellow and fall. In a cool bright window the blooms may stay attractive until February. Last year when the red faded we placed a small pot of asthurleum on top of the soil in the poinsettia pot. The long white and green striped leaves made an unusual and attractive accent against the large green poinsettia leaves. In March the poinsettia was moved to the basement and planted outdoors in May, in a semi-shaded position.

Christmas cactus are often family treasures handed on from some aunt or grandmother.

WATERED

They should be watered sparingly in all seasons. During the winter, when there is little sun, the cacti is almost dormant, so water lightly—about once in two weeks until April.

In their native habitat the rainy season is from April to mid-summer. You can simulate natural conditions by watering more generously during this time, for they require re-potting also to do this in February or March. Use a mixture of half garden soil and half sand with gravel in the bottom of the pot for good drainage. Use pots proportionately small as excess root is not good for cactus.

A cool room is best for Jerusalem Cherry at approximately 60 degrees. If leaves should be watered generously the berries will hang on for several weeks. If the berries have dropped water sparingly and keep in a cool place until Spring. Cut back a little and sink the pot in soil in a semi-shady place. Feed and water it during the summer and bring it in again in September.

Cyclamen plants are among the most difficult plants to keep. The florist grew the plants in moist atmosphere at 40 to 50 degrees. Most livingrooms however, are too warm and too dry for them. Keep water off the crown, flowers and foliage. Set pot in a basin of tepid water and leave until topsoil looks moist. Discard the plant when bloom is finished.

Azalea needs good light: an east window is better for it. This too likes a cool temperature of about 60 degrees. Supply plenty of water. Move to a light shady place in the spring and keep plant watered and fed to promote bud formation for a second season of bloom.

A warm humid atmosphere with a flower light requirement will suit a wide variety of house plants. Among these are the African violets, ivies, begonias, Sanseviera, dieffenbachia, large cut leaf philodendrons, bertolonia, and nasgetias.

All plants seem to slow up during the short dark days of winter. Do not over-water, or over-feed. As the days grow longer most plants show renewed vigor and send out new growth.

However with just electric light and no sun you can grow fine pothos, either green or variegated, grape ivy, Chinese evergreen pickaback plant ruddy pellions and many of the ivies.

Don DeFore Builds Swimming Hole Like He Used to Know

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don DeFore's kids will have a special gift this Christmas—an ole swimming hole just like their Daddy used to know.

This will look like the old one, but it'll be brand-new, right in the DeFore backyard in Mandeville canyon. If luck holds out, it will be finished and filled by Christmas Day.

Don is from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and you know the old saying—you can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy. That seems to hold true of Don. Despite some 15 years in Hollywood, he appears unaffected by the movie town. He still looks back on his Iowa youth with great fondness.

I dropped by the DeFore house to see how hi' unique project was progressing. The place is located in the exclusive Mandeville area. But the DeFore house stands apart from the others. It's a big red replica of an Iowa barn—even has wings of hay sticking out the door at the loft.

NO CHROMIUM

Mrs. DeFore, a small, attractive brunette, answered the door and explained that Don had been called for some filming on the "Ozzie and Harriet" ABC television show. She introduced Ronnie, 5, and suspected of the mumps, then showed the way to the Christmas project.

"Don's been wanting to do this for eight years," she explained.

Workmen were placing rocks around the rim of a large cemented excavation which was to be the pool. It was 9½ feet deep at one end, 55 feet long and 22 feet at the widest part of its irregular shape.

"There will be no tile showing or chromium indoors," Mrs. DeFore explained. "The rock will extend right to the edge of the pool.

RURAL MOTIF

South of the pool other workers were pouring foundations for a small barn and a silo which would carryout the rural motif. They will double as a guest house, Mrs. DeFore said.

"From the barn will come a flume," she added. "Water will travel down it to a water wheel at the edge of the pool. Underneath the wheel will be a spotlight with a revolving color wheel."

She remarked that the children weren't too hot on the project at first. Besides Ronnie, they number Penny, 13, David, 10, and Dawn, 8. "Aw, can't we have a regular kind of pool?" complained the Californian kids.

But they changed their minds when they visited the rustic pool of Donald Douglas Jr., son of the airplane maker. The DeFores sought out the contractor, since the Douglas pool was the kind they had been seeking for years. He turned out to be Don Burgess, an energetic young man despite having been confined to an iron lung by polio four years ago.

Although he has only 20 per cent of his normal strength, Burgess pitches in and helps lay the rocks with his workers. One of his assistants is a young man he met when both were iron lung patients.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Tuesday, December 27, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mercury and Mars are especially encouraging, stimulating for mental work, conferences; honored undertakings requiring vigor, endurance and courage. Laborious tasks strongly favored. Gainful offers possible.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Situations which might irritate you on another day should spur you on to greater achievement this fine planetary day. Difficult problems may be handled with ease.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Study, teaching, research, promoting and propositions, writing, smart advertising, conferences, various branches of government under fine Mars and Mercury rays. Forward!

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—You could gain in fields other than your usual occupation now. Rays encourage branching out, making important improvements, changes, gathering knowledge.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—This day may not be especially responsive for seeking favors or for making extensive monetary gains but, on the whole, it is one fo accomplishing through study, research, sound improvements.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—A highly important and beneficial line for you and your interests. Don't permit doubt or worry to keep you from doing the fine work you can in any endeavor for which you are trained.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Heed advice to Taurians. You have the intelligence and tools to mold this day to your advantage. You may have to heed advice, orders from others, but don't rebel.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Rays caution against recklessness and going to extremes. It is a fine day, however, for study, analyzing, research, authoring stories, plays, etc., all mental work.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Encouraging planetary vibrations. Especially favored: personal attainment, making new connections through foresight and the clever management of business interests.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—This is an open period for gathering knowledge. And knowledge is power—power to attain worthwhile goals, to progress through intelligent know-how. Do not be ashamed to ask, if you need help or information.

February 22 to February 28 (Aquarius)—It will be important now to observe well and to determinedly apply your knowledge and experience to essential tasks. Aim to advance in your occupation and gain fresh advantage.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A good outlook. There should be new opportunities in both big and small business. Study how to better securify plans. Honest labor, sincere efforts will be rewarded. Have faith.

You born today: Among your many fine qualities are justice, tact, dependability, honesty, a kindly disposition. You have the ability to become skilled in whatever field you choose but may be better in the creative environment than in a field where travel is constant. You are brave in support of justice, will be strong in defending principles. Control tendencies toward brooding and oversensitiveness. Keep the bright side of your nature always to the fore. And don't hesitate to undertake any endeavor in which you would like to achieve.

Christmas Palace Lasted 80 Days

By RONALD GARTH-DAVIS

Christmas decorations bespangle the world . . . only to disappear by Twelfth Night. Yuletide fun is remembered tomorrow. Yet there have been few seasonable sagas so dramatic in vanishing as the world-famous palace of Christmas Ice.

Just sixty years ago the mining engineers of Leadville, Colorado, faced the gloomiest Christmas they had ever known . . . propounded his brainwave for a winter carnival that would bring visitors from far and wide.

All around Leadville lay great lakes of frozen ice. Tingley proposed that use should be made of this ready-to-hand material by building ice blocks into the greatest palace ever known.

A local architect roughed out the plans. Faced with the dire ravages of unemployment, local banks and investors agreed to put up $20,000.

Within a day all the out-of-work miners were briskly cutting ice and dragging it by sledge over the hills to Leadville.

The chip-chip-chip of ice hatchets went on by lantern light long into the night. Masons set to work cutting the ice blocks and building ice walls, cemented by ice which was thawed by blowlamp and then allowed to freeze.

The Leadville project became as much news as a big world fair. A tourist rush began even before the Christmas palace was built. But when at last it soared, glittering and perfect, everyone agreed that the spectacle was the nicest ice sight of their lives.

On the peak of Capital Hill two great eight-sided towers, with pinnacles and battlements, rose to a height of 90 feet. Each tower measured 128 feet around and the walls were eight feet thick. At the entrance, pointing with a wand like a fairy queen, was a statue of a woman sculptured in ice, 19 feet high standing on a 12-foot pedestal.

There were ice corridors and sanded stairways, ice reception halls and a skating rink where floors, walls and ceiling were all of solid ice.

Every night dancers whirled and spun in a magnificent ballroom 80 feet long by 50 wide. The lacy plaster decorations that adorned it were in reality of sculptured ice.

Thousands paid good money to watch the dancers twirling on the perfect ice floor. Prophets of disaster forecast that the heat of the lamps at night and the noonday sun would bring the whole edifice crashing down. But repair squads went to work every day in the chilly dawn and all the stability and perfection of the fantastic edifice was maintained.

Hollowed in the ice walls were curio shops, and a restaurant attracted customers by freeing huge barons of beef into its panels for use as required. Men could have their hair cut in the iced barber's shop—and strangely enough it was often warmer in the ice palace than outside.

Anxiously investors watched the sky every day last heavy rain or a premature spring marred the carnival. It was estimated that 5,000 tons of ice — some of it transported 70 miles—had been used to form a palace occupying five acres. In addition a half-mile toboggan chute was built and within a few weeks Leadville was a flourishing centre of winter sports.

The ice palace was called a 9-day wonder. In reality it lasted eighty days. It was March before a warm sun began the sudden thaw.

Within seven days nothing was left of this amazing Christmas scene but a pile of slush and acres of mud. The last sight to slither into nothingness was the fairy-queen statue at the gate.

Curiously enough a prospector accepted her wand as an omen and discovered gold at a spot, beyond the ice palace, to which she had been pointing. Leadville's highly profitable ice rush was followed by a gold rush—and this true-life Christmas story thus ended happily ever after.

Broken Marriage Healed By Real-Life Santa

By Evelyn Vaughan

Twenty-year-old Arnold Marriott and lovely Shirley Holmes could have been the unhappiest of Christmas sweethearts. They had planned to marry on Christmas Eve but everything went wrong.

Being under age, Arnold was refusing to secure his father's permission, when he was involved in a collision. The delay inevitably postponed the ceremony. But then Bradford Registrar John Hinkins gallantly took action.

Bradford Registrar Office should have been closed on Christmas Day. Instead it was open. Mr. Hinkins should have been off-duty. Instead he surrendered part of his Christmas morning to conduct the marriage ceremony. And thanks to their real-life Santa Arnold and Shirley can never forget their wedding anniversary . . . on Christmas day.

It's the same with the happy Sawdons at Burton - on - Trent. Twelve years ago they went through the agony of the divorce court. Mrs. Elsie Sawdon married again and had two children, a boy and a girl. Then tragedy struck: her life a second time, for their father died.

Into the breach stepped a real-life Santa who made sure that the boys reached grey-haired Reg Sawdon. And last Christmas Eve, amid the drifting snowflakes, Reg and Elsie married again. The two children called Reg "Uncle Daddy" a Father Christmas who had come to stay.

Peace on earth and goodwill to men is a maxim observed all the year round by millions. It's just a little extra that creates the Christmas spirit.

Take a peek at postmaster Phil Cossey as he sorted the letters and parcels for a Surrey old folks' home. Though he was right in the midst of the Christmas rush, he wondered whether any old folk at the home had been forgotten.

He checked with the warden — and sure enough there were two old folk with no letters, no parcels. Two old people with nobody left to remember them at Christmas.

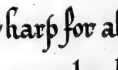
Except Phil Cossey and some would-be helpers. He played real-life Santa and saw to it that the two old ladies each found a gaily-wrapped parcel on their beds on Christmas morning...with sweets, cake, notepaper, fancy handkerchiefs, the kind of things old folk treasure.

"So wonderful, so wonderful," said one of the old ladies as she opened her parcel. "It must have been God who put the idea in someone's heart."

Then there was the publican who chanced to visit an orphanage near Knebworth — and one of the little boys, he discovered, had no Christmas parcel — so he had wrapped up a piece of soap to make a parcel for himself.

"Let's do something for these kids!" Ray Mitchell begged his customers. And he enrolled 140 of his regular customers into a band of uncles. Now the orphans get Christmas gifts, birthday cards, Guy Fawkes fireworks and a Christmas party.

It's wonderful to read these stories of Christmas, but even more wonderful to spread the Christmas spirit a little further. Maybe you too, can help some one extra this Christmas . . . spreading gladness as well as glad tidings!



To our many friends . . . we want to express our sincere appreciation for your favors; it has been a privilege and pleasure to serve you . . .

Merry Christmas, everyone!

THE CHRISTMAS HEART

Whosoever on ye nighte of ye nativity of ye young LORD JESUS, in ye great snows, shall fare forth bearing a succulent bone for ye loste and lamenting hounde,  a wisp of hay for ye shivering horse, a cloak of warm raiment for  ye stranded wayfarer,  a bundle of fagots for ye twittering crone, a garland of bright berries for one who has worn chains,  gay arias of lute and harp for all huddled birds who thought that  song was dead,  and divers lush sweetmeats for such babes' faces as peer from lonely windows... To him shall be proffered and returned gifts of such an astonishment as will rival the hues of the peacock and the harmonies of heaven; so that though he live to ye greate age, yet shall he walk upright and remembering, as one whose heart shines like a great star in his breaste.

From Ye Miracles of Ye Season • Author Unknown

In the Christmas spirit of abiding goodwill, we send our heartfelt greetings to our many friends at home in Canada and beyond her borders . . . remembering especially our customers, suppliers and our own faithful staff. To all of you, wherever you are, A Happy, Happy Christmas!

U.S. Firms, Unions Said Using Canada As Battleground

United Church Leader Asks G.M. Chief, Reuther Confer

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. J. R. Mutchmor, social service secretary of the United Church of Canada, said today it is time large United States corporations and unions stop making Canada a battleground for "near-civil-war" industrial battles.

Dr. Mutchmor said he has written United States and Canadian officers of General Motors of Canada and the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) asking them to settle the 101-day-old strike of 17,000 GM workers in five Ontario plants.

He said, in a press release, that he has asked Harlow Curtice, G. president, and Walter Reuther, international president of the UAW, to enter deadlocked negotiations to settle the dispute.

The United Church board of evangelism and social service will be asked to urge the federal government to enact legislation to "prevent Canada becoming the focal point for American company-union wars," Dr. Mutchmor said.

TIME FOR ACTION

Negotiations on the GM strike and the 109-day Ford of Canada strike last year, he said:

"It is a sad thing that these battles are being fought in this country rather than in the United States.

Ford and General Motors and the UAW have settled their differences without a strike.

"After more than 100 days of effort in Canada there is a failure to settle the strike it is time now for the top-level men . . . to bring an end to the present conflict."

Meanwhile, Leonard Woodcock, a vice-president of the international union, arrived today from Detroit to discuss the strike.

NEARING RECORD

A UAW spokesman said Mr. Woodcock will meet strike leaders to assess the situation at first hand. He recently was appointing head of the GM department of the UAW-CIO international.

Negotiations in the strike—affecting 17,000 workers in Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, Scarborough and Windsor—will resume Jan. 3. If the strike lasts to Jan. 5 it would become the longest in Canadian automotive history.

The union seeks a 12-cent-an-hour wage increase, a guaranteed annual wage, company-paid hospital and medical insurance, and other benefits.

Holiday Traffic Toll Double 1954's Figures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's Christmas weekend death count climbed Tuesday to 68—48 of them traffic fatalities.

Alarmed at the holiday traffic toll—nearly double 1954's figure of 27—Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario Tuesday called for an international conference to discuss means of controlling a "cancerous growth somewhere in the automotive field of endeavor."

Forty-eight persons suffered fatal injuries in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday. A Canadian Press survey showed 11 persons died by fire. Miscellaneous causes, including three slayings, accounted for nine deaths.

Provincial breakdowns with traffic deaths in brackets were: Ontario 16 (12), Quebec 12 (5), British Columbia 7 (4), Nova Scotia 5(3), New Brunswick 4 (2), Alberta 1 (1), Manitoba 1 (0), Saskatchewan 1 (0), Newfoundland 1 (0) and Prince Edward Island none.

HINTS AT CONTROL

Hinting that government control over automobile manufacturers may be necessary to reduce the number of highway fatalities, Mr. Roberts suggested a North American conference at top levels of government, manufacturers and builders, and law - enforcement agencies be held to find answers and apply them.

"It may be that nothing short of continued drastic action across the whole continent with some kind of uniform effective measures and control in the licensing, construction, use and enforcement, that will bring relief."

Mr. Roberts said a joint call by Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Eisenhower for prompt action by provincial and state governments might start a new era in motor transportation and living in the mechanized age.

"The stark, cold statistics of the last few days cry out for a solution."

Six-Year-Old Madoc Boy Killed by Car

Douglas Dale Wellington, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wellington of Huntingdon Twp., was fatally injured Saturday, when he rode his handsleigh into the path of a passing car in front of his home on the Old Marmora Road. The boy died en route to the Belleville General Hospital.

One of a family of five brothers and two sisters, Douglas rode his handsleigh down a bank and onto the road where he was struck by a car driven by Raymond Saulsby of Madoc. The accident occurred about a mile southwest of Madoc as Mr. Saulsby was driving toward the village.

The accident was investigated by O.P.P. Cpl. Douglas Sears and Constable Gordon Lebow.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cold weather still covers Ontario this morning, but milder air from the Mississippi valley will move in to the Great Lakes area today.

Very cold air over the Prairies is moving southward, and a return to colder weather is forecast for northern Ontario on Thursday.

Scouts later the three-toed weasel crashes into breaking ice topped by a layer of snow.

"The vehicle fell four feet and was wedged sideways in the ice between the ice edges. Water came up through the floor boards.

"We got out in one heck of a hurry," said Young.

Capt. Wesley Cmdr. Herbert Whitney of Arlington, Mass., who is the seaborne commanding officer on the expedition, and surveyor chief George Hicks said considerable time the William Bucknam, both of Daxville, R. I.

Finally the parachute and a couple of good planks, the men reported, were at last stretched across from the weasel.

Their radio refused to work. Winds blew at up to 70 miles an hour.

"We figured out the storm all night," said Young. "We knew nothing could fly in this weather to reach us. We had no sleeping bags. It was so cold we had to keep moving around. It is weird for that parachute breaking the wind we would have died."

The weather cleared in the morning, however, and the missing Seabees were located by evening.

TRADE MINISTER HOWE PREDICTS BETTER ECONOMY

Urges Canadians to Use Restraint in Buying

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe has predicted another upward sweep in Canada's record-smashing economy for 1956.

But he has urged Canadians to use restraint in their buying and accumulation of goods to prevent upsetting the predicted long stretch of expansion ahead.

Already, huge bulk-buy has already caused some scarcities of goods, Mr. Howe said in Debate. Prices so far have remained steady. But Mr. Howe was apparently none too sure that they would remain that way. Heavy demand for goods in short supply cause inflation and economic reaction.

Whether "speculative excesses and other dislocating influences" set in to cause an eventual economic reaction will depend on the wise decisions and attitudes of consumers and businessmen, he said in his year-end review Tuesday night.

SILDILY BASED

The upswing so far was solidly based and appeared to be of long trip. Prospects for a relatively prolonged period of economic expansion appear bright if Canadians in all economic groups use restraint, he said.

Steel mills produced 4,400,000 tons of steel ingots in 1955, up 10 per cent from 1954, and were operating at capacity for several months ahead. Pulp and paper, lumber, nickel, aluminum, petroleum and chemicals all made record productions in 1955.

Not as quite as the large increases in capacity of these industries, pressure for additional output has continued to mount. The world also wanted more of Canada's goods. The pressures were there. They boosted total exports from $5,000,000 to estimated $4,350,000,000, up 12 per cent from 1954 and there was no slackening in sight.

At home, it appeared the 1955 capital investment program, including the construction of new homes and factories, will rise between $8 billion and $8½ billion a year prediction of a record $6,-700,000,000 for the same period in 1956. This would compare with the previous high of $6,000,000,000 for 1955 and the $5,500,000,000 in 1954.

HIGHER THAN FORECAST

With Canadians producing more and earning more, the Gross National Product—value of all goods and services produced—is now estimated at $32,400,000,000 in 1955, Mr. Howe said. This is an increase of $2,400,000,000 over the $30,000,000,000 higher than Finance Minister Harris' forecast last spring of $25,250,000,000.

Mr. Howe believed it now is still higher in 1956. His officials talked about a Gross National Product of $32,800,000,000 or $35 Bn., they also believe some price increases are almost inevitable for 1956.

While the farm community may not have fared as well in 1955 as urban dwellers, Mr. Howe said there is generally well and steadily existing surpluses.

President Flies South for Rest And Exercise

Four U.S. Seabees Saved by 'Copter After 24 Hours on Antarctic Shelf

By SAUL PETT

ABOARD U. S. S. GLACIER, McMurdo Sound (Delayed) (AP)—Four Seabees were rescued by helicopter Monday night from an Antarctic ice shelf on which they had huddled for 26 hours. They were found in a tent improvised from a parachute.

None of the men suffered any ill effects but one of them related, "If it wasn't for that parachute breaking the wind we would have died."

The men were stranded when their tractor-sledged "weasel" fell into a crevasse that had been hidden by a layer of snow. They were picked up by a helicopter from the icebreaker Glacier, lead ship of the American Antarctic expedition.

After travelling 15 miles in good weather, the Seabees—construction engineers — had suddenly driven into a "whiteout" — a trick of light refraction that blots out the horizon in a white blur. Visibility was further reduced by wind-lashed snow.

"We slowed down a bit—were just feeling our way," said Chief Warrant Officer Victor Young, 39, of Wickford, R. I.

Pope Does Not Intend to Serve As Mediator in Nuclear Accord

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Authoritative Vatican sources said today that while Pope Pius indicated the necessity for an East-West nuclear accord in his Christmas message to the world, he does not intend himself to serve as a mediator in that regard.

"That task," said an authoritative spokesman, "is for the world leaders, the Pope . . . indicated the need for."

A report published abroad said the 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church has been exploring chances of Vatican mediation in such an accord through yearend individual audiences which he now is granting to members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican.

The authoritative Vatican source said that this, too, "is most unlikely." He pointed out that the audiences are strictly courtesy calls, in which the representatives of some 45 countries give their season's wishes to the pontiff.

The two most important powers involved in nuclear experiments—the United States and Soviet Russia—have no diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

But aside from this, said the spokesman, two practical considerations would render papal intervention in an East-West accord extremely unlikely:

1. Technical factors would make it virtually impossible for the pontiff to take on such a task.

2. A mediator in such a matter would have to be acceptable to both—parties. The pontiff said in his Christmas message that the church "rejects communism as a social system," and it is not likely, said the spokesman, that the pontiff would be acceptable to Communist Russia as a mediator.

Recognition of Red Malayan Insurgents Flatly Refused

BALING, Malaya (Reuters)—Malaya's Communist underground insurgents today boldly demanded recognition as a legal political party but met a flat refusal from Malayan government leaders in peace talks here.

An official statement issued after two meetings between Communist and government leaders said the government's chief negotiator "absolutely no" to Communist pressure for recognition of their party after an armistice.

Chin Peng, leader of the Communist underground that has battled government forces for eight years in Malayan jungles, also asked that the Communists be "absolutely free" from official investigation or restrictions on their movements after armistice.

He said that if the Communist party is not accepted as a legal organization they should have the right to join existing political parties or to form a political party to propagate their ideas.

But Tengku prince Abdul Rahman, head of the Malayan government, rejected the demands as "atrocities" committed by the Communists "the people of the country would not accept and pardon that they should be free, from the moment they came out, to go wherever they liked and do what ever they liked," the statement said.

The government arranged today's truce talks after a British fire-surrounded north Malayan village in hopes of ending the country's five-year struggle against Communist terrorism by persuading Chin Peng to accept official surrender terms. An amnesty his already been offered the Communists.

With the Tengku at today's meetings was David Marshall, chief minister of neighboring Singapore. Abdul Rahman said he had told the Communists that he and Marshall were not, as had been suggested, mouthpieces of the British government nor its "stooges."

Want Freedom To Live Own Lives--Quints

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram in a Montreal dispatch says the surviving Dionne quintuplets want to get away from parental supervision," and to "lead their own lives."

A by-lined story by reporter Phyllis Griffiths says the four sisters "are much distressed over their father's public declaration from Callander yesterday that they ignored their parents at Christmas time."

Miss Griffiths says the sisters asked a "friend and counsellor" to say that they felt sad at what they acted as they did.

She quotes the spokesman as saying:

"The four remaining quints want to lead a normal life of their own. They are very, very closely attached to their father. It's really remarkable. They understand one another's thoughts without a word being spoken.

SAW MOTHER LATELY

"Marie and Annette would have gone home for Christmas. But Yvonne and Cecile, who are in training (at Hospital de Notre Dame de L'Esperance) were on duty. It was important to the four of them to be together.

They all saw Mrs. Dionne about 10 days before Christmas—she visited them briefly—and appeared very fine then. They had been talking about going home for New Year's together, but now they won't going. Cecile will have time off but not Yvonne."

The story quotes the spokesman as saying the sisters "don't know what their future plans are.

"This is pretty well a testing period. Annette is going on with her music. . . . Marie plays too, but Annette is really far advanced. . . .

"The other two girls will definitely complete their nursing training. They are about midway through a three-year course and are doing well and liking it. . . .

"They are meeting boys normally now but marriage is not in their minds at the moment."

SIX CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN TWO FIRES

Quebec and Manitoba Blazes Claim Lives

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GATINEAU MILLS, Que. (CP)—Three children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a two-storey frame house in near-zero weather in this town five miles east of Ottawa.

Killed were Philippe, 9, Nicole, 6, and Charles, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Gendron.

Mrs. Gendron suffered severe burns when she rescued the two-year-old daughter, Louise. She was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital in nearby Hull in serious condition. The child was not hurt.

The fire broke out at about 8:30 a. m. and within 10 minutes, when cause arrived, the house was a mass of flames.

FATHER AT WORK

The three victims were found in a front bedroom on the second floor, two of them still in bed, the other on the floor.

A fireman said "there must have been some sort of explosion to cause the fire to spread so quickly."

The father, a plumber, was away at work.

Mrs. Gendron ran to a neighbor's house with Louise in her arms, apparently the first indication to the neighbors that a fire.

The house was heated by an oil burner on the ground floor.

The fire was fought by a brigade from the Canadian International Paper Co. mill and a large pulp and paper plant here.

FIRE TOLL HEAVY

The tragedy raised the fire toll in isolated and immediate vicinity to 11 deaths within 11 days and to 16 within the last 19 months.

On Dec. 22 a mother and her child were lost in an east Ottawa fire. December 18 another young mother and her five children died in a blaze in Ste. Agathe, north end. In each case only the fathers survived. On Nov. 17 the last previous deaths in an apartment block in fire in Hull, Que.

FIRE SWEEPS HOME

ST. PIERRE, Man. (CP)—Three children died in a fire that swept through their home in this southern Manitoba town today. A fourth was injured when he jumped out of a window.

RCMP in Winnipeg identified the victims as Marcel, 8, Luc, 5, and Richard, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Arpin.

Seven-year-old Lucel was injured and taken to hospital.

St. Pierre is 30 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

Lumberman Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—George William Cook, 88, pioneer Canadian lumberman and widely known businessman, died at his home in suburban Westmount Monday.

Mr. Cook had headed Cook and Brothers Lumber Company, which operated in the area along the north shores of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, until his retirement in 1908.

Mr. Cook was born in Morrisburg, Ont., but later moved to Montreal.

Dionne Says He Does Not Regret His Statement of Rift With Quints

NORTH BAY (CP) — Oliva Dionne said today he does not regret a statement issued a month ago—a day to the effect a rift has been created between him and his quintuplet daughters and other members of the family.

Interviewed that one of the quints, Yvonne, has denied in Montreal that there is any estrangement between the girls and their parents, Mr. Dionne said his original statement stands.

"I don't regret having issued the statement," he said.

"It wasn't something that was made up. It was the truth and nothing but the truth," said Mr. Dionne. Mrs. Dionne and I remained silent about the matter for a long time, but the misunderstanding was not improved by the separation became as great we felt obliged to make public how we felt about it."

Mr. Dionne said regardless of what the quints are reported to have said in Montreal he still adheres to his original statement.

"I think their reaction justifies the step we took. They themselves now say they want to be by themselves. That confirms the separation.

"But we hold no grudge against the quints. The stories out of Montreal aren't what we said in the first place—that the girls are being influenced by outsiders. I notice that a friendly adviser" is acting as a spokesman for the girls.

"And we've still heard received that Christmas card they mentioned.

"However, I don't want to prolong the discussion in public. We've said all our statements and we don't want to say anything further. Nevertheless, I want to make a circus out of it."

The parents said they have been bombarded with requests from television and radio stations and newsrooks and from the big motion pollian daily newspapers to elaborate on their views.

"We have turned down these requests and will continue to do so," Mr. Dionne said.

"We don't think it would be in good taste to say anything further.

Comet Jetliner Crosses Atlantic In Record Time

Montreal to London Flight Takes 6 Hours 8 Minutes

LONDON (CP)—Britain's glittering Comet III jetliner stretched non-stop across the Atlantic from Montreal to London overnight in a shattering six hours, eight minutes. The plane's builders, de Havilland Aircraft, immediately claimed a north Atlantic record for civil airliners.

The 74-ton four-jet aircraft covered the 3,350 miles in the London airport beam at an average speed of 548 miles an hour, whizzing through contrary winds to land for a tumultuous welcome.

Tail winds which boosted the plane's speed over the Atlantic to more than 640 miles an hour at times.

The trip ended a 33,000-mile round-the-world proving flight by Capt. John Cunningham and his crew of 10 which began in Hatfield, England, Dec. 2 and took the Comet to Cairo, Bombay, Singapore, Darwin, Sydney, Melbourne, Perth, Auckland, Fiji, Honolulu, Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal.

PROVING MODEL

Big crowds packed the observation bays at London airport as the liner streaked down. Aviation Minister Harold Watkinson and Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of the British Overseas Airways Corp., were among the first official crowd to congratulate the crew.

The plane's actual time from the Montreal take-off to the London landing was six hours, 18 minutes, but the time allowed for the flight was figured to the time of crossing the airport boundary.

The Comet III will never fly the world's air routes commercially. It is being developed for the bigger and more luxurious Comet IV, which British Overseas Airways Corporation hopes to have in service in 1958.

TOUR OF RECORDS

De Havilland officials still are working out the list of records established by the III on its round-the-world flight since leaving London Dec. 2.

At the top of the list is the 24 hours, 53 minutes flying time from London to Sydney, Australia. Fastest leg was the 2,710-mile hop between Cairo and Bombay, covered at an average 523 miles an hour.

The Comet was not refuelled during its 26-day trials. At Montreal last Thursday a fire warning flared on the No. 3 engine during the take-off—later takeoff, and Cunningham returned to the airport to find an exhaust pipe detached from one engine. The plane then went back to Toronto for repairs.

COLD COULD BE CAUSE

Cunningham said in Montreal the reason for the broken bracket had not been determined but that he thought "it could have been the cold weather." It was 15 below zero when the plane arrived at original takeoff. Cunningham said it was still too early to determine whether change of engine pylon or the Comet as a result of the break.

Cunningham, disappointed by last week's delay since Christmas, said he was so near" said he and the crew spent "a pleasant holiday in Montreal."

A spare engine flown from Britain as a precaution was not installed.

The flight was the first non-stop civil jet hop from Montreal to London. It was the longest under the Comet's 30,000-mile proving flight.

Previous fastest non-stop crossing of the Atlantic by a transport jet was set up on Oct. 4, 1954, when a Comet of the Royal Canadian Air Force crossed from Goose Bay, Labrador, to London airport in 4 hours, 20 minutes, averaging 480 miles an hour.

CANBERRA IS FASTEST

Fastest crossing of all was by a Canberra jet bomber of the RAF in August, 1952, westward from Gander to Aldergrove, Northern Ireland, in three hours, 22 minutes.

Three piston - engined Douglas DC-7 aircraft of Pan-American Airways set up records for Atlantic transport in October this year. One flew from New York to London (2,500 miles) in eight hours, 52 minutes.

ACTRESS SENTENCED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Barbara Payton was given a 60-day suspended sentence on a bad cheque charge Tuesday. She was also fined $100 and placed on probation for one year.

The 28-year-old ex-wife of actor Franchot Tone had pleaded guilty to one of three counts of issuing worthless cheques totalling $128. The other counts were dropped.

Papa Dionne Says Quints Ignore Family

Olive Dionne lifted a corner of the curtain of secrecy enfolding his famous daughters by hinting years when he revealed Tuesday that they are slipping the ties with their nearby Callander home.

Nose returned home from Montreal for Christmas, Mr. Dionne said there were no cards or telephone calls and "outside friends" were in them. Reporters:

"We were not surprised when they did not come home. We have realized for some months that they have been drifting away from us. In fact, lately they have been treating their brothers and sisters almost with contempt."

Yvonne Dionne, nurse-in-training with her sister Cecile at a Montreal hospital, tearfully denied the Papa She added:

"Don't believe it, it's not true. We have just a family card. Is it our fault if they didn't get it?"

WEEK ON DUTY

Yvonne and girls didn't telephone their parents because "we were on duty. It's not easy, this job."

It was one more eruption in the wash of wrangling and emotional crises which have surrounded the Dionne girls since their birth 22 a sunny May morning 21 years ago. For the first 19 years, they shared a paternity guard of publicized sleeping, playing, eating and studying together.

Then Marie, the tiniest quint, entered a Quebec City convent in November, 1953, and Yvonne went to Montreal to study art. Emilie, Annette and Cecile studied at college in Nicolet, Que.

Said Mr. Dionne Tuesday:

"It's not something that just happened at this Christmas. We have been drifting for a long time now. We suspected that outside influences were trying to influence the quints some years ago, and we were sure of it by the way they began spends at Christmas last home, and then more so when they refused their first birthday and came into their money."

FIREMEN REPORT QUIET CHRISTMAS

Like city and provincial police, Belleville firemen reported a quiet Christmas holiday weekend.

Monday noon a barn at the home of E. Brockhurst, 31 Earl Street, was damaged by fire along with its stored contents. Origin of the fire was not determined.

Two smoke investigations, one on Christmas day and the other on Saturday, completed the weekend activity for firemen.

City, Provincial Police Report Quiet Holiday

One of the quietest Christmases on record was reported today by city and provincial police. There were no serious accidents in Belleville or in the immediate vicinity.

However, the holiday weekend in Hastings, county was featured by one fatal accident in which six-year-old Donna Wellington, Huntingdon township, was fatally injured when he rode his bicycle straight in front of a moving auto.

West of Trenton on No. 2 Highway two persons met death in a Christmas eve crash that sent three others to hospital. Killed was Mrs. Elmer Clark, mother of six children, and Fred Gardiner, both of Trenton. Injured were: Elmer Clark, the dead woman's husband, driver of the car; Ralph Post and Mrs. Post.

Provincial police at Belleville reported seven minor accidents since Saturday, while in the city three minor accidents occurred.

Provincial police recovered a stolen car and arrested Gordon Lavere, of Port Colborne, who was returned to that centre to face charges. Provincial police also apprehended one drunk driver up over the holiday weekend.

A break-in at Deacon Brothers on Dundas St., East, was reported by city police. Entry was gained through a side door, the intruder leaving the premises by the back door. Nothing was reported missing.

An attempt was also made to enter the York Trading warehouse and garage.

Field Officer For Authority Is Appointed

MICHAEL CHUBB

Col. R. Vanderwater, secretary-treasurer of the Moira River Conservation Authority, yesterday announced the appointment of Michael Chubb, of the Department of Planning and Development, as the new field officer to the Authority. Mr. Chubb succeeds Fred Gardiner, both of Trenton. Injured were: Elmer Clark, the dead woman's husband, driver of the car; Ralph Post and Mrs. Post.

Provincial police at Belleville reported seven minor accidents since Saturday, while in the city three minor accidents occurred.

Provincial police recovered a stolen car and arrested Gordon Lavere, of Port Colborne, who was returned to that centre to face charges. Provincial police also apprehended one drunk driver up over the holiday weekend.

A break-in at Deacon Brothers on Dundas St., East, was reported by city police. Entry was gained through a side door, the intruder leaving the premises by the back door. Nothing was reported missing.

An attempt was also made to enter the York Trading warehouse and garage.

Hospital Fully Accredited by Joint Commission

The Belleville General Hospital has received full approval as a general hospital by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Organizations making up the joint commission are: American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association, American Medical Association and the Canadian Medical Association.

The commission was formed originally by the American College of Surgeons in 1919 to raise the standard of patient care in hospitals throughout the United States and Canada. It set up standards which hospitals had to achieve to receive full accreditation.

Any hospital receiving full accreditation is providing a good standard of patient care.

The Belleville General Hospital was surveyed on October 25th by Dr. J. E. Paul Laplante and notification of full approval by the commission was received by hospital authorities last week.

Two Southern Twp. Councils Are Acclaimed

Acclamations are the order of the day the southern townships of Hastings this year with two more municipalities being added to the list of acclaimed as the Christmas holiday weekend.

Following nominations which were held in Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships on Monday councils have been returned by acclamation in both municipalities.

In Thurlow township, Reeve Cecil B. Ketcheson was given acclamation for his second term of office and Deputy Reeve Herbert Kennedy.

Councillors are: Harry H. Pound, Robert J. Hopwood-Jones and Ernest Hutchinson. Sitting member L. Frank Benton was nominated but withdrew due to business pressures. Hutchinson was the only other nominee, also withdrew.

Everett Geen and Earle Ray were re-elected by acclamation as members of the North Thurlow Public School Area, while Douglas R. Aikins, George Wismark and Arnold C. Mitchell were returned by acclamation as members for the South Thurlow School Area.

NOT LARGELY ATTENDED

Due to holiday celebrations the nomination meeting was not as largely attended as is customary. Fred G. Mitchell, former township reeve and ex-warden of the county, was nominated for the reevership, but withdrew and then acted as chairman for nomination meeting which saw sitting members of council and other candidates gazetted.

Other speakers at the meeting included Roy Mills, chairman of Bay of Quinte High School Area Board; Reeve Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East and township officials: clerk Earl Dafoe, Merlin Wright, building and sanitary inspector, and Clarence Bird, assessor.

ALL ACCLAIMED IN TYENDINAGA

In Tyendinaga township, Reeve Leslie McLaren will again head township council with Deputy Reeve Charles Long also receiving acclamation.

Councillors receiving acclamations were: Martin Doyle, Michael Horrigan and Russell Gilpin, a newcomer to council, who replaces sitting member Carman Gibson who resigned.

Nominees for council who withdrew were: Bruce Porti and Delbert Harvey.

Arthur English succeeds Bill McKeehan as the township appointee on the Bay of Quinte District High School Area Board.

Two Killed as Car Crashes Into Tree West of Town

TRENTON (Special) — A double fatality, resulting from a car accident on the highway west of here Christmas eve marred Yuletide holidays otherwise almost free of accidents.

Mrs. Elmer Clark, 31, of Spring Valley, two miles west of Brighton, west of here, was killed instantly on her way home to play Santa Claus to her six small children when the car in which she and six other people, were riding left No. 2 Highway four miles west of Trenton and crashed into a big maple tree at the side of the road. The accident happened about 6 p.m. in front of Bert Hanson's service station.

Fred Gardiner, 39, of Brighton, another passenger in the car, died from injuries four hours later in the Trenton Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Clark suffered horrible head injuries.

Elmer Clark, the dead woman's husband; Russell Writtage, John McMaster, Ralph and Mrs. Post, the five other passengers in the car, all needed treatment at the hospital. Writtage and McMaster have been released and allowed to return home.

Provincial police from the Brighton detachment were at the scene Saturday night and are still investigating. Charges may be laid against the driver, police said. The car belongs to Ralph Post of Brighton.

Earlier the people involved had been Christmas shopping in Trenton and were on their way home when the car went off the road.

FEW MINOR CRASHES

In Trenton since Friday night police were called to investigate a few minor crashes involving cars.

Last Thursday, Joseph Thibault, of 418 Front Street, was hit by a car that failed to make the curve at O'Malley's service station on North Front Street. He was tossed up on hood and carried along to the grist mill where the car rammed into the building. Thibault was walking along the shoulder of the road when struck.

Charles Fry, driver of the car, was driving the car. He was accompanied by William James and Brighton, all of Trenton.

Police set damage to the car at $150. Thibault suffered a leg injury but no bones broken.

NONE BORN ON CHRISTMAS

There were no babies born at the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Christmas Day. A baby girl weighing seven pounds, seven and a half ounces was delivered during a child of distinction by 12 minutes. The mother, Mrs. Nina Chapman, lives at R.R. 2, Colborne. Her daughter arrived at 11.48 p.m. Christmas eve.

Bandit Gets $600 At One Bank, Foiled at Another

MONTREAL (CP) — A courageous bank teller foiled an attempted hold-up Tuesday, but minutes later a bandit police believe to be the same man escaped with $600 from another bank.

Francoise Gervais, a teller at an east-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, told police she feigned ignorance when a man presented her with a note which read: "Keep quiet or I will kill you. Give me all the large bills."

Miss Gervais said she took the note and turned to a neighboring teller to ask him what he thought of it. The bandit fled.

While police were investigating the holdup attempt, a bandit escaped with $600 from a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in the west end of the city.

Therese Bergeron, a teller at the bank, said a man gave her a note which read: "It's a holdup. Give me the big bills."

Defence Spending In Soviet Budget Cut 10 Per Cent

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Supreme Soviet's Council of Nationalities today approved next year's budget proposals, which provide for a 10-per-cent cut in defence spending and greater development of heavy industry.

One of Russia's two top men—Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, Communist party chief—will report later today or Thursday to both houses of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, on their recent tour of Asia.

The other house, the Council of the Union, also met today to hear and its budget talks today. Both chambers will then debate foreign affairs.

The parliament also was told by Mikhail Pervukhin of Veverenko that the Soviet Union produced 11,000,000 more tons of oil last year than in 1954, an increase of 14 per cent. Forecast over the 58,000,000 metric tons at which production was estimated last year.

Uphold Union's Right To Picket Customers

NEW YORK (AP)—The right of a union to picket customers of a company against which it is on strike has been upheld by a federal Court of Appeals. The company and the National Labor Relations Board asked for a ban on picketing as an illegal secondary boycott.

The union, Local 459 of the International Electrical Workers, Tuesday said the decision "severely restricted "the entire definition of the secondary boycott under the Taft-Hartley Act."

The decision, dated Dec. 22, came to light Tuesday when the union issued a statement praising it.

The NLRB may appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Plenty of Snow On Prairies During Weekend

EDMONTON (CP)—Plowing and digging were part of the price of travel over western Canada today with snow cascading from British Columbia slopes and just plain piling up on the Prairies.

Drifts piled as high as 10 feet east of Edmonton Tuesday as a storm cutting across northern Alberta and Saskatchewan dumped a snowfall ranging up to more than a foot.

In B.C.'s east Kootenays, 250 miles east of Vancouver, a Canadian Pacific Railway section foreman was injured when a slide of snow, mud and rock buried him for 15 minutes. He was working on a bulldozer, clearing the tracks of a previous slide. It was 320 feet long and 40 feet deep.

The Edmonton snowfall was 11.8 inches and the northern Alberta settlement of Lac la Biche recorded 12.4 inches. The southern prairies got little snow but the weather office here reported Tuesday night that drifting in southern areas "is still very severe."

8 WEEKS OF WET

The western prairies have had nine weeks of below-normal temperatures and Tuesday's blow followed by three weeks a blizzard which claimed three lives in Saskatchewan.

CPR trains through Nelson, B.C. were back on schedule today following slides which delayed one train for 12 hours.

The trans-Canada highway in the Fraser canyon, meanwhile, was reopened to traffic after being closed by a succession of snow slides late last week.

Hip-deep drifts resulted in cancellation of mail deliveries in Edmonton suburbs. Other deliveries also suffered. At one stage one milk company had 10 of its delivery trucks stuck in the snow.

High temperatures forecast for today were five below at Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, 10 below at Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, North Battleford and Swift Current and 15 below at Prince Albert.

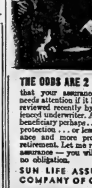
300 Workers Have Returned To Their Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — Three hundred strikers and strike sympathizers milled about the gates of the Canada Wire and Cable plant today trying to persuade workers not to enter the factory.

About 300 of the plant's 1,300 workers have returned to their jobs since a strike started last October.

Suburban Leaside police, standing by today, said some workers were "jostled around a bit" as they passed through the gates, but there was no violence and no workers were forced back.

Spokesmen for the United Electrical Workers (Canada) (Ind.) declined to comment on the demonstration.



PROTEST INJUNCTION

The company three weeks ago won an injunction against any demonstration to intimidate or discourage workers entering the plant and limiting the number of pickets at each entrance to four.

The UEW at that time protested the injunction was an attempt by the company to break the strike.

The company last week turned down a union offer for a 30-day strike truce to negotiate outstanding issues.

The union is seeking a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase and other benefits. Present basic wage at the plant is $1.43½ an hour.

Cities, Towns on U.S. Side Of Great Lakes Busy With Plans for Great Expansion

By BEN PRICE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—For the grimy, dust-covered men on the bulldozers, the draglines and the giant earth movers, it is just another day.

In Massena, N.Y., it is crowded stores, crammed schools, trailer camps and high rents.

But for 2,687 miles from Duluth to the Atlantic ocean this vast concentration of heavy construction equipment along the international rapids of the St. Lawrence river is a mighty dream coming true.

When the St. Lawrence seaway is completed, perhaps by 1962, ocean-going ships will be able to reach the far end of Lake Superior, sailing a 27-foot channel rising progressively through 15 locks, instead of the present 30, to more than 600 feet above sea level.

On the U.S. side of the Great Lakes, cities and towns are busy with plans for the day when they will be true international ports.

AUTO MAKERS HOPEFUL

In Detroit the auto makers are awaiting completion of the seaway with great hopes. A port of Detroit commission has been formed to govern development of $25,000,000 worth of expanded harbor facilities.

Chrysler Corp., for example, which now moves only six per cent of its exports by way of the lakes, predicts this figure will jump to 80 per cent when the seaway is completed.

Shallow draft vessels along the lakes now carry 65 per cent of the export trade to the Ford Motor Corp., makers of business machines, Burroughs figures it will increase this figure to 90 per cent.

No city along the waterway has moved more grain than Chicago to develop a first-class port. The Chicago Port District Authority, an Illinois state agency, already has issued $24,000,000 worth of bonds and begun expansion of docks and warehouse facilities on a 200-acre tract. By 1960 Chicago plans to spend $125,000,000.

Last month voters in Cleveland approved an $8,000,000 bond issue to begin improvements along its whole lakefront.

The steel ity of Lorain, Ohio, is spending $10,000,000 for harbor improvements it needs even without the seaway. Once the harbor work now under way is completed, the city plans to go after more seaway trade.

At the opposite end of the lakes chain is Duluth, a city which first regarded the seaway with mixed emotions. Now fear of the seaway seems to have given way to a steady optimism about the future.

FEARED ORE SHIPMENTS

Duluth initially feared what would happen to the vast iron ranges of Minnesota once high-grade Labrador ore came easily accessible through the seaway.

Even now Harry Zinsmaster, president of a bread company and a director of the National Association of Manufacturers, says, "I believe the shipping of Labrador ore may do us a lot of harm."

A more optimistic view is taken by Charles G. Hagelin, port manager for Nicholson Transit Co. Hagelin believes that Duluth is "a natural gateway to the entire West" and predicts the city one day will become "a large intermediary point for incoming and outgoing shipments."

While there are free predictions that ore from Ontario's Steep Rock mines will cut Minnesota's exports, there are arguments that the expanding U.S. economy will be able to use all the ore it can get from any source for years.

Milwaukee is taking the development of the seaway in stride. For years the city has built constantly and well. The municipal harbor commission recently submitted a five-year improvement plan calling for the expenditure of $5,000,000 by the city council.

Along the Atlantic seaboard the coming of the seaway has been greeted glumly, by and large.

The New York Board of Trade estimates the project will affect the incomes of about 25 per cent of the people in the area of the Port of New York.

J. B. Highfield, Oshawa Hockey Club Pres., Dies

SARNIA (CP) — James Bernard Highfield, 69, former general manufacturing manager for General Motors of Canada and president of the Oshawa hockey club, died here Tuesday night.

Mr. Highfield retired in 1951 after 11 years as supervisor of manufacturing at GM plants in Oshawa and Windsor, and at Regina Industries Ltd., in Regina.

Born in Brantford, Ont., he studied engineering in New York before joining a pioneer auto firm, the Pierce-Arrow Company, in Buffalo.

After 15 years experience in United States plants, he moved to Tilbury, Ont., with the Canadian Top and Body Corporation.

Three years later he joined GM at their Walkerville, Ont., plant and moved to Oshawa in 1932.

One year after his retirement, Mr. Highfield moved to Sarnia where his son, Lt.-Col. B. J. Highfield, and his daughter, Mrs. Harold Morphey, live. Survivors include his widow.

Canada's Roads Much Improved During Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's roads and streets improved substantially in 1955 but there still is much to be done, Hon. Antonio Talbot, president of the Canadian Good Roads Association and Quebec minister of roads, reported today.

In a year-end review the association president said there now are 60 per cent more cars travelling Canada's surfaced highways than there were at the end of the war.

Vehicle registration in Canada rose by an estimated 265,000 or seven per cent this year over 1954. At the same time mileage of surfaced roads increased by 12,000 miles. Thus the number of cars for each mile of surfaced road rose to an estimated 18.6 this year compared with 18.9 in 1953.

Road expenditures by all governments this year will probably exceed an unprecedented $600,000,000, some $100,000,000 more than in 1954.

ADDITIONAL REVENUE

"Evidences are now appearing that the provinces are nearing a point where they can no longer finance ever-increasing road programs without gaining access to additional sources of revenue," the association president said.

He noted that during the year Nova Scotia and Newfoundland increased gasoline taxes two cents to 17 cents a gallon, the highest such rate in North America. Ontario was increasing license fees in 1956.

Mr. Talbot reported that ideal construction conditions prevailed throughout most of the country this year and building work continued into late fall and winter. As a result a majority of the provinces were able to complete their 1955 programs.

It was indicated that the high level of road building would continue in 1956, though steel shortages might present a problem to some builders. A shortage of engineers and skilled workmen continued to plague road building departments.

In Quebec, he said, a commission had been set up to study problems of steadily increasing traffic, particularly in the Montreal area. Ontario's road building program had been the largest in history with expenditures expected to be some $250,000,000.

"CLARIFYING LIGHT"

The Christian Science Monitor discusses the future of television in the field of education.

"Will the modern movie films, eventually replace the teacher personally present in his classroom?" it asks.

"Many a modest teacher," it continues, "has been tormented by doubts whether his instruction was doing anything that a textbook, perhaps written by a noted authority, could not do better. (There are teachers, unfortunately, who ask themselves that question).

"The answer lies in . . . . discussion . . . the interplay of ideas, the questions and answers, the friendly clash of opinions, which can bring clarifying light into otherwise unsuspected corners and sculpture hitherto misty and unformed thoughts."

The Monitor, in replying to its own query about the possible scope of television in the educational field of tomorrow, would appear to have provided an answer to it regarding the much wider scope, which may have bothered many of its readers.

Why is it that the process of learning so often seems to progress with a series of jumps, like a car whose accelerator rises finally under the foot of a first-time driver? And are not these leaps forward the result of that "clarifying light" to which the Monitor refers?

This light, according to the Monitor, is the result of "discussion", the interplay of ideas, the questions and answers, the friendly clash of opinions."

Looking back over our own educational progress, in side school and outside, we are likely to discover that those periods when our progress was smoothest were occasions when we were learning under the guidance of teachers who, others. They produced for ance of, not only having a fantastic supply of light, which smoothed the way, but also that leaps forward, out the process of learning, so that the leaps forward, while perhaps more frequent, were much more frequent.

It is not even certain that the people with whom we are learning need to know much about the subject in order to assist us. Often, for our mistakes is axiomatic; we can also learn by the mistakes of others.

Authority can inform us of the correct procedure and we can learn the rule by heart, but it is not until we are confronted by a typical striking example of the results of infraction of this rule that it suddenly comes alive for us and dwells with us, instead of having to be dredged up from the memory when the need arises.

The difficulty with the dredging process is that it is never automatic, that all too often the rule is not recalled until after it had been broken.

But all the Monitor has to say about the value of the interplay of ideas in the educational process does not explain why, even when no interplay is apparent, we should still, on many experience those sudden flashes of "clarifying light" after lengthy sojourns in the realm of "misty thoughts."

Flashes of light like this, though, are probably reserved for those who are impatient with their own dullness.

"Why am I so stupid?" wails the student. And suddenly stupidity vanishes.

Discussion, the interplay of ideas, the questions and answers, the friendly clash of opinions, these all help. But all these are useless, none of these produce clarifying light, unless there is something for them to ignite. . . . . that something exist, let them be ever so discordant with darkness, and books or television would ignite it in time. But a good teacher is a great time saver.

NEW TRAFFIC LAW PENALTIES

Down in New Jersey, the state legislature has before it a bill which would permit magistrates to punish traffic law violators by ordering them to serve sentences on basis of stated periods of imprisonment to blood banks, instead of paying fines or going to jail.

A few months ago one New Jersey magistrate imposed such penalties, but later were appealed. It is now proposed to pass a law to make the magistrate's inspiration legal. The state's brief experience with the scheme is reported to have shown that many persons preferred to do duty or to donate blood rarely came into court again as traffic offenders.

One's enthusiasm for a form of punishment which would actually be useful is somewhat dampened by that dismal report that traffic offenders dislike this treatment. Apparently this fact is being advanced as an additional reason why the program should be made legal. Reduction of traffic offences is desirable, but we are not so sure that this would be adequate compensation for the "disillusioning knowledge that people might rather go to jail than serve their fellow men. Fortunately we are not yet compelled to make any such discouraging conclusion. The period during which the New Jersey program will be kept under test is too brief to justify any firm conclusions. Moreover, it is not evident whether New Jersey's motorists' preference for "paying fines or going to jail" is not, in fact, merely a preference for paying fines, which is understandable and forgivable, if not commendable.

As for the man who would sooner go to jail than serve as a hospital orderly or donate blood, his health permitting, the right place for him is most definitely in jail—the longer the term the better.

JUST FOLKS

THREE CARES

'One was wailing the loss of gold.
Dismal and grim was the tale he told:
How could tomorrow he look upon
With his life's work crushed and his treasure gone?
Yet, buildings might rise on his barren soil,
For God had not taken his strength to toil.

Another man came with a downcast face
To tell his woes in the market place.
He had bought his goods when the price was high.
And today the people refused to buy.
Yet should failure come, there would still remain
Life and the strength to fight again.

But a third there was and his heart was sore
And at night he solemnly paced the floor;
And all day long in his office place
Where he toiled 'mid new but a sick child's face.
And he prayed to his God: "Take fame and wealth
But save my baby and give her health."

Miss Madeline Seeney was here from Toronto to spend Christmas at the home of Chatham St.

Miss Caroline Storis, of Picton, spent Christmas here with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mulligan.

Genevieve Citizen Gives Christmas Dinner to Transients.

Through the generosity of a local citizen fifteen transients sat down to an excellent Christmas dinner at a local restaurant at noon on Christmas Day. Annually this philanthropic citizen calls at the police station on Christmas Eve and hands in a standing order with Chief Kidd to have him send all transients, who sleep at the station on the night of December 24, and also those who may appear at the station in quest of a meal on Christmas Day, to a local restaurant where they would be well fed at his expense. Nine transients slept at the station and they were informed of the invitation by Chief Kidd when breakfast was served. Three and six transients turned out and they joined the dinner party. The good citizen is too modest to allow his name to be made known and shuns all praise for his kind deeds which leave cheer and good will among those most needy among us. The transients sincerely appreciated the kindness of their benefactor.

Canada Speaks Up

(Montreal Gazette)

The Canadian Government made the right decision in July, 1954, when it agreed to take part in the International Truce Supervisory Commission in Indo-China.

Canada has been able to speak up and to tell the truth at the truce talks happened, their two partners on the commission — Poland and India — were bound the truth something they prefer, for their own reasons, to ignore. We refer to the decision, actual conditions in Indo-China might prevent the Indo-China truce from ever have been disclosed.

Last May, in speaking to the House of Commons, Mr. Lester B. Pearson stated that the Canadian government of North Viet Nam was systematically evading its obligations under the Communist North Viet Nam and non-Communist South Viet Nam. Any person who wished to move from one half to the other should be free to do so

Ely Culbertson, Bridge Expert, Dies in Vermont

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP)—Ely Culbertson, 56, who helped make the card pastime of bridge an international rage, died Tuesday night.

Death was attributed to heart failure due to insufficient oxygen.

He had been suffering from a shortness-of-breath condition for several years. He became seriously ill last May, then recovered, but two weeks ago he was stricken again. Members of his family said that it became so difficult for him to breathe that he spent the last four nights sitting up. His death was discovered by a ward, a 15-year-old Mexican girl, when she went to wake him for dinner shortly before 7 p.m.

The internationally famous authority on the game of bridge devoted most of his time in the middle years to a "world federation" peace plan which had begun to take form when he was a youthful revolutionist.

EFFECTIVE SYSTEM

Culbertson was credited with developing an effective contract bridge system. He promoted it with exhibitions, contests, lectures and books.

At the peak of the game's popularity, Culbertson and his first wife grossed an estimated $500,000 a year.

Culbertson and his first wife, Josephine Murphy Dillon, an attractive widow and bridge teacher, were married in 1922. Two children were born to them. She divorced him in 1938, charging mental cruelty.

Although divorced, they continued their business partnership under the name of The Culbertson Inc.

Culbertson married Dorothy Rentata Baehne of New York in 1947 when he was 48 and she 31. The second wife obtained a divorce in 1954.

FOUNDED FEDERATION

Culbertson founded the World Federation, Inc., in 1942 to promote a plan for what he termed freedom from war through harnessing the means of waging war rather than attacking the causes of war.

He was born in Romania. His father was an American and had gone there in search of oil. His mother was the daughter of a Cossack general.

Culbertson lived in a Cossack village until he was six years old. He later attended Geneva University and L'Ecole des Sciences Economiques et Politiques, Paris, before entering Yale.

As a youth, Culbertson spent some years as a bobo and as a revolutionist in Mexico, and at one time was expelled from Spain for associating with anarchists.

HEAVY GUN BATTLE

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The heaviest gun battle in a month erupted this morning between Nationalist Chinese on Quemoy and Communists on nearby Red-held territory. Official Nationalist reports said the Reds lobbed more than 500 shells onto Quemoy between 8 and 10 a. m. and the Nationalists hit back hard, particularly at Amoy.

TITO VISITS EGYPT

SUEZ, Egypt (AP) — Yugoslavia's President Tito arrived here today aboard the training ship Galeb for a 10-day state visit to Egypt. He boarded a special train for Cairo to meet Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser. A special delegation headed by Col. Hussein Shafie, minister of social affairs, welcomed Tito. The Yugoslav president has just ended a state visit to Ethiopia.

Federal Spending On Arms About Figure of 1954

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal spending on arms in 1955 was virtually unchanged from 1954, though orders placed for future delivery declined, Production Minister Howe said Tuesday night.

"At the same time, the striking increase in the Canadian gross national product during the year has meant that the over-all impact of the defence procurement program on the economy has been slightly reduced," he added in his year-end review.

Mr. Howe gave no figures, but his department's annual report published last spring showed federal expenditures on defence procurement in 1954 dropped to $1,009,000,000 from $1,207,000,000 in 1953.

In 1954 the gross national product—value of goods and services produced—amounted to $24,000,000,000 This year it is estimated to have risen to $26,400,000,000. Thus while the economy has expanded, a smaller proportion has gone into arms production.

The annual report also showed that in 1954 the value of orders placed for future delivery totalled $1,221,000,000, up from $818,836,000 in 1953. There was no official indication of how much of a decline took place this year.

Stan Lee Reaches 80th Birthday

On Monday evening, a birthday party was held in honor of Mr. Stan Lee of Tweed, at the home of his niece, Mrs. Hardy Prindle, Forin Street, when 26 members of his family including nieces, nephews, great nieces and great nephews were present making practically an unbroken family chain with but two exceptions, that of Mrs Prindle's mother, who passed on some years ago, and an infant son of Everett and Mable Prindle.

The evening was spent in a social time, after which Miss Hazel Prindle presented the gifts to the guest of honor who graciously thanked the donors, both for their fine remembrances of his 80th milestone and for the kind wishes which accompanied them.

Later, refreshments were served which included a birthday cake decorated in the golden "20" and trimmed in Christmas motifs, a donation of his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Vertal Prindle of Belleville. The candles were lit by his great nephew and great niece, Mr. Wellon Prindle and Mrs. Morris Park and blown out by Mr. Lee. Flash pictures were taken of Mr. Lee cutting his birthday cake.

Many were the good wishes for a happy and healthy 80th milestone.

Going Shopping?

Perish the thought! It will not or, rather I should say, I dare not mention the word shopping this week. We will be, and should be, quite content to express the hope that at least 99 per cent of your shopping was successful, that the turkey or goose was delicious and that everyone enjoyed the feasts of so much strenuous shopping. Good shopping for 1956!

You have no doubt heard about the courageous rescue of young Trenton lad from the icy waters of the Trent River. It happened a few days before Christmas when the boy fell through the ice and was fortunate enough to be noticed by a Belleville man who travels for a grocery warehouse firm. A friend of mine who knows Mr. Jack Willshire of Belleville told me the following story about Mr. Willshire's modesty. My friend approached Mr. Willshire exclaiming, "I want to shake your hand and I am proud to know a man with as much calculated courage." Mr. Willshire answered quietly, "Oh, anybody would do like same thing."

The friend remarked to me "If that isn't the prize understatement of the year, I do not know what is. I don't believe that I would have the courage to crawl on my stomach out over the waters of the Trent at that point, on the ice that would not hold a 14 lb. year old boy." Mr. Willshire did that and saved the boy's life from the strong current which was came in and near the ice. My friend insisted that Mr. Willshire's heroic act was entitled to tangible recognition, and he started it rolling.

The New Year is fast approaching and over the air we listen to many statements for the season from world leaders. In the latest of peace, which is so close to the hearts of millions, we noticed the following statement made recently by the Prime Minister of India, in the House of the People. He said, "We are not strong in military or material sense. But we are strong in our faith in our people. In this world of fear and apprehension, I should like to say with all humility that we are not afraid and we wish to be friendly with others."

We would be remiss if we permitted the year to end before mentioning the lovely picture of the frosty city, our city of Belleville. It is indeed a friendly scene at night, a picture of cheer and Christmas hospitality. The bright decorations beckon the wayfarer and gladden the heart of the stranger in our midst. I wonder if the season's friendliness couldn't be called the truth of Yuletide, and if it can be so called, then why couldn't we paraphrase the words of a couple of lines I saw on Boxing Day... "Yet truth sometimes will lend her noblest fires, And decorate the verse herself inspires."

Certainly, the decorated home of Belleville at night are an inspiring sight.

Last year, on July 14, Mr. Robert Saunders, C.B.E., Q.C., was called to tragically later, addressed an American audience at Chautauqua, N.Y., and gave some very pertinent facts about Canada and Ontario. At some future date we will quote from this address which was crammed with interesting information, but this afternoon we would like to repeat his closing sentence, "In my opinion, it behooves us all wherever we live, in either Canada or the United States, each and every morning to thank God that we are free and honored to live on the North American Continent." If we have it in mind to make any resolutions for 1956, we might be worth our while to ponder the prayer suggested by the late Robert Saunders. Our privileges as Canadians can survive only as long as we accept our responsibilities as Canadians in at least equal measure.

A week ago Sunday, This & That spoke of the pleasure of receiving Christmas cards. One of the nicest which came to us this year was from one of Belleville's most respected senior citizens, Mrs. W. C. Mikel. There was a gracious note on it commending This & That for devotion to the interests of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital and of those who have worked so hard for the new wing.

Mrs. Mikel spend a few months each winter in Toronto, but in that period, she always makes it a point to be in Belleville for important special meetings of the Belleville Red Cross and the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of which she is the earliest continuous member. Those organizations are very dear to her heart and it is the loyalty and devotion of men like Mrs. Mikel that keep our community efforts at such a high level.

Origin of Yuletide Customs Discussed At W.S. Club

The origins of Christmas customs were explained to the members of the Women's Study Guild at its December meeting, held Monday night at the home of Mrs. A. Fewtrell, Bridge Street, West.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of the president, Mrs. Seldon. The worship service, conducted by Mrs. Fewtrell and Mrs. Stanton was on the subject, "What Does Christmas Mean to Me?" and included the reading of the Nativity story from the gospel of St. Luke.

Mrs. Beresford, who was in charge of the first part of the program, discussed the origin of many of the Christmas symbols and personalities. She stated that among people of ancient cultures, mid-winter has nationality been a time for family festivals. The Jews had the Festival of Lights; the Scandinavians, the Frost King celebrations; the Romans the Feast of Saturn; the Egyptians the Fast of Oris.

"Many of the symbols of their feast days are present in modified form as part of our Christian celebration honoring the birth of Jesus. From the Jews we get the Christmas candles; from the northern European people, the Christmas tree; from the Druids the mistletoe;

"Santa Claus is the modern personification of the Wise Men who bore gifts to the Infant Jesus. From Asia Minor, where he originated, the legend of St. Nicholas spread to northern Europe, England and Russia. The Santa legend appealed particularly to the Laps, who gave him his sleigh and eight reindeer.

MEDIEVAL CHURCH

"The medieval church originated the use of bells, the star and the crib at Christmas. Christmas cards were first used in England in 1843 and began as special decorated calling cards used during the Christmas season."

Mrs. Beresford closed the program by discussing the true significance of Christmas and what it should mean. She stressed that, amid the jollity of the holiday season, we should not lose sight of the fact that Christmas was instituted to celebrate the gift from, and of, His Beloved Son.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Wishart.

Christmas Concerts

EGGLETON UNITED CHURCH

MADOC JCT. — On Wednesday night the annual Christmas entertainment was held in Eggleston United Church with a large and appreciative audience present.

A splendid program of choruses, recitations, drills, and plays was presented by the pupils of Eggleston school, S.S. No. 34, Sidney, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Marlene Armstrong with Mrs. Bruce Stapley pianist for the songs, drills and Christmas carols.

PROGRAM

The Rev. R. C. Chapman was chairman for the following program:

The junior pupils took part in an acrostic of welcome, after which the whole school sang "Merry Christmas Everyone." A dialogue, "How Do You Spell Cat?" was given by Lois Danford and Ricky Phillips. Five older boys, Paul Bridges, Allen Reide, Garry Phillips, Sammy Danford and Grant Reid sang "White Christmas."

At this time, Mr. Chapman showed a film, "The Littlest Camel," a picture based on the Christmas story.

An amusing play, "The Naughty Mouse," was presented by Norma Clarke, Shirley Prest, Audrey Stapley and Ruth Ann Reide.

Sandra Chambers favored with a piano solo and little Wayne McMullen recited "Twas the Night One"; a song, "Silver Bells" was sung by a group of girls.

Several of the younger girls took part in a humorous skit, "The Doll's Christmas Tree." A song, "The Toyman," was sung by the junior pupils with Kenneth Danford as Santa's Helper. A Christmas recitation was given by Barbara Chambers and a humorous play, "Malvina Entertains," was presented by Shirley Prest, Robert Clarke, Paul Bridges, Annamae Clarke, Isabel Prest, Phillips and Archie Madill.

Kenneth Danford recited "A Box," a nursery rhyme solo, "Hark The Herald Angels Sing," was contributed by the primary school string. Allen Reide gave a humorous monologue, "Christmas Shopping"; a song, "The Milkmaids," was given by six little girls, Janice Dunn, Lois Danford, Beverley Stapley, Sandra Clarke, Diane Prest and Marilyn Stapley, dressed with sun bonnets and frilled aprons and carrying tiny milk pails and stools. Archie Madill gave a recitation, "Archie's Bedroom."

Seven girls, dressed in white, sang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." This was followed by a "Tromp Drill," by seven boys, dressed in suitable costumes.

Mrs. Milkmaid, as given by six little girls, Janice Dunn, Lois Danford, Beverley Stapley, Sandra Clarke, Diane Prest and Marilyn Stapley, dressed with sun bonnets and frilled aprons and carrying tiny milk pails and stools. Archie Madill gave a recitation, "Archie's Bedroom."

Seven girls, dressed in white, sang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." This was followed by a "Tromp Drill," by seven boys, dressed in suitable costumes.

Santa Claus arrived on the scene and was sung by Sharon Reide, Audrey Stapley, Shirley Prest, Ruth Stapley and Annamae Clarke.

An amusing dialogue, "Mr. Piper Gives a Present," was presented by Sharon Reide and Johnny Madill.

Song by all the pupils, "Christmas in Killarney."

"The Gift to Jesus" was given in parts with the following pupils, Sheila Clarke, Ruth Stapley, Allen Reide, Ralph Stapley, Isobel Prest, Annamae Clarke, Beverley Stapley, Ricky Phillips and Archie Madill each reciting a verse.

Little Sharon Bailey gave a short recitation and the senior pupils sang two Christmas carols, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," and "Joy to the World! the Lord is Come."

Isobel Prest recited "Telephoning Santa." A beautiful pantomime, "Holy Night," was presented with the manger scene, angels in white, and the shepherds.

Ivan Reide gave a recitation, "Goodnight," after which all the pupils joined in singing "Here Comes Santa Claus."

At this time word was received that Santa had arrived and eager eyes watched the door to get the first glimpse of Santa, dressed in the proverbial red suit and flowing white beard.

Assisted by some of the older pupils, Santa distributed the prettily wrapped gifts by the beautifully decorated tree with its twinkling lights. Santa also gave each girl and boy a bag of candy.

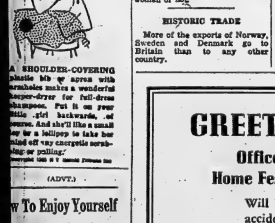
NEW GLAMOUR FOR GRAY TRESSES

There is nothing so flattering to the older woman as that gray hair well cared for and beautifully colored.

With an much emphasis being put hair dyes and color rinses these days, it must come to many that practically no woman who has any hair wants to keep it that way. But this is far from the truth. Many women who have had a pristine shade would be only too happy to leave it gray. They know that a well-cared for and beautifully tinted, there is nothing quite so charming as a silvery hair. The trouble, however, is that it frequently won't stay "silvery." Yellow or sandy, for instance, dressed in instant rinses of blue or purple if they are to be removed and there are many women who don't care for blonde or purple tones and who can't do for the beautiful tones.



There is now, however, a new one for gray hair which keeps it "true." And not only gray but with a brilliantly alive hairs which glamorize a silver crown as it's never been glamorized before. This new temporary hair coloring comes in three shades — "white sapphire," "silver diamond" and "black pearl." These used in varying combinations and diluted with plain hot water completely replace the need for almost indoor bleaching, powdering and other colorings which may have proved frustrating in the past.

While the rinse falls into the category of temporary hair-coloring, it differs from other temporaries in its unusual long lasting qualities. It will not rub off on comb, towels or bed clothing—it will wash off, but only in the rain true from one shampoo to the next.

Since it is not a dirt or a bleach, it does not require the base use developing agents like hydrogen peroxide. It simply diluted with hot water and applied at the shampoo rinse to freshly shampooed hair. The entire process takes only a few minutes longer than a regular shampoo.

In addition to making it look better, the lively rinse removes the dull, lifeless feel that so often accompanies gray hair. It conditions the hair to color it and makes it easier to comb and set. It never leaves the hair sticky or tacky, and there is no aftercare or setting rinse. It gives a pearl-white effect to white hairs, a silvery cast to moderately gray hairs; and a pale smoky tone to salt and pepper hair.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE ARE TWO QUESTIONS THAT YOU SHOULD SETTLE AT ONCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am a man of 25, and in love with a woman, 28, who is divorced and has two children. I know this woman is in love with me, too, and I feel we could be very happy together but, because I have never been married, I am, frankly, wondering how I would make out. I suddenly find myself with a ready-made family, which I am, as I have said- really in love, and also fond of these children. I do have qualms as to whether or not the adjustment might be too difficult.

Then there is another thing that has disturbed me somewhat. This is that my mother, with whom I have always lived thinks I should not marry this woman because she failed in her first marriage.

As you can gather, I am very much confused about the whole matter, and I hope you can help set my thinking straight.

— John H.

Dear John H.:

First let me ask you this: How does your mother know this woman "failed" in her first marriage? The failure may have been entirely on the husband's side—unless, of course, you have information which you have not given me that would prove either.

I might add, however, that even if it did fail contribute to the difficulties that brought about the divorce, it also is the worthwhile process to assume—you believe her to be, you might add its confident that she has learned enough from the first experience to do a better job next time. It is not at all unusual for a second marriage, whether it follows a divorce or the death of husband or wife, to be happier and more successful than the first one, just because the one who is remarrying knows what mistakes he or she made before and how to avoid them in future.

Also, in view of the fact that your mother was willing to bring up the point about this woman having "failed" in her marriage, I think it would be well for you to give some thought to how you will keep her from interfering, if you do get married. For I have a feeling that her objection to your marriage may be dictated far more by her reluctance to lose her son than by a belief that you have chosen a woman who is a poor risk as a wife.

You must remember that your mother would have given your mother far more of your exclusive attention than most mothers get, and it would not be surprising if she intends—perhaps, even, subconsciously—to put up a fight to hold on to you. I advise you strongly to keep this in mind. Take a very firm stand against any maternal meddling with your plans, or with your marriage if the plans should lead to that.

And speaking of the subconscious, I also advise you to ask yourself if your apprehensions about taking on the responsibility of a "ready-made family might not be a camouflage for a hidden reluctance on your own part to surrender the freedom of your carefree bachelorhood. Or could it be possible that you may be just a little opposed to bringing up another man's children?

Once you have faced in an honest realistic manner both your mother's attitude and your own, you will then be in a position to see your way more clearly. But I do urge you to get these questions definitely settled in your own mind before you marry, for, unless you dispose of them right now, for good and all, they may rise up to plague you later, whether you marry the woman or not.

Christmas Concert

BROOKDALE SCHOOL

On the evening of December 20, the pupils of Brookdale School with their teacher, Mrs. Albert Clare, and their music supervisor, Mrs. Harry MacDonald, held their annual Christmas concert. In spite of the cold weather, the school was packed to capacity.

PROGRAM

Mr. Elmer Smith acted as chairman for the following numbers: two choruses, "All Together" and "The Gulding Star", followed by a welcome recitation by Marlene Leidtke. The chairman made a brief address after which Muriel Ashby gave a catchy recitation; the Juniors sang three choruses, "No, No, November," "Up on the Housetop", "Six Little Ducks"; a short play, "A Slight Mistake". Jean Rose entertained with a piano solo; three senior boys put on a short dialogue, "The Interrupted Speech" Grades 3 and 4 sang "Toyland", and the Senior girls presented the dialogue, "The Naughty Mouse". Jean Rose played a musical number, followed by a recitation "I'll Do Myself Again", by Freddie Phillips. Jean Anderson favored with a piano solo after which several of the seniors put on an interesting play called, "The Vicious Circle". The seniors sang three pretty choruses: "Forty - second Psalm" in 2 parts, "While Shepherds Watched" in 4 parts; "Joy to the World" in 3 parts.

These introduced the religious play, "The Shining Light"; after this, Marilyn Phillips rendered two piano solos "Winter Wonderland" and "Here Comes Santa Claus."

At this time in the program a silver collection was taken up by two former pupils, Andy Carr and Kenneth Thompson who also had looked after the curtains for the evening.

Now came the most exciting part of the program — the draw for the beautiful tiered Christmas cake made and donated by Mrs. Alton Kellar and on which the children had sold tickets. Master Billy Duddin picked out a ticket which proclaimed Arnold Dodds the winner of the cake.

After the singing of the National Anthem, Santa arrived and in his jolly manner distributed the gifts and treats from the tree.

GOOD MANNERS

PROPER TO WAIVE FORMAL REPLY

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My niece is to have a large, formal church wedding and with a very large reception following, in a private suite of the Lakeshore hotel here. The reception invitation had "R.s.v.p." engraved on it, and so I wrote the customary formal note of acceptance. I knew that the bride's mother wanted to know just how many "acceptances" arrived, and how many "regrets," so that she could figure out as near as possible the number of places to order, as the reception was to be followed by a seated dinner. My husband and I decided that our sending a formal reply would be helpful for this "computing." However, now we have been told by several relatives that we should not have sent a formal reply to a place relative, that we should have either telephoned or written a personal note, just really for the propriety about this? — A.E.

You did just the right thing, and for the right reason. The bride's family has one container for "Acceptances" and one for "Regrets," and as each reply arrives, it is put into its proper container. So it is really most helpful and very practical to have formal replies from all invited . . . then no uncertainty about having to remember to record telephone-calls or any such by-note. Very often, however, such a close relative as you are, after sending the formal reply, writes a lovely little note of best wishes to the bride-to-be, telling of happy anticipation of coming to the wedding and reception.

The Day After

By Mary Moore

Buildon all of the Christmas gifts you received over the past weekend some of you will have extra and beloved dividends like me—your loved ones at home for the holidays. Pete's here and does he ever knock my right eyeball into a cocked hat! He wants to eat all the time—and I love feeding him.

I could go on for hours about our eating fun in this house for the past few days, but duty calls. Two of our readers want me to pull some rabbit recipes out of my hat. Almina W. (who lives at "Carrying Place") writes ". . . will you give me some help in the way of cooking and flavoring rabbit?" "A Hunter's Wife" asks "How may rabbit be prepared in order to be a tasty dish? I do not like to have fried things . . . my brother used to make a rabbit pie that the family thought was a delicacy."

The Hassenpfeffer of the Pennsylvania Dutch tops the list:

HASSENPFEFFER (a fricassee of rabbit)

Cut cleaned rabbit into serving pieces. If desired, cut meat from bones. Cover with 2 cups of water with equal parts vinegar and water to which add 1 sliced onion, 1 whole clove, 1 bay leaf, 2 or 3 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Cover and allow to stand 2 days in cool place. Drain and dry rabbit and reserve 1 cup of the marinade, straining out the spices. Sauté rabbit pieces in 4 tablespoons each butter and chopped bacon until golden on all sides. Add the 1 cup liquid, cover and simmer about 1 hour until tender. Just before serving add 1 cup sour (or sweet) cream, and if desired, 1-2 cup sliced sauteed mushrooms. One 3 1-2 lb. rabbit will serve 6. Some folks spell Hassenpfeffer with one "s".

RABBIT PIE

Proceed as above but be sure to remove rabbit meat from bones before placing in the marinade for two days. Gently saute drained and dried rabbit pieces in butter until golden brown, but dry three minutes before it is finished add 1-3 lb. cleaned, sliced mushrooms and gently saute them too until they are limp, but not brown. To the pan add 1-2 cup of the strained marinade and 1 1-2 cups milk (or cream) for 1 3-lb. rabbit and simmer covered for 1-2 hour. Remove from heat and pour into baking dish. Add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste, and 1 cup each partially cooked fresh frozen green peas and coarsely cut raw carrots, with a little bit of their liquid and cover with English Pastry— 2 cups unsifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 7-8 to 1 cup shortening, 1-3 cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 egg yolk. Cut shortening into sifted dry ingredients—using only half of it. Dissolve remainder in hot water. Add lemon juice to yolk. Mix both well into dry ingredients. Let stand 1 hour. Roll out to fit top of baking dish, gashing well. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 1-2 hour. Double amounts for pastry for 4 or 8 individual pies.

Canada Laid Groundwork For Breaking Long Membership Deadlock in United Nations

By JACK REST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Thanks to Canadian initiative, 16 countries gained admission to the UN this year. Many of them had waited outside for years.

The mass entry in the closing days of the 1955 General Assembly provided the biggest influx since UN's founding 10 years ago and boosted membership in the international organization to 76.

Canada laid the groundwork for breaking the long membership deadlock by successfully sponsoring a resolution calling for the package admission of 18 countries, five of them Communist. In the Security Council, Japan and Communist Outer Mongolia were lopped off.

Besides membership, Canada's UN delegates figured prominently in disarmament and atomic energy matters during 1955. Canada co-sponsored resolutions providing for the early implementation of disarmament schemes, the establishment of an atoms-for-peace agency and a multi-nation technical committee to study radiation effects.

The membership debates were perhaps the busiest that have taken place at the UN since the early days of the Korean war.

Canada's plan appeared to go up in smoke one day when National-ist China carried out a long-standing threat to use the Security Council veto against Outer Mongolia. In retaliation, Russia's Already A. Sobolev shot up his hand 13 times to veto the Western-sponsored candidates.

Next day, however, in a reversal of its "all-or-nothing" attitude, Russia proposed to sacrifice Outer Mongolia for Japan, and withdrew its vetoes of all the other Western candidates. The revised resolution was adopted without opposition and received the General Assembly's prompt endorsement.

In the assembly that night, after final action had been taken on the 18, Canada's leading role in formulating the compromise "package" was recognized when its chief delegate, Realtà Minister Paul Martin, was called on to make a statement. Delegate after delegate later paid tribute to Canada's initiative.

The new members are Italy, Spain, Austria, Ireland, Finland, Portugal, Ceylon, Laos, Cambodia, Libya, Nepal, Jordan, Albania, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

Twice during 1955, at London in the spring and at New York in the fall, Canada took part in meetings of the UN disarmament committee's big - power sub-committee. The record of these discussions was, for the most part, discouraging. Western delegates tried without success to get from Russia an undertaking on the amount of arms control she would permit.

In the end, the Western Big Three and Canada got the General Assembly's overwhelming endorsement of a resolution calling for early implementation of President Eisenhower's open skies" arms inspection and the Russian proposal to establish control posts at strategic centres.

Early in the atoms-for-peace debate, Canada began acting as mediator between the United States and India, which claimed that the international agency as conceived in an eight-power draft statute would be tied to the "colonial corporation."

Under the draft, Canada and the Big Four would become virtually permanent members of the agency's board of governors.

Agreement was reached to add India, Brazil, Russia and Czechoslovakia to the list of eight sponsors, which will meet in Washington next month to negotiate the agency's articles of incorporation.

Related to the atoms-for-peace debate was the discussion of radiation, during which experts from Canada at the Chalk River atomic establishment acted as advisers to the Canadian delegation. Canada and all the great powers will be represented on an international committee of scientists which will study and co-ordinate the effects which radiation has on man and his environment.

The 1955 assembly pointed up the great gulf which still divides Western countries from the so-called "anti-colonial" bloc. Canadian delegates watched in dismay as first France, then South Africa walked out in protest against what they considered meddling in their internal affairs.

On both occasions, Martin put out a statement reflecting concern over the effect which precipitate action by the Asian-African group "I have on the future of the UN."

During the long-drawn-out battle between Yugoslavia and the Philippines for a non-permanent seat on the Security Council, Canada went along with Yugoslavia in opposition to the U.S. candidate.

The Russian - backed Yugoslav candidacy was based on a 1946 "gentlemen's agreement" which gave Eastern Europe a seat. Canadian delegates reasoned that if this agreement were scrapped it would jeopardize the Commonwealth seat. The seat is due to go to Canada in 1957.

Canada's Maj-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, who holds what has been described as the toughest mediation job in the world, was reappointed in August to another year as UN truce chief in Palestine.

Twice during the year—following the outbreaks at Gaza in February and at El Auja in October—Gen. Burns made hurried trips to New York for consultations. He reported to the Security Council on Gaza.

'Joe Palooka' Strip Creator Takes Own Life

NEW YORK (AP)—Ham Fisher, creator of the popular comic-strip hero, Joe Palooka, was found Tuesday night in a friend's studio. Nearby were two notes indicating suicide, police reported.

Fisher, 54, whose full name was Hammond Edward Fisher, wrote in the notes of failing eyesight and a diabetic condition. He said he had swallowed some pills.

The body was discovered about 9 p.m. in the studio of Moe Leff, where Fisher had been working lately during his friend's absence from town. The discovery was made by another friend, Morris Weiss of Englewood, N.J., whom Fisher's wife, Marilyn, had called after becoming alarmed over not hearing from her husband.

Police said Fisher's mother had received a call from him early in the afternoon, and that he spoke at length with sentiment and feeling. The time of death was set at about four hours later, around 5 p.m.

WAS SELF-TAUGHT

Fisher, whose strip was syndicated at the time of his death in some 800 newspapers in the United States and Canada, was a self-taught cartoonist. He practised his art in spare time while working as a reporter and advertising salesman on his hometown newspaper, the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Record.

The Joe Palooka strip was started in 1930 after Fisher came to New York. Joe began as a not-too-bright and guileless young fighter but later developed into a gentle, well-spoken chap devoted to sportsmanship and fair play.

Early in his comic-strip life Joe won the make-believe world heavyweight championship and in 25 years never lost it. He never aged either.

The strip brought Fisher wealth and fame. He became vice-president of the Lancaster and Chester Railroad and a director of the American Title and Mortgage Co.

During the war he turned out numerous comic books for the armed forces and was awarded a number of citations.

Steel Production Edge Over Reds Much Wider

NEW YORK (AP) — The free world widened its superiority in steel production over Russia and the Communist world in 1955, says Iron Age, the American trade weekly.

The free world poured 223,000,000 tons in 1955 compared with 68,000,000 tons by the Reds, whereas in 1954 the West produced 182,000,000 tons compared with 62,000,000 by Communist lands, it says.

A survey by Iron Age shows that the pro-Western powers of Europe and Asia, and the United States, boosted their steel output in 1955 by 22.5 per cent over 1954 production while Russia and its satellites increased their production by only 10.5 per cent.

Under the impetus of the biggest U.S. increased its production 32 per cent while Russia gained only 10 per cent.

Mendes-France Tangles With Red Hecklers

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS (AP) — Former premier Pierre Mendes-France tangled with Communist hecklers Tuesday night in his first major campaign speech here. He shouted them down to reject their demands for a "popular front" alliance after the Jan. 2 election of a new National Assembly.

Mendes-France, leader of a left-ist "republican front" of Radicals and Socialists had invited all political leaders opposing him to debate the issues. Only the Communist party boss, Jacques Duclos, showed up, backed by a cheering section conspicuous among the 6,000 excited Parisians on hand to hear and heckle.

Thousands of others milling around outside made several attempts to break into the crowded meeting hall, and smashed one of its big glass doors.

Mendes-France threw out of the premiership on a vote of confidence last February, is trying to stage a major political comeback in the general elections. His bitterest rival in his own Radical (moderate) party, Premier Edgar Faure, called for the balloting four months ahead of the constitutional schedule over the opposition of the ex-premier and several other potent political leaders.

Red hecklers shouting "popular front" and "unity" interrupted Mendes-France for as much as 10 minutes at a time. But he pulled open his tie and collar and shouted back at the loudspeaker system that he and the Socialists allied with him wanted none of the Reds or their program.

He was particularly critical of the Red demand that the French quit Algeria, torn by nationalist violence. Such a withdrawal, he said, would only result in the massacre of the million - odd Frenchmen living there.

WANTS ELECTIONS

Instead, Mendes-France advocated elections after six months in the North African territory, with the interim used to create a new psychological climate, to persuade the Algerian people that a peaceful solution is possible and that we can seek it together."

Duclos in reply charged that the fighting in Algeria had started during Mendes-France's premiership. He declared: "Three months after the end of the war in Indochina, you started the war in Algeria."

When Duclos asked why Mendes-France had not gone to Algeria to investigate the situation, the ex-premier shook his finger at the Communist chief and declared:

"I was about to go to Algeria when a question was raised in Parliament about our North African policy and the government was called on with your help. You must share the responsibility for the loss of hundreds of lives in Algeria."

Herculean Clean-Up Task Facing Northern California After Fortnight of Rain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Northern California faced the herculean task of cleaning up after the worst floods in its history as threats of further danger diminished today before the first generally fair weather in two weeks.

But the rising toll of known deaths is up to 34, and no one knows how many more bodies may be found. Estimates of those missing and possibly dead range from 19 to 35 or more.

Heroic work of United States army, navy, air force and coast guard men who manned boats, trucks, amphibians, helicopters and planes cut the loss of life by hundreds as they worked constantly during the long siege.

Damage estimates rose to $150,000,000 as receding flood waters permitted new assessments of the inundated areas. The army corps of engineers said that at the peak of the floods more than 1,000,000 acres were under water.

The weather bureau Tuesday night, in its weekly summary, reported that as much as 31 inches of rain fell last week in north coastal California, and that floods all the way from the Oregon line to Visalia, 500 miles south, were the worst the state had ever experienced.

One Man Killed, Three Injured, Train Hits Car

TRING JUNCTION, Que. (CP)—One man was killed and two or three others were injured today when a passenger train and a freight collided near this town, about 50 miles southwest of Quebec. The victim and those injured were members of the passenger train's crew.

No passengers were injured in the head-on collision of the Quebec Central Railway trains. The accident occurred about one mile from the railway station. The injured, all able to walk, were treated by a doctor here.

A light snow was falling at the time of the accident.

Both trains remained on the track following the collision, indicating that the impact was slight. The freight train was made up of 15 cars and the passenger train of three cars.

"Jest a Second"

"No, no accident. These bangles are heavy."

Man of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Time magazine has chosen Harlow Curtice, president of General Motors, as its 1955 "man of the year."

Curtice, "in a job that required it assumed the responsibility of leadership for American business," the magazine says in its Jan. 2 issue, out today.

The Time article recalls that Curtice reflected his confidence in the economy by announcing a $1,000,000,000 GM plant expansion program early in 1954 at a time when there was gloomy talk of the post-war boom ending.

Mother of Two Is Held on Murder Count

LINDSAY (CP)—A mother of five children, whom police have exonerated in the dying words of her husband, Tuesday was charged with murder in connection with a Christmas Day shooting.

Earl Scriver, 39, died in hospital Monday, 24 hours after being shot. Mrs. June Scriver, 38, is scheduled to appear in court Friday in this town 20 miles west of Peterborough.

Police said Mrs. Scriver told them she pointed a 12-gauge shotgun at her husband because he was drunk and shouted at the children. She said she didn't want him to spoil their Christmas.

Mrs. Scriver said she had meant only to frighten her husband and that the gun, which had a sawn-off stock, was hard to handle. Her hand must have slipped, she said and the gun accidentally touched the trigger; discharging the weapon.

Police said a shell in the breech automatically cocked the hammer of the weapon. The shooting was at the Scriver farm near Coboconk, 20 miles north of here.

After being shot, Mr. Scriver staggered to his truck, collapsing in the cab. Mrs. Scriver said she dragged her husband back to the house and called a doctor.

She told police her husband frequently shouted at her two children by a previous marriage and punished them without reason after he had been drinking.

At the hospital Mr. Scriver received transfusions and talked to police before he died. They said he absolved his wife from blame.

Mrs. Scriver's children, aged 12 and 13, were reported on their way to Toronto with an aunt who travelled to Lindsay to pick them up and care for them.

SEEK VANDALS

WINDSOR (CP) — Police today are seeking a gang responsible for overturning 22 gravestones in a Christmas raid on a city cemetery. Caretaker Giovanni J. Nadalin of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic cemetery said it was the worst case of desecration in the history of the 33-year-old burial ground.

Aly Khan Must Pay $100,000 Each Time He Sees Daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It will cost Moslem Prince Aly Khan $100,000 each time his daughter, Yasmin, 5, leaves the United States to visit him.

His agreement with ex-wife Rita Hayworth, disclosed Tuesday, so provides. It also says the Aga Khan, father of Aly and spiritual leader of 5,000,000 Moslems, must give written assurance that Yasmin will be returned to her actress mother.

Terms of the agreement became court record Tuesday during hearing on Rita's $150,000 damage suit against Columbia Pictures. She charges that the studio failed to start-filming a Biblical movie last March 7 which, she says, was the prescribed date.

The studio is counter-suing her for breach of contract, saying she walked out on the picture in April.

Prince Aly and Yasmin entered the legal picture because Miss Hayworth, in weeping testimony, said the studio had promised to try with "utmost diligence" to have her scenes in "Joseph and His Brethern" completed by June 25 so she would be free to take Yasmin to France to visit Aly.

The $100,000 payments are to be posted with a New York bank. The agreement provides that the money can be used to pay any expenses needed to regain the child if her father does not return her. If the money is not used for that purpose, it remains in trust for Yasmin until she is 25.

Other provisions of the settlement include an $8,000 annual payment by Aly for living expenses of his daughter, and a stipulation that Miss Hayworth agrees to see that Yasmin receives two hours' instruction each week in the Moslem faith.

Teen-Ager Shoots Girl, 10, To Prove Range of .22 Rifle

NEW YORK (AP)—A teen-ager shot a .22 rifle at a little girl—injuring her critically—to prove to his buddies how far the gun would shoot, police said today.

The injured girl, Patricia Murphy, 10, was walking to her Bronx home with her half-brother early Tuesday night after skating at a playground. When she got home she told her mother she had felt a sting and believed someone had thrown a stone at her as she walked across a field.

The mother called a doctor, who discovered a bullet lodged in her body. The child was taken to hospital, where her condition was reported critical after an operation to remove the bullet.

Police later arrested four teen-agers and charged them with juvenile delinquency in connection with the girl's shooting. Police said the youths were shooting at tin cans in the field when a discussion arose about how far the gun could shoot.

A 15-year-old pointed to Patricia, who was some distance away, and told the others, "I'll bet I can hit that girl over there," police reported.

BOAT DRIFTS ASHORE

KASUMI, Japan (AP) — A disabled Korean boat with 12 exhausted fishermen aboard drifted ashore here Tuesday night, Kyodo news service reported. The captain of the boat and one crew member had starved to death while the tiny craft drifted aimlessly, its engine beyond repair, for 30 days on the Sea of Japan.

TAKES THE $10,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A poetic postman decided Tuesday night to collect his $10,000 in television earnings and not attempt to double the amount. Roscoe C. Wright, 54, of New York City said on CBS' "The $64,000 Question" that the decision was the "biggest" of his life. His quiz category has been poetry.

Youth Wounded Five Times By Police Officer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-year-old youth, wounded five times by a rapid-shooting policeman Dec. 24, remained under guard in hospital today.

Held on a charge of breaking and entering is Gerald Lindsay Cotton, wounded by constable K.M. King after he allegedly threatened the officer with a gun.

Cotton was captured Monday afternoon when his hiding place at the Point Grey Golf and Country Club was discovered by two caretakers.

He was in a tired and weakened condition and police said the wounds were infected. Cotton told police he had been in the clubhouse since Christmas night.

Constable King told his senior officers he checked a car Saturday after he noticed it parked in the same place for four hours. He asked the youth inside for his driver's licence, he said, and was threatened with a gun.

The youth told constable King to "back up." The officer backed toward the rear of the car, then drew his service revolver and ran around to the passenger's side of the car.

As the car started to move away constable King fired six shots across the seat at the driver, None of the five wounds was serious, police said.

JET EXPLODES

LEVITTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — An air force jet plane exploded in flight Tuesday over this densely populated Long Island community. The pilot parachuted to safety as the wreckage crashed into a street between rows of tidy, small homes. There were no deaths or injuries.

REDS FREE AIRMAN

BERLIN (Reuters)—U. S. Air Force Master Sgt. Mike Kilman was released by Russian authorities Tuesday night after being detained in the Soviet sector overnight following an automobile accident. Kilman, 46, said he was kept in a barred room all the time. He was given plenty of food but it was unpalatable.

609 Motor Vehicle Fatalities Reported in United States During Christmas Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — Experts who forecast an all-time high traffic toll for the Christmas holidays now predict a record for the New Year's weekend.

The National Safety Council estimated today that 420 Americans will be killed on streets and roads during the three-day New Year's celebration "unless there is a sharp improvement in the driving habits that shocked the nation last weekend."

The council had predicted 560 motor vehicles fatalities for the three-day Christmas holiday. The number added up to 609.

The record for traffic deaths during a New Year's extended holiday is 607. It was set during a four-day weekend period at the end of 1952 and the start of 1953.

"The cold figures force us to the conclusion that 420 will die," Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said today in a statement. "But we hope the terrible lesson of the Christmas holiday will be taken to heart by everyone."

Motor vehicle fatalities in the United States this year through October totalled 30,980. They show a gain of seven per cent over the total for the corresponding months of 1954.

Statisticians figure the year's toll won't come up to the record of 39,969 set in 1941, but it may approach 38,000.

The blackest of the "cold figures" were recorded this year on holidays.

During the five 1955 U.S. holiday periods traffic accidents cost 2,119 lives and the over-all total—including deaths from all accidental causes—was 2,156.

Each on "Safe Driving" Day—a 24-hour period dedicated to cautious and courteous driving—1955 failed to match the showing in 1954.

The S-D Day toll last year was only 31, this year it was 69.

Case Unique In Dutch Legal History

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—A case unique in Dutch legal history, of a 23-year-old Dutchwoman suing two parents for recognition as their child, was declared inadmissible by a court here Tuesday.

The court said there was insufficient evidence to substantiate tall, blonde Aad van Vegten's claim that she was switched at birth with Leny van Duyn. The girls were born within five minutes of each other in a Leyden nursing home 23 years ago.

They met at a wedding earlier this year and each was struck by her own resemblance to the other's family. Three of the van Vegten daughters, the stocky and dark like Leny, while many of the van Duyns are tall, blonde and slim like Aad.

Originally each girl was to sue the other's legal parents, but Leny dropped out. Aad's lawyer said Tuesday that the court has ordered complicated medical examinations and investigations and that many months will go by before the case could be resumed.

CROSS BURNED

MILFORD, Del. (AP)—A cross was burned Tuesday night on the property of Robert Jaquette, who protested the Milford school board's ban against its athletic teams playing racially segregated teams. Jaquette, president of the Milford High School Parent-Teachers Association, said he interpreted the incident "as the response of some persons in the community to my stand that since the law of the land provides for racial integration in the schools, making it (the law) effective is the duty of all good citizens."

Brandon Dewilde Retiring At 13 to Go Back to School

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Add stories to the list of retiring actors—Brandon Dewilde.

You may think it odd for a person to retire at 13, but that's how it goes these days. Before or less" is correct. Another case of actors' retirements are often contradicted. Remember Fred Astaire, Hedy Lamarr, Betty Hutton, etc?

Brandon was supposed to have retired when he was 12, but there have been some hitches. Last summer he cancelled his Alaska canoeing expedition to act in a movie, "Goodbye, My Lady." And last week he was here to appear on a climax TV show.

His mother explained:

"To all intents and purposes, Brandon is retired. The only time he acts is when there is a script which he especially wants to do. That was true of the movie last summer and the climax play. But the rest of the time he is just going to be a schoolboy."

WANTED FOR PART

His mother explained: "Our reason for the job is that it was all an accident anyway. We had never planned to have a child actor in our family. It started when my husband Fritz was going to be stage manager for 'Member of the Wedding.' The casting director had interviewed all the blood seven-year-old actors in New York and hadn't found the right boy. She knew Brandon and asked to have him read for the part.

"It worked out very well. Fritz has been stage manager on the three plays Brandon has been in, and there were women's parts which I could understudy. So we were all at the theatre together."

Brandon appeared in three films, the film version of "Member of the Wedding," "Shane" and the unreleased "Goodbye, My Lady." He also did a season in TV with the "Jamie" show, but Mrs. Dewilde (pronounced dee-wildy) said that didn't turn out too well.

"It was too much work," she explained. "Brandon did 39 weekly shows. This was at a time when the top comedians were faltering and faltering from overwork. Brandon came through it all right, but it interfered with his school too much."

"We still get letters asking when he's going back on the TV show. I don't think he'll ever do a series again."

Brandon had been attending public school near his home in Manhattan. Now he's going to a private school in Manhattan because his father is stage managing "Bus Stop." He's in the eighth grade now, and his mother said he'll be at least semi-retired through college.

Canadian Commercial Fishing Down Slightly from Last Year

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Fish were capricious this year—as in many another year—with the result that Canadian commercial fishing was down somewhat from 1954.

This did not cause great concern in the industry as a whole, because the long-term curve of fish production is up and this year's dip is not considered a reversal of the trend.

A small-British Columbia sockeye salmon pack—which did cause concern—and a drop in Atlantic codfish were the main downward items.

LATE RECOVERIES

An earlier steep decline in British Columbia herring, partly due to agreement difficulties between operators and fishermen, was largely made up in late-year fishing.

New Brunswick sardines, strangely missing in the summer and early fall, put in a late appearance and much of the earlier loss was recovered.

In 1954, 2,900,000,000 pounds of fish were landed in Canada with a value to fishermen of about $96,000,000 and a marketed value of $185,000,000.

This year's landings are expected to be down about 100,000,000 pounds and landed values to fishermen by $3,000,000 or $4,000,000.

About two-thirds of Canada's fish production is exported, with about 75 per cent of the exports going to the United States.

SOCKEYE SURPRISE

British Columbia's sockeye appeared last year in great numbers in the course of its four-year life-cycle and the pack as 680,000 cases—biggest since 1.

This year only 244,000 cases were packed. A drop was expected but not such a big one.

A spokesman for the Fisheries Association of British Columbia commented:

"We expect the current shortage of sockeye to continue at least until the cycle year of 1958. That will keep prices up to the limit. And we expect widespread closures of salmon-fishing areas next year in a stepped-up program of conservation."

The total British Columbia salmon pack won't be down much in volume because of a heavy catch of pinks — 815,000 cases against last year's 315,000 — but dollar value will be much less because of the decrease in the more valuable sockeye.

British Columbia halibut also was down substantially following a heavy catch last year which resulted in a softening of prices.

This year's below-normal catch of Atlantic cod follows its appearance in 1954 in what is described as "fantastic numbers."

Nova Scotia's diversified fisheries added up to a good over-all year.

DAY OF FROZEN FISH

Feature of the Atlantic fisheries continued to be the virtual revolution of recent years—the shift in emphasis from salt to frozen fish and the adoption of modern packing, marketing and merchandizing methods.

Gone is the day when a fish was a fish and take it or leave it—a pile of salt cod in a grocery store or a salt herring in a barrel which, with potatoes, carried many a family through the winter.

Today, in growing measure, a fish is a smartly-packaged item in a supermarket competing with thousands of other attractively-packaged goods for the housewife's eye.

Though emphasis has gone to frozen fish there is still a market for salt cod — especially in the Mediterranean areas for New-found...and and the Caribbean for Nova Scotia.

Fish sticks, a development of recent years, have been a real boost for Atlantic frozen fish. Each stick is an oblong portion, weighing about an ounce—boneless, breaded, pre-cooked, frozen, and sold in attractive packages all ready to serve except for warming up.

REMARKABLE INCREASE

North American stick sales, chiefly in the United States, have grown from 7,000,000 pounds in 1953 to about 80,000,000 pounds at present. Canadian consumption is about 5,000,000 pounds.

Sticks for the American market —protected by tariff—are made in the United States, but most of the fish that goes into them—chiefly cod and some haddock—comes from the Atlantic provinces and Quebec in the form of frozen blocks or slabs. Newfoundland provides about half the supply from Canada.

Prince Edward Island freezing plants are expanding and building up the province's offshore fisheries in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; and many communities along all the Atlantic and St. Lawrence coasts are trying to round out their economies with an up-to-date fishing industry.

The fishing vessel trend is to smaller craft of less than 65 feet—called draggers—which can operate out of small harbors and with smaller crews.

In Newfoundland fishermen have declined from about 25,000 in 1949 to a present 12,000 or less. This has resulted in larger returns per man.

LOBSTER RESEARCH

Among miscellaneous activities, the federal fisheries department is doing research into the movement of lobsters. It holds that lobsters stick close to home waters and that it is to the fisherman's own advantage to tag back the smaller ones. Some fishermen are sceptical and this year the department tagged 8,000 lobsters in an attempt to prove its point.

Advisability of using metal lobster traps instead of the traditional wooden ones is being probed. Smaller losses in storms are claimed for the metal traps.

Inland fisheries, carried on in about 100 far-flung lakes—headed by the Great Lakes but extending to Great Bear lake in the Northwest Territories—account for about 10 per cent of Canada's fish production.

Great Lakes fisheries are hard hit by the lamprey, an eel-like creature which fastens itself to lake trout and drains their lifeblood. Canada and the United States are co-operating in efforts to overcome the menace.

10-MONTH STATISTICS

Latest detailed figures are to the end of October, and late-year changes will wipe out most of the British Columbia herring loss and lessen the New Brunswick sardine drop.

The 10-month figures, however, include:

British Columbia—landings 301,200,000 pounds, down 145,100,000; landed value to fishermen $24,106,000; down $7,523,000.

Newfoundland—landings 509,500,000 pounds, down 78,000,000; landed value $12,573,000, down $1,732,000.

Nova Scotia—landings 375,000,000 pounds, up 46,000,000; landed value $19,119,000, up $628,000.

New Brunswick—landings 165,000,000 pounds, down 48,300,000; landed value $5,673,000, down $658,000.

Prince Edward Island—landings 23,460,000 pounds, up 3,600,000; landed value $3,075,000, up $444,000.

Quebec — landings 114,800,000 pounds, 38,100,000; landed value $2,635,000, up $311,000.

B. C. salmon landings 138,700,000 pounds, down 42,600,000; landed value $18,207,000, down $4,589,000.

B.C. herring landings 119,400,000 pounds, down 100,500,000; landed value $1,321,000, down $1,293,000.

B.C. halibut landings 18,900,000 pounds, down 6,300,000; landed value $2,465,000, down $1,218,000.

Leading Atlantic catches included:

Cod landings 336,081,000 pounds, down 85,300,000; landed value $13,-283,000, down $2,681,000. Haddock landings 116,000,000 pounds, up 26,000,000; landed value $5,685,000, up $387,000. Herring landings 175,100,000 pounds, up 13,300,000; landed value $3,645,000, down $72,000. Lobsters 43,000,000 pounds, up 2,400,000 landed value $13,765,000, up $642,000.

Watson Shakes Up Rangers; Will Experiment With Lewicki At Centre Ice

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

HAT'S IT.

The beaus of the noble bird have been picked clean than Scrooge's board at the end of the Carol. The turkey swop's a-simmerin'—and the hash is in the making. 'Twas a grand and glorious holiday with plenty of time for digestion, recuperation and meditation.

It was such an enjoyable event all round, what with its Christmas tree, the glorious music, the family and friends, that as far as we're concerned, New Year's with its fanfare and force-of-habit resolutions, even to the planned goose, may prove a trifle anti-climactic.

In the realm of sport Old St. Nick lived up to tradition, paying particular attention to the New York Rangers and the Cleveland Browns, not to mention a Boxing Day remembrance to the senior "B" Brockville Magedomas.

Down in Gotham, Manhattan's unsophisticated hockey fans saw a 23-year-old tradition remain unbroken as Phil Watson's Blues whomped the league-leading Canadians 5-1 in decisive fashion. Ole Noel Watson filled his Rangers' stockings with some sort of Christmas spirit and the boys soothed the Habitant ship in their worst defeat of the season. Not since 1952 when the old New York Americans mauled them 1-0 have the Blues tasted defeat in Madison Square Gardens on Christmas night.

And thanks to a 55-yard line seat in the warm, comfy atmosphere of our private TV stadium, we saw Otto Graham wind up a brilliant professional football career with one of his best offensive efforts. The Graham cracker "O" shoe clerk turned Browns in a thumping 38-14 victory over the Los Angeles Rams with a four-touchdown effort before 58,000 fans.

Graham was spectacularly sensational—if you'll pardon the phrase. He tossed the pigskin for two TD's and helped himself on the ground for another pair. A grand climax to a grand career.

The big surprise of the weekend was Brockville's solid thumping of Wren Blair's Whitby 1 ops senior "B" posse setting matches. We have no details beyond the score of 6-1 this writing, but something out of the "ornery" must have happened. Mebbe it was the Christmas spirit—or something—but the fact remains that to the Magpies goes the honor of being the only team in the circuit to whomp the Dunlops twice. Kingston is the only other club to claim a win over the surging leaders.

Speaking of the Dunlops, their sharpshooters have practically monopolized the top two scoring positions since the season began. At the moment they claim the majority with Kingston and Cornwall getting in on the picture.

However, the Dunlop edging see, Bobby Attersley, had better look to his laurels. For some reason, unknown to this department, Bobby has not been included in the Dunlop's line-up regularly of late. And his absence, plus his inability to score when he is playing has enabled Kingston's sniping ace, Don Murray, to edge dangerously close.

Murray has been going great guns lately, scoring three in his last time out against Brockville, not to mention an assist or two. He has crept to within four scoring points of the leading Attersley and at the present rate of progress of both players should overtake him in the near future.

Attersley, by the way, despite Manager Blair's fierce efforts to keep his dealings with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's Olympic representative next year, a deep, dark secret, openly is not regarded by the Dutchies as first string, or any string calibre.

Michael J. Rodden quotes Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener Record, as saying Attersley will be used, if he is taken, as a replacement for injury or anything else that stops a regular from playing.

The young Whitby player who, Blair stated, turned down pro offers earlier in the season, has not made up his mind to go with the Dutchies. He was quoted as saying earlier he would not leave the Dunlops if he could help them to a title. At the risk of increasing the already over-stretched size of Blair's hat, we do not hesitate to say the Dunlops could get along very nicely without Attersley.

There are a million youngsters in Canada who would jump at the chance of seeing Europe and the Iron Isles for free, while playing their favorite sport. Loyalty is a grand trait, but methinks this is a time when, if such is the reason, it is being slightly overdone. Besides, as was said before, Attersley's value as a goal-scoring asset to the Dunlops has decreased considerably in the last few games.

UMPIRE DIES

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP)—Bill Byron, 65, the "Singing Umpire" who officiated in the International, Pacific Coast and National Leagues during 27 years in the business, died Tuesday.

He worked the 1914 world series and got his nickname because of a refrain he sang as he dusted off the plate after a player protested a called strike. It went:

"You'll have to get a little bolder
"And get that tat off your shoulder."

"We'll see if Mr. Jones finds it so hard to believe I mersh-swung at a hornet that somehow got into the stadium!"

Shifty Forward Flop Thus Far Had Great Season Last Year; To Pivot Conacher, Hebenton

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When shifty Danny Lewicki broke into the National Hockey League five years ago his boss tagged him as the best rookie he had ever seen. But today, after one season of glory, Danny is baffling nobody except his coach.

When he broke in with Toronto Maple Leafs in 1950 managing director Conn Smythe couldn't find enough superlatives to describe the Fort William-born lad's wizardry, who had demoralized the Ontario Hockey Association with his brilliant stickhandling.

Four indifferent seasons later the Leafs peddled Lewicki to the New York Rangers, having received 21 goals and 31 assists from the same number of headaches from their one-time boy wonder, as the result of four years' work.

The change of uniform appeared to work wonders. Last season Lewicki snipped 29 goals—the same number as Detroit's redoubtable Gordie Howe. When Phil Watson took over as Ranger coach this year Lewicki looked like the one marksman he could count on.

WAS DISAPPOINTING

In defiance of most predictions, Watson turned the Rangers into the highest scoring club New York has seen in years. But Lewicki, the 25-goal man at this stage last year with a fifth-place club, has produced only seven this season.

Today Watson announced plans to make a centre out of Danny, teaming Pete Conacher and Ken Hebenton in the process. The position will give Danny more room to manoeuvre. The experiment was tried with some modicum of success by Lewicki's former employers in Toronto but Coach Watson will take this time.

In the rebuffs, Ron Murphy moved alongside Dave Creighton and Wally Hergesheimer on a second line. Watson completed the Ranger trio of Larry Popein, Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice was left intact.

AGAINST CHICAGO

The second-place Rangers will try the new offensive alignment against Glenn Hall and Jack Hawks at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. Meanwhile the first-place Montreal Canadiens visit Toronto Maple Leafs in quest of only their second win in seven starts against Chicago.

Victors in two of their three previous Toronto visits this season, the Canadiens will probably face the fifth-place Leafs without Doug Harvey, first-string defencemen, who has an injured hand. Defencemen Hugh Bolton have been formed by Goalie Hannigan are doubtful starters for the Leafs.

Besides Toronto-Chicago-New York fixtures, the Leafs and Canadiens will be in action in Montreal while the third-place Detroit Red Wings entertain the last-place Boston Bruins.

Magedomas Whip Whitby 6-1

Brockville Magedomas handed the group-leading Whitby Dunlops their most decisive defeat of the season in Brockville Monday night, whipping the Blairmen by a 6-1 count for their third loss of the season.

The Duncan twins broke into a point-getting rush with Kenny scoring three of the Maggies' six goals, and Edwin assisting on each of them. Gibson, Kuntz and Richardson were the other Brockville scorers. Sandy Allen was the only Dunlop to score, hitting the lamp on an assist from Williams late in the second period.

The Maggies scored twice in the first period, added another in the third and slammed home a trio in the third frame. Whitby had seven penalties while the Maggies sinned four times. The Dunlops were at full strength with the exception of Coach Gagnon, suspended indefinitely by the O.H.A.

Marlies Win Over Hamilton; Sixth in Row

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Marlboros rallied for three last-period goals Tuesday night to beat Hamilton Cubs 3-2 and stretch their unbeaten streak to six games in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Toronto St. Michael's Majors blanked Barrie Flyers 2-0 before 1,345 fans.

Bob Nevins scored the winner for Marlboros with little more than five minutes left in the game. Bob Pulford had tied the aggressive 2-2 with two goals earlier in the third period. Pulford's first goal came with Cubs a man short through a penalty. The second was scored when Marlies had a 5-4 advantage in playing strength.

Defencemen Larry Gallinas and forward Cummy Burton scored within two minutes of each other in the second period for a Hamilton lead.

In the opener, goalie Bob Saware picked up his third shutout, tops for the league. Goal scorers were Tim Hook and defencemen Noel Price. The Barrie loss left Flyers stranded in the cellar.

COHEN IS READY

'Sooner' Coach Gets into Fuss With Reporters

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum's intent to hide his plans for Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl behind a brick wall got him into a fuss Tuesday with reporters for Miami newspapers.

They protested vigorously his order to keep them out of the daily practices. Some threatened to take to helicopters and spy from overhead.

Another, sports editor Morris McLemore of the Miami Daily News, wrote "If Tatum persists in this rather ridiculous attitude, I shall do everything in my power to discover all and any information, rumor or report on the Maryland plans of attack and defence and print it or pass it on to Oklahoma in some fashion."

Tatum, after arguing his reasons for secrecy mostly because of incidents he said happened before Maryland and Oklahoma met in the 1954 Orange Bowl, finally offered to let the Miami press in if Coach Bud Wilkinson would.

FINALLY AGREED

Wilkinson, saying he didn't want to become engaged in such a give and take, agreed to permit writers who accompanied the team from Oklahoma and those in Miami to watch his practices.

"But I don't want any of those guys with Maryland," he decreed. Coach Tatum had intended to invite only his "home" press to the practices.

He offered McLemore and the other Miami representatives complete freedom to talk with the players in the dressing room, eat their three meals with them, ride the busses back and forth to practice.

"All I ask is that I don't read the press to watch the practices," he claimed, "but one of them might inadvertently write a tip we were doing something new."

He explained a writer unfamiliar with Maryland operations all season "might say that so-and-so is a great pass catcher. And we might never have thrown a pass to him all season, but were trying to surprise Oklahoma next Monday."

Joey Giardello Starts Comeback

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Middleweight Joey Giardello, in training with his lawyer brother prior to a month ago, will start his flatic comeback Jan. 10 against an opponent yet to be named, a spokesman said today.

Giardello, who was the No. 1 challenger for the middleweight title before his trouble with the law, has been sparring with lightheavyweight Joe Rowan, Jimmy Graham, Fred Terry and lightweight champion Bud Smith.

Giardello served a term on an assault charge.

They'll Do It Every Time

Johnny Podres Signed by 'Uncle Sam' Dodger Lefty to Southpaw for Army

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN (AP)—Johnny Podres probably will be in the army but Brooklyn still has enough pitching left to rank as favorites to win another National League pennant.

The Dodgers certainly will miss the 23-year-old lefthander who beat the New York Yankees twice last fall, including a brilliant shutout in the seventh-game finale.

Still his 9-10 record in the regular season shouldn't be too hard to match.

Podres learned Tuesday he had been reclassified 1-A by his draft board in Hamburgs, N.Y., and is subject to immediate call. Although the head of the draft board said he doubted very much that Podres would be called before spring, it was unlikely that he would be around for much of the 1956 season.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, observed:

"We like to think of the Dodgers coming out first in the National League race. But in this case, as in the case of all our 500 ball players throughout the system, we know Uncle Sam's interests come first."

Brooklyn lists 17 pitchers on its roster, including Don Elston, who pitched for Chicago in the Randy Jackson deal. Don Newcombe, Carl Erskine and Billy Loes form the nucleus of the staff. It will be up to manager Walter Alston to replace Podres' 18 victories.

Perhaps Karl Spooner will be the man. Roger Craig and Don Bessent, the rookies who made such a splash after moving up from the Montreal club in the Canadian annual golf draft at Calgary. He wasn't highly rated, but on a sizzling August day over the prairie city's links, he battled Lyle Crawford of Vancouver to a gruelling, testing, 39-hole playoff to win the championship.

Norman sets pins in a Kitchener bowling alley all winter, plays golf all summer with a two-handicap and averages over 200 bales every day — and hits at least 500 golf balls daily. The stuff of which champions are made.

We said the performances were not glittering. Perhaps we were wrong. They sound wonderful in the re-telling.

No glittering performances dotted the milestones of Canada's golf in the year now rated, but one thing was provided no great heart-throb to rate with Marilyn Bell's swim across Lake Ontario, no Double Miracle Mile, nothing.

In brief, that will blanket its lasting brilliance over the years.

But there was plenty of good, sound, and even dramatic performance, and for a second year in succession, honors fell to the distaff side.

In the Pan-American Games at Mexico City, Montreal's Beth Whittall, 18, won the 100-metre butterfly, the 400-metre free-style and swam the third leg in the 400-metre relay race, all within half an hour, to win three gold medals for Canada against the pick of the swimmers of two continents. Another Canadian gold medalist in the Pan-American Games was Helen Stewart of Vancouver. She set three new records in the Canadian swimming championships.

In the senior women's 100-yard backstroke Canada was victorious over the famous Washington, D.C., Walter Reed Swimming Club. Lenore Fisher, Canadian champion of this event at the last Pan-American Games, downed the U.S. swimming ace, Shelley Mann, and racked up a new mark of 1:17.3.

Canada's beloved Marilyn Bell swam the English Channel. This could hardly be said to duplicate her conquest of Lake Ontario. But for sheer heroism and durability, it was a feat of high merit.

From the bowling alleys of Kitchener came an almost unknown kid named Moe Norman, to compete for the Kitchener Rockaway Club in the Canadian amateur golf championship at Calgary. He wasn't highly rated, but on a sizzling August day over the prairie city's links, he battled Lyle Crawford of Vancouver to a gruelling, testing, 39-hole playoff to win the championship.

Maroons Clip Mercs Winning Skein
Indians Scalp Bulldogs in Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took a long time, but Chatham Maroons finally halted their winless streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League at 11 lasted eight games.

The first-place Maroons trimmed the fourth-pat Mercurys 7-3 at Owen Sound Tuesday night. The setback sent Mercurys' winning skein at three games.

In the only other league engagement, Stratford Indians scored two overtime goals to beat Windsor Bulldogs 4-3 on the ice at Windsor.

Veteran Ernie Dick led Maroons with two goals and two assists. Graham Joyce also counted twice. Six-goals were split to Lloyd Cryderman, Doug Baldwin and Elmer Vlahakis. Jerry Reid scored the first two goals for Owen Sound. Tom Jamieson got the other one.

DEFENCEMEN SCORES

At Windsor, the Stratford attack was led by defencemen Harry Pavelich, who scored in the first third period and tied the score at 3-3.

Defenceman Art Hurst fired what proved to be the winner at the 46-second mark of overtime. Indians were shorthanded at the time. Bulldogs' Jerry Dale had made two great saves on the play, but was helpless when Hurst shot from the crease. Lou Roth added the insurance goal at 9:01.

Doug McKay scored the other Stratford goal. Jack Armstrong, George Lee and Bob Bailey tallied for the second-place Bulldogs. The victory left Indians in fourth place with 26 points, two behind Bulldogs and in the same spot by the leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

LONE PLAYER

Dutchmen were idle Tuesday night. However, they ran into trouble. They learned that defenceman Jon Scherrill will be out of action again. He returned to the team last week after a three-week layoff with a groin injury. He aggravated the injury in a game against Maroons last Friday.

Dutchmen officials said Scherrill will be out indefinitely. Lloyd (Butch) Martin of Elmira Polar Kings will play for Kitchener tonight when Dutchmen meet the Bulldogs.

Martin was selected by Dutchmen as a replacement for their Olympic hockey championship series at Cortina, Italy, next month.

Idle Plante Still Tops NHL Goalies

NEW YORK (CP)—It may have been a good Christmas weekend for most people but for rookie Bob Perreault it brought the discovery that the National Hockey League isn't a goaltender's paradise after all.

Subbing for the injured Jacques Plante in the nets of the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, the youngster from Shawinigan Falls of the Quebec League went into the holiday weekend with a gaudy 0.46 stops in 46 chances for a .960 average, far and away the best in the NHL.

But after he faced Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers on successive nights, the average had shrunk to .930—still a respectable figure but only third-best among the league's netminders.

The idle Plante regained the lead with his .940 mark, followed by New York's Lorne Worsley at .937. The pair have been that big figure all the previous week. Glen Hall of Detroit Red Wings was fourth behind Perreault at .917, followed by Al Rollins of Chicago Black Hawks at .913, Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins at .912 and Harry Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs at .905. The figures:

	Shots	Stops	Goals	Pct.
Plante, M	756	711	45	.940
Worsley	1167	1083	74	.937
Perreault	143	133	10	.930

Tiger-Cats Seek Trimble as Head Coach

HAMILTON (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, general manager of the Big Four Hamilton Tiger-Cats, will fly to Philadelphia today in an attempt to sign Jim Trimble, former coach in the National Football League, to a 1956 head coaching contract.

"I don't know whether anything will come of the meeting," Gaudaur said Tuesday night after a long-distance telephone chat with Trimble. "But I'm going to see him."

Gaudaur indicated he wasn't too hopeful of signing Trimble, former coach of Philadelphia Eagles. He said he might talk with other coaching prospects while in the United States.

Trimble, fired by Eagles two weeks ago after a disastrous season, was in Hamilton last Tuesday to confer with TiCat officials. The 34-year-old Trimble, who lives in Dexter Hill, Pa., Tuesday night said he has received coaching offers from NFL teams and several colleges in the United States.

If Gaudaur signs Trimble, it will be his first official act as general manager of the TiCats. The combined job of general manager and head coach was held by Carl Voyles for the last six years. Voyles retired from football at the close of the 1955 season to enter a Florida real estate venture.

TOPPED BY NASHUA

MIAMI (AP)—Nashua, horse of the year and most expensive in turf history, heads a list of 63 thoroughbreds nominated for the $50,000 Gulfstream Handicap it was announced Tuesday.

The Hialeah Social Outcast, winner last season; 28 winners of 75 starts this year, and 13 candidates for the $100,000 Widener Handicap to be run two weeks later.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn—chronic backache, burning, scanty & may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisonous acid excess fluids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

Stan Leonard Named Pro At Lachute

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stan Leonard, whose only handicap is not playing professional at Lachute, Que., golf club was announced Tuesday. And Tuesday night the job was too good to turn down.

One of Canada's outstanding professional golfers, Leonard said he will continue on the pro circuit of the U.S. Professional Golfers Association, which he joined early this year after giving up his position as pro at Vancouver's Marine Drive Club.

He said his Lachute duties will involve "making brief appearances there during the playing season—I have no actual job to do."

"It's the first job like this that has ever happened to a Canadian . . . there should be more of them."

His plans for the coming season, he said "involve playing a lot of golf. . . . It would be safe to say I'll be away on tournaments."

He heads south within the next couple of days to start the 1956 tour and "the Los Angeles Open will be first."

"I'll definitely play the British Open and would like to play in the French Open while I'm over there."

His first appearance at Lachute should be around late May or early June, he said. The Lachute season runs May 15 and ends in September.

At Montreal, Gilbert E. Ayres, president of the Lachute Golf and Country Club, said the golf course at Lachute, about 40 miles west of Montreal, will be named early in January.

The appointment marks the second time a western professional—both of them top-ranking in Canada—has taken over one of the big jobs in the East. Shortly before Christmas Pat Fletcher of the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club was named senior pro at Royal Montreal.

Toppy Stretches American Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Zeillo Toppazzini of Providence Reds boasted an eight-point lead today—his largest advantage of the season—in the American Hockey League scoring parade.

The classy forward collected five points during the weekend to boost his total to 37. He has produced 22 goals and contributed 35 assists.

Paul Larivee, also of the Reds, moved into undisputed possession of second place with 43 points after being tied for runner-up honors with Buffalo's Ken Wharram a week ago. Wharram is third with 46 points.

Willie Marshall of Pittsburgh and Providence's Camille Henry have scored the most goals, 23 each. Toppazzini is the assist pacemaker with 35.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh maintains his goal-tending supremacy, having allowed an average of 2.80 goals a game. He also leads in shutouts with three. Cleveland's Fred Glover continues as the loop's bad man with 101 minutes in penalties.

Owens Decries Russ-American Track Meet

CHICAGO (AP) —Jesse Owens, the athlete who ran off with the 1936 Olympics Tuesday decried a tendency to build up a "dual meet" between the United States and Russia in the 1956 Olympics.

Recently returned from a government-assigned good will tour of India, Malaya and the Philippines, the 42-year-old Owens said in an interview that "unfortunately the press is trying to make the Olympics a two-country show."

"I think, on the other hand, this will be one of the most interesting Olympic competitions ever held," said Owens, an administrative assistant for the Illinois youth commission.

WON TRACK EVENTS

Owens won the 100 and 200 metre events and the broad jump and anchored the winning U. S. 400 metre relay team in the 1936 Games at Berlin.

"We're overlooking the fact a lot of countries have one or two individual stars — like England's great middle distance men, and fine runners in Finland and Germany," said Owens.

Owens said he tried to combat a "defeatist" attitude in India, Malaya and the Philippines concerning the Olympics. "They just don't see any reason to compete with favors of the Russians," Owens said.

"I told them there is no world parley table as effective as the ceremony of the Olympics, when the flags and anthems of even the smallest entry are seen, heard and respected by all nations."

Rams Sign Calgary Ace

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Rams announced Tuesday that Willie Roberts, pass-catching ace with Calgary last season, has signed to play with Rams in 1956.

Roberts, former Tulsa end, was the fourth draft choice of the National Football League Rams in 1952. This season he caught 43 passes, gained 1,140 yards and scored eight touchdowns for the Western Interprovincial Football Union Stampeders.

Terms were not announced.

Cook Selects American League All-Star Team

NEW YORK (CP)—Bun Cook, coach of Cleveland Barons, Tuesday night announced the makeup of the team which will oppose the champion Pittsburgh Hornets in the American Hockey League all-star game at Pittsburgh Jan. 10.

Ten members of last season's all star team are still in the league and are automatic choices to play in the game. However, two of them defenceman Frank Mathers and goalie Gil Mayer, will play for their own team, Pittsburgh.

The other eight are: Goalie Don Simmons and defencemen Gord Ottolla of Springfield; defenceman Frank Sullivan and centre Ken Wharram of Buffalo; playing coach Murray Henderson and forward Dunc Fisher of Hershey; forward Willie Poperchuk of Providence, and Fred Glover of Cleveland.

OTHER CHOICES

In addition Cook, who will coach the all-stars, has chosen goalie Hank Bassen and defencemen Pierre Pilote of Buffalo; forwards Jackie Leclair of Hershey and el Cleveland; defencemen Ed Kryzanowski and forward Armin Balzer of Hershey; forward Paul Larivee and defenceman Andy Branigan of Providence and forward Jimmy Anderson of Springfield.

Players voted to the team who will not play are the late Ross Lowe, Cleveland goalie; Eddie Olson, now coaching Victoria in the Western League, and Dick Gamble, playing in the Quebec League.

Aces, Royals Win in Quebec

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces blanked Chicoutimi 3-0 and Montreal Royals knocked off Shawinigan Falls 3-1 in Quebec Hockey League action Tuesday night.

The Aces' hometown victory brought them within five points of third-place Chicoutimi, while Montreal's win at home gained the second-place club a little ground on the runaway Shawinigan Cataracts, still 14 points out in front.

MEETS PEP

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Andy Arel, an ambitious young Northdown from Massena, N.Y., will try to vault into the big money bracket tonight when he meets Willie Pep, the old master of the featherweight division, here in a lightweight 10-rounder.

The fight, starting at 10 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by the ABC network. After going undefeated through 51 amateur fights, Arel, 22, turned pro in 1953 and has won 20 of his 25 pro starts.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed. Dec. 28, 1938

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —

Aim high, and make the best possible use of your skills and talents. Think first, then act with decision.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) —

Don't let yourself become irritated or upset if others don't do or say as you think should be done or said. Remember, everyone has days when they are below par. Smile!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) —

Innately, the Gemini native is neither petty nor given to gossip. But you can be sharp, over-critical and intolerant if not on guard. Watch this trait for the remainder of the month.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —

Develop your talents in free time. Enjoy family, good friends, read worthwhile matter. Be sure not to waste time, nor spend it fretting about "what might have been."

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) —

What you do with leisure periods is important, both to your general welfare and to your occupational ambitions. Do not form bad habits. Nip sarcasm in the bud.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Don't let little things annoy you now. And don't look into, but rather look over, others' errors; and don't elaborate on problems.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — While you may not have as restrictive aspects as some today, be advised to step cautiously because of the likely ruffled nerves and dispositions of those about you. Be the diplomat—smilingly.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Tread carefully lest you overlook important details. Also be on guard lest you speak out of turn or express yourself as you wouldn't had you thought carefully beforehand.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — A chance for you to catch up with the little good deeds that surprise others and make them happy. Be careful in associations.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — This day will not be as difficult as it may seem at first. When one knows more about situations, they become easier to handle — even more interesting. Investigation is in order.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You may make gains now where both your future and your family's welfare are concerned. Acquaint others with your ideas; don't be timid. But don't be blunt either.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Looking backward is unhealthy. It wastes the present and prevents you from accomplishing in the future. So look ahead and you will go forward.

You born today: Governed by Capricorn, you are the practical business man (or woman), the reasoning, efficient worker, the lover of children and family. But you may dislike tedious domestic chores. You may not be demonstrative in affection but you are loyal and interested. Do not be over-sensitive to criticism. You should do ably in the literary field, horticulture, farming, musical and educational activities. Avoid melancholy and discontent. Birthdate of: Woodrow Wilson, 36th U. S. President.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, Dec. 29, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Start your day briskly, but think carefully before plunging into matters, and give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt. Cooperation pays.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Don't waste any time on matters that really do not concern you or have no bearing on your day's schedule. Maintain a steady pace and cooperate with associates and superiors.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Relax, rest occasionally—it is good for disposition and creativeness as well as health. Your interests may expand on the care you give to details today.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Tendencies toward jealousy, and discontent are likely today. You can rule them out with your good humor and sense of balance — if you will.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Associations, how you spend your time as well as your money and assets are of foremost importance today. Don't fail for big-minding to discuss everything calmly with loved ones.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A better day than you may think. Your talents and abilities are needed, so keep them tuned and ready.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A big day in many ways, and for you this can be a very important period. You can formulate plans that will be effective later; can finish matters in an unusually clever manner.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Purely mental tasks may not be as easy or pleasant connected with labor and industry are favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — You may have to use extra effort to get your schedule off to a good start and keep it going. Diligent effort will be rewarded, however, and your occupational duties can be highly fruitful now.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)— Work conscientiously done today will double the benefits and advantages you can reap tomorrow. Plan and allocate tasks according to their importance and urgency. You can rain.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — A little extra initiative from you today can bring bang-up returns in practically all lines — industry, selling, manufacturing; also in the artistic professions.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Mild influences. Especially favored: chemistry, homemaking, engineering, building of bridges, roads, sewers; hatriling machinery generally. All hard work favored.

You born today are ambitious and willing to work hard for goals. You have strong will power, can (and should) use your ability. Invests profitably. Keeo learning, improving daily. Needless worry and brooding are harmful to health and thwart success. A pleasant, cheerful mind opens new avenues through which achievement may come. You have many talents and could succeed in whatever field of endeavor you may like; but train well for it. Have faith in yourself. Go forward unafraid. Birthdate: Andrew Johnson, 17th U. S. pres.; Wm. E. Gladstone, Brit. statesman.

Expect Increase In Construction During Next Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's builders next year are expected to "equal and probably exceed" the record $5,000,000,000 of construction in 1955, W. G. Malcom of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said Tuesday in a year-end review.

In 1955, for the first time, construction topped $5,000,000,000 and completion of dwelling units reached the 125,000 level, Mr. Malcom said in a statement issued by the association's headquarters here.

"The present carryover of work is above average, personal savings and corporate investment funds are at high levels, the backlog of road requirements and other public works is steadily increasing and the general economic outlook of the country indicates continued over-all expansion," he said.

WAGE PRIVATE WAR

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Two radio disk jockeys will broadcast from a local bar next week to dramatize their private war on drunken driving. Mark Hoffman, 28, and Dave Hunter, 25, of station WBLY here, said that beginning today they will stay in the county jail for three days—the minimum sentence given drunken drivers in Ohio courts.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma finished writing a letter at her desk, saying to pop, William, do you think this letter is diplomatic enough? I'm writing to Sister Whipple, and I hope I've satisfied her that I'm glad she's going to town, while at the same time I indirectly give her to understand that I'm not inviting her over to our place during her 3 days trip, in spite of the rather broad hint in her letter that she might like to spend the time in question, ma said. It sounds like something we'd like to do, pop said, and ma said, I'll read it to you.

Which she did, being, Dear Sister, Just a short note to let you how wonderful it will be to have you for our midst, figuratively speaking. Really, I mean truly, I'm in a quiver counting the days till we are exchanging memories face to face. You surely didn't distort the truth when you wrote that you are sure I will welcome you with same open arms that will greet it I ever get to Hilltop. As you say, as sister members of the Eets Bit-Pie sorority, we will both ever be faithful to our old slogan, Faithful till we die, Eta Bitta Pie. Your old security sister, Pawleen Poots. It's a masterpeece of sisterly feeling, but what makes you think she will ever expect to stay with us? pop said, and ma said, There's a postscript, I'll read it to you.

Which she did, being, P.S. When you get to town don't fail to call me up just as soon as you are settled.

Sure enough, that's where the phone call went from a full head of steem, pop said.

And he took it out and mailed it for her, claiming he needed a little air.

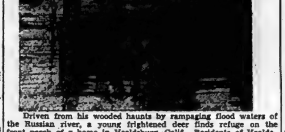
RIDING FOR FALL — LITERALLY



"Anything for a laugh," is the comedians' motto and here is Bob Hope, television and movie star, about to fall to the cold, hard floor — on his noggin. It wasn't in the script, however, that he should fall. British strong girl, Joan Rhodes, who bends horseshoes for exercise, was supposed to hold him on her shoulder, but Mr. Hope slipped over and down. He raised a bump on his head, broke one finger and had to be flown from Iceland, where he was giving a show for servicemen, to London, England, for examination. (Central Press Canadian).

YULETIDE IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Driven from his wooded haunts by rampaging flood waters of the Russian river, a young frightened deer finds refuge on the front porch of a home in Healdsburg, Calif. Residents of Healdsburg have been evacuated as northern California was swept by floods caused by heaviest rains in 15 years.

Six young lads using their ingenuity, improvised this raft to propel themselves around town as flood waters swept through San Rafael, Calif. A state of emergency was declared when new rains raised the flood levels. Fifteen are reported dead in the area. (Central Press Canadian).

WILL STEAL ANYTHING

CHICAGO (AP) — Lieut. Frank Pape, head of the Chicago police department's robbery detail, says he has finally come to the conclusion that "people will steal anything." Pape and his men are investigating the theft of 2,650 pounds of feathers from the progressive Feather Co.

HOW TO ENJOY THE WINTER SEASON

When winter sets in and the Christmas season offers a few hours of leisure, some people like to put on skates, skis or snowshoes. Others just curl up with a good book in front of a fire. But no group is more enthusiastic about their cold-weather activities than the bird-watchers of the Audubon society. They stalk their prey and stand for hours just watching or taking photos. A Vancouver, Ont., Wishart Campbell-counted his day an unqualified success when he found this screech owl, whose look of indignation is habitual and not necessarily directed at Mr. Campbell. Cyrus Eaton To Outline Plans For Iron Project

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Canadian-born steel magnate Cyrus S. Eaton plans to outline to the Quebec government plans for the development of iron-ore mines in the vast wastes of northern Ungava between Hudson Strait and Ungava bay.

The United States industrialist, president of Cleveland Cliffs Iron Ore of Cleveland, Ohio, announced the project Tuesday during a press conference in this ski resort town, 15 miles north of Quebec City.

The occasion was his 72nd birthday, the fifth he has spent in the Laurentian mountains with some of his grandchildren.

Mr. Eaton said International Iron Ores Limited and Atlantic Iron Ore Limited, two companies which he controls, will be ready to place an operations program before Premier Duplessis of Quebec in about "two or three months."

No details of the projected development were given by Mr. Eaton.

GOLD LICENCES

International Iron holds a special mineral exploration licence for 600 square miles of territory south of Diana bay, about 25 miles north of Payne bay. Atlantic holds an exploration licence for 160 square miles west of Ungava bay in the region of Hopes Advance bay and Ford lake.

The Quebec mines department has reported findings of extensive iron-ore deposits in the two areas.

The project is the most recent venture of the philosopher-business man who mixes them with active interests in the breeding of shorthorns, botany, theology and economics.

Last summer Mr. Eaton was host at his farm estate at Pugwash, N.S., to groups of visiting intellectuals. Next year he plans to invite scholars from many nations, including China, Russia and India.

Mr. Eaton said Tuesday Canada's industrial expansion will go on for another 10 years as it will in the United States.

Traffic Paralyzed By Freezing Rain In Toronto Area

Madoc Woman Is Injured In Grimsby Bus Accident

Prairie States Facing Threat Of Dust Storms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The threat of new dust storms hangs over wide areas of the Great Plains, the United States agriculture department reported today.

Reports from the field as of Dec. 1 indicated that dry soils and below normal rain and snowfall have left about 20,000,000 acres of land in 10 plains states in a condition to suffer wind damage.

This acreage, however, is about 4,000,000 less than that in a similar condition a year ago. Severe dust storms last winter and spring caused heavy crop losses and soil erosion, just as they have done periodically for many years.

While land in 10 states is affected, the department said about 15 per cent of that is in condition to be damaged by storms is in Kansas, Texas and Colorado.

Radar Car Will Operate Again On QE Way

TORONTO (CP) — A radar-equipped patrol car will be operated on the Queen Elizabeth way again Friday, provincial police said today.

They said the radar car was shifted from the Queen Elizabeth way to Highway 401 a week ago because of the large number of speeding cars reported there.

Since the move, vehicles on the Queen Elizabeth have been increasing their speed, police said.

Found Lying On Lake Simcoe

ORILLIA (CP)—An elderly man was taken to hospital early today in critical condition after being found lying on the ice of Lake Simcoe half a mile from shore.

Police identified him as James Benton, between 80 and 90 years of age. They said he had developed on the ice and had lain there for several hours. He was suffering badly from exposure, doctors said.

Mr. Benton was unable to tell police how he made his way so far out from shore.

The old man, who lives alone, may have set out for a stroll and become confused about his direction, police said.

Quebec Woman Burned to Death

LENNOXVILLE, Que. (CP) — Mrs. Homer Burroughs was burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a frame home in this eastern Quebec community. Her husband managed to escape.

Today's Chuckle

Two men met on the street and one asked the other how he was.

"I thought you had quit smoking," the friend said.

"I'm just the first stage," said the man. "I've quit buying."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Colder air in advance of an arctic cold front will move across Ontario today and should cover the entire province by tonight. Two-to six-inch snowfalls have occurred throughout northern Ontario in advance of the cold wave while southern Ontario has had occasional rain or freezing rain.

Temperatures will fall sharply tonight and there will be some light snow mostly to the southeast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, when the persons, in a comfortable

TORONTO (CP)—Freezing rain, falling on roads from Lake Simcoe to the Niagara peninsula, today paralyzed traffic, caused a rash of collisions and promised to prevent up on roads tonight.

Police advised motorists to drive below 20 miles an hour, while the department of highways suggested motorists stay off roads if at all further notice.

Twenty-five passengers and the driver of a Toronto-bound Gray Coach Lines bus escaped injury when the bus skidded and rolled on its side two miles east of Grimsby on Highway 8.

Driver William Foisyk kicked out the windshield so that passengers could escape.

One passenger, Mrs. W. Love, of Madoc, who complained of a sore back after being thrown against a seat, was admitted to hospital in Grimsby for observation.

"We're ashamed of the men on today," one of the seven passengers, Mrs. B. Higgin of Bayswater Ont., declared. "We were screaming worse than the women and became panicky and tried to get out first."

A man and a woman, not yet identified, were severely injured when their car collided with a bread truck and skidded, breaking off five guard rails, on Highway 2 near Stoney Creek.

Hundreds were late for work in Hamilton and Toronto as ice coated all rush hour routes.

ATTACK ON HEART DISEASE WAGED BY FOUNDATION

17 Research Projects Will Be Backed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario doctors and research men are waging their latest drive in a campaign against heart disease.

The recently - formed Ontario Heart Foundation, embracing both medical men and laymen, announced Wednesday that it has launched a province-wide attack on the problems of the heart and blood vessels.

Drawing on two grants of $100,000 each from federal and provincial governments, it will start 17 research projects with nearly $50,000.

They provide for diagnosis, treatment by drugs and diet, surgery and other therapy. They are under way at the Toronto General, Sick Children, Toronto General, St. Michael's and Western Hospitals in Toronto; the University of Toronto; Queen's University at Kingston; General Hospital, Kingston; the University of Western Ontario and Victoria Hospital, London, Ont.; and the University of Ottawa and Ottawa Civic Hospital.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The foundation also is operating a public education program for doctors. Under this plan specialist teams visit Ontario centres where they conduct clinics for physicians, patients and discuss treatment with family physicians. Also, the latest developments in heart treatment are also discussed.

Two such meetings have been held in North Bay and Cobourg and nine more have been arranged for the next two months.

The program, it is reported, follows about five years of study by a group of specialists and laymen. The last two years were devoted to discussions among doctors, universities and government health officials.

The foundation is headed by a board of directors comprising five specialists and five laymen. The medical expert is Dr. Farquharson, Dr. John Hepburn, Dr. John Parkinson, Dr. Milton Gregg and Dr. F. S. Brien of London, Ont.; and laymen: Douglas W. Ridout, K.C., Mitchell Hepburn, Doherty, Harry H. Wilson and J. M. Pigott, Toronto. Mr. Lash-bridge is chairman of the board. Prof. Farquharson, chairman of the medical committee.

C. L. Burton, chairman of the board of Canadian Steel Corporation has set up a fund with a block of stores shares, proceeds going to the foundation for action. It is speculated, indicates the growing concern of business and industrial leaders in the toll taken annually of executives by heart disease.

Oshawa Man Missing

OSHAWA (CP)—Richard Henry Cornelius, 44, missing since Friday, may have met foul loss of memory, police said today.

His disappearance was reported by his wife after he failed to keep dinner at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. Adams.

Other Dionne Children Support Father in Censure of Quints

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's two afternoon newspapers today produced differing reports on whether the four surviving Dionne quintuplets plan a New Year's trip home to heal a family rift.

The Telegram's headline reads: "Two quints going home to heal rift."

The Star's: " 'Would be giving in to father' no home trip New Year—quints."

Meanwhile, three brothers of the quints, two in Toronto and one in St. Hubert, Que., supported their father in his censure of the four sisters earlier this week.

Victor Dionne, 19, an electronics student here, said he is "sick of the whole business." He agreed with his father that "intruders" are responsible for internal trouble in the family.

"We don't want their (the quints') money, we want the family to be together. These people that are interfering are . . . a very powerful.

"When I was at college I used to bring my friends home for parties. The quints used to sit and laugh and make fun of them and then run up to their rooms," Victor said.

"Why they act as if they are queens or something."

Daniel Dionne, 23 - year - old checking clerk in Toronto, said his father has become sick because of the quints' attitude.

Married and with two children, his family lives in a two-room flat and shares a bathroom with three other families. Asked how much financial help he receives from his sisters, Daniel lifted his shoulders: "You can see for yourself. What do you think?"

In St. Hubert Olivo Dionne Jr., 19, enlisted in the RCAF, said his parents have a right to be upset because the quints did not phone home Christmas Day.

"I called . . . so did all the others who were not at home.

The quints should have done like us and have kids."

He said the sisters' money "may have made a difference" in the way they feel about the rest of the family.

"But I don't really know. I'm just guessing. Dad knows though."

End War When British Leave - Declares Malaya's Red Chief

By OLEN CLEMENTS

BALING, Malaya (AP) — Communist chief Chin Peng slashed back into the jungle today, breaking off talks on amnesty for his forces to end Malaya's 7½ years of guerrilla war.

He also broke out, the 36-year-old rebel leader offered to end the fighting—which has cost 10,000 lives—when an "elected" Malayan government takes complete control of its military forces from British authorities, now waging much of the fight.

Britain has promised independence or Commonwealth membership—similar to that of the Federation of Malaya, now a protectorate—within an elected legislature next year which the British high commissioner has veto power. The island-crown colony of Singapore also has been given the same promise.

Prince Abdul Rahman, chief minister of the federation who led the negotiations with Chin, will go to London Jan. 1 to begin talks with the government on Malayan independence. The first order of business will be to give him a strong ruling point.

Chin rejected point blank a government demand for unconditional surrender of his 2,500 jungle soldiers, most of them Chinese. He declared adamantly as he left the English schoolhouse where the two-day talk had been held:

"We will never accept surrender terms. We will continue to struggle to the last man."

He indicated, however, that he might get in touch with Malayan officials again. Prince Abdul later said he was willing to see Chin again any time, any place.

Prince Abdul has been urging amnesty after last September although much of the fighting—the federation's first popularly elected government—the government said would investigate persons giving themselves up to determine whether they were active in or aiding all Communist activity and to seek rehabilitation of loyal members of other political groups.

Abdul Rahman told Chin Wednesday that many of his Red soldiers would have to serve a jail term and would have to join an existing Malayan political party—the Communists are banned—after release.

Chin refused any suggestion of investigation of his followers, asserting that it implied surrender. He said he was under orders from the Communist central committee not to surrender under any circumstances.

Party May Be Re-united by By-Election

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's strife-torn Progressive Conservative party may be reunited by the Vancouver Centre by-election.

Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes, VC, federal member for Esquimalt-Saanich, has endorsed Douglas Jung as provincial Progressive Conservative candidate in the Jan. 19 by-election.

Gen. Pearkes is a leader of a party "splinter group"—which staged a 1954 convention without when the executive endorsed a wave of confidence in provincial leader George Drew.

Mr. Jung was nominated by a group attached to the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association led by provincial leader Deane Finlayson.

Gen. Pearkes helped organize the rival B.C. Progressive Conservative Federal Council. Both groups have been at odds throughout 1955.

Says Tension Divides Montreal's Policemen

MONTREAL (CP) — A former chairman of the city executive committee today charged that Montreal's 2,200-man police force is divided by "fear, jealousies and tension."

Notary Jean - Marie Savignac, city councillor and twice head of the ruling committee, called in a statement for formation of a police commission.

He said such a commission would separate the bad from the good in the force. It would protect the force against "all influences" and reassure officers that they could accomplish their jobs without "fear of reprisals."

Bloody-Handed Janitor Admits Slaying Girl, 13

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young girl was slain Wednesday in San Francisco's second butcher-knife killing in a week-end.

Within minutes after her body was found in Lake Merced, Lake, 37, and her daughter, Mary Ellen, 11. They were badly cut, but their screams brought the attacker away.

Helder said Reese gave no reason for killing the Simpson girl. The officer quoted the man as saying: "It was the wine I guess. Drinking wine makes you crazy."

HEAVY ARTILLERY WHEELED INTO LINE FOR BATTLE

Top Union and GM Men to Meet Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Heavy artillery is being wheeled into line for the contract battle between General Motors of Canada and the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL).

A strike of 17,000 workers at five GM plants is in its 102nd day.

Leonard Woodcock, director of the UAW's GM department, announced Wednesday a top negotiator from the international union will join the strategists here to counter senior company representatives from Detroit.

This, he said, does not mean the union is dissatisfied with the work of Canadian strike leaders, including Canadian director George Burton told a meeting of union members, but only minor progress has been made in contract negotiations which resume Jan. 3 after a Christmas and New Year's adjournment.

Meanwhile, another new figure entered the scene. Dr. J.H. Murchmor, secretary of the United Church of Canada's board of evangelism and social service, said Canada is being made a battleground for major strikes by big U.S. corporations and U.S. unions.

"The practice of making Canada the battleground for long, costly and near civil war industrial disputes is one that must end if corporations and organized labor giants in the United States expect to survive," he said.

Burt said Dr. Mutchmor was "another misinformed man of the cloth," who apparently had not discussed the strike issues with either union or company.

WAGE EQUALITY

The Canadian union leader, commenting on strike progress said:

"Their (GM) dealers are hollering now about no cars. We're quite sure GM wouldn't sacrifice their dealer organization in Canada for the little amount we're asking."

The union seeks thrifty wages for its 7,000 Canadian coachbuilders, such as Chrysler of Canada, and then a little extra.

Mr. Burt said:

"We'll examine the highest rates in the industry and then say this is the company ought to pay them." Then when they bring their rates up to the top rates in the industry, they should step ahead a little."

GM has offered $385 an hour to be divided among workers to remove wage inequalities. The union said Mr. Burt, wants at least another $430.

The latest company offer would raise wages for workers to an average $1.87 an hour, the union leader said. That compared with $1.66 an hour for the same work at Chrysler and $1.62 at Ford.

The union has demanded a 15-cent-an-hour general increase, company-paid medical and hospital insurance and a cost-of-living pension improvements. The company has offered a 15-cent-an-hour increase, said to be equivalent to one-half the cost of health insurance and some other benefits.

"GM knows the UAW well enough to know we're not going to collapse and capitulate and that it has to substantially improve its offer to settle this dispute," Mr. Woodcock said.

REACH PLANNED STRENGTH

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF during 1955 reached its planned squadron strength of 47 with completion of the buildup of home CF-100 jet fighter squadrons to nine, the air force said in a year-end review issued Wednesday.

Govt. Predicts Tax Cuts For Next Two Years

Gross National Product Now at All-Time High

OTTAWA (CP)—Tax cuts are likely in store for Canadians as the nation's economy booms.

Federal informants Wednesday predicted small tax cuts in 1956 and bigger ones in 1957 as Canada's gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—rose to an all-time high of $26,400,000,000 this year.

Some studies here predict another big rise in 1956—perhaps not as big as this year's $2,400,000,000 jump—but possibly large enough to boost the gross national product to between $27,000,000,000 and $28,000,000,000.

Rising national wealth means more potential tax revenue for the government, though an increase in federal revenue usually lags behind business expansion, officials said.

HAVE CHOICE

Corporations have the choice of paying on their previous year or current operations. Many now are paying on their 1954 business as profits were lower. They will have to pay their taxes on this year's operations in 1956.

With Canada's population steadily rising, federal authorities say heavier government outlays will be needed next year for defence advances, old age pensions, health services and other expenditures.

The central government also will make higher payments to the provinces under the federal-provincial tax rental agreements which call for higher payments as revenue and population increase.

But officials say there likely will be room for some tax cuts in 1956-57, though the government might not make any major reductions fearing they could encourage inflation.

ECONOMIC EXPANSION

Trade Minister Howe said in his year-end review issued Tuesday that Canada can foresee a long stretch of economic expansion if Canadians use restraint and guard against speculative excesses.

Some federal officials say many Canadians have been saving and homers have been buying too much too fast, thereby creating shortages of some goods.

Too sharp an increase in purchasing power in the hands of consumers might possibly encourage a rise in demand for scarce goods. Officials say this would boost prices and bring on inflation.

Nevertheless, there may be some tax reductions next year, informants said, possibly in commodity excise taxes and perhaps a slight reduction in personal income taxes.

Israel and Egypt Both Blamed For Truce Talk Delay

JERUSALEM (AP) — Blaming both Israel and Egypt for the delay, the United Nations Palestine truce group has indicated that progress may be made soon on Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold's frontier peace proposals.

In a communique issued from its headquarters here, the truce group said negotiations are still open and further discussions will be held soon on Hammarskjold's plan for establishing peace in the El Auja-Nizana demilitarized area between Israel and Egypt.

The communique replied to an Israeli statement charging that Egypt had reacted negatively to the proposals. The UN group said:

"The government of Egypt has not yet formulated its final position on the secretary-general's proposals, and therefore the negotiations still to be open."

U.S. Astonished At Direct Attack On President

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials were astonished at Nikita Khrushchev's direct attack today on President Eisenhower. They thought this action by the Soviet leader may mean the development of a still tougher line against speculative excesses.

Experts here found it significant that Khrushchev chose a moderate reason for the personal attack was a rather routine Christmas message in which Eisenhower spoke of prayers for freedom in Eastern Europe.

Khrushchev's attack on the president indicates the Kremlin is extremely sensitive one for the Soviet. This in turn suggests they may in fact be confronted with greater problems of maintaining Communist unity there than the West knows about it detail.

Khrushchev Says Russia Can Boost Power of H-Bomb

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev declared in a speech today that the recently exploded 50 vivit hydrogen bomb "can be controlled increased" by scientists.

The Soviet Communist party boss reported the statement he made in India after the test explosion that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

Khrushchev's H-bomb warning came during a speech at a Peoples Palace Bulgaria made to a joint session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) and other high officials in India, Burma and Afghanistan. The speeches hailed British attacks on "Western colonialism."

DISSOLVING COMPANIES

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway Company in a supplementary statement said it is taking steps to dissolve some of its wholly-owned subsidiary railway companies in order to simplify the CPR's corporate organization. There are 13 lines concerned and were originally set up through legislation in B.C. and Ontario.

Texas Girl, 12, 'Lost' for Six Days Finally 'Found' in Juvenile Home

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A pretty, 12-year-old girl, who cried to use the telephone and call her parents, was held in juvenile homes here for six days—including Christmas Day—before anyone knew of her plight.

Authorities revealed Wednesday that police couldn't find the Pecos girl's name and home with her, nine sheriff's deputies were, unable to locate her, and the people who knew where she was couldn't find her parents.

Then the Dallas county juvenile department shut down for the Christmas holidays for 2½ days. Apparently there was no official responsible for any time to get in touch with her parents.

Her mother said the girl could have reached relatives if allowed to use the telephone. No authorities could locate the girl's name or that of her parents, which is customary in Texas juvenile cases. Juvenile officers agreed on the facts of the situation.

The girl was taken from a city detective, who once searched records but failed to find the child's card. The case kept nagging his mind. He looked through the records again, found the name, and a few telephone calls later had located the junior high school student.

The story began last Wednesday middle-income bracket, quarreled. The father went to the home of relatives for the night. The mother, after seeing the last daughter was in bed, went driving to think about her problems.

"The girl awoke, found the house empty, became frightened, and began walking to a friend's house. Police picked her up at 2:45 a.m., tried to locate her parents, but couldn't. Officers overlooked the record the next day when the parents began searching.

The girl had been sent to a foster home because of the hour. She was transferred later to Juvenile Detention, a maximum security girls.

Mrs. Ruth Steinfeldt, intake supervisor at the county juvenile home, said she tried repeatedly to call the girl's home on Saturday afternoon, when the juvenile department was closed for the holiday until Tuesday.

Mrs. Lorraine Becker, manager of Juvenile Home, said she didn't cried because she wasn't allowed to use a telephone herself. Mrs. Becker asked Mrs. Steinfeldt to press her search for the parents.

After the reunion, the child's mother said she was out of her home frequently while searching for her child, and even changed her base of operations to her mother's house.

Oil Warehouse Blaze Threatens B.C. Town

LYTTON, B. C. (CP)—A faulty hose line and a spark from a pump are blamed for a fire here that which destroyed an Imperial Oil warehouse and threatened this Fraser canyon town of 1,200 with disaster.

No one was injured. No damage estimate was available.

The warehouse was part of a bulk distribution centre serving gas stations along the canyon road. It stood next to huge storage tanks containing nearly 63,000 gallons of highest gasoline, diesel and heating fuels.

High Cost of Entertainment Keeping Canadians Home on New Year's Eve

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's no place like home to let your hair down, and that's where most Canadians will be doing it Saturday night.

That's the result of a survey shows that the Lord's Day Act and the high cost of night-club entertainment are keeping Canadians home this year for their New Year's Eve celebrations.

House parties lead by far the way the country will welcome the new year. There are still the few "big spenders" who will drink, dine and dance their way through the old and into the new at tariffs up to $100 a couple, but because New Year's Day falls on Sunday, the Lord's Day Act clamps down hard at midnight just when most would like to start letting off steam.

Most of Canada's 36 television stations plan New Year's Eve programs, but radio, knowledgeable, too, has contributed to the stay-at-home movement. Many Canadians plan to attend watch night services at churches. Others will simply go to bed and welcome the new year in silence.

Some will travel to the theatre for entertainment. Air lines and railroad offices report a heavy demand for tickets.

The cost of celebrating New Year's Eve in public dance halls and cabarets ranges from $4 a couple to $16 in Newfoundland, $15 in the Maritimes and the prairies and $35 in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. In Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia the evening likely will cost $100.

The Pas Igloo Has Electricity

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Probably the only electrically-lighted igloo in Canada stands on the grounds of the Clearwater lake sanatorium near here, northern health officials announced.

The 10-foot high igloo was erected by Eskimo patients, covered with colored tar paper and fitted with a large bulb inside.

Other igloos, lacking paints, now fully recovered, built the igloo from snow on the sanatorium grounds.

3-Roomed Cottage At Shannonville Burned to Ground

The explosion of an oil burning space heater was said to have been responsible for a fire which yesterday noon completely destroyed a three-roomed cottage at Shannonville occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Greene and their three-months-old baby.

Miss Barbara Hartley, 16, sister of Mrs. Greene, was in the home with the Greene's small baby when the stove exploded. She grabbed up the baby and ran outside. Neither she nor the baby was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene were away at the time of the blaze.

So quickly did the flames spread that nothing was saved from the small house and when firemen from Belleville arrived on the scene the building was already burned to the ground. The Greene's had no insurance on the household contents. Ben Fuller of Shannonville was said to be the owner of the burned cottage.

A month ago Mr. Greene made an unsuccessful attempt to save David and Dennis Moore who were burned to death when the home of Mr. William Moore burned. Two other children escaped from the burning home which was set afire when a Quebec heater exploded.

Belleville-Born Navy Lieutenant Directs Queen's Alma Mater Society

A Belleville-born navy lieutenant with a flair for business administration directs the Alma Mater Society, student governing body with 2,400 members, at Queen's University.

He is Cr. Cr. "Kip" Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Summers of Belleville, who will graduate this year with a Bachelor of Commerce degree from Queen's.

Six foot and 25 years old, "Kip" Summers is head of the executive of 16 students who form the student government and who direct the activities of Queen's students outside classrooms. As one of four senior representatives, he was chosen president by the executive from this group.

Ninety-eight years ago student government was established at Queen's, and in this period the Alma Mater Society has attained a prominence and influence on the campus "achieved only by hard work and by the willingness of students freely to take the many responsibilities involved," said Kip Summers.

The AMS is the supreme court of the student body and rules on all matters pertaining to student offences, violations of laws and rulings of the city which is the site of final appeal regarding decisions by the various disciplinary courts. It also has oversight over social committees, dinners, dances and concerts. It also has jurisdiction over the student newspaper, The Journal, as well as publishing a year book and a directory.

"Kip" Summers was trained for the exacting duties of president as a result of earlier executive posts he held, both at high school and at university.

At Belleville Collegiate Institute in the fifth form, he was president of the Students' Council, directing the affairs of the 1,200 students in the school. In his first year at Queen's, "Kip" Summers was president of Arts '56. In his second year he was secretary of the Arts Society, in his third year he was junior AMS representative, while this year he is senior AMS representative and society president.

He also is president of Science '56 a co-operative which owns Bertie House and Boucher House and rents Clarke House, three student co-operatives.

"I get room and board for $11 a week plus a $1 capital loan per week that is returned at the end of the student's time in the co-operative," he said. The co-operative has 50 members and offers them 60 additional students who take their meals at Collins House.

President "Kip" Summers is also Lieut. Summers of the RCN (Reserve). He is the first cleric at Belleville Collegiate he joined the reserves as a member of HMCS Cataraqui at Kingston. The executive number of other Belleville students in the attended classes at HMCS Cataraqui, driving to Kingston each week for drill.

In 1950 "Kip" went to Europe with the navy, touring NATO countries, including the UK, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, Belgium, Portugal and Gibraltar. This was a six months' cruise that ended in December, 1950.

On returning home he entered McGill where he was a star of Montreal branch at Belleville, remaining there until the fall of 1952 when he returned Queen's University as a student in the commerce course. Commerce, Accounting and economics have been his chief study interests.

During the past two summers he was with the navy, in 1954 on the prairie coast as a midshipmen-per training new entry seamen, and in 1953 he took a course at the east coast, following by a tour of duty on the cruiser Quebec as the midshipman tenant to UNTD cadets.

While he found little time this year for athletics, "Kip" Summers has represented Queen's in basketball rugby at high school. He was a member of Belleville Collegiate basketball team which won the Central Ontario SSA championship, and Belleville Intermediate title four years ago. He also was captain of the high school rugby team and is an enthusiastic tennis player. Excepting tennis, he is interested in little athletics. At Queen's he played two seasons of rugby, basketball and was captain of the team in his second year. Last year he played rugby and basketball with the Gaels.

With graduation only a few months away, "Kip" Summers plans to enter the merchandising field. He has had extensive experience in buying, selling, costing and marketing problems, and it is in these fields that his previous experience at university will be of the most use.

Peter Smith On Concert Tour Of Great Britain

Peter Smith, son of the Rev. Arthur Smith and Mrs. Smith, Bloomfield Road, Bloomfield Anglican Church, is on a concert tour of Great Britain.

Peter, one of Canada's outstanding young pianists, has been in England for three years taking postgraduate work at Cambridge after graduating from the Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

He is presently touring Great Britain with a company of nine musicians for the National Arts Council. The tour includes 63 performances in 60 towns and centres in Britain and will continue until next spring.

Peter, who has given concerts in Belleville, has been a featured soloist on the CBC national network. He spent the summer of 1954 in Italy on a special scholarship.

Cost Accountants Elect Officers

The Belleville Chapter of Certified Public Accountants recently held their annual dinner meeting.

The meeting was well attended by C.P.A.'s and students-in-accounts of Belleville, Trenton, and near-by communities.

Discussion included matters of professional interest and of five-year course of study conducted by the extension department of the University of Toronto for the 310 students throughout the province.

Chapter officers elected were: Chairman, Harold A. Fraser, C.P.A.; treasurer, Charles H. Ewing, C.P.A.; secretary, Phillips M. Till, C.P.A.

Joe Docter Will Endow Home in Wife's Memory

Joe Docter, New York financier and a former resident of Belleville, has announced that he is endowing the Marie Foyle Home for Old Folks which is being opened in Towanda, Pa., in memory of his wife. Towanda, her native town, is a beautiful community in the picturesque hills along the main line of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Stephen Foster once lived here, Joe recalls, and French patriots once developed a settlement here in the hope that King Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette would reside there.

Forefathers of the Rockefellers also lived nearby. The Lehigh Valley Railroad is making a study of homes for old folks along its lines in order to be able to supply information upon request."

Teen-Agers Read Bible Through

WYCKOFF, N.J. (AP) — Teenagers early today completed a marathon reading of all books of the Bible which got under way Christmas night in the Wyckoff Reformed church.

The church bell was rung 66 times for each book of the Bible when the last of some 75 young persons finished her final chapter of the Book of Revelations at 12:14 a.m.

Rev. Wilbur L. De Revere said the reading began at 11 p.m. Christmas night and lasted 73 hours and 14 minutes.

"They did it as a kind of Christmas gift to the church and community, giving up hours of their Christmas vacation," Rev. De Revere said. The boys and girls who volunteered for the inspirational project alternated reading passages, with boys taking the overnight shifts and sleeping in the church between calls.

Give Your Old Christmas Cards To Paul Mercier

Calling all old Christmas cards! Don't throw away those Christmas cards which were received prior to the Yuletide. Instead bundle them up and drop them in at Paul Mercier's jewellery store on Front Street. He has a use for the cards which will help make small patients happy at the Hospital for Sick Children, in Toronto.

The young patients use the cards for cut-outs and other use killing projects.

Last year Paul collected 1,600 pounds of cards which were forwarded to the Hospital for Sick Children and he is doing a repeat this year.

So do a good turn for the young patients and the next time you are down town take along your old Christmas cards and leave them at Mercier's.

Hot Election Shaping Up In Frankford

FRANKFORD — A red hot election with contests for the reeveship, for council and for school board in shaping up for the village of Frankford on Monday.

Contesting the reeveship following the resignation of George Montgomery, are Wilmott Rose and Leonard Reid.

Nine are in the field for the four seats on council with Mrs. Mary Sickle, Frank Rabet, Frank Strickland, Jack Waterbout, C. Mikel, Elmo Gainforth, Allen Lawes and Clarence Adams having qualified.

Seeking election to the school board are William Rose, Clayton Kemp and Paul Spurrell.

George Montgomery, resigning this year as reeve after a term of several years in office, received acclamation for the public utilities, succeeding Wilmott Rose who is competing for the office of reeve.

Four Children Burned in Fire

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—A woodworker's four small children died Wednesday in a fire which swept the family home in the upper peninsula town of Newberry, 60 miles west of the Soo.

The victims were Bernadine Sevarn, 5; Arthur, 4; Karen, 3, and one-year-old Bobbie.

Their mother, Joyce, 24, told police she went to a neighbor's house to use the telephone. She glanced out a window and saw flames spouting from the annex, a one-storey frame home. Intense heat and flames prevented rescuers from reaching the trapped children. Their father, Arthur, 27, was working at the time.

Police said the blaze may have started from a wood stove or defective wiring.

Cold Tea Makes Husband Boil

TORONTO (CP)—Cold tea makes John W. Strickland boil.

The 21-year-old truckdriver was fined $25 or 10 days Wednesday on pleading guilty to assaulting his wife during a quarrel over a pot of tea.

His wife, Beverley, said she had boiled the kettle to supperboil. Dec. 6 and was pouring the water into the teapot when her husband complained the water wasn't hot enough.

She said he hurled a spoon, a fork and the salt-and-pepper shakers at her. Strickland said that was so but still maintained: "The water wasn't boiling. It was cold."

COOK IS CHARGED

PARIS (Reuters)—Daniel Havas, a 45-year-old pastry cook, was formally charged Wednesday night with attempting to destroy a public building by placing a time-bomb in Sacre Coeur church here on Christmas Eve. Police said Havas had told the examining magistrate he only wanted to protest against the arms race and nuclear weapons.

London Mother Of Regiment Is Improving

GORLESTON, England (CP)—Jenny McGregor Morris, London mother of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, hopes to be up and around by Easter.

The motherly woman who opened her home to Canadians during two world wars has been confined to bed at her home in this Norfolk village since suffering a coronary thrombosis about five weeks ago.

"You can tell my friends in Canada I'm doing fine even if I do have to stay in bed," Miss Morris said today.

Miss Morris "adopted" the PPCLI during the First World War and her then London home at 34 Bedford place was the spot to which most members of the regiment headed when on leave. She again opened her home to Canadian troops during the Second World War and each Armistice Day was a practice of placing a wreath at the cenotaph in London in the memory of members of the regiment lost in battle.

WON'T TELL AGE

In 1837 she visited Canada to renew acquaintances with many she responded regularly with about 600 Canadian veterans.

A fire at her home was stricken she was making arrangements to ship her collection of regimental mementoes to the PPCLI depot museum at Currie Barracks, Calgary.

But not even to complete regimental records will Miss Morris reveal her age, turning aside all queries on the subject with a laugh and the rejoinder:

"I'm as old as my tongue and a little older than my teeth."

Manitoba's Mineral Production Is Record

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's oil and mineral production reached a record $38,000,000 compared with $19,745,817 last year.

Oil production would be about 1,200,000 barrels against 2,148,448 in 1954. Wellhead price of oil averages $1.40 a barrel, putting output value at $10,080,000 compared with $3,156,000 in 1954.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Selected issues advanced in moderate first-hour activity on the stock exchange today. Life of a project forward though some profit-taking appeared.

Utilities were firm. Light, selective demand gave financial institutions, rails and manufacturers an improved appearance. Pressed Metals gained 4 cents at 19¼ and touched a high of 19¾ as a change in control of the company was announced. Inter. Nickel was off a point.

Coast Copper continued strong among mines, adding 25 cents at a high of $7. Most senior base metals gained narrowly. United Keno added 20 at 86.50 on reporting improved earnings.

Uraniums were trendless, trading in the range of a few pennies. Kerr-Addison added ¼ among golds.

Calgary and Edmonton eased ¼ and Pacific Pete and Merrill Pete gained the same amount in a narrowly-mixed western oil section.

Should Restore Balance of Arms In Middle East

--- Croll

TORONTO (CP)—Senator David Croll said Wednesday night the Western powers should restore the balance of arms in the Middle East to avert a recurrence of violence between the Arab states and Israel.

He told a Toronto audience the Soviet bloc's supply of arms to Egypt, "a meddling and sinister attempt to upset the Baghdad pact" gave the Arab nations notions about strength they do not possess.

The Baghdad pact is a British-sponsored military alliance of Middle Eastern powers.

"The arms must be balanced" he said. "Then the nations will be able to sit around a table to discuss lasting peace, to straighten out boundaries and provide compensation for refugees."

Mr. Croll recently returned from a two-week visit to Israel.

Farm, Stock Of Slain Man Sold at Auction

MELBOURNE, Ont. (CP)—The farm and property of Daniel Mullins, found slain in his pig pen Dec. 4, were sold at public auction Wednesday.

The 200-acre farm, 20 miles south west of London and near the Muncey Indian reserve, the farm buildings, livestock and equipment sold for $40,000.

Mr. Mullins died without having made a will, and Administrator has been appointed to divide the estate among relatives.

Police Chief Gordon, 32, a Muncey Indian, has been committed for trial on a charge of murder.

British Mother Appeals to Queen For Son's Life

LANGOLD, England (Reuters)—A British mother who believes that her soldier son may have been kidnaped by guerrilla terrorists in Cyprus as a hostage, Wednesday night appealed to Queen Elizabeth to barter her son's life for that of a 20-year-old Cypriot under sentence of death for terrorism.

The soldier is Lance-Corporal H. Gordon Hill. The Cypriot is Michael Karaolis, who was sentenced to death for murdering a policeman in a Nicosia street.

The soldier's mother, Mrs. Lilian Hill, 47, wrote to the Queen: "It appears that his (her son's) life may be forfeit if sentence of death passed on Michael Karaolis is upheld by your Privy Council. "Please, I beg you, intercede with your Council (the Queen's top body of advisers on constitutional matters) on my behalf.

"Let them release the youth.

"Your Majesty, as a mother, will understand the torment I am going through with knowing what fate awaits my boy."

Doctor Seeking To Strengthen Ties in Tour

WINDSOR (CP)—An Australian doctor seeking to strengthen ties between the two senior Dominions of the Commonwealth was here Wednesday on the first round of a cross-Canada tour.

Dr. Marryn T. Judge quit his practice in Sydney, N.S.W., to spend two years getting Canadians interested in Australia and persuading them to visit the country, particularly for the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne.

Dr. Judge said he also wants to get Canadians interested in New Zealand, his country's Commonwealth neighbor, and in the South Pacific islands.

His passport for the trip is a personal letter of introduction from Australian Premier Robert Menzies. He has 1,000 color slides and 12 color sound movies with which he illustrates his lectures. He also has a trailer to show some United States groups.

TO TELL ABOUT CANADA

On his return to Australia the neurologist, wildlife expert and student of Biblical history will tell Australians about North America in the hope about Canada's way of life.

"Everything here is big and this vastness has done something to the mental and spiritual approach of the people," he said.

"It has led to loftier ideals than appear to exist in countries like Australia and New Zealand. There is much here we can teach the people 'Down Under'."

Given Two Years For $24 Robbery With Toy Pistol

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves Letourneau, 26, was sentenced Wednesday to two years in the penitentiary for planning a $24 robbery—with a toy pistol he had bought as a Christmas gift for his four-year-old son.

The son never got the pistol. His father protested minutes after robbing the Harris bakery in the northeast section of the city Dec. 22.

Letourneau told judge Henri Masson-Lorenger he was separated from his wife and had custody of his son. He said he lost his job and didn't know what to do. "I wanted to buy my son a Christmas gift so I bought him a toy gun.

"Then, as I was walking along the street I saw the bakery with only two girls inside and I decided I would stage a holdup," he added: "I am here because I love my son."

DIES IN CRASH

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Theresa Hughes of Pembroke was killed Wednesday night and her brother and sister injured when their car collided with a CPR train at a level crossing near here.

Pembroke is about 90 miles northwest of Ottawa. Injured was Mrs. Laurence Lauzon, 43, and Dorville Lepierre, 45.

Feeds Two Sons 190 Aspirins, Then Calls Help

NEW YORK (AP)—A 40-year-old mother fed her two young sons 190 aspirin tablets Wednesday night following a quarrel with her husband, police said, but frantically summoned help when their suffering wrenched her heart.

The two children, Bruce Blackwell, 8, and Keith, 5, were taken to a hospital in serious condition. They were reported improving today.

Police said the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell, gave the tablets to the children while upset from a quarrel with her husband, Joseph, a salesman, who left the home after the fuss. She was quoted as saying she planned to help her son live after the children died.

She told officers she fed each of the children 95 aspirin tablets and that they lapsed into comas. Soon they appeared to be suffering terribly, she said, and she couldn't stand it any longer. She called police and begged for help.

Business, Financial Forecast for 1956

By Roger W. Babson

1. If no unforeseen event happens, President Eisenhower will be re-nominated and re-elected in 1956.

2. The Republican party has an excellent chance of winning in 1956 with President Eisenhower making a few key speeches and promising to be an active part of the Administration. He is trained to take responsibility and enjoys it; but the President should be relieved of speech making, entertaining, and much of the detail work which gives wife being President.

3. Competition will be very severe in 1956, and with few exceptions will cause business profits to be less in 1956 than in 1955. Too many manufacturers, not satisfied with their present good business, are starting to make other products and undercut standard prices.

4. Higher wages may also be expected in 1956, and these could reduce profits. These higher wages, however, will largely be spent and should increase retail sales.

5. Increased advertising appropriations will be seen in 1956. In fact, advertising appropriations for newspapers, magazines, television, radio, and billboards have helped our prosperity, or it would not have been through so long.

6. The recent policy of the money managers in the direction of "squeeze" will be shifted to "ease" sometime in 1956. This will cause not a flood but a slow and easy business decline that may start next year.

7. Liberal credits to the purchasers of houses, automobiles, washing machines, televisions, and various other items have been somewhat curbed, but will continue to be a strong support to many industries, through 1956 at least.

8. If the Republicans are re-elected in 1956, great sums will continue to be spent on defense and new plant expansion. The effect could well be another "turn up" in the Babsonchart Index of Business.

9. Despite the decline in family formations, the baby boom will still swell as through 1956. The reason: More parents are willing to have four, five, and even more youngsters. The result: A tremendous, unsatisfied demand for all kinds of necessities,—housing, food, clothing, children's, etc.

10. All told, I look for 1956 to be the second best business years in history—just a shade off from 1955. Predicted declines in the key auto and residential building industries will largely be offset by rising expenditures for roads, sewers, and schools—and by increased demand for electricity, natural gas, and foods.

REAL ESTATE

11. The main handicap to retail business in 1956 will be intensification of the parking nuisance, but this is getting so terrible that a corrective solution may be in sight. Shopping centres are a partial remedy and will help suburban property. But only 10 per cent will be active in the suburbs in 1956.

12. Cities will condemn old buildings and provide thousands of parking lots in 1956. As this is done, city property values will gain—but only when we see no price improvement during 1956 in city business property.

13. Building costs will average higher through at least the first half of 1956. This means that fewer new homes may be built next year.

14. With demand falling and money more expensive, speculative builders of new homes will have to watch their step more closely in 1956 than in any year since the ending of World War II.

15. Durable dwellings will probably continue in demand through the whole of 1956 if they are well located; but cheaply built ones probably will be totally abolished during 1956.

16. With the trend of currencies showing a tendency to rise, owners of the newer and more costly apartment buildings will find their profit margins somewhat lower in 1956 than at any time in recent years.

17. Commercial farms need not suffer during 1956. Increased efficiency and new machinery should offset price declines.

18. Owners of small scattered farms will suffer during 1956. They have not the volume or capital to cut costs enough to offset reduced prices for their crops.

19. Farmers within ten or fifteen miles of a city can "beat the game" by selling out at the increased prices which their land will bring for subdivisions. Many such owners of small, poor farms will become subdivisions during 1956.

20. What will in all the real estate situation should average only moderately below the good level of 1955. However, activity promises to be less and those who have been holding real estate for speculative profits might do well to consider selling.

INTERNATIONAL OUTLOOK AND POLITICS

21. Russia will keep out of war with us during 1956.

22. There will be one or more small wars during 1956. Both sides of the conflicts will try to secure help in the form of munitions from both Russia and the United States, but none of these will develop into serious conflict.

23. The "cold war", now existing between Russia and the United States, will continue through 1956.

24. The hydrogen bomb and the guided missile will have more influence on international affairs than diplomatic trading during 1956. This trading will hold down the price of big-city property.

25. The Republicans will turn slightly "New Deallsh" during 1956 and this will bring on a lively and interesting Presidential campaign.

26. Democrats are uncertain as to what their policy will be in 1956. Stevenson is a liberal; but more conservative than many Democrats. Refavver appeals to the masses, while Harriman leans to the left. However, some "dark horse" may run off with the Democratic nomination.

27. Some taxes will be reduced during 1956. These cuts will try to favor all voters slightly; but the largest benefits will go to low-income groups.

28. The farm problem—concerning higher price parities—will be the centre of most political fights.

29. The cost of living will increase only slightly during 1956. We, however, must not forget what weather can do to produce crop failures and even to the stock market.

30. All the above means that there is now in sight no reason for further inflation during 1956. Certainly, I look for no runaway price climb.

OUTLOOK FOR COMMODITIES

31. I am not a crop expert, but my associates' forecast for 1956 is as follows: (1) Further acreage reductions that will be largely offset by soaring yields resulting from improved cultivation; (2) expanded farm subsidies that will mildly bolster crop prices and farm income somewhat with the 1955 averages.

32. Although wheat and corn prices depend upon both shifting weather and foreign conditions, for 1956 I forecast moderately higher prices for these major grains, based on the acreage that will be voted by Congress.

33. Industrial prices will enter the new year on a high plateau and should be well maintained to possibly firmer during the months of 1956. Later, as business falters, look for selective easing in this group.

34. Steel in 1956 will average higher in price than for all of this year. Do not look for any price rise in this key metal, even if business slackens.

35. Nonferrous metals in 1956 should move with the Babsonchart Index. High prices to early winter may be the best time to sell such issues. Zinc and lead may be the first to give a tip-off to the entire group that a business recession is riding for the greatest fall.

36. Processed and nonfarm foods should advance only slightly in price as increased labor costs are offset by new machinery and competition intensifies. Early firms in textiles should be followed by some late-year weakness.

37. There will probably be more leisure time during 1956. This should help the entertainment group, including sports, travel—and possibly the petroleum industry.

38. During 1956 I hope that school teachers will be paid more than they were in 1955. We have increased municipal taxes, school committees must stretch some money to cover the increases in the efficiency of the schools, or reducing the time necessary to get through school.

39. More people will continue during 1956 to return to the help of religion. However, statistics on church membership unfortunately cannot be entirely depended upon.

STOCKS AND BONDS

40. Interest rates will start the year at high levels, but should be lower by the end of the year as building industry. The present Administration will not allow high money costs to bring about unemployment.

41. Seasoned dividend-paying stocks will do better in 1956 than other speculative issues. Stocks will follow individual prospects more closely, with less emphasis on the business entirety.

42. There will be one or two bad breaks during 1956. Railroad securities, public utilities, and real declines are likely in auto and residential-building-materials stocks. Utilities will hold up best.

43. I am not making any extensive recommendations, but for the direct selling, well-considered, undervalued situations for security and good long-range prospects. Firms that have a great confidence are the top-ten group of variety chain store stocks.

44. If the rallies continue to be less impressive than the declines in the stock market, I feel that the money market will become tight enough before long.

45. Bank, Insurance Company, and certain Investment Trust stocks should continue to be a refuge for the uncertain investor and for those who seek security rather than a chance for increase in prices or market-ability.

46. Aircraft stocks in 1956 may suffer from increased government renegotiation. This will be a serious threat if the Democrats win next autumn.

47. Soundly financed natural gas stocks should continue to enjoy favorable trends for years ahead.

48. We will hear much more about new industry and new inventions during 1956. Many very important developments are on drawing boards and in test shops.

49. Canadian stocks have reached their peaks for this cycle. This should be a particularly true year. On the other hand, the time is coming when the greatest stock market profits will be in connection with Canadian stocks.

50. Economic education will continue more and more a factor throughout 1956. The advertising which the New York Stock Exchange is now subsidizing will be followed by similar drives by labor-union and educational programs. The growth of colleges and institutes of business administration will continue. I now see no depression ahead for 1956, but, of course, stock prices will not "grow to the skies" and there must be a sad readjustment some day. Investors are already beginning to switch from speculative to preferred stocks, and especially to non-taxable bonds.

TEACHERS TO DISCIPLINE TEACHERS

Elected president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' federation at the annual convention in Toronto, Jack Callan, Ottawa collegiate teacher, is congratulated by Margaret McLeay, Fort William. The convention decided to issue a "document of approval" for all teachers, a move designed to stop individual teachers from "strilling" from one school to another.

OLDER BOYS' PARLIAMENT

Eric Snider of Waterloo, Ont., adjusts his robes after being elected speaker of the older boys' parliament opening in Toronto at the Ontario legislative assembly chambers. Congratulating him is Cameron Hill of Preston, Ont., who was elected premier. The boys' parliament passes legislation which is carried out by the boys' work board of the Ontario council of Christian Education, sponsor of the annual session. (CP Photo)

$53,400,000 Held By Government

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has $53,400,000 waiting for several thousand Canadians who just haven't bothered to claim it—some for as long as 40 years.

The money is for government securities, bought years ago, which matured and without being presented for final settlement. They no longer earn interest for their holders.

The finance department, which holds the money, has no way of estimating how many people there are with rightful but still unmade claims. The oldest outstanding securities are $4,000 in 1935 First World War bonds. There are also many First World War savings certificates, many of them sold to students of that day who now would be adults.

Outstanding are $72,200 in 1915 war savings certificates and $3,000 in 1917 certificates.

Tardy Censors Prevent Rio Paper Publishing

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—One of Rio de Janeiro's leading morning newspapers failed to appear today and blamed delays in military censorship.

An official of Correio da Manha said the proof of page six of the paper still was at the war ministry two hours after the press run usually starts.

Censorship to prevent criticism of the legality of Brazil's provisional government was decreed last month. The opposition newspaper Diario de Noticas was raided Wednesday and all copies of that day's issue seized because it published an editorial critical of censorship. It said the censors were blocking publication of even official statements.

After this incident censorship by civilians was restored by a ruling that page proofs must be submitted to the war ministry. Censorship applies only to Brazilian publications, not to news dispatches sent abroad.

SPEAK ON EXPANSION

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of Canada's two big railway systems said Wednesday their companies are playing a part in the country's economic expansion. In separate year-end messages N. R. Crump of the CNR and Beverley Gordon of the CNR spoke on accomplishments of the transportation companies in 1955.

Minister Gives Formula for Good Teacher

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario Wednesday gave his formula for success as a teacher: Smile.

"You have to be in good humor to be a good teacher," he told delegates to the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation annual convention.

"As soon as a teacher gets to be a bore his usefulness as a teacher simply disappears," said Dr. Dunlop.

"Teaching is fun. Spread goodwill and happiness, which is the big objective of all sensible people."

A FAIR TEST

In Australia, numerous would-be pilots have been shot down in flames—by the Queen of England, of all people.

Her Majesty, we learn, has an unfortunate habit of tumbling out of the back seat of an airplane, on the test questions in the Royal Australian Air Force examination paper for trainees.

"What is the first thing you would do," they are asked, "if you were piloting aircraft and the Queen of England fell out of the back seat?"

The hapless trainees are thus confronted with a type of incident which has not been covered in their course of instruction.

This is as an emergency—and many of them immediately go into a flap.

Some of these drive their aircraft in an attempt to catch her before she landed. Others, no believers in miracles, can think of nothing better to do than report the incident briefly and remain in the area as a guide to the position of the accident.

Few, if any, rise to the emergency and adjust trim tabs to make allowance for the loss of a passenger.

The Royal Australian Air Force examiner who dreamed up that question deserves a medal. He managed to devise a method for duplicating, in the peace time examination paper, the atmosphere of emergency which would be common to a multitude of incidents in the air.

If he had asked what they would do if "a passenger" fell out of the aircraft, many of the trainees would have thought of those trim tabs.

But if a passenger actually fell out of the plane, the sudden change in the pilot's judgment would be at least as great as losing the Queen of England while sitting at a desk.

The question has been termed a tricky one. It is—but so are actual emergencies. It is a fair test of clear thinking. Those who flunked it need not complain.

On the other hand, people are afraid that a pilot who at once begins to trim tabs in the examination room after the Queen of England fell out of his plane, would ever allow panic to wreck his plane no matter who or what fell out of his aircraft when he was involved in the air.

WILL EISENHOWER RUN AGAIN?

Will Eisenhower seek a second term as president of the United States?

That question will be answered early in the new year because 1956 is an election year in the U.S. and candidates seeking the presidential nomination will be campaigning actively in a few months.

President Eisenhower's decision to run, or not to run, will be his. Some doctors have told him that they will advise him about his health. Whatever decision he reaches about the presidency, however, will not be a physician's recommendation, but his own considered judgment. The decision will be as difficult as any which Eisenhower ever made as a soldier or statesman.

It would be folly to believe that the doctor's verdict and reports from Republican Party chieftains will not play a significant part in Eisenhower's ultimate decision. What advice party leaders might give, however, is not certain.

Some predict that the Republicans can retain the presidency only if Eisenhower runs again and may try to persuade him to run against all other considerations. There is, however, very real danger that a campaign and re-election would be a death sentence. It can hardly be said that a president of the United States owes his partisans or his fellow countrymen anything more than four years of service from the White House. Presidents have died in office but no one, after having served his country and his causes as long and as faithfully as has President Eisenhower, could be blamed if he feel obligation to seek to perform additional service when that service almost certainly could mean death.

While President's health is uncertain as it is, there is every likelihood that should he decide to head the Republican ticket, the voters would find themselves really voting for the vice-presidential candidate. Should someone be named as any preceding president, has enlarged the office of vice-president to encompass a multitude of government functions. But the office is still one of waiting. A strong vice-presidential candidate is now a political necessity not a political expediency. The voters, however, should not be as set to vote for a team with a man on top and one on the ballot, because of poor health, may not be able to assume the duties of office.

It is unlikely, in view of all considerations, that Eisenhower will seek a second term as president. His decision will have to be made within a few months to give his possible successors an opportunity to campaign for the presidency. Should he change the president continues in office with no announced decision about seeking re-election, the harder it becomes for aspirants to oppose their ambitions and the harder it is for any party to present a united front. It would be unseemly and unwise, should the president decide to run, for certain of his colleagues to announce their candidacy because the president, should he seek the nomination, would be almost certain of securing it.

As a servant to himself, to his party, and to the American electorate, President Eisenhower should decide soon what he plans to do about the nominating convention just seven months hence and announce his decision.

SMALL BOY'S COMPLAINT

"I had an ice cream soda yesterday
And a large sugar bun.
And I remembered that I romped
in play
And had a lot of fun."
"Yes," said the mother, "but today you're ill
And you must lie very still."

"And I had pie at dinnertime," replied
The fretful little lad.
"Yes," said the mother, "Come,
be satisfied!
A hunger time you had.
But you are very feverish today
And can't get up to play."

"I don't see why I have to stay in bed.
I want to play some more,
And I want lots of sugar on my bread,
Just like the day before."
"Come," said the mother, "do not whimper so
Because your good times go."

How like our little boys are we who whine
When trouble finds our door,
Thinking that every day the sun should shine
And wanting more and more;
Needing the mother still to say:
"Be glad
For all the joy you're had."

Are Comic Strips Art?

(By Ignatius G. Mattingly in Harper's)

It may almost be set down as a law of cultural history that the vulgar amusements of today are the highbrow art of tomorrow. The opie, the Italian opera, the Elizabethan drama were all regarded at one time as entertainment of a rather low order, until at length the critics came to their senses by proving that these things were art and henceforth to be taken seriously.

In our own day, the process has been widely accelerated: we have seen, one after the other, the rise to respectability of movies, radios, dime novels, hillbilly ballads, even detection. In fact, the only medium a serious intellectual does not need to hoop track of these days is the comic strip.

Theoretically, one would suppose, almost all of the artistic techniques employed to other media would be applicable to the comics, but in practice the serials rely either upon realism or upon reinterpretation of myth. In recent years the realistic strips have become the most numerous and most popular, but they vary greatly in the degree of their artistic pretensions.

The broad purpose of a great many of the realistic strips is similar to that of the novel before it became an academic exercise; that is, to depict the manners of a period of social mobility. They frequently have a strong educational, for movement from lower middle class to upper class. Frequently the interests of the social are ignored in comic strips so as seldom as the interests of the old life on either assembly line or pole vault or corporation lawyer are to trample.

Instead, we see respectable occupations glorified. We can be invested with a certain degree of dignity, which is denied us in the experience of most readers: athletes, private detectives, policemen, police officers, military men and doctors. Here, say the strips, are fields which can be entered even though you lack money, family, breeding . . . or talent.

Notwithstanding the brilliance of the best of the realistic strips, none of them finally escape from the fact that the medium is one that is well suited to the realistic technique.

Realism demands the accumulation of telling detail, and only so much telling detail can be manipulated in pictures two inches square. Realism demands, by definition, take straightforward advantage of the possibilities of the camera with its unlimited range of views.

An artistic strategy which would seem better adapted to comic strips is the reinterpretation of myth. The most complete ones are such strips as "Phantom" or "Superman," which are obvious translations to modern settings of the old adventures of folk heroes like Hercules or Theseus. And of course there is more than a tincture of heroic myth in many of the basically realistic strips.

The real master of the use of myth is Al Capp. His "L'il Abner" began as a simple, hillbilly version of pastoral life, criticizing by implication and sometimes by direct contrast urban—that is, real—life. Gradually, however, as Capp has worked up two elaborate and opposed categories of characters. The first group, based on the immense body of fertility myth, consists of the Yokums and the "Shmoos;" "Drutbers," the seeds which are so delicious that one would "almost as soon eat them than do anything else (recalling particularly myth of the Cuhua-eaters); and the hair of Li'l Abner's brother Tiny, with its remarkable climactic and harmonic properties. Associated with these symbols is the simple, unambitious populace of Dogpatch.

Opposed to them are the city symbols, the fun-loving country of en Lower Slobbovia, and a set of opportunistic city people ranging from General Bullmoose to Cedric Oddwicke, Tiny's schemin' wife.

Capp manipulates this symbolic apparatus to expound in satirical terms with which he is familiar, Christianity. The Shmoos, for example, represent, like the lowers in the days of the Roman Empire, esque abundance which is available to all men if they will but live in peace like the residents of Dogpatch—for which reason Capp says he has put it, "is one great Shmoo."

But the promise of Shmoodom is deferred, unfortunately, because of the guilt of the entire Occidental —which is in all of us.

Instead we have Lower Slobbovia, the land of illusion, which is their native land and are kept from returning to it by a sense of guilt—symbolized by the "bald tigers," whose guilt is that they have not need lest it force him to tell the horrible truth about himself.

Unfortunately, it is impossible to do Capp justice in a general survey of the field like this one. Nor is it possible to do full justice artistry of Milton Caniff, whose adventure strip with T. S. Eliot, deserves a separate study. To find his genius in the ness of invention combined with control over material, one must go back to Leonardo da Vinci.

Comic strips are a serious art form because they are the first medium really needs now is a set of critics who will tell them that they are, define the genres, catalogue the conceits, and elaborate the aesthetics.

The time is not far hence when there will be such critics, and our children will be given great godlike "Orphan Annie" or "Gasoline and Jeff" as homework. How they will amuse themselves on Sunday mornings when their problem

Annual Wage May Aid Firms

(Christian Science Monitor)

The man who says he formulated the idea "workers who live by the year should be paid by the year" is Sumner H. Slichter, a now president of a manufacturing company. As such he is faced with a solution demand for the "guaranteed annual wage."

How does he feel about it? What does he think of it?

As an employer he probably feels he must wrestle with the union over it, and perhaps in the end on terms possible. As an economist-statistician he has had a chance to range quite a little wider than the struggle immediately to engage him. He has been seriously pondering.

Harold J. Ruttenberg, once economist with the steelworkers union and now president of Stardrill-Keystone, Inc., has had a hand in writing in a recent number of Harper's, he says:

The guaranteed wage program of the unions may break my company and others as well as me. David Sarnoff, fellow Golfath surviving employers will be hiring their labor on an as-needed basis, no matter election time in 1960.

Why? Because newly merged labor will be so strong it can force its demands on industry. Mr. Ruttenberg doesn't give that as his reason. In fact he believes annual-pay would be a good thing because annual pay will work more to the advantage of business leaders than of labor leaders.

The end result will be to bring employment more under control with management by way of their own estimates of the future. It will sweep up the security of the worker far more closely with the continuing solvency and prosperity of the firm than does pay by the hour or day. It will reduce the number of "benefits"—like overtime, reporting pay, travel time, shift differentials—for the winning of which union leaders have claimed much of their usefulness and shared little of the responsibility. The employer will be on the steady lookout for efficiencies which bulwark steady annual pay.

Speaking for himself, at least, Mr. Ruttenberg says: "We are not afraid of the annual wage. We want it."

Jurors' Pay Inadequate

(Hamilton Spectator)

A mild shudder in the solid of justice might be felt when the government of the administration amendments to the Juror's Act which provides that jurors' pay will be reduced from thirteen to seven members, as position of the Lieutenant Governor early next year, and the twelve-strong jury will be abolished in civil cases shived from January 1. Twelve when I say that the pursuit of some Justice, it is generally conceded, is the best safeguard for the liberties of smaller juries, while the rare criminal trial is entrusted to the general sessions and Supreme Court assizes will likely be appreciably.

The jurors, apart from earning their keep, have the responsibility of their fellow lay citizens, will still earn the fee of six dollars a day, but this applies primarily to those sent to the Editor that this creates a hardship. Jurymen are often more reluctant to serve on jury panels because their employers cannot be asked to make up dollars a day.

A juror, however, is empanelled for a two-week period, and whether he is chosen to hear a case or not, he receives his money. Two fees are six dollars, plus travel allowance. While salaried citizens may not likely to be out of pocket, and certain firms make it their policy of their hourly-paid personnel who serve on a jury, there are some, including farmers, who feel this duty of privilege rather a hardship.

Perhaps a system could be evolved whereby higher remuneration may be paid out of the savings resulting from use of smaller juries. Few can afford to afford to lose income in performance of this important function of justice.

The Happy Child

(Peterborough Examiner)

Congress of child specialists say that they have not clear explanation as to why bobbies smile. Presumably the idea that a baby might sometimes feel happy is too much for them. They seem content to coast along without a diagnosis as long as they get their "shots" as scheduled. If perchance one should summon the courage to ask the doctor what the trouble is, the doctor can usually create embarrassment by patting the poor sucker on the shoulder and saying "Now, now, you keep on with your treatments and let us worry about that."

From the young woman's letter, although she didn't put the suggestions in words, I got the impression that it might be a good thing for all concerned if the doctor were required to give the patient, the patient's guardian or next of kin a written diagnosis or at least a signed statement of his or her opinion of the nature of the "shots" before prescribing manifest curiosity as to what ails or administering treatment.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NOTHING BUT RELIGION

Almost forty years ago Lenin made this prediction to the students of revolution in Moscow: "We will find our chief enemy in the infiltration of Marxism within the field of religion. Because religious people are the most gullible and will accept almost anything if it is couched in religious terminology."

Lenin made this statement after he had discovered that he could not destroy the Russian church. He therefore changed his tactics and decided to infiltrate the church so that the religious folk could be persuaded to cut their own throats. Above everything, Lenin insisted that the infiltration in religion was to be played down and if possible eliminated, and sermons extolling the state and advocating economic equality for all be substituted for sermons on Christian doctrine and life.

We do not know today to what extent Marxism has definitely invaded the field of religion. We do know however that in many ways churches the supernatural aspects of religion are being played down, with the result that sermons are often little more than lectures on politics, economics, sociology or psychology.

Why should we allow ourselves to be persuaded to commit spiritual suicide? The message of the Bible is clear; but the world is not interested in it. Let us preach religion, think religion, a practise religion—and nothing but religion.

Fish for Italy

(St. John's News)

An Egyptian steamer which we believe is the first of her kind to visit this port has just cleared for Italy with about 10,000 quintals of light-salted fish. It is our second shipments made or to be made to the Italian market this year of that special quality of hard-cure fish which Italians have always sought in this island.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

You Want a Written Diagnosis?

The doctors in this town, (in the southwest) are nearly all specialists or "Doctors of Internal Medicine," who do not answer calls to patients' homes. They are always "in consultation" and can't leave the office. Very often, as I well know (I have worked in several local "klinks"), the consultation that keeps the specialist tied up consists of a line of patter calculated to persuade the patient to submit to a series of "shots" of one thing or another, which the nurse administers at $5 to $10 a jab.

The foregoing observations were made by the wife of a young suburban physician. She comments further on a peculiar circumstance, namely, that many of the "shot" customers exhibit manifest curiosity as to what ails them. They seem content to coast along without a diagnosis as long as they get their "shots" as scheduled. If perchance one should summon the courage to ask the doctor what the trouble is, the doctor can usually create embarrassment by patting the poor sucker on the shoulder and saying "Now, now, you keep on with your treatments and let us worry about that."

From the young woman's letter, although she didn't put the suggestions in words, I got the impression that it might be a good thing for all concerned if the doctor were required to give the patient, the patient's guardian or next of kin a written diagnosis or at least a signed statement of his or her opinion of the nature of the "shots" before prescribing or administering treatment.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Davy Crockett, while he lasted, created quite a terrific slaughter amongst the raccoons of America. Not a day goes by nowadays but coats the college boys and girls affected in the nineteen twenties but have the wit to realize they've suffered such a pogrom as the past year. It is admitted that probably a millions of the little Davy Crockett caps the children wore were imitations, made out of rabbit or scrap fur the trade could find. But enough of them, with genuine raccoon tails on baby coon, were coon killed out of season, to have exterminated them in the woodlots and bush of America, from Guatemala to Prince Edward Island, from the tips of Florida and the California peninsula all the way up Alaska and the very top of Vancouver Island.

The raccoon is one of the handful of larger mammals that are to be found in the full length and breadth of Mexico, the United States and across the full breadth of Canada, and are one of the more visible animals are regional. Not Procyon Lotor, as he is called in the textbooks. Except in the Canadian north, he should be perhaps the most familiar animal on the continent.

He has multitudes of friends and multitudes of enemies. He is clever as a fox, and a fox can't climb trees and has not got opposable fingers, the raccoon, in the opinion of wild life experts, is one of the greatest predators we have. A fox will not willingly swim. A raccoon, coming a wild duck's nest a few yards out on a stump in a pond will swim five times that long in thirty seconds. He can reach into holes. Many a wood duck nesting in a hollow tree or friendly nature lovers is robbed by raccoons. Not only is a raccoon equal to most problems of the wilds, he can open screen doors, manipulate the handles of ice boxes, pull the lids off garbage pails and generally get into the pace after.

Among his friends are not only the coloured and southern negroes of the woods, but hound men. All over America, especially in the east and south, coon hunting at night with hounds is a very widely followed sport. Not only do the coon hounds but too hear the hounds hunting and baying the hunters, and thanks that the squads of coon hunters spend the autumn and winter nights scouring the woods and fields, tramping the pastures and woods with lanterns, or gathered around bonfires, to hark to the music. The coons are killed when treed or cornered, but the hunters find and find them in that curious way that fox hunters are fond of doing.

The Davy Crockett craze was welcomed but by none a sportsman more than by the coon as a predator. Farmers who grow corn will rejoice. But many a hound man and many a cottager will miss the raccoon for a couple of years, in many parts of the continent.

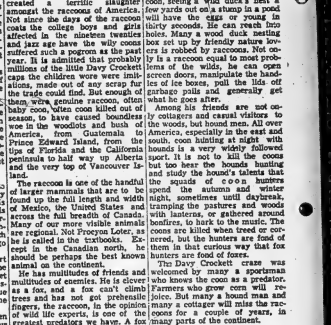
JOY IN PURSUIT

Nothing is so inspiring and stimulating as to have a purpose in life. Hence, one reason for so many failures in life is that they have no idea as to where they are going or what they are trying to do or be.



Fabre produced many an absorbing book on the insects that he occupied most of his time, W.H. Hudson roamed the vast pampas of Argentina, and later the fields and byways of England, pursuing his favorite birds. Not that his books are all intensely interesting and fascinating, but also fascinating prose. His intimate letters emphasize his joy in all.

Did you ever know of a genuine artist who wasn't forever pursuing his subject, matter? And what joy he, or she, has in this thrilling occupation! There is no better joy in doing the one thing you would rather do than anything else, no matter what that work may be.

POLICE, ANTI-BRITISH SUDENTS BATTLE IN ATHENS

Greek university students staged a giant demonstration in Athens last week after a bomb exploded in the British Institute. The rioting students clamored for closing down of all British establishments in Greece. Strong police detachments dispersed the students who had gathered to hear a speech by the dean. The scene shows a lone policeman being "rushed" by the angry mob in one of the main streets of Athens.

A policeman has his stick poised in mid-air as he grabs a rioting Greek student by the coat during the mass demonstration staged by university students in Athens. Police had their hands full dispersing the students, and many police and students were injured. (Central Press Canadian).

Raise U.S. Flag Over Byrd's First Two Camps

LITTLE AMERICA (AP) — The United States flag has been raised once again over the desolate remnants of Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd's first two camps in the Antarctic.

Explorers from the navy icebreaker U. S. S. Glacier arrived here Wednesday to find only the tops of two radio towers and five other poles sticking above the snow which buries the earlier camps.

The radio towers were originally 70 feet tall and were erected in 1928 at Little America I, Byrd's first camp. With only eight feet of the towers remaining above the surface, this camp now lies under about 60 feet of snow and ice.

Little America II was built on top of the original site. Five wooden poles from the second camp, now 40 feet below the snow, protrude above the surface.

The Glacier was the first vessel of operation Deep Freeze to reach the original Byrd camp. Experts aboard surveyed the floes sea ice shelf to find an appropriate site for the new camp which will serve as a base for U. S. Antarctic scientists here during the next three years.

Use Earthquake Waves to Explore Oceans' Bottom

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An ingenious method of using earthquake waves to explore the ocean bottom has been reported to the American Physical Society.

The procedure already has discredited a long-standing theory that the moon was formed when a great chunk of the earth was hurled into space, leaving a vast hole now filled by the Pacific ocean, said Dr. Frank Press, one of the scientists who developed the method.

It also has produced some other surprises, he added. One of these is that there are no "hot continents." This refers mainly to a legend that there once was a continent called Atlantis and that it sank into what is now the Atlantic ocean.

The quake wave explorations show, Dr. Press reported, that all submerged land has been under water for a long time, and that one part of it did not get there later than the rest of the ocean bottom.

Fifty natural earthquakes are better than 10,000 man-made blasts for revealing bottom secrets, Dr. Press said. The jolt they produce is enormously greater than an explosion.

For the observations the scientists used "surface waves," which travel like sound in water, and a deeper wave which hits some of the rock formations above bottom. The deep wave travels four times as fast in rock as in water. By timing its arrival at a given distant point, an observer can tell how much rock it has gone through. With many quakes and many observations scientists can get a detailed picture.

Admits $12,000 Theft

TORONTO (CP) — Accountant William G. Jones, charged with the theft of $12,000 from BEPCO Canada Limited, said Wednesday he gambled the money away in downtown hotels.

Jones, who pleaded guilty, was remanded to Jan. 4 for sentence after he testified he sold his car and television set to pay back as much of the money as he could.

Police said Jones, who had power-of-attorney over the company's bank account, had converted the money to his own use during a two-month period.

SAVED CHILDREN BY DROPPING THEM INTO FIREMEN'S NET

Michael Denchyk, 33, saved himself and two children from certain death in a Toronto apartment house fire by dropping them from the third floor into a firemen's net then jumping himself. The fire started in a vacant second floor apartment, spread rapidly to the Denchyk rooms on the third floor. A third child was rescued by firemen. (Central Press Canadian).

Given 60 Days For Beating 4-Year-Old Boy

TORONTO (CP)—A man who said he had lots of experience with children and had been a Sunday school teacher was sentenced Wednesday to 60 days for beating a four-year-old boy.

Robye Figuary, 22, was charged with beating Joey, son of Mrs. Jeannette Levigne, the woman with whom he had been living.

Evidence was that the boy had been left with Figuary while the mother went to work. She returned to find the boy badly beaten.

TCA Passengers Up 13 Per Cent During Past Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines carried approximately 1,680,000 passengers this year, an increase of 13 per cent over 1954.

TCA president G. R. McGregor reported in a year-end review that "memorable" 1955 activities marked the airline's carriage of its 10,000,000th passenger since scheduled trans-continental air service was started 18 years ago.

Revenue passenger miles this year totalled $14,000,000 on North American services, while another 153,000,000 miles were flown on overseas routes. Passenger carrying capacity was increased 16 per cent.

It was the year in which propeller-turbine aircraft—the Vickers Viscount — were introduced to North America and scheduled all-cargo service was inaugurated for the first time in Canada. There was a general growth of passenger, freight, express and mail traffic.

NOW AMONG BIGGEST

TCA's routes now spanned more than 22,000 miles in Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, Ireland, France, West Germany, Bermuda and the West Indies. The airline, which began with a 122-mile route, today reads with the world's biggest air transport outfits, Mr. McGregor said.

He added that by introducing turbo-prop Viscounts last April 1 TCA took the initiative in opening a new era of flight in North America that will, "in due course, see aircraft of the propeller-turbine and jet types dominating the air transportation industry."

White, baby chrysanthemums, and Christmas poinsettias, interningled with evergreens, adorned the home of Mrs. Kenneth Sine, Harold, Ontario, for the marriage of her sister, Jean Alice Roushorn of Sault Ste. Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roushorn of Toronto, formerly of Queensboro, Ontario, to Leslie Sted Holmes of Queensboro, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes. The Rev. E. D. Sneigrove of Sydenham, Ontario, officiated at the ceremony which took place on Monday, December 26, at 2:00 p.m.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered to the strains of the Wedding March from Wagner's "Lohengrin" lovely in her embroidered white nylon net over slipper satin, fashioned in ballerina length, with fitted bodice having long sheaths like sleeves pointed over the wrists, and scalloped, pointed neckline. The full skirt was enhanced by a tier-on-tier redingote overskirt. She wore a white feathered pillbox hat and fingertip veil, and carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of red roses tied with lacelon ribbon.

Miss Sheila McEvers of Sault Ste. Marie, attended the bride, wearing royal blue velveteen, featuring a scalloped neckline, scalloped cap sleeves and flared skirt with scalloped hemline. She wore elbow length mitts, a royal blue feathered velvet hat, and carried a Colonial nosegay of pink carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. James Devolin of Toronto.

At the reception, which was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Sine, the bride's mother, attired in teal blue dacron crepe with white accessories, and corsage of white rosebuds, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore burgundy wool crepe with matching accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The bridegroom's grandmother, who received, attired in black silk crepe, powder blue accessories and corsage of pink and yellow rosebuds.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes left by plane for Montreal and New York City. Upon their return, they will reside in Morrisburg, Ontario. For travelling the bride chose a pink wool dress with full-length muskrat topcoat, brown suede shoes, purse, green suede gloves, and corsage of pink rosebuds.

Guests were present from Oshawa, Toronto and Schumacher.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at three showers in Sault Ste. Marie, and a miscellaneous shower in Toronto.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Plans Future Events

The regular monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League was held recently in the school hall. The president, Mrs. H. Carr-Brainf, opened the meeting. Twenty-four were present.

The 1st vice-president reported the membership to date as 85.

Two generous donations of clothing have been taken to The Madonna House at Combermere, it was reported by the 3rd vice-president. Members had been asked to donate food, and goods for the baskets for the needy.

The radio and TV convener spoke of the "Christopher" program on CKWS at 7:15 on Sunday which would be enjoyed by all.

Plans for the annual "Valentine Tea" in February to be held in the school hall, were discussed.

A spring bazaar will also be held the first week in April. Recipes for the cook book were requested for the January meeting.

A note of thanks was made to Mrs. J. Anton for the splendid success of the raffle on the $100 bond.

The business part of the meeting completed, the members enjoyed another answer and question series with Father J. J. Buckley.

A pleasant time was spent with the exchange of small gifts after which some games were played topped off by delicious refreshments served by Mrs. C. O'Neill.

Wilson's SINCE 1875 GINGER ALES

Mr., Mrs. Albert Reid, Foxboro, Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Christmas bells and golden wedding bells rang merrily on Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reid, Foxboro, in honor of their golden wedding anniversary, when friends and relatives from Preston, Tweed, Madoc, Gilmour, Paris, Ontario; Stirling and Ottawa came to bring them gifts and to wish them many more years together.

The home was beautifully decorated with golden streamers and golden-hued chrysanthemums for the occasion. Mrs. Douglas Thompson received the numerous guests at the door; while Miss Carol Reid had charge of the guest book in which 118 names appeared.

The table was dainitly appointed with a gold-colored lace cloth, centred by an attractive arrangement of golden 'mums flanked by gold-trimmed, white candles in silver holders. Those who served included Mrs. Murray Reid, Mrs. Lorne Hagerman, Mrs. Arnold Gray and Mrs. Harry Wickett.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid were married 50 years ago on Christmas day at Bonariaw Anglican church by the Rev. A. F. Bickmon, rector of the church. For the most part of their married life they farmed in Huntingdon township, at Ivanhoe, until about ten years ago when they moved to Foxboro. Both are enjoying excellent health. Mrs. Reid attends to the needs of her household, while Mr. Reid interests himself in daily chats with his former friends, keeping abreast of the times.

Their immediate family presented them with two platform rockers upholstered in gold thread tapestry; while other gifts included golden yellow woollen blankets; golden embroidered tablecloth and gold trimmed cake plates.

The community joins in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Reid congratulations, and the best of good wishes for the years that lie ahead.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

S. Hastings D.Y.P. Hold Bowling Party

On Wednesday evening, South Hastings District Young People held their annual bowling party at the Bowl-O-Drome in Belleville with around 110 young people present.

Following bowling, the young people were invited to Tabernacle United church where Ralph Swan, president, extended a welcome, to all from the executive.

Leila McColl, assisted by Evelyn Emerson at the piano, led a sing-song.

North Trenton Young People's Union conducted the worship service which opened with the call to worship read by Jim McKee. After the singing of "Almighty Father, Who Dost Give", Jim McKee led in prayer. The Scripture lesson taken from Romans 12, was read by Betty Smith. A poem entitled "Live and Let Live", was read by Helen McKee, followed by the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Helen McKee closed the devotions.

Ralph Swan expressed appreciation to North Trenton Union for giving of their service.

The young people from Tabernacle church served hot chocolate and doughnuts which were enjoyed by all.

Christmas Concert

MARSH HILL CHURCH

MARSH HILL — On Wednesday evening Marsh Hill Church was filled with pupils, parents and friends of the Marsh Hill public school for the annual Christmas concert.

Mr. David Hollinger, superintendent of the Sunday School, gave everyone a most hearty welcome and called on the Rev. R. F. Darke to perform the duties of chairman.

A musical playlet, entitled "Santa Claus' Helpers," was presented by the pupils under the supervision of their teacher, Mrs. John Good.

Due to the illness of the music supervisor, Miss Grace Pitman, Miss Janet Good presided at the piano.

Master Randy Grey, of Plainfield, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Earl Grey, sang two solos, "I Ain't Gettin' Nothin' for Christmas," and "All I Want for Christmas is My Two Front Teeth."

Mrs. John Kingston, of Belleville, gave an instrumental number on the guitar and mouth organ.

Miss Mona Swan and Miss Beryl Swan of Belleville, accompanied by Mrs. Ivan Clare, sang two duets, "The Lowly Stranger" and "Star of the East."

Miss Elizabeth Finkle and her mother, Mrs. L. Finkle, played a piano duet, "Good King Wenceslas," and "Now Sing We All Merrily."

Miss Marilyn Finkle and her mother, Mrs. L. Finkle, played a piano duet, "Silent Night" and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

At the close of the program Santa arrived and distributed the gifts. All the children received a bag of candy from the Sunday school.

THE PROBLEM OF LARGE HIPS

Dark skirts worn with light tops help to conceal overly wide hips.

One of women's major figure problems involves large hips. Actually, however, when she complains of hips which are out of proportion to the upper part of her body, the average woman is correct only if such poundage not only on the hips, but on the thighs and buttocks. And while she can, to a certain extent, keep the poundage under control by means of a well-fitted girdle, it would be far better to exercise it off. There are many effective exercises which will lower the measurements in these areas and none of them is difficult. However, they cannot work miracles overnight so, until you have taken off the necessary inches, your best bet is to wear clothes which conceal rather than call attention to this figure problem.

One of the first things to remember is to avoid tight-fitting frocks. Many women delude themselves as to believing that if a skirt fits tightly over the derriere, it gives a slimmer effect. Nothing could be further from the truth. The tight skirt actually gives a "rump-sprung" look, so give yourself some room. Face the facts. If you're a size 16 above the waist and an 18 below, buy your frocks in the larger size and have the bodice altered.

In wearing separates, don't wear a dark top with a light skirt. Reverse the procedure so that the lighter, brighter color of the bodice will attract the eye while the dark skirt minimizes the hippiness. Adding to width above the waistline is another way of playing down the derriere. This can be done in many ways—with big collars, wide lapels, interesting scarves and boxy jackets. Large belts also accomplish this purpose. And the strategic placement of costume jewelry directs attention from the hips, too. Lapel watches, fobs or large pins worn high on the bodice or at the shoulder line are perfect eye-catchers.

Where fabrics are concerned, avoid the shiny ones since they practically scream "overweight" and be extremely careful in selecting prints. Don't wear a pattern that breaks in such a way as to hint at the offending pounds. The present vogue for bolero and pseudo-bolero is a boon to the large-hipped woman since they give the boxy effect so necessary to offset too, as long as they end well below the widest part of your figure. The main point to remember is that, in selecting either dresses or suits, confine yourself to styles which do not "break the line" where your figure is widest.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ORDER OF PROCESSIONAL AND RECESSIONAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the proper line-up for the processional and the recessional when the attendants in the wedding party consist of a maid of honor, one bridesmaid, best man and two ushers?

Processional: first, the two ushers, walking together; next, the bridesmaid, alone; next, the maid of honor, alone; last, the bride and her father or whoever is to escort her. Recessional: first the bride and bridegroom; next the maid of honor with the best man; next, the bridesmaid, alone; and last, the two ushers. Norfolk.

OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to the wedding of the only daughter of very dear friends of ours. We used to live in the city where they live, but now we live in the distance from them. They've written nothing to us about putting us up when we go to the wedding, and we are wondering what to expect about this. It is to be an evening wedding, and it would not be possible for us to return home that night. — M.R.

You and your husband, as guests, are expected to make your own arrangements about your stay in the city where the wedding is to take place . . . and the bride's family are expecting you to do this. Perhaps, since you once lived in their city, you and your husband may be invited to stay with friends there, when they know that you are planning to come. If not, you will know what hotel to write to to make your reservations.

Women's Activities

ESTHANT W.M.S. AND W.A.

The Christmas meeting of the Esthant ladies was held in the evening at the home of Mrs. David Martin, with an attendance of 22.

Mrs. Bert Martin, president of the W.M.S. was in charge of the worship service, the theme being "What Child Is This?" The carol, "O Come All Ye Faithful" was sung and duet music was rendered.

Mrs. Bruce Martin acted as narrator for several Scripture passages of the Christmas story, and Mrs. Harold Pound read the "Magnificat." These Scripture passages were interspersed with several Christmas carols. Mrs. Clara Sills read hymn 131 as a prayer.

All joined in repeating the General Thanksgiving and Mrs. Bruce Martin gave the benediction followed by the group response singing the Threefold Amen.

Mrs. George Sills prepared the interesting program. Mrs. Russell Blitz sang a solo, "Will You Still Say to Him, No Room?" Mrs. Sills gave a reading, "A Guiding Star in the Dark."

Mrs. Horace Casey and Mrs. Gerald Eggleton rendered a duet, "Lying in a Manger, See the Child." Mrs. Bert Martin gave a reading on "Christmas."

Mrs. B. Martin conducted the business period. Mrs. Herb Bowes was appointed as supply secretary. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. George Sills.

Mrs. Harry Martin gave the secretary's report. Mrs. Harry Walker gave a temperance reading. A stewardship reading was also given by Mrs. John Ritz and Mrs. Walter Easton and Mrs. Russell Ritz are to prepare the next program.

W. A.

Mrs. Grant Cole presided for the business of the W.A. The treasurer, Mrs. David Martin, gave her report. A letter was read from Mrs. Walter Elliott regarding the Albert College fund and a discussion followed.

The hostess and her third line assisting served refreshments and a social period followed.

RHINESTONES glitter in the insert in the bodice front of this formal dinner dress, a long-skirted beauty. The color is carnation blue that is not quite navy and the material is pure silk peau de soie. It is draped across the hips to a panel in back which hangs loose. The net is the same blue with a lighter shade for the underlay.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — A large number attended the Christmas Service on Sunday morning in Marsh Hill church.

The choir sang as an anthem, "While Angels Sang."

Miss Gena Vanderwater, of Toronto, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater, sang as a solo "The Cradle in Bethlehem."

The Rev. R. F. Durks delivered a Christmas message.

New Year's Eve Party at Home

By Mary Moore

A polite and neat little letter states "I am having a New Year's Eve party . . . Here will be 12 of us, all close friends, and I would like to serve something informal building the menu around turkey or ham . . . served from buffet table and card tables in the living-room."

Doubling there are hundreds of Canadian couples staging just such friendly get-together on New Year's Eve. I know of one crowd who is congregating in the new ranch-style home of one of them in the new recreation room and taking all of their assorted children who will sleep in the New Year.

Thus in one sweep baby-sitters' fees, public entertainment costs are nil. Upstairs, filling the beds to capacity with little sleepy people, are their precious cares. The fun is made by home hospitality—the very best kind—sadiness perfunctions.

It will take 3 columns' worth of space to work through the menu I've planned so let's get on with it.

NEW YEAR'S EVE BUFFET

Sliced Cold Turkey or Sliced Turkey in Savory Sauce
Tomato Aspic Molds or Avocado Halves with Shrimp Filling
Hot Sesame Rolls
Rosy Cream Roll
Horn of Plenty Fruits and Nuts
Variety Cheeses Coffee

Nothing, absolutely nothing, looks more tempting than an abundant platterful of cooked, sliced turkey; hot or cold. If you serve it cold provide colorful relishes such as cranberry-orange. If you want it hot and your turkey is cold wrap the slices snugly in in foil and heat through in slow oven and serve with (or heat in) SAVORY SAUCE FOR TURKEY

Simmer 1 1-2 cups chicken broth (canned if necessary) with 1 tablespoon each chopped onion, celery, carrot and parsley, 1-4 bay leaf and 1-3 or 1 whole peppercorns for 15 minutes. (Water with two chicken bouillon cubes is a good substitute for the broth too.) Strain. Melt 1-3 cup butter, stir in 1-4 cup flour, then stir in the strained broth and 1 cup milk until thick. An egg yolk may be stirred in if you want it richer. This is a good base for turkey gravy.

Is king too. Double this amount to serve 14.

TOMATO ASPIC MOLDS
(Serves 10)

Simmer together for five minutes 4 cups tomato juice, 1-4 cup each chopped onion and celery, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 bay leaf and 3 whole cloves. Strain. Soak 3 tablespoons plain gelatine in 1-4 cup cold water then dissolve it in hot juice. Add 3 tablespoons lemon juice and chill until partially set then fold in 1 cup finely chopped celery. Pour into molds to set.

AVOCADO HALVES WITH SHRIMP FILLING

Cut well-ripened slightly soft washed avocados in halves, discard stones but do not peel. To 1 recipe for Seafood Cocktail Sauce 1-3 cup each chili sauce and catsup, 1-3 cup horseradish, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoons Worcestershire) add 3 cups cooked de-veined fresh (or drained canned) whole or broken shrimp. Brush cut surfaces of avocados with lemon juice to prevent browning. Fill centres with shrimp in sauce and serve cold.

(New Year's Buffet menu continued tomorrow.)

Christmas Concerts

SNARR SCHOOL

RAWDON — The Snarr School —7th concession Rawdon, held its Christmas concert at the school house under the direction of the teacher, Miss Enid Coombes.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher was chairman and the pupils sang two choruses, entitled "Christmas" and "I've Got the Christmas Spirit."

Leonard White gave a recitation and a play "Cure That Cold," was given by some of the pupils. Sharon Matthews and Nancy Tompkins sang "Jumping Jack." Mary Dracup, Jean Tompkins and Brenda Matthews sang "Little Son of Mary." A dialogue, "Farewell to Uncle John", and Mary Dracup song, "Frosty the Snowman." The audience then enjoyed a sing-song of Christmas carols. The seniors presented an evergreen drill and Nancy Tompkins sang "The Tattletale."

Lalabella Mathews, who is attending high school, and Kenneth Mathews contributed music. A play, "Wanted, a Housekeeper" and two songs, "All I Want for Christmas," and "Christmas Tree Angel."

The pupils of Grades 1 to 6 delighted with a dance number, and the juniors presented a novelty rhythm number entitled "Kids from the Kitchen." Janet Tompkins, who is attending high school and her sister, Jean Tompkins, gave a duet.

"The Scene in Bethlehem" was given as a pantomime.

The closing songs of the pupils were: "Two Fat for the Chimney," "Ting-a-Ling," and "Dear Old Santa," after which St. Nicholas arrived and distributed the various gifts.

SCHOOL SECTIONS 3-4

RAWDON — The pupils of S.S. No. 4, Williams School, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Doris Dunhan, and the pupils of S.S. No. 3, Allen School, under the direction of Mrs. Lorne Watson, held their annual combined concert in Mount Pleasant-Rawdon church hall, and despite zero weather, there was a capacity audience and the proceeds $42.

A number of guests were in attendance from other points.

Mr. Lindsay McKeown was the master of ceremonies and Miss Betty McConnell, music supervisor, presided at the piano. A large, decorated tree laden with gifts made an attractive corner, while the stage was decorated with evergreens. Mr. Kenneth Weaver manipulated the stage curtain.

The 38 pupils from the two schools gave as their opening chorus, "Christmas is Coming." Recitations were given by Nancy David, Ida May Bailey, Brenda Williams, Allen Wrightman, Douglas Potts, Jean Dunham, Kenneth Smith, Suzanne Bailey, Jim Fleming and Gail Potts.

The juniors gave a motion number entitled "Taffy Song," with Sally McAdam and Freddie McAdam in charge of the taffy duet.

Six seniors of the Allan school presented a dialogue entitled "The Wrong Present," 18 senior children gave a two-part song, "A Christmas Lullaby." A play, "Bringing up Junior," after which Ralph Reid gave a monologue, "Willing to Santa."

Judy Cooney, Ralph Reid, Gail Scott and Kenneth McConnell sang "Christmas in Killarney," and Shirley Potts and Joyce Cooney sang "Santa's Laughing Song." Ten children from the Williams School gave a "Folk Dance."

Ten pupils from the Allan school gave a flag drill in costume. A letter song depicting C-h-r-i-s-t-m-a-s and all that it stands for presented the full meaning of the word.

Five pupils sang "Nothing for Christmas"; Gail and Paul Jeffs contributed a vocal duet, "Wonderful Night." A play entitled "A Pearl of Great Price," stressed the Bible message and the audience sang two favorite carols. The program closed with "Jingle, Jingle," and the National Anthem.

Santa Claus, the bewiskered little man, arrived and distributed gifts and bags of candy to the children.

4TH LINE RAWDON SCHOOL

RAWDON — The Fourth Line Rawdon school pupils, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Gladys Sine, staged their annual Christmas concert at the school house with a large attendance.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher was chairman and Suzanne Murray gave the opening recitation, after which the pupils sang "Ting-a-Ling a Jingle."

Marlene Martin contributed a monologue after which Bob Green and Gerrard Ryan rendered a duet. Linda Drewry recited "A Letter to Santa." The children gave a dialogue in three scenes entitled "Auntie's Christmas."

Four girls from the 9th line, who were former pupils of Mrs. Sine, sang a quartet. Johnnie Murray recited "When Pa Puts Up the Tree." The school gave two choruses, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" and "Christmas."

Recitations were also given by Beverley Green, Donnie Mumby and Janet Murray. Harold Sarles rendered a piano solo and Linda Sine an accordion solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth led the audience in a sing-song of Christmas carols. Audrey Sutherland, Janet Murray, Marlene Martin and Beverley Green rendered "A Christmas Cake Song."

Two dialogues were enjoyed: "Horse Management" and "The Fortune Teller." Janet Murray and Marlene Martin sang "Tattle Tale."

A number of prizes, won by various pupils, were presented.

Jean and Anne Sutherland gave a duet and the juniors sang "All I Want for Christmas." Gerrard Ryan and George Mumby gave a humorous number, "Dinah's Disappointment."

The program continued with a pantomime, "Silent Night," a recitation by Susan Richardson and closed with a "Good-Bye" song after which Santa arrived and distributed gifts.

Buying, Accelerating Through Year, Topped by Record Christmas Trade

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadians in 1955 shopped as they never shopped before.

They spent close to $13,000,000,000 to feed and clothe themselves, to furnish their homes, to put new automobiles in their drive ways and to provide sports and play equipment for leisure hours.

Their buying accelerated as the year advanced and was topped off with a record Christmas trade.

REFLECTS EXPANSION

Despite the whopping figures, the action could scarcely be called a buying splurge or spree. Rather, it reflected higher incomes and expansion throughout most of the country and was a continuation of high buying of recent years.

It reflected such things as the building of 125,000 new homes for which at least some furnishings had to be bought and further furnishings for the hundreds of thousands of other homes built in recent years; and the birth of perhaps 440,000 children and the increasing needs of hundreds of thousands of older children born since the war. It reflected a bigger country in every physical sense and a bigger population.

At year-end all the expansion forces which made 1955 Canada's biggest year were at full throttle and forecasts anticipated that buying would be as big or bigger in 1956.

Even if some slow-down should develop in the over-all economy, incomes will remain high and it seems unlikely that purchases would slip dangerously. In 1954, for instance, when a slow-down hit some parts of the economy, people continued to buy and were credited with averting a more serious recession.

NOTABLE INCREASE

Late-year figures indicated total retail sales for the year of around $12,000,000,000 or about $700,000,000 more than in 1954 and $500,000,000 more than in the previous record year-1953. Christmas buying, however, may push the total higher when all figures are in.

Prairie sales reflected reduced farm incomes of recent years but sales in the later months yielded increases on the year.

Saskatchewan's sales were down 1.7 per cent in the 10 months January-October, but this arose from substantial decreases in the January-April period. They were up in August 9.1 per cent, in September 12.1 and in October 7.7.

The January -October detailed figures, the latest available, plus the fact that the buying trend was increasing at year-end, indicated the cross-country picture.

Total retail trade across Canada in the 10 months was $10,278,000,000 compared with $9,803,000,000 in 1954 and $9,852,000,000 in 1953.

REGIONAL STATISTICS

The figures by areas in the same period, with 1954 and 1953 figures in brackets, are millions of dollars:

Atlantic provinces 893 (833; 834). Quebec 2,374 (2,222; 2,253). Ontario 4,013 (3,752; 3,780). Manitoba 561 (517; 530). Saskatchewan 623 (634; 707). Alberta 804 (778; 812). British Columbia 1,111 (1,015; 1,010).

In November department stores reported the following percentage increases:

All Canada 12.5; Atlantic provinces 8.5; Quebec 10.6; Ontario 12.9; Manitoba 6.4; Saskatchewan 18.4; Alberta 18.3; British Columbia 13.9.

Automobile sales—including new and used parts and other automotive items—accounted for about 20 per cent of all sales in the 10-month period, or more than $2,000,000,000. This reflected new passenger car output in the 11 months, January - November, of 351,011 units compared with 259,465 in the same period of 1954.

EARLY FEATURES

Durable goods, including appliances and furnishings, were less future, especially of the early months, but as the year progressed buying extended pretty well across the board.

Television sets had "a terrific year," to use the words of one big retail executive—315,639 sets valued at $174,492,194 in 10 months compared with 438,701 sets valued at $131,690,788 in the same period of 1954.

Instalment buying increased. At June 30, the latest figure available, consumer credit totalled $2,098,000,000, up $208,000,000 in a year. Nearly half of the total was for automobiles.

Some concern was expressed that customers might be pledging too much of their future income and that the buying pace, if continued, might result in scarcities and inflation. The Bank of Montreal stated:

"If real inflation signs should develop, further restraining measures may be expected—perhaps a return to credit controls on retail purchases if the situation seems to be getting out of hand.

"One of the big questions at year-end was whether or not automobile sales would continue at the hot pace of 1955. Whether or not they do, automobile manufacturers are confident that they will make the expansions in their facilities to meet future demand.

Development of huge suburban marketing centres across the country continued in 1955 and the picture this year as last, and down, was of customers driving to locations to their parking space.

With the drive-in across the country hoped to get 1956 off to a fast pace with big January sales.

Miss Ruth Sharpe, who is attending Queens University, Kingston, is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sharpe.

Mrs. John Kaze will be hostess for the regular meeting of Hiver Valley Women's Institute to be held Thursday, January 19th.

The conveners Mrs. Glenn Bush and Mrs. Gerald Brooks will convene a program on "Community Activities and Public Relations."

The euchre parties at the school house will begin on Friday evening, January 6th, under the convenorship of Mrs. Rose Bush.

Miss Bessie McMullen, Halloway, spent the holiday week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson.

A severe cold spell visited Rawdon township for a few days last week. The thermometers registered as low as 22 below zero and stayed decidedly cold during the daylight hours. The extreme cold caused a break in the 44 K.V. transmission line and as a result the Trans-Canada highway for two hours Friday afternoon, while repairs were made.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruttan and children of Kingston spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ruttan. On Sunday they entertained Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ruttan and Mr. and Mrs. Ivanhoe Christmas Monday.

A Christmas service was held in the Rawdon church, December 25, at Mount Pleasant United church for the 11 o'clock service. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave a message on "The Pilgrimage to Bethlehem." Several members of Rawdon Young People's Union occupied the choir loft and rendered a Christmas selection. The congregation joined in carols.

There were 14 in attendance from Wellman's, two from Bethel and one from Station and all from Mount Pleasant.

The start of 1955 is on its way into history and soon 1956 will be here. May the New Year be full of happiness for you all.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Graver entertained in the Manse on Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacConnell, Brighton, spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Walker.

The First Company of Stirling Girl Guides donated Christmas cheer baskets and other treats to some of the village shut-ins on Monday, the 19th, with a festival gift exchange. The leaders took the girls in their cars to each home and before entering they sang a Christmas carol.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Green returned home on Sunday and Mrs. R. Barlow of Belleville.

Tom Patterson received an emergency call home as he was assisting in his father's store during the holidays.

Mrs. H. V. Hoover is spending some time with Mrs. Jennie Cook.

Miss Margaret McIntosh, Reg. N., who is taking a course at Western University, London, Ont., is visiting at her home and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McConnell, Fort William, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Ella McConnell and other relatives in this district.

Mrs. Walker is remembered as River Valley W.M.S. for its Christmas meeting. Mrs. Ernest Pitcher presided and read a Christmas poem. The group is forwarding $100 to Presbyterial treasurer for the year. The carol service as outlined in the "Missionary Monthly" was read.

The worship was centered around the Child in Bethlehem, and the Christmas Bible' story was told. At the close special holiday refreshments were served.

Storm Disrupts Air Travel And Shipping

LONDON (Reuters)—Gale-force winds disrupted shipping and air travel in several parts of Britain Wednesday.

The port of Liverpool, winds of up to 67 miles an hour prevented all ships, including the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, from leaving port.

Atlantic storms roaring over the British Isles also delayed some ocean liners.

Thunder, lightning and torrential rain at Glasgow airport caused a delay in the launching of a 7,250-ton cargo ship.

The motorway of a passenger train shot off the rails in early darkness near Grantham, on the line of Wight, today after striking a fallen tree. The coaches remained on the track and none of the 60 passengers was injured.

Probing Deaths Of 3 Brothers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police awaited the results of autopsies today in the deaths of three elderly bachelor brothers in their old-fashioned home in south St. Louis.

Bodies of the Hoesing brothers—Charles, 62, George, 64, and Henry, 57—were found in bed Tuesday night, clad in underclothing, by police who broke into the three-storey brick house.

Officers said the bodies were unmarked and there were no signs of violence in the home. There was also no note and no odor of gas lingered—they might have been asphyxiated. They used a coal stove for heating.

A thorough search for bottles, containers or other items that might have indicated poison deaths disclosed nothing. All doors and windows in the house were locked.

George Hoesing, a bookkeeper, was the only one employed. Charles was deaf and acted as the housekeeper. He took care of Henry, who was blind.

Wealth, Romance Cause of Split Says Newspaper

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says in a dispatch from North Bay that wealth and romance have caused the cause of a split in the family relations between the four surviving Dionne quintuplets and their parents.

The paper says this is the opinion expressed in North Bay "by persons connected with the quints and their family over a period of years."

The report adds: "Rebellion of the quints has been fomenting for years, from earliest youth the quints' life . . . has been a setting for discord, with jealousy among family members as the root of the trouble. . . ."

ANNETTE IS LOVE'

"What turned this family rift into a full-scale rebellion is not known. What is known is that Annette is deeply in love with a young man who is also in love with her.

"Money which the quints made as children has been the contentious issue out of which most of the problems grew."

The report says the parents, through statement to the Star on Tuesday, seem to be trying to use public disapproval as a lever against their daughters to force them to conform.

Safe Too Good

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Thugs who tried to crack the safe at Kennedy Collegiate Tuesday night had to admit defeat.

Police found tools usually used by safecrackers near the safe and a note saying: "You're safe is better than I am."

The note was scrawled in red pencil on the side of the safe.

Four Quints Plan to Visit Angry Parents Next Month; Meanwhile They Hold Party

HAD STRENGTH NOT EQUILIBRIUM

Joan Rhodes, the dancer who dropped comedian Bob Hope from her shoulders, causing him to break a finger and sprain his neck, shows her strength by tearing telephone books apart. And not one page at a time either. She bends iron bars and tosses comedians over her shoulder regularly but in the Bob Hope act she lost her balance and he slipped from her supporting arm.

MONTREAL (CP) — Laughter blended with gay music in a posh west-end apartment Wednesday night as the four Dionne quintuplets held a party and made plans to visit their angry parents sometime in January.

A spokesman for Yvonne, Anette, Marie and Cecile said the quints want nothing more than to patch things up with their parents. But, he added, they are standing firm in asserting their right to an independent life.

The sisters did not appear unduly concerned about the rift Wednesday night. Reporters outside their apartment doors could hear them chatting happily on the telephone over the sound of gay music.

When they rapped, they were answered by a youth in a checkered sport shirt. He smiled when reporters asked him whose boy friend he was and said he wouldn't tell.

DECENT FELLOWS

G. Harold Edwards, a trust company executive who befriended the girls while handling their financial affairs, arrived and told reporters before entering the apartment that the youth was an official of the theatrical firm.

"Anyway," he said, "their boy friends are all nice decent fellows, mostly students."

The quints declined to see reporters, letting Mr. Edwards act as their spokesman.

The girls are planning to go home to Callander, Ont., sometime in January. They originally planned to go home for New Year's but had changed their mind because it would seem that they were giving in to their father.

The rift came to a head open Tuesday when Oliva Dionne said the quints were ungrateful to him and his family and hadn't even sent a Christmas greeting.

Yvonne Leclerc denied her father's statement and said they had sent Christmas cards. They were unable to go home, she said, because she and Cecile were on duty at Notre Dame de L'Esperance Hospital for the holiday.

Annette and Marie had been patients at the hospital and after being discharged Friday were checked in, moved into the apartment.

Mr. Edwards said the quints wanted to be together at Christmas and therefore remained in Montreal.

"They love their family," he said. "But they want a life of their own. Many sons and daughters leave home every year to lead their own lives. They're not unlike the quints."

"For the first time in their lives they are exposed to their own decisions . . . they are enjoying a normal social life . . . they have friends of both sexes. They like to dance and listen to music and watch movies. They like the zoo and they get a big kick out of the circus."

The fifth quintuplet, Emilie, died last year following an epileptic seizure at her convent school.

In North Bay, Mr. Dionne said Wednesday that a press statement that "introducers" are coming between the quints and other members of the family is silly.

"Mrs. Dionne and I remained silent about the matter for a long time, but the embarrassment we are causing the girls by the separation became so great we felt obliged to make public how we felt."

Neither Annette nor Marie left the apartment Wednesday and when Yvonne and Cecile joined their duty at the hospital they entered the apartment by a back entrance.

Civic Reception For Soviet Chiefs Is Opposed

GLASGOW, Scotland (Reuters)—Five Roman Catholic Labor members of a town council near here Wednesday night were expelled from the local Labor party because they opposed a civic reception for Russia's Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

The five were expelled by a meeting of the constituency Labor party in Motherwell, leaving their opposition at the November council meeting to a decision to hold a civic reception for the Russian leaders during their projected visit to Britain next spring.

The expulsion will mean that the Labor party will no longer have a majority in the town council. The five, Charles Donnelly, Joseph Murray, Francis McCluskey, Patrick Duffy and Edward McCardle, told the Labor party executive committee Tuesday their stand was "from an "soul and conscience" grounds.

A statement after Wednesday night's meeting said they were expelled "for disobeying the Labor group's standing Orders." They have a right to appeal to the national executive committee of the party.

BRITAIN SENDS AID

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (CP) Britain has agreed to make available to the Grenada government up to £3,000,000 for rehabilitation following the devasting West Indies hurricane earlier this year, it was announced here today. Of this up to £2,000,000 will be a free grant and the rest a loan.

U.S. Plans to Unload Another 10 Million Lbs. Surplus Butter

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States announced Wednesday that it plans to unload another 10,000,000 pounds of surplus butter on the world market at cut-rate prices.

The butter, to be offered immediately on the commercial market, is in addition to the more than one out of government-owned stocks of slightly more than 50,000,000 pounds built up through the U.S. farm price support program. The U.S. agriculture department announcement came just a week after Ezra Benson, U.S. agriculture secretary, protested to Washington that its policy of selling surplus dairy products to the highest foreign bidder constituted unfair trading and was undermining New Zealand's traditional United Kingdom market.

Before Wednesday's announcement, the state department made U.S. plans known to Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Sweden, Denmark, and The Netherlands, all producers of dairy products.

Agricultural attaches of the six countries were notified Tuesday at a meeting here, arranged partly to meet protests that the U.S. was offering dairy surpluses without consulting them.

Informants here thought it unlikely that Canada would protest the butter offering since she is not a major butter exporter. However, Canada has in the past protested the competitive bid method of selling agricultural products on the ground it disturbs the price structure of world food markets.

There was speculation that the butter offering, announced with one made last spring, marks the start of an intensified drive by the Eisenhower administration to unload some of its food surpluses before the 1956 congressional elections.

The U.S. government now holds nearly $2,000,000,000 worth of surplus foods stocked up since the war. Carrying charges run to $1,000,000 a day.

NO ESTRANGEMENT WITH FAMILY, QUINTS REPLY

Through a friend the four remaining Dionne quintuplets have answered the public statement of their father that "outsiders" have caused a rift between them and the rest of the Dionne family. The Quints wish to live their own lives, but are not estranged from the rest of the family. They live in a luxurious apartment in Montreal, where Yvonne and Cecile are in training as nurses. Annette is studying music and Marie is recovering from an illness. Here is one of the most recent photos of them taken together. Left to right: Marie, Yvonne, Annette and Cecile.

Ever since their birth in log cabin at Callander, Ont., the quintuplets have been world famous. At still prefer to live together, separated places of five continents. Now 21 years old, they two their photos could be found in ect-of-the-way Emilie, who died last year.

Press Council Defends Rights Of Newspapers

LONDON (Reuters)—The Press Council, watchdog of journalistic ethics and good taste, today defended the right of newspapers to print "the lustier and more violent aspects of life."

But it deplored "the objectionable exploitation of public interest in the Royal Family by certain newspapers and periodicals."

The council, a voluntary body of British newspaper publishers, editors and news representatives, published its second annual report. It rejected a proposal that it be given disciplinary powers like those of the British Medical Association and the Law Society.

It suggests that a code of conduct be evolved and adopted in time by all British journalists.

"It would be a long and difficult process, because it involves reflections of taste in which there is so much room for honest difference of opinion," the report goes on.

"But in justice to the Royal Family and the nation, the process must be taken in hand."

LOOKS FOR CODE

The council said it hopes to establish a code "based on the decisions on the specific cases brought before it." It quotes a recent editorial in The Times:

"The race for mammoth circulations has led in some instances to disgraceful lowering of values. The battle for readers is being pandered to, not only in lasciviousness . . . but in social attitudes and in conduct as well."

The council comments that there is much truth in these strictures but adds: "It is easy to go on to condemn the popular press, rod and branch, and to find little or no good to be said for it. But that would be a mistake."

The faults should not blind critics to the very real virtues and value of the popular press, the council says. It lists as being among the services—"to expose injustices, to right wrongs, to give advice, to befriend the friendless and to help the helpless."

Paper Claims Prisoner Shot For Newsreel

PARIS (AP) — The newspaper L'Express claims that a French policeman shot an Algerian prisoner to death this fall for the benefit of newsreel photographers.

The widely distributed film strips show a man in uniform aiming his rifle at the back of a walking man. The target stumbles and falls as the man in uniform works the bolt of his rifle.

L'Express, an organ expressing views of the ex-premier Pierre Mendes-France, says in a story of 1955, printed with the picture strip:

"To permit newsreel photographers to make pictures on the war in Algeria, a prisoner killed one of his prisoners. This abominable affair is shown in Algeria Several officers are ready to testify before any commission of inquiry to the truth of these facts."

The French interior ministry, which handles Algerian affairs, had no immediate comment on the newspaper charges.

Rita Having Trouble Over Movie Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rita Hayworth's movie salary is $13,500 a week.

She must always be portrayed sympathetically on the screen.

Her fourth husband blocked the Hollywood comeback of her second husband.

These were among the disclosures made in court testimony Wednesday relating to the problems arising between big studios and big stars.

Miss Hayworth is suing her longtime employer, Columbia Pictures, for breach of contract. Columbia has a counter-suit against Miss Hayworth.

TELLS OF LOAN

B. B. Kahane, vice-president of Columbia, was a witness. He told how her fourth husband, crooner Dick Haymes, took over the dealings between Miss Hayworth and the studio. And, he said, the studio loaned Haymes $50,000 last year with a provision that Rita would pay it back at $10,000 a year.

The actress divorced Haymes a month ago.

Kahane said that the second husband, Orson Welles, whom he described as an "actor of great stature," was first choice for a top role in "Joseph and His Brethren," in which Rita was to have starred.

"I felt it rather a delicate matter," Kahane said, "so I suggested to Haymes that he ask Miss Hayworth and he replied: 'She wouldn't even consider it. Forget it.'"

"So we did," added Kahane.

SUMMONS SERVED

Other disclosures by Kahane were:

That Miss Hayworth's role in any picture must be the leading one; that the picture must be "glamorous and pathetic" for her; that the picture must be made in technicolor and that the budget must be $700,000 or above.

After court adjourned Rita told a reporter that Haymes had never consulted with her ex-husband Orson Welles casting.

As she sauntered out of the courtroom with Raymond Hakim, her latest romance, she was served a summons. It was signed by David Marcus, a lawyer who wants $25,000 for his services in Haymes' fight against deportation.

Two Runaway Monkeys Given Penicillin Shots

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two runaway monkeys were recaptured after snow and through icy trees, tops, set a staid research institute on its ear Wednesday by hollering they were caught and given a shot of penicillin. Where it hurt most, the report, to ward off pneumonia.

The monkeys broke out of their cages at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute Tuesday. Shivering in the bitter cold, they spent the night in an elm tree.

Wednesday, Humane Society expert set a trap, carefully baiting it with carrots and oranges. The monkeys, lured by the scent of the rape without springing it.

Then, a chase over ice and snow institute and Humane Society personnel finally cornered the runaways.

Pulp and Paper Production Set 10,400,000 Ton Record, Mills Not Able to Meet Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — Total production of the pulp and paper industry in 1955 was a record 10,400,000 tons, compared with 9,900,000 tons in 1954, says R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, in a year-end report.

In practically all grades of pulp and paper, there was a satisfactory increase in demand both at home and abroad; and for newsprint the demand was such that mills were not able to meet their customers' needs in full. Demand reflected not only buoyant economic conditions but also the increasing importance of wood fibre in all its forms.

Although three-quarters of the output of Canadian mills consisted of printing papers, the industrial use of wood fibre in North America far outweighed its cultural use; and the continent's output of industrial papers and paperboard was twice that of printing paper of all types.

TOPS IN CANADA

Pulp and paper was the largest single creator of Canadian wealth and accounted for 24 per cent of Canada's exports. The output of every grade of pulp and paper, except dissolving and special chemical pulps, increased during the year.

A startling situation arose in the market for newsprint in the United States, said Mr. Fowler where increase in demand was far greater than had been expected by everyone including the publishers.

United States newsprint consumption in 1955 increased by more than eight per cent, accompanied by a 10-per-cent increase in consumption in overseas markets.

The result was that a spot market for newsprint developed in the United States "in which U.S. publishers paid very much more per ton than regular contract prices."

During the last 10 years, Mr. Fowler continued, the entire Canadian newsprint industry had been running at capacity to meet customers' demands and annual production of mills had increased by more than 1,500,000 tons in that period.

BY INVESTMENT

The increase in capacity had been accomplished chiefly by the investment of many millions of dollars in improvements to existing facilities.

To meet present and future needs the industry's capacity must be extended further, and the building of viding new facilities was three times the investment and capital had not found the construction of new newsprint mills to be specially attractive.

Canadian newsprint production in 1955 is estimated at 5,200,000 tons compared with 5,984,000 tons in 1954.

Fifteen years hence, Mr. Fowler said, there will be another 40,000,000 persons on the North American continent needing wood fibre in various forms.

THREE CIVILIANS KILLED

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—Chinese Communist batteries on Taleng Island fired 673 rounds at Nationalist positions Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday, the Chinese Nationalist defence ministry said. The ministry added that three civilians were killed and 20 others destroyed in the shelling of Quemoy, three miles off the south Fukien coast.

Husband Did Not Absolve Wife In Statement

LINDSAY (CP)—Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan said Wednesday he is angry about press and radio reports that Earl Scriver, 39, fatally wounded his wife Christmas Day shooting, absolved his wife in a death-bed statement.

Mrs. Anna Scriver, 38, is charged with the murder of her husband, who was shot in the head with a shotgun.

Police said Wednesday reports that Scriver absolved his wife of blame in the shooting were incorrect. The reports, Mr. Jordan said, were prejudicial to the case.

He said in an interview:

"I'm going to find out where the report came from, it was definitely misjudgment."

Police said Mrs. Scriver told them she accidentally shot her husband as he drunkenly threatened to beat his two children, Lorette, 12, and Teddy, 12.

Urges Teachers Fight Desire For Security Among Students

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. A. A. Trueman, former university president, said teachers must fight the desire for security among students. He told the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that this desire denied the student dignity of the inner compulsion to make greater demands on himself. He rose above the level of achievements and performed great deeds.

Too many men and women are graduating from colleges without a special makeup that promised outstanding achievement, Dr. Trueman said.

The national film board committee, who has served as president of the universities of Manitoba and New Brunswick, said the "security mania" has killed education as early as the elementary schooling age so that by the time a young man or woman graduates, he or she has developed no stimulus for fresh and independent thinking.

Minds occupied with security hafe produced few great works, he said. At its best, security has come to mean safety from outside interference; at its worst, pro-

Mental Powers Of Elderly Persons To Be Determined

KINGSTON (CP) — Psychologists at Queen's University are trying to find out whether elderly persons retain certain special talents valuable to the community.

A research project, backed by a $5,500 grant from the federal veterans' affairs department, seeks to discover precisely the strong and weak points of older citizens' mental powers. Its purpose is to see whether valuable productive experience is lost in some cases through retirement at the usual age of 65.

Dr. Julian M. Blackburn, project director and head of Queen's psychology department, said in an interview Wednesday there is little doubt advanced years lead to a decline in some abilities.

INESCAPABLE PART

"Possibly this decline is an inescapable part of growing older, but just as possibly it may result from an habitual lack of practice of some abilities."

He said some persons, as they grow older, tend to settle into a specialized way of life which exercises only some of their abilities and others become rusty. The ability to learn also is reduced increased with age and experience.

The project involves interviews with dozens of elderly persons, each of whom spends five one-hour sessions with the researchers.

Airman's Body Found in Hotel

BANGOR, Me. (AP)—The body of a Canadian airman was found Wednesday in his hotel bed with a bullet wound in the head. A .22 calibre rifle lay nearby.

Detective Neal Ryder quoted Dr. Richard Duffey, medical examiner, as reporting Lionel E. Macdonald, 23, committed suicide. Macdonald was stationed at Clinton, Ont. Officials notified authorities at the RCAF base there of the death.

JOHNSTOWN

Bay of Quinte W.I., W.A. Hold Fine Meeting

JOHNSTOWN — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, Trent Road, Belleville, on the afternoon of December 14th. A nice number of members were present.

The president presided. A card of thanks was received from the Frost family. It was moved that flowers or fruit be sent as a gift of remembrance to the older members of the W.A. and to the shut-ins for Christmas with the convener in charge, also to give a donation to the Christmas Seal Fund.

The meeting was then turned over to the program committee, Mrs. John Reid and Mrs. Clayton Curtis. Several carols, "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Away in a Manger" were sung. A fine solo was rendered by Mrs. Clayton Curtis, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Mrs. Don Sandercock a reading, "The Herd Boy of Bethlehem," was well received and one of the new Canadians, Mrs. Nauchyen, pleased all with her Dutch Christmas song.

Mrs. John Reid, in her talk on the Christmas season, said: "We should not spend our time and money getting presents who can- not afford, but we should listen to the wise men who on that first Christmas morn followed the star to where the young Child lay and to the angel who said 'For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour which is Christ the Lord.' This morn is a special time to pay homage and give gifts to Him. We are so liable to fill our time with the business of making homage but we should make Christ the centre of things."

"We should give to those who have nothing to give in return rather than give to those who have plenty. Christmas is a time of giving for the Father gave His Son. Christmas giving started with the children and it is right that it is. We should stretch our circle of brightness to include someone who has not as much as we have, for in making others happy we will be happy ourselves."

A contest was then held, "Christmas Nuts to Crack," and was won by Mrs. R. Ketcheson. The meeting closed with "Jingle Bells" and an exchange of gifts.

Refreshments were provided by the hostess and conveners, ending a fine afternoon.

Camera Focuses Sport Highlights Of 1955

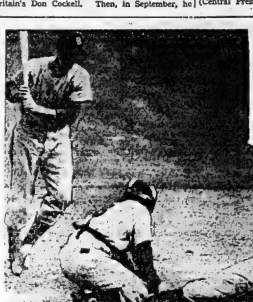
Youngest conqueror in history of the gruelling English Channel, Canada's Marilyn Bell missed setting a channel record by only 42 minutes. The 17-year-old swimmer is shown crawling ashore at Abbotscliffe, England, while Coach Gus Ryder watches.

Undefeated in 49 fights, Rocky Marciano crushed two more pretenders to his world heavyweight crown during 1955. The Rock first won a 9th round technical knockout in May over Britain's Don Cockell. Then, in September, he kayoed aging Archie Moore, left, once again in the 9th.

Moore did win the distinction of being one of the two boxers ever to floor Marciano. (Central Press Canadian).



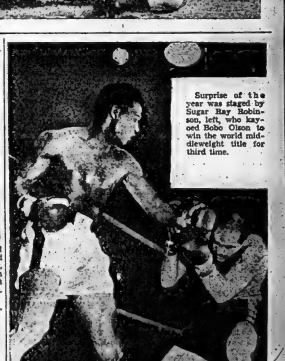
Voted Canada's football player of the year, Normie Kwong scored two T.D.'s as Edmonton clinched its second straight Grey Cup championship, downing Montreal 34-19 in Vancouver. Here the China Clipper hurdles Alouette's Tex Coulter (60) for a big gain.

Stunning upset over Britain's Randy Turpin brought fame to Gordon Wallace, above, light heavyweight from Brantford, Ont. Wallace kayoed Turpin, lightheavy king of the British Empire in 4th round in London. (Central Press Canadian).

Detroit sharpshooters Alex Delvecchio, left, and Gordie Howe helped bring Coach Jimmy Skinner, centre, the Stanley Cup in his first year as Detroit coach. Montreal forced the series to seven games before bowing to the powerful Red Wings.

One of the most thrilling plays in the World Series was this steal home by Dodgers' Robinson in opening game. Brooklyn dropped first two games to Yankees, but fought back to win their first world championship.

Horse of the year, Nashua won 10 races, including the Preakness (left), to become second highest money earner in history. Sale of Nashua to Leslie Combs for $1,251,060 set new record for thoroughbred sales.

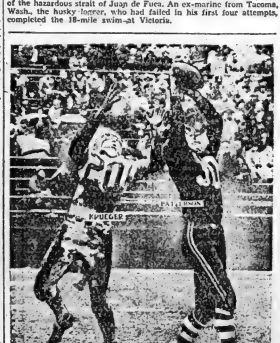


Canadian open golf trophy is a treasured armful for Arnold Palmer, U.S. rookie, for it represents his first major pro victory. Palmer's 265 total for four rounds was 23 under par, just two strokes behind the all-time Canadian open low of 283 registered by his namesake, but no relative, Johnny Palmer, in 1952. (Central Press Canadian).

Eleven hours and 17 minutes of dogged stroking brought fame and at least $3,000 prize money to big Bert Thomas, first conqueror of the hazardous strait of Juan de Fuca. An ex-marine from Tacoma, Wash., the husky hero, who had failed in his first four attempts, completed the 18-mile swim at Victoria.

Once again, Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe of Toronto scored a hit trick in figure skating, sweeping world, North American and Canadian senior pairs titles for the second straight year. (Central Press Canadian).

Surprise of the year was staged by Sugar Ray Robinson, left, who kayoed Bobo Olson to win the world middleweight title for third time.



Tony Trabert boomed his way to the three major tennis titles —French, Wimbledon and U.S. National before the U.S. net star turned pro. (Central Press Canadian).

Besides giving the U.S. a clean sweep of Wimbledon singles' honors, veteran Louise Brough crashed the ranks of all-time greats in winning her fourth Wimbledon championship. (Central Press Canadian).

After capturing the Queen's Plate, Larkin Maloney's Ace Marine went on to earn the title of Canada's Horse of the Year. (Central Press Canadian).

The cream of Canada's football crop in action on one field is a thrilling enough sight, but it was the resurrection of some old-time Canadian football plays that made our first East-West all-star game a memorable one. Fans saw quick kicks, dribbles and three return kicks in the last two minutes as both teams tried desperately to score the winning point. But the game ended in a 6-6 tie.

Major upset was scored by Jack Fleck, unknown Iowa golfer who copped the U. S. Open title by edging veteran Ben Hogan by three strokes. (Central Press Canadian).

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and arguing about diffrent things such as who had the highest Chrissmas tree and whether it's more fun getting just what you asked for or be surprized by something still better, and Shorty Judge's grandfather Mr. Peevy started to go past in his sailor hat and blue coat with brass buttons, saying, Well boys I hope you all had a nice Chrissmas.

What was the best Chrissmas you ever had, Mr. Peevy? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, I can tell you which was the most exciting one.

G, which? Puds Simkins said, and Mr. Peevy said, I was aboard The Black Scorpion, a notorious pirate ship. The pirates had exshanghighed me, so I had to be a pirate against my principals or else walk the plank. The captain was crazy on the subject of cleanliness and order, and he laid down a law that the crew wouldn't get their Chrissmas presents unless the vessel was as spotless and speckless and shining as a ship in a toy shop. So we fell to and and darned every moth hole in the sails and shined up our cutlasses like silver and polished the walking plank till you could see your face in it, he said.

Was the captain satisfied? Glasses Magee said, and Mr. Peevy said, He was as pleased as Punch. He would not even let the crew give chase when an armed merchantman hove in sight, for fear of mussing up The Black Scorpion again. He even ordered skull and crosss bones hauled down and a fake flag of the Canary Islands hoisted instead. But the merchantman reckonized us just the same, and opened fire, and the captain surrendered rather than have his spick and span ship splashed with goo, and that's how I was rescued from a life of piracy, he said.

And he kept on going smoking his corn cob pipe.

Habs Lay Egg Before Lumley's Defence, Leafs' Best Effort Of Season

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GUY CAN DREAM!

Our estimable colleague of the sports typewriter, one Michael J. Rodden, of Kingston, east o' here, let the dusty tomes of memory recline in peace over the holiday, and fanning his colorful rump, gazed long and wistfully into his pet crystal ball. And what Ki Miguel saw was amazing.

First to meet the Roddenian gaze was a large, beautiful tree, bereft of foliage but garnished with long strong limbs. "That," quoth he, meaning the largest, hirtiest limb in his vision, "would make a comfortable resting place." So, getting down on all fours, Michael, proceeded to climb until the far-off end bowed with his weight.

Miguel, clinging to that mythical straw usually connected with a guy that is going down for the third time, predicted bright things for his Goodyears. He wandered into the mystic land of make-believe, painting a colorful word picture of what might have happened had those spirited Whitby Dunlops taken their hockey activities to Lower Slobbovia, Inner Pastramia, or any place other than Eastern Ontario.

But his typewriter brush drew a dismal picture for the TPT's. To all intents and purposes, via the second half prediction method based on the doings of the first half, our side is parked in the mothballs. Michael's crystal ball descended with Goodyear turkey feathers, showed that Whitby will finish on top and Kingston will end up in the show place. Brockville (the ball was doubtless clouded with the fog of Brockville) will finish fourth and the Dunnell will rest in third or fourth spot, sharing the roosts with the Cornwall Colts, while the TPT's are null and void.

At this point Miguel inhaled a sturdy beaker of lachteal fluid, gave the ball a twirl and gazed anew. This part of the crystal ceremony was dubbed "Wishful Thinking."

The globule showed what would have happened had the Dunlops decided to chase their pucks in the company of South Africans, the Foreign Legion, the Moscow Sergeis, or some other group far removed from the fertile plains of Eastern Ontario.

There heading the list in all their 1954-55 championship paraphernalia and looking disdainfully down at the rest of the pack, rested the Goodyears with a record of 12 wins, three ties and no loss for 24 points.

The Colts kick up their heels in second place with 5-2-1 for 11 points. Brockville is next with 4-7-2 for ten points and get this—the TPT's are cellar-borne with 4-7-1 for nine points. Cornwall certainly must have rolled a rout and chrystal ball at this point. Just where did that cock-eyed globe get four wins for the TPT's when they have defeated Brockville twice, the Colts twice and the Goodyears once. Add 'em up.

Then, after mentally digesting these alleged facts, the Roddenian chest expands and he hies himself to the typewriter where he pounds out: "These figures . . . show that the defending champions would also have found the race like a rout and thereof, the situation would have been even worse than it is, under prevailing circumstances."

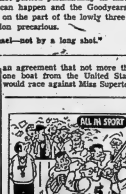
But Miguel tempers his prognostications with a little sympathy. Says he: "Belleville's troubles can be attributed to the fact that the Peterborough players haven't been afforded the opportunity to get thoroughly acquainted with the home forces and Coach Orland Cox. It is impossible to attain team cohesion when under such a handicap and it is questionable if the experiment has been worth the effort involved."

That Barrieficld smog must have hidden the fact—and this is not an alibi for any stretch of the imagination—that the injury jinx has been parked longer on the tails of the TPT's than any other club in the league. It is doubtful if the Cornet boys have appeared at full strength more than four times this season, due to players being hurt or ill.

Being a firm believer in the fact that no hockey game is over nor any group title won until the final whistle shrills, we are not predicting any final standings. Only one as brash as Michael would dare do such a thing. While the records speak for themselves, we believe that any of the three lowly teams, fortunate to be in such august company as the Goodyears and Dunlops, may prove turning worms—and at an important part of the schedule.

According to the Brockville story of the Magedomas' thumping of the powerful Dunlops on Monday night, the Blair crew were distinctly outplayed and Mr. Blair was the first to admit it. The TPT's distinctly outplayed the Dunlops on their last meeting here and might have pulled out with a win had the unfortunate Gagnon-McMaster incident not occurred.

One would be safe in predicting a group title for the Dunlops—and just as safe calling them for the Ontario championship. But the Goodyears are not parked permanently in that second place spot. Anything can happen and the Goodyears know it. Any surge of power on the part of the lowly three could make the Goodies' position precarious.



"She ain't over yet, Michael—not by a long shot."

Canada Issues Challenge For Harmsworth Cup

DETROIT (AP)—The Canadian Rowing Federation Wednesday issued a 1956 challenge for the Harmsworth Trophy, international power-boating prize.

Announcement of the challenge was made by Leonard A. Thomson, secretary of the Yachtsmen's Association of America. The challenge is made on behalf of J. Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., owner of Miss Supertest II, holder of the Canadian record of 154 miles an hour for a straightaway run.

The challenge was made under an agreement that not more than one boat from the United States would race against Miss Supertest

Suffer 7th Defeat of Season In Brilliant Check Display; Clancymen Share Fourth Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's hard to beat Montreal Canadiens when it comes to checking. Wednesday night Toronto Maple Leafs did.

They shut out the league-leading Montrealers 3-0 in Toronto with a dazzling mixture of fore and back-checking and some outstanding National Hockey League goaltending. It added up to the Habs' seventh defeat of the 1955-56 campaign.

The Leafs had respect in one eye and defiance in the other as they overpowered Canadiens with two second-period goals with possibly their finest performance of the season.

It was the only engagement of the night and the crowd of 14,547 fans—largest turnout of the season at Maple Leaf Gardens—was delighted.

LUMLET'S SECOND

Ron Hurst, a rookie right winger, and veteran right winger George Armstrong provided the scoring power. Goaltender Harry Lumley was the class man defensively and picked up his second shutout of the year.

Hurst fired the fourth goal of his big-league career when he beat Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante at 5:25 of the middle period with a 20-foot drive from the side of the Canadien net. Perreault, subbing for the injured Jacques Plante, partially screened the shot but the puck dribbled behind him across the goal line.

Armstrong scored the insurance goal—his seventh this season—at 16:30 when passes set up dribbling. He skirted his check, Montreal's Bert Olmstead, and second defenseman Dollard St. Laurent and banged the puck into the cage from close in.

Lumley, in his fourth year with Leafs, was both brilliant and lucky in stopping 28 Hab shots. His best stops were in the second period on veteran Maurice Richard, who was seeking the 500th goal of his career and in the third period on a low drive by centre Jean Beliveau, the league's leading scorer.

TIED WITH HAWKS

The victory sent Leafs into a fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks. They had exactly 30 points, 21 behind Canadiens, eight off the pace set by the second-place New York Rangers and two behind the third-spot Detroit Red Wings.

There wasn't a doubt that Canadiens missed all-star defenceman Doug Harvey, on the sidelines with a hand injury. Leafs were without rearguard Hugh Bolton, recovering from a fracture below the sinus.

Boston Bruins, idle Wednesday night, ran into a bit of trouble. Forward Vic Stasiuk underwent emergency surgery for removal of a blood clot in his right leg and may be out of action for a month.

Stasiuk, native of Lethbridge, Alta., entered hospital a week ago for treatment of phlebitis in his right leg and was to have been released Wednesday.

Pep Punches Out Victory Over Andy Arel

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) Willie Pep, the old featherweight boxing master, stood up under a vicious late assault by youthful Andy Arel Wednesday night to score a unanimous 10-round over his former sparmate in the 10 round main event at the Auditorium.

Pep weighed 128½, Arel 131½. Referee Harry-the-Hat Pep, who ruled the featherweight division through the early '40s, was in serious trouble in the ninth and 10th rounds after Arel opened a gash over his left eye, but old Willie had piled up plenty of points to carry him through.

Arel, 22, from Massena, N.Y., tried desperately for a knockout but Pep kept away from him for the rest of the ninth and rallied to win the 10th by a narrow margin.

Interested In Tiger-Cat Offer Says Trimble

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Trimble, recently fired as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, said Wednesday he definitely is interested in an offer to become head coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Big Four.

Trimble visited Hamilton last Tuesday and talked with Jake Gaudaur, the new general manager and president of the Tiger-Cats. He was taken on a tour of the city and saw films of the team in action.

Trimble said he was impressed with the Canadian brand of football. He added: "I expect to talk to Gaudaur again some time today and make arrangements to meet him in Philadelphia for further discussion.

"I am not going to do anything in Philly. There are great people up there in Canada and certainly do make things interesting."

Trimble said he has received offers from several colleges and pro clubs in the last few months making up his mind.

Gaudaur left Hamilton for New York Wednesday in an attempt to sign Trimble.

Pirie Answers Top Awards With Press Blast

LONDON (Reuters) — Distance runner Gordon Pirie Wednesday night delivered a blast on the British press after receiving two awards here as Britain's No. 1 sportsman.

Millions of television viewers saw Pirie read his prepared criticisms from notes at the presentation ceremony.

He was elected "sportsman of the year" in a national ballot organized by the weekly newspaper, Sporting Record. Television viewers of the BBC also picked him as the year's top personality.

After receiving the Sporting Record Trophy from Iain Macleod, minister of labor and national service, Pirie launched into his attack on the press and its London headquarters, Fleet street.

OMITTED HIM

Pirie said the Newspaper Sports Writers' Association, which named steeplechaser Dick Ridley as sportsman of the year, had omitted from its list of leading sportsmen both him (Pirie) and British heavyweight boxing champion, Don Cockell.

"Fleet street has done immeasurable damage to British sport" declared Pirie. "A few unkind words will inflict more damage than they realize. Those boys will be kinder in future."

Pirie's victory this year beat Czechoslovakia's ace distance runner, Emil Zatopek.

Four New Kings

Three Champions Stand Alone Nary a Contender in Sight

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano, Archie Moore and Carmen Basilio reach all-time highs in their respective divisions in the annual boxing ratings of Ring magazine, copyrighted in the February issue.

For the third year in a row, Marciano remains the only entire field to gain a position by himself on the top rung of the ladder in the world rating of heavyweight champion.

Moore, listed in both the heavyweight and light heavy classes, was rated without a serious contender as light heavy champion. He also was No. 1 challenger to Marciano. In the welterweight division Basilio was placed above all in his class.

A total of 1,758 of the 6,949 boxers registered in the world were ranked in the various divisions.

FOUR NEW CHAMPS

Champions in all eight divisions defended their titles and four new champs were crowned. Two of the new titleholders were in the welter division where Tony DeMarco dethroned Johnny Saxton and who in turn, toppled by Basilio. Wallace (Bud) Smith took the lightweight honors from Jimmy Carter and Sugar Ray Robinson came out of retirement to knock out Bobo Olson and win back the middleweight title.

There were nine deaths in boxing, three in the United States. One of the men actually died of a heart attack and another due to an injury received in a sports carnival exhibition in a Vienna factory where there was no medical supervision. In 1954, there were six ring fatalities as compared to 12 in 1953.

The annual ratings:

Heavyweights

Champion — Rocky Marciano, Brockton, Mass.

Contenders — 1. Archie Moore, San Diego, Calif.; 2. Bob Baker, Pittsburgh; 3. Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, New York; 4. Bob Satterfield, Chicago; 5. Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati.

Lightheavyweights

Champion — Archie Moore, San Diego.

Contenders—1. Floyd Patterson, Brooklyn; 2. Willie Pastrano, New Orleans; 3. Yolande Pompey, Trinidad; 4. Gerhard Hecht, Germany; 5. Harold Johnson, Philadelphia.

Middleweights

Champion—Ray Robinson, New York.

Contenders—1. Carl (Bobo) Olson, San Francisco; 2. Charles Humez, France; 3. Eduardo Lausse, Argentina; 4. Rocky Castellani, Cleveland; 5. Holly Mims, Washington.

Welterweights

Champion— Carmen Basilio Canastota, N. Y.

Contenders—1. Tony DeMarco, Boston; 2. Johnny Saxton, Brooklyn; 3. Ramon Fuentes, Los Angeles; 4. Vince Martinez, Paterson, N. J.; 5. Isaac Logart, Cuba.

Lightweights

Champion—Wallace (Bud) Smith Cincinnati.

Contenders — 1. Jimmy Carter, New York; 2. Dallo Ind., Italy; 3. Frankie Ryff, New York.

Featherweights

Champion—Sandy Saddler, New York.

Contenders — 1. Fred Galiana, Spain; 2. Ciro Morasen, Cuba; 3. Carmelo Costa, Brooklyn.

Bantamweights

Champion — Robert Cohen, France.

Contenders — 1. Mario d'Agata, Italy; 2. Billy Peacock, Los Angeles; 3. Rinties Fraisel, France.

Flyweights

Champion — Pascual Perez, Argentina.

Contenders — 1. Leo Espinosa, Philippines; 2. Young Martin, Spain; 3. Danny Kid, Philippines.

Momentous Achievements Highlighted Canadian Sports Picture In 1955

Glamor Was Overshadowed By Ugly Riot, Swim Madness; Thrills Galore in All Phases

By JIM HASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian sports had momentous achievements in 1955, but even shadowing the glimor was one of the ugliest riots in the country's history and an outburst of swim madness that killed one man.

It was the year of the St. Patrick's Day mob, violence, when thousands of people embarked on a seven-hour campaign of destruction and looting in Montreal following a last bomb throwing fusade the Forum over the Maurice Richard hockey affair.

It was also the year of the marathon swim craze, of men and women attempting conquer Lake Ontario. They all failed. One died.

FEAT STILL STANDS

Today, December 31, of Toronto, is the only person to swim the 33-mile lake. Her historic moment came in 1954. This year she crossed the English channel—the 21-mile jaunt to do it. Her time was 14 hours, 36 minutes.

Not to be forgotten were Man-West inter-city competitions, particularly the Grey Cup football spectacle. There were also—hockey, curling, goal, basketball, lacrosse and golf. Honors in these events were about evenly split.

Among the thrills was Edmonton Eskimos' 34-19 Grey Cup win over Montreal Alouettes at Vancouver. It was the first time a Western team won the classic two straight years.

Then there was Canada's 5-0 victory over Russia in the world hockey championships at Krefeld, Germany. Canada, represented by Penticton Vs, regained the title lost by Toronto East York to the Russians in the 1954 games.

Other Canadians also did well on foreign ground. Barbara Ann Scott, Norris Bowden, both of Toronto, retained the world pairs figure skating crown at Vienna. They are one of Canada's hopes to win the pairs Olympic title at Cortina, Italy next month.

AT PAN-AMERICAN GAMES

At the Pan-American games in Mexico City, Beth Whittall, 18, of Montreal won the 400-metre butterfly and likewise the women's free-style swims. Helen Stewart, 18-year-old Vancouver girl, won the 100-metre free-style, and Lenore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B.C., took the 100-metre backstroke.

A United States golf prize fell to Toronto Al Balding. He won the $15,000 Mayfair Open at Sanford, Fla., Dec. 4.

University of British Columbia eights lost by a third of a length to the University of Pennsylvania at the Royal Henley in the Grand Challenge Cup 1BC upset a crack Russian crew by a half-length the day before.

The fuse for the uprising at Montreal Forum was ignited when Richard, right winger with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, attacked Hal Laycoe of Boston Bruins with his stick and punched linesman Cliff Thompson in the eye March 13.

BARRED FROM PLAYOFFS

Three days later Richard was suspended for the remainder of the season, including the Stanley Cup playoffs. NHL President Clarence Campbell, chairman of the board, was in the Forum March 17. He was punched and showered with programs, eggs, bottles and rubbers. A tear-gas bomb was thrown. There was a slanpeda for exits.

Outside, a mob went on a looting spree. Downtown windows were beaten. Damage estimates ranged up to $500,000.

The game was forfeited to Detroit Red Wings, who went on to edge Canadiens in the Stanley Cup final.

And then the swim fad. Twenty-five swimmers made 27 attempts to beat Lake Ontario. A lake marathon was a natural because of bad weather and a 33-mile Canadian National Exhibition lakefront swim was substituted. It was won by Cliff Crandon of Toronto, only finisher of 30 starters.

The craze spread to various parts of Canada. Claire Fuca of Sarnia was beaten by Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., from Park, 31-year-old native of Hamilton, won the annual 26-mile Atlantic City swim for the second straight year.

PARKER AGAIN STAR

The largest crowd in Canadian football history—30,417 — watched Eskimos clobber Alouettes in the Grey Cup. Edmonton quarterback Jackie Parker was the individual star, as he was in the 1954 classic when he ran for three touchdowns and passed for two more.

Many Eskimo and Alouette players clashed again in the East-West Shrine game at Toronto Dec. 3. It was the first All-Star engagement and ended in a 6-6 tie.

This is how the west and east compared in intersectional play:

WEST

Edmonton took the Grey Cup; Winnipeg Rods the Canadian junior football championship; New Westminster the Canadian senior soccer crown, Victoria Shamrocks the Mann Cup, Jean Waring of Calgary carried off the senior and junior women's singles badminton events.

Port Alberni won the Canadian senior men's basketball title; Vancouver Ellers the women's senior crown. The Campbell Rollers of Avonlea, Sask., were Canadian curling champions and Saskatoon collegiate won the Dominion school curling title. In golf, British Columbia won the William Cup.

EAST

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen won the Allan Cup and Canadian senior hockey title. They will represent Canada at the winter Olympics. Toronto Marlboros captured the Memorial Cup and Shawinigan Falls the Dominion-Edinburgh Trophy.

Mel Baldigo won the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tournament, Moe Norman of Kitchener, Ont., emerged as Canadian amateur champion, and Marlene Stewart of Toronto, Ont., was the Canadian women's open and close titles.

Peterborough Orfmns won the Canadian intermediate football crown. Lower Branch Moosehorn were Dominion junior lacrosse titlists.

Miss Dafoe and Bowden retained their North American and Canadian figure-skating crowns. Charles Snelling of Toronto won the Canadian men's title and O'Connor Jane Paschi, 17, of Montreal, took the women's crown.

Don Smythe of Toronto won the men's senior badminton title, Toronto Norlowe the junior men's basketball event and Hamilton the junior lacrosse laurels.

St. Catharines Rowing Club won the 73rd annual Royal Canadian Henley with Argonaut Rowing Club took the Canadian Canoe Association title. Canadian amateurs swept to their third straight victory over the U.S. in the North American canoe championships.

Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., won $11,000 golf open in a sudden-death extra-hole playoff with Vancouver's Stan Leonard. In the speedboat world, Miss Supertest II, owned by Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., set a Canadian record for propeller-driven craft with a speed of 134 miles an hour at Picton Bay Nov. 3.

Montreal Royals placed first in the International Baseball League race but lost to Rochester Red Wings in the playoffs. In tennis Canada defeated the British West Indies in a North American Davis Cup tie and then lost to Australia, holder of the trophy.

In boxing, Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight champion, retired on Nov. 2 because he felt the risk of injury was too great for a family man. He had held the crown since 1952.

Ace Marine, owned by Toronto industrialist Larkin Maloney, won the 90th running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto. Park Dandy, from the stable of W. J. Beattie of Washington, D.C., captured the $40,000 added stake at Long Branch, Toronto.

In gymnastics, Ernestine Russell 16, of Windsor, won the women's all-round title at the American Athletic Union championships at Rochester, N.Y., taking all four events. It was the first time anyone had made a clean sweep in the division.

'Rocky' Named Fighter of Year; Robinson Close

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has been named "fighter of the year" by Ring Magazine and the Nov. 30 rematch of Carmen Basilio and Tony DeMarco for the welterweight title has been selected "fight of the year."

Digging deeper into the year's boxing schedule, the magazine also selected the third round of the Archie Moore-Bobo Olson bout for the light - heavy crown as the "round of the year."

Marciano was selected over Sugar Ray Robinson after long deliberation. The Rock knocked out England's Don Cockell and light-heavy champ Moore in two defences to remain undisputed ruler. Robinson's "comeback" included a defeat by Tiger Jones before he made Bobo Olson look like a second son, becoming the first man to hold the middleweight title three times.

Basilio, who won the welter title by knocking out DeMarco at Syracuse, N.Y., June 10 and stopped DeMarco again in the 12th round at Boston, Nov. 30, was third in line. Basilio recently was voted "fighter of the year" by the Boxing Writers Association and will receive the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque at the annual dinner, Jan. 18.

Dutchies Bow To Bulldogs; Indians Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Even a hot team like Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen can't take Sunday action in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League. They tried it Wednesday night and took a beating.

Dutchmen, who hold a comfortable 5-point lead in the league race, were ahead 4-0 at the end of the second period against Windsor Bulldogs when they apparently eased. Bulldogs jumped on them and rolled off a 5-4 overtime victory.

The second-place Bulldogs sent the game into overtime with a goal at 19:35 of the third period and matched the victory on Jack Armstrong's marker at 3:20.

INCREASE LEAD

In another engagement, Stratford Indians increased their third-place margin over the fourth-spot Galt Terriers to seven points with a 9-4 win over the Mercs.

Only 1,243 customers were on hand to see the Dutchmen outplay Bulldogs for two periods before the Windsor outlaugh.

Armstrong, Walt Pawlyshyn, Bob Brown, Ralph Ward and Don Connor were the Windsor marksmen. Charlie Brooker, George Scholes, Butch Martin and Jim Logan tallied for Dutchmen, who suffered their fourth loss this season.

Pawlyshyn scored the tying goal with five seconds left in regulation time. Scholes and Martin O'Connor pass into the Kitchener cage.

Two Stratford scores were led by Bob Mader's two goals. Lou Fontinato, Mickey and Billy Flick got the others, Jerry Reid, John Lumley and Ken Green scored for Owen Sound.

Mercurys attempted to score the winning goal in the last play took goaltender Gord Henry from the nets and sent a sixth attacker into the game. But Jim Hackford when Mader counted, his second goal on a clearing shot from his own end into the empty Owen Sound net.

Canadian Skiers Europe-Bound

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's Olympic ski team, described as the best ever to represent this country in international competition, left by plane Wednesday night for Europe and the winter Olympic Games at Cortina, Italy.

The 10-member squad will go to London and from there to St. Anton, Switzerland, to train for the Olympic Games. The skiers will compete in a number of races prior to the Games.

Accompanying the team are Mrs. Pat Ramage of Brantford, Ont., manager, and Franz Gabl, ski pro from Mont Tremblant, Que.

The team is made up of Carlyn Kruger of Montreal; Lucile Wheeler, St. Agathe, Que.; Anne Heggtveit, Ottawa; Gigi Seguin, Quebec; Art and Andy Tommy, Ottawa; Irvin and Clarence Servold, Camrose, Alta. Jacques Charland, Trois-Rivieres, Que.; and Andre Bertrand, Quebec.

Refuse Million For New York Football Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An offer of $1,000,000 for New York Giants of the National Football League has been turned down by the club's owners.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL said Wednesday that he personally had made the offer for a group of men he declined to identify. Bell said the group intended to keep the Giants in New York.

Bel sai dthe Marzs, Papa Tim and his son, Wellington and Jack, owners of the New York franchise, turned it down with the statement that "football for our business and boss we intend to remain in it."

Bell confirmed that this was the largest offer ever made for a pro football franchise. It would have given the 401 times their original investment or 40,000 per cent profit.

"After acting as emissary in this $1,000,000 offer I felt depressed for a week. I bought the Philadelphia Eagles many years ago for $2,500 and sold them for $160,000," Bell said.

The commissioner said the Giants were purchased by Timothy J. Mara for $2,500 on Aug. 1, 1952.

SETS WORLD MARK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Howard Abboy of Miami set a world record for service runabouts Wednesday when he averaged 39.301 miles an hour in time trials of the Orange Bowl regatta.

The old mark was set in 1951 by Edison Hedges of Red Bank, N.J., at 37.200 miles an hour.

TRABERT LOSES

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales seeded only about 45 minutes Wednesday night to hand Cincinnati's Tony Trabert another "lesson" 6-0, 6-4, here in their professional cross-country net feud continued. The victory was Gonzales' seventh in 10 meetings with the former amateur champion.

WINS BONSPIEL

OSHAWA (CP)—An Oshawa rink skipped by Elgin Mundy defeated day night won the Ontario Teachers' bonspiel.

It is the second time in the event's 15-year history that an Oshawa squad has captured the J. Douglas Waugh memorial trophy.

SKATERS LEAVE

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Olympic speed skating team left by air Wednesday for a series of meets in Europe leading up to the winter Olympic games, starting at Cortina, Italy, Jan. 26. The team will have seven meets in Norway, one in Switzerland and one in Cortina prior to the games.

Junior Habs Tie Flyers In Overtime

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers and Montreal junior Canadiens battled to a 3-3 overtime tie here Wednesday night before 1,500 fans in a Laurier Cup contest game, one of the best here this season.

Play in the first period was rough, referee Jim Roddy handing out 15 penalties. Barrie picked up four minutes of the period when Bill Hope drove a point shot on a pass from Forbus and Wozniski Montreal carried most of the play, outbooking the Flyers 13-8 but were kept off the score sheet by the outstanding work of goalie Bob Sanderson.

In the second the teams settled down to first-class hockey.

Four goals were scored with each team getting two. Flyers' goals came from Wozniski and Smith while Montreal markers went to Backstrom and Kennedy. Montreal again outshot the Flyers 13-3.

Canadiens came back in the third to tie the game up as Laforge dribbled the puck into the Barrie net.

There was no scoring in overtime.

HONORS PODRES

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Podres, Brooklyn's pitching hero of the world series, Wednesday was named "sportsman of the year" by the editors of Sports Illustrated. The magazine's 1954 selection was Roger Bannister.

CLASH WITH POLICE

MANILA (AP) — Five members of a religious sect were killed Wednesday in a clash with police constabulary in southeast Luzon Island. Four others and three constabulary soldiers were wounded. The Philippine news service said 15 members of the Tayo de Dios sect initiated. The magazine's 1954 selection was Roger Bannister.

'Babe' Stricken With Pneumonia

GALVESTON, Tex (AP)—Babe Zaharias is back in hospital—this time with pneumonia.

The famous athlete was stricken while on a Christmas holiday with friends at Fort Worth and was flown here Wednesday. Attendants said here early today that her condition was satisfactory and that she was resting comfortably.

The Babe told reporters she must have become chilled while posing out of doors Monday for television photographers.

"I took a hot bath Monday, then went out in the yard in my pajamas and robe to pose for some television photographers," she said. "Then I went out to the golf course a while. I thought it was warm enough but I guess it wasn't."

AWOKE WITH PAIN

She said she awoke Wednesday morning with a bad pain in her chest and difficulty in breathing. A physician diagnosed her illness as pneumonia.

Mrs. Zaharias went to Fort Worth Saturday for a short vacation from hospital, where she has been undergoing x-ray treatments for pains in her right hip and leg. Previously she had undergone two operations for cancer.

Until catching pneumonia, the Babe said she had felt good and had been having a wonderful time. She said her resistance to such illnesses "undoubtedly is low after spending nearly eight months in bed."

Ground Display May Feature Rose Bowl Game

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Michigan State and UCLA are capable of aerial fireworks but football fans can look for most of the explosions to come on the ground when the teams clash in the Rose Bowl classic here Monday.

So it appeared Wednesday as the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference representatives went through routine drills and noisy students started arriving.

Observers agree that all-American quarterback Earl Morrall, whose optional run or pass performances gave Michigan State a season of headaches, is the man to watch on his team.

Morall has a deadly collection of aides in the backfield, including Walt Kowalczyk, who banged out 984 yards and averaged better than seven yards a carry, and Clarence Peaks, who gained 378 yards. Michigan State ranked fourth in offence and coach Duffy Daugherty admitted Peaks' and Kowalczyk's backs as Garry Lowe, Jim Wolf, Don Zyck or Dennis Mosby should get to display their talents.

CARLING WINNER

GWEN SOUND (CP) — Doug Murray of Wingham, defeated Bob Botrill of Mount Forest 13-4 Wednesday to win the Division 4 playoff leading to the Ontario schoolboy curling championships. Murray will take his rink to the Ontario event at Orillia Jan. 14.

Few Dare Criticize Frenzied Manner of Christmas Joy

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The lip service paid to peace on earth and goodwill toward men over Christmas would have caused Isaiah to cover his face with his cloak and Jeremiah to raise his hands to heaven.

Television and radio shared in the general holocaust of modernism. Each station, network and program seemed bent on outdoing all others in pouring forth the same music and the same seasonal cliches. What had become monotonous by Christmas Eve grew into deadly bore on Christmas Day.

One trouble with Christmas, of course, is that few dare criticize the frenzied manner of its celebration. Charles Dickens, in writing "A Christmas Carol," created a misanthrope named Scrooge whose name is applied to such critics. The presence of Scrooge tends to defend broadcasting against the Christmas critic.

Dickens's "A Christmas Carol" was seen or heard at least four times on national networks during the late festivities. It was so many. Dickens himself grew excruciatingly bored with giving readings of his story. From repetitive exposure so do we.

LAUGHTON A PLEASURE

One can wish that someone could try something different—perhaps a dramatization of Dickens' delightful account of Christmas at Dingley Dell from "Pickwick Papers."

So it was a pleasure to see and hear Charles Laughton reading from "Pickwick Papers" and the Bible and other notable literature over NBC-TV on Christmas Eve. There was the Christmas spirit, fresh as holly in snow.

Yet this was an exception. Even Dr. Benjamin Spock, who normally talks intelligently about children over NBC-TV Sunday afternoons, was belaboring Christmas. And on CBS-TV they were zealously burning the Yule log at both ends nearly all day long. Once I almost turned to Hopalong Cassidy (ABC-TV), who was routinely rounding up bad guys.

Finally, however, "Meet the Press" (NBC-TV) came along to fulfill my ides of what a good Christmas program can be—without ever mentioning Christmas. They suspended the weekly hostilities there and sympathetically interviewed Robert Frost, the poet.

RENDABLE TALK

Frost naturally talks more sense and wisdom in half an hour than many people do in a lifetime. As he said at one point:

"We're probably a nation overanxious to be decent."

That is true. And probably that explains much about the frenetic American Christmas spirit. If we could gain it out into 365 days instead of trying to crowd it into one we might begin to get somewhere.

SIGNS CONTRACT

BROOKLYN (AP)—Karl Spooner, unbeaten pitcher with Brooklyn Dodgers, signed his 1956 contract Wednesday and then left to finish his winter season with a team in the Dominican Republic. Spooner won eight and lost six last season.

Woman Foiled In Bank Holdup

MONTREAL (CP) — A "pretty and petite" woman Wednesday was foiled in an attempt to rob a downtown bank of $2,000.

Police said the woman entered a branch of the Bank of Montreal and handed the teller a note demanding "$2,000—just hand it over, miss."

Teller Marjorie Labrie ignored the note. The woman then waved a red handbag in a manner suggesting she had a weapon and said: "You'd better give it to me or I'll shout you."

The teller shouted for help and the woman fled. Police said they could not recall any previous attempt by a woman to hold up a bank.

AIR TRAFFIC HIGHER

MONTREAL (CP)—International Air Transport Association reported Wednesday that traffic on the world's scheduled airlines increased 20 per cent during 1955 and showed signs of even more substantial expansion in 1956. Sir William P. Hildred, IATA director general, said in a statement that when 1955 ends about 70,000,000 passengers will have been carried, compared with 59,000,000 in 1954.

Grace Kelly Tops in Canada

HOLLYWOOD (CP) — Sophisticated Grace Kelly has swept into top place as the movies' biggest box-office attraction in Canada.

Last year's king, Bing Crosby, dropped out of the first 10 in the annual poll of exhibitors, results of which were announced Wednesday by the Motion Picture Herald, a trade publication.

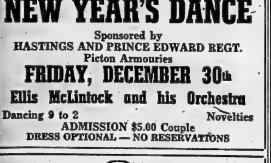
Following Miss Kelly were Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, ardon Brando, Jimmy Stewart, Humphrey Bogart, Gary Cooper, Glenn Ford, June Allyson, Doris Day and William Holden. The list includes a native Canadian, Ford, who is from Quebec City.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Sir Walter Scott's "The Adventures of Quentin Durward," Robert Taylor, Kay Kendall, Robert Morley — in CinemaScope and Color — 2:30-7:15-9:45.

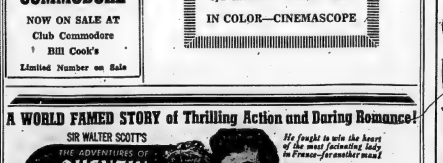
AT THE CAPITOL — All Technicolor Show — "The Bridges at Toko-ri" — Grace Kelly, William Holden — "Abbott and Costello Go to Mars" — Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis — 2:45.

AT THE McCARTHY — "The Second Greatest Sex" — CinemaScope and Technicolor — Jeanne Crain, George Nader, Kitty Kallen — 2:35-7:15-9:45.



AT THE CAPITOL — One of the screen's most dramatic moments is enacted by Grace Kelly and William Holden in this scene from Paramount's stirring film of war and love "The Bridges at Toko-ri" which opens today at the Capitol Theatre. Frederic March and Mickey Rooney are also starred in this Technicolor film. On the same program in Technicolor "3 Ring Circus", starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis.

AT THE McCARTHY — Bert Lahr, Edna Skinner, Jeanne Crain, George Nader (all kneeling) and Jimmy Boyd, Keith Andes and Mamie Van Doren (standing) in a scene from Universal-International's Technicolor-CinemaScope musical "The Second Greatest Sex", opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.



Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Friday, December 30, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Some tricky spots in this day; be on the alert and sensibly careful. However, sound matters, worthwhile activities and useful enterprises are strongly sponsored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Purely personal interests may have to be put aside for more important matters now. Well understood activities, work and study familiar nature can gain most. Don't be over-confident.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Keep emotions, desires under sensible control and you will have no quarrel with offerings, conditions or challenges now. Everyday interests, work, sound propositions on advance.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Don't anticipate opposition, unpleasantness or defeat; live up to you to study the day's demands and tackle them quietly, calmly, cheerfully. You are in for some fun and gain.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Sudden, unpremeditated decisions changes not advised. Day requires sensible reflection and rechecking to insure best procedure, no matter the task. Patience and skill will hasten achievement.

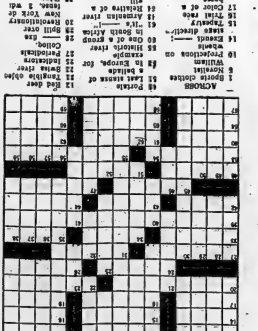
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Some folks and some happenings may be irritating, difficult. But don't let them get you down. Go about duties with faith and hope, and you can have a profitable day.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Simplicity of manner and sincerity of effort make a great team to help you today—and say day. Even if you cannot make showy advancement, just move steadily ahead; you will gain eventually.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—A day for conservative action, thoughtful procedure in all work and activities. You may have to work harder for what you receive, but the rewards

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—While all personal wishes may not be granted today, you can win real benefits and attainment through unselfish and intelligent management of your schedule.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—This should be an agreeable period for property and real estate interests, established business, work necessary to the public's interests, for all worthwhile matters. Be tactful.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Things being normal, today should be productive for both new undertakings and for established matters. Sound enterprises, whether large and small, can gain.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Subtlety and diplomacy can be very helpful in promoting, selling and conferring now. Plumbers, dealings in lumber, steel; dentistry, surgery honored.

You born today are among nature's sturdiest and most reliable citizens. Seldom do you complain, though you may be too sensitive for your own good. Take criticism as good counsel; it is seldom meant to hurt. Keep developing your many talents. Study, research, remodel, change to improve your status, better your future security. You have talent for law, teaching. Associate with cheerful friends; try always to make your family happy by your good nature. Know that you can succeed and pray God that you will. Birthdate: Alfred E. Smith, statesman; Rudyard Kipling, author.

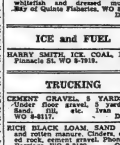
TOWN HEAD DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Arthur (Jock) Tuffs, general secretary of Britain's biggest trade union—the 1,300,000-member Transport and General Workers' Union—died Tuesday. He had held the office only since June, succeeding Arthur Deakin, who died last May.



FIVE U. S. FILMS TOPS

LONDON (Reuter)—Five of the top 12 money-winning films shown in British movie houses this year were from Hollywood, the annual British box office survey showed today. Leading money earners were British. The British film "The Dam Busters" failed to take poll with "White Christmas" (American), second and "Doctor at Sea" (British), third.

Canadian Army Highlights in 1955

1. Soldiers of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany try out the new FN rifle recently adopted for use by the Canadian Army. 2. The pennant of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade is lowered and that of the 2nd Brigade raised as Brig. Roger Rowley takes over command from Brig. W. A. B. Anderson at Fort York, Germany. 3. The family of Lt.-Col. Robert O'Donnell departed for Germany to spend the next two years with their daddy, a member of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade. This year's rotation plan involved more than 18,000 soldiers and dependents. 4. Two members of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers fire the Canadian Army's latest anti-tank weapon, the "Heller," the first weapon completely designed, developed and manufactured by Canadians. 5. On a street corner in Hanoi, Indo-China, two Canadian soldiers on the International Truce Team look over the wares of street vendors. 6. The one-hundred year spun, 1855-1955, is represented here in the uniforms of the old and the new at the Royal Canadian Artillery Centennial celebrated in May 1955. The NIKE, a modern guided missile, is seen here as part of the Artillery display held on Parliament Hill, Ottawa. 7. Lieut. George Parrett, a member of No. 1 Radiation Detection Unit, Royal Canadian Engineers, was with his unit when they participated in atomic tests at Desert Rock, Nevada. This was the first time Canadians have ever taken part in an atomic explosion demonstration. 8. The prize of Edinburgh presented new colours to the 2nd Battalion, The Royal Canadian Regiment, during the battalion's Trooping of the Color ceremony at Soest, Germany, prior to their return to Canada. 9. Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, retired Chief of the General Staff, took the salute from the 1st Canadian Infantry Division at Camp Gagetown, N.B., during the biggest parade ever held in peacetime in Canada. The ceremony was held prior to the divisional exercise "Rising Star." 10. Sherman tanks of the 6th Duke of Connaught's Royal Canadian Hussars (Militia), roll over the sandy dunes of Petawawa during militia summer training exercises. 11. Her Royal Highness, The Princess Royal, Colonel-in-Chief of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, visited Canada in the fall of last year. Here, she is seen inspecting soldiers of the Royal Canadian Signals. 12. Sub-arctic conditions in the "land of the midnight sun" are depicted here during exercise "Bulldog III". 13. The new Chief of the General Staff, Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham, chats with warrant officers at the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering at Chilliwack, B.C., during a cross-Canada tour of Canadian Army installations. The tour was made shortly after he took over the senior army appointment.

Concentration and Rotation Key Words For Canadian Army During Past Year

Concentration and rotation were key words for the Canadian Army during the past year.

In mid-summer more than 10,000 troops of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division were concentrated at Camp Gagetown, N.B., for field manoeuvres culminating in exercise "Rising Star". Designed to train members of the division in their operational role, "Rising Star" concluded five weeks of intensive training at the 427-square-mile Maritime training site. Included among observers were military representatives from 18 countries.

At the same time an additional 5,000 troops of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade concentrated and trained at Camp Wainwright, Alberta.

The two huge troop concentrations gave the Regular Army a total of more than 15,000 officers and men undergoing intensive field training at the same time.

More than 20,500 members of Militia units, including 900 women of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, attended 21 Militia camps across the country last summer. The figure represented a 25 per-cent increase over last year's attendance and constituted an all-time high. The members of the CWAC were trained at their own camps for the first time since The Second World War.

BRIGADES ROTATED

The rotation of two brigades to and from Europe was carried out with speed and despatch during the fall. The rotation saw the replacement of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany by the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade in a move that involved more than 18,000 soldiers and dependents. Seven ocean liners chartered by the Army made 11 eastbound and 11 westbound voyages to effect the changeover. By late November troops of the 2nd Brigade were on their first exercise in Germany.

The rotation of Canadian officers and men serving in Indo China was carried out by air last summer. About 150 officers and men served for a year with the Military Components, Canadian Delegations to the International Supervisory Commissions in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia were relieved by a replacement group from Canada.

Rotation of Canadian troops in Korea continued on a man-for-man basis. Although most Canadians soldiers have been recalled from Korea, the 3rd Canadian Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, is still serving in the Far East along with a few personnel employed with the 1st Commonwealth Division. It is anticipated that their numbers will be further reduced in the past few months.

HELD FIELD EXERCISES

At home and abroad thousands of Canadian troops participated in a number of field exercises. Largest of these was held last February when elements of the Mobile Striking Force took part in Exercise "Bulldog Three". The manoeuvre involved an airborne assault against the airfield and installations at Yellowknife, Y.T.

A series of battalion exercises staged by infantry units of the 1st Brigade at Soltau, Germany, in August, won high praise for the Canadians from Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, General Officer Commanding 1st British Corps, with whose troops the Canadians trained.

A few weeks later, in September, the entire 1st Brigade participated in the last field manoeuvres of its European tour. Designated Exercise "Commonwealth Four", the five-day training scheme was held along the Weser River, 30 miles east of Hannover. It exercised British and Canadian units in rapid advances to occupy ground and group armour and infantry in experimental formations on a battlefield threatened by nuclear weapons.

ATTENDED A-BOMB TEST

A tri-service radiological group of about 60 officers and men, with the Army's No. 1 Radiation Detection Unit, RCR, as its nucleus, participated in U.S. A-bomb tests at Nevada last March. During Exercise "Sapling", the Canadian phase of the tests, specially trained and equipped Canadians advanced over ground in vehicles across areas suspected of containing the bomb blast.

Closer to home, Canadian troops in March completed six months of trials on the U.S. NIKE guided missile with firing tests in the Fort Churchill, Man., area. Valuable lessons were learned and the tests provided answers to many problems concerning effective operation of the NIKE under Arctic conditions.

It was also a year of success and achievement in the research and development field. The Army, in many cases working in conjunction with the Defence Research Board, came up with a number of items of equipment purely Canadian in design.

'HELLER' DEVELOPED

Most important of these was a new anti-tank weapon known as the "Heller." It was the first complete weapon, ammunition and fire control system ever designed, developed and manufactured in Canada. The "Heller" boasts superior qualities of accuracy and penetration.

A new device for locating equipment was developed and a miniature wireless set capable of withstanding the roughest physical treatment also was perfected.

High on the list of developments was a method of weaving field processing yarn which increases the strength and durability of textiles five to ten times that of ordinary materials.

As the year drew to a close it was announced that the Canadian Army had adopted a new field telephone of U.S. design but now manufactured in Canada. It replaced a set used by the Canadian Army for the past 15 years.

The Army also adopted a new and bigger parachute for its airborne battalions. Made of nylon, the 'chute almost completely eliminates the opening "jerk" and oscillation while in the air. Its rate of descent is much slower with the result that landings are more gentle.

Major Henry Sorenson of Edmonton, was awarded $5,000 for his eight years of work in perfecting the lingeling flame-thrower.

SET UP MAPLE LEAF SERVICES

The Army during the year set up a central organization to administer and supervise Canadian Forces canteens, snack bars, grocerias and other amenities in Regular Army camps and units. Called Maple Leaf Services, the new venture was launched with a self-sustaining, non-profit organization, last February.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Colonel-in-Chief of The Royal Canadian Regiment, presented the 2nd Battalion of the regiment with new colors at a ceremonial parade in Germany in October.

While the Duke of Edinburgh was visiting The RCR in Germany, Her Royal Highness, the Princess Royal, was in Canada opening a long-standing acquaintance with other Canadian Army units and formations. The Princess Royal is Colonel-in-Chief of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and of The Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment.

Highlight of her Canadian tour came at Kingston, Ont., where she reviewed representatives of almost all Regular and Militia Signals units in Canada. Later, in Victoria, B.C., she inspected The Canadian Scottish.

Early in October His Excellency, The Governor General, presented a regimental coat as a gift from Her Majesty the Queen to the Royal Canadian Regiment in a ceremony at Quebec City.

IMPROVED ACCOMMODATION

Considerable progress was made during the year on a number of long-term projects to provide better living and training accommodation and services for troops across Canada.

Construction activities centred at Camp Gagetown where an estimated $50,000,000 is being spent. Contracts already awarded include one for the biggest hot-water heating systems in the country at a cost of about $2,050,000. Others cover construction of apartment units and homes for 1,416 families, barrack blocks and mess halls, four schools and a huge shopping centre.

Other major construction projects are underway at Camp Petawawa, Ont., where considerable progress has been made on a $33,000,000 home station development program; at Sarcee, near Calgary, where a $10,000,000 building project was launched to provide new quarters for men and equipment of Lord Strathcona's Horse; at Edmonton where work was begun on a number of buildings of the huge $23,500,000 Griesbach Barracks; and at London, Ont., where a $5,000,000 construction project is underway.

New Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels were opened in the German centres of Soest, Werl, Iserlohn and Soltau, Germany, to provide for the spiritual needs of Canadian troops and their dependents. Four schools were opened to handle the educational requirements of soldiers' children.

CADETS ACTIVE

It was a successful year for more than 5,000 youngsters who, as members of Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps, qualified at summer camps. Another 335 cadets, selected on a basis of efficiency and outstanding contributions to their corps, attended a three-week familiarization visit to Banff, Alta. The cadet marksmanship teams were also selected to represent Canada at Bisley.

A total of 260 youths reported to Regular Army schools for training last September as soldier apprentices. The plan, adopted three years ago, has graduated 117 fully-trained young tradesmen and more than 500 others are still attending classes in various corps schools.

Last summer more than 2,000 university undergraduates, including students at Canadian services colleges, trained with conventional units of the Regular Army at home and abroad.

MARMORA

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Elects 1956 Officers

MARMORA — The Christmas meeting of St. Andrew's United Church W.M.S. was held at the parsonage on Tuesday. The meeting opened with a carol and the Lord's Prayer.

A short business period was presided over by the president, Mrs. K. J. Crawford. The Christmas Story was read from different passages in the Bible. Those taking part were: Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Akhart, Mrs. Trindell, Miss Brown, Mrs. Auckland, Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Glover.

Several carols were sung with Mrs. Prentice presiding at the piano and worship closed with the singing of "Glory to God, the Father."

1956 OFFICERS

The officers for 1956 were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. Crawford; first vice-president, Mrs. Auckland; second vice-president, Mrs. Rackman; recording secretary, Mrs. Prentice; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. Bateman; treasurer, Mrs. Jarvis; Christian Citizenship secretary, Mrs. Tupper; literature secretary, Mrs. Trindale; pianist, Mrs. Prentice; assistant pianist, Mrs. Glover; "Missionary Monthly" secretary, Mrs. Sproule.

St. Laurent, Gardiner, Howe to Be Honored

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, Trade Minister Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner will be honored Wednesday, Jan. 18, at a Liberal party dinner.

The dinner is being held to mark their services to the Liberal party.

Mr. St. Laurent has been a member of the cabinet since Dec. 16, 1941, when he was appointed minister of justice. Mr. Howe completed 20 years' service as a minister Oct. 23 and Mr. Gardiner marked the same anniversary Nov. 4.

Detroit Sales Down, Blame Paper Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Christmas season retail sales in Detroit dropped off as much as five to 15 per cent during December compared to anticipated sales, business analysts here reported Thursday.

Fairchild Publications said the strike against the city's three major newspapers, now in its fourth week, was mainly responsible for the lower sales volume. The firm conducts weekly business surveys of scores of leading retail newspapers.

"The strike undoubtedly reduced sales in some stores on promotional items," Fairchild said. "And downtown stores were hurt a little bit more because they depended on the big Christmas campaign to attract customers." For comparison, the survey firms described Christmas, 1954, as a "good" one in sales.

CAN TRACE FAMILY TREE BACK 16 GENERATIONS

Stephenson Conover, age one, is too young to realize it, but he bears one of the oldest names in North America. Four generations of the Conover family, which has been on this continent for 16 generations, are pictured here. From left are: J. Douglas Conover, 81, sheriff of Toronto and York; J. Harvey Conover, 51, of Brampton, Ont., and Hugh D. Conover, 31, who holds Stephenson. The original Dutch family name was Van Kouenhoven.

ONE WAY OF FEEDING SEA LIONS

Keepers at the zoo at Paris, France, became confronted with a feeding problem with the arrival of sea lions and penguins not yet accustomed to captivity. Though extremely fond of small fish, one sea lion has been on a hunger strike since its arrival earlier in the week. Keepers therefore had to resort to stronger methods than just offering food. As the sea lion is held by one keeper, another shoves fishes into his mouth. A companion captive watches the procedure apprehensively.

CALIFORNIA FLOODED FOR SECOND TIME IN 10 DAYS

This section of the Fresno residential district of California was flooded for a second time after new rains began in the mountains east of the city. The weather bureau issued a new flood warning for the southern San Joaquin valley area and rainfall above the 7,000 foot level of the Sierra Nevada brought a heavy runoff from the mountains. Death toll in the flood area of Northern California and adjacent states may reach 100.

Three Of Quints Arrive Home To Patch Up Rift

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne Not At Door to Meet Them

NORTH BAY (CP)—Three of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets arrived home early today and sought sleep before discussing family matters with their father.

Olivia Dionne met reporters outside his nearby Callander home and said he hasn't had an opportunity to "talk things over" with his three daughters.

Earlier this week he and Mrs. Dionne had accused the surviving quints of drifting away from the family.

"The girls are very tired and they need some sleep," he said. "They travelled all night and the driving was miserable."

Annette, Yvonne and Cecile arrived by car and dodged interviews with reporters and photographers clustered outside the house. Olivia Jr., 19 - year - old brother of the quints, drove the girls to Callander from Montreal.

Marie, fourth of the surviving quints, remained in Montreal where she is convalescing from a recent illness. The fifth sister, Emilie, died last year at Ste. Agathe, Que., following an epileptic seizure.

Mr. Dionne said he does not know how long the girls will be home.

"I did have a little talk with Annette and she straightened out a few personal matters," he said. "We only talked about a couple of little things. I'm very pleased Annette and me.

"We will probably have a long talk about things later in the day."

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne were not at the door to meet the girls but a source close to the family said they were at the house and added that "Mrs. Dionne was very, very upset during the night."

In the car with the quints and their brother, Olivia, were a youth wearing RCMP uniform and another in civilian clothes The two were reported to be friends of Olivia.

Purpose of the trip home is to patch up family differences which in three days stirred up almost as many headlines as the newsmakers' sale of the quints' birth 21 years ago.

When the occupants of the Dionne car saw the photographers they travelled right past, roaring by again five minutes later with horn honking.

Five minutes later they returned again—braking close to the waiting group—and then sped on. Reporters heard laughter coming from the car.

ESCAPE INTO HOUSE

Then an attendant from the Dionne home opened the gate and drove a family car in the direction of the quints' vehicle.

Shortly after, the quints were back again and this time the car made a sharp turn through the gateway and Yvonne, Cecile, Annette and the others went inside.

The RCMP Montreal Police spent a day of conflicting reports on whether the sisters would spend New Year's Day at home in the face of their father's harsh announcement Thursday.

The car first showed up at 5:18 a. m. It was 8:45 before the passengers finally entered the house.

In Montreal, Gerard Edwards, executor of the Guaranty Trust Company, which is handling the quints' financial affairs, said the company decided to go home to prevent the family rift becoming growing worse and magnifying the whole affair out of proportion."

MARIE IN MONTREAL

Marie, fourth of the surviving quintuplets, remained in Montreal where she is convalescing from a recent illness. The fifth sister, Emilie, died last year at Ste. Agathe, Que., following an epileptic seizure.

It's a pretty safe bet that the ambassador of the Best Dressed Women won't show up on the list of the Ten Best Dressed Men.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cold air covers the province today, and this morning temperatures were still dropping over southern Ontario. Snowflurries were frequent, especially south of Georgian Bay. Today skies are expected to clear except in regions south of Georgian Bay and over the western Lake Erie and Niagara regions. Saturday will begin with mostly sunny skies with cloud moving across the province from the northwest during the day. Temperatures will be somewhat higher Saturday.

Half Salk Polio Vaccine Not Used U.S. Report Says

By W. JOYNES MacFARLAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A public health service report indicates that more than half of the Salk polio vaccine shipped to private physicians and health departments in the United States remains unused.

Surgeon-general Leonard Scheele commented, however, that some accumulation is necessary both to prepare for mass inoculation programs and to provide a reserve for second shots. He added:

"The distribution and use of the vaccine appears to be proceeding in a reasonably satisfactory manner."

At the same time, he asked that parents, private physicians and health officers in those areas where vaccine is available cooperate in using supplies as rapidly as possible.

The health service report, based on estimates from 36 state health officers, said that about 45 per cent of the vaccine shipped to their areas under the voluntary control program prior to Dec. 15 had been used by that date.

The preliminary estimates indicated that about 2,200,000 cubic centimeters—or doses—were given 2,200,000 children and expectant mothers in the 36 American areas from July 31 through Nov. 30.

Probe Possible Arms Smuggling Into Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British authorities on this Mediterranean island are investigating the possibility that arms may have been parachuted to Cyprus terrorists by plane or smuggled in on small launches.

They are working on the problem of the abandoned parachutes of Eoka, the anti-British terrorist organization. Several terrorist attacks have involved large quantities of arms and bombs, despite the seizure of stocks of them.

The authorities are working on the theory that a twin-engined plane flew in low over the coast and dropped the parachutes during moonlight to waiting terrorists. It is suspected that the arms were dropped near the village of Lefkonico, 25 miles east of Nicosia, a village which has been the "very bad record" of terrorism.

Since early December a fighter plane is understood to have been standing ready at Nicosia airport, ready to be flown illegal to cross the east coast of the island at less than 9,000 feet.

British Army Plugs Leak in Budget Bans Trucks Driving Near Awning

RIPON, England (AP) — The British army took firm action today to plug a leak in the defence budget known as "Mrs. Gray's Awning."

The solution was simple: On and after New Year's Day no British army truck will be driven on the same side of the street as Mrs. Burrell's candy shop. And that's an order.

Over a period of time the army has spent much money to buy, say, an army truck.

The trouble all began rather casually on a day in 1953 when a truck tooling down Coltgate hill swerved over the curb and ripped the awning off Mrs. Eva Burrell's store. The army acknowledged its guilt and in the course paid £36 for a new awning.

A year or so later another army truck rumbled down Coltgate hill, took a swerve and knocked down the new awning. More paper work, and the army paid up again.

It was peaceful among the jawbreakers, peppermint sticks and chocolate bars for a goodly spell after that. But inevitably there came the day when—yep. And the army paid for the third time.

By now Mrs. Burrell was a big size of combat fatigue. Whenever she heard the rumble of a truck she would grip the edge of the candy counter and set her teeth.

In order not to tempt fate, she didn't even let down her third new awning—just kept it rolled up all the time.

Well, it got mighty hot one day last August. The candy in the window was melting and so was the syrup.

Mrs. Burrell took a deep breath and grimly unrolled her awning.

Crash!

The cost of living has been going up lately. The fourth new awning—the army got around to paying for it just before Christmas—cost £36. That did it.

From New Year's Day British army trucks will travel Coltgate hill in only one direction only.

Ever hopeful, Mrs. Burrell has ordered a new awning.

LABOR MINISTER DECLARES JOB OUTLOOK GOOD

Employment Now Higher Than Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said today Canada's employment outlook for 1956 "has many elements of strength."

Agricultural income is down but most other primary industries show few signs of weakness, the minister said in a year-end review. There was every reason to believe that employment among the country's 5,000,000-man labor force would be higher this winter than last.

"This does not mean that there will be no seasonal unemployment," he said. "This winter, as in every winter in the past, we are having a decline in employment during the cold months.

"It is not likely that seasonal unemployment can ever be entirely eliminated in our cold northern climate, however, during the past year a concentrated effort has been made to reduce seasonal unemployment in this country—an effort in which employer groups, organized labor and governments at all levels have co-operated."

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

In simultaneous year-end messages to Gregg, the heads of the two largest labor bodies, Claude Jodoin, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and A.R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, expressed confidence in the future.

The health service report, based on estimates from 36 state health officers, said that about 45 per cent of the vaccine shipped to their areas under the voluntary control program prior to Dec. 15 had been used by that date.

The preliminary estimates indicated that about 2,200,000 cubic centimeters—or doses—were given 2,200,000 children and expectant mothers in the 36 American areas from July 31 through Nov. 30.

DO IT NOW

Referring to winter unemployment, Gregg said:

"Inside renovation, decoration, maintenance and general clean-up can be done in the homes, stores and plants this winter if active steps are taken to get rid of doing this work during the winter months.

"Canadians should be educated not to put off until spring what can be done in winter and our winter unemployment could be held to a minimum.

Mr. Jodoin said it is apparent Canada's industrial growth will continue at the present tempo and that her population is headed for unprecedented farmer levels. This would bring an expanding labor force.

REVERSE NAZI METHOD

BERLIN (AP)—The execution-er's ax fell nine times in Communist East Germany this year on anti-Reds convicted of being "terrorists," the same as the Nazis' method of executing death sentences by beheading was revived in the Soviet Zone of Germany in 1950. All the cases involved charges that Communist-led tribunals labeled as "agents, saboteurs and spies."

Ontario's Ice-Glazed Roads Claim Lives of Seven Persons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seven persons were fatally injured Thursday in traffic accidents on Ontario's ice-glazed roads.

Scores of accidents injured many others after a morning fall of freezing rain. The rain later moved southward out of the province and cold air flooded in from the west. It left roads glazed and dangerous and temperatures were almost paralyzed.

Today, the department of highways reported that snow is falling in some areas around Lake Huron, Georgian Bay, Ottawa and Lake Nipissing.

Highways in southern Ontario generally were bare with some icy spots around the western tip of Lake Ontario. Highways in the Georgian Bay region and in northern Ontario were reported snow-covered.

Albert Labbucceur, 19, of Pegetanguishene died in hospital early today to bring to four the number dead from an accident on Highway 27 near Elmvale, 20 miles west of Orillia.

Walter Golboher, 30, was killed when a farm truck in which he was riding slid off the road into a ditch 18 miles east of Peterborough. Joe Kelly, driver of the truck, has been charged with manslaughter and careless driving.

Mrs. Catharine Bohm, 51, of Aylmer was killed and four other women injured when their car skidded near Aylmer.

Mrs. Gordon Culver, 45, of Dunnville, died in a car collision on Highway 3A at Port Welland. Three children in the car were injured.

A Chicago man, Irving Goldstein, pulled his wife and two young sons to safety after his car skidded through guard rails on Highway 2 near Chatham and plunged through ice into a ditch 10 feet deep with water.

One woman was injured and 21 others escaped when a bus skidded and rolled over on the icy roads east of Grimsby on Highway 8.

Police in Toronto's suburban North York reported eight traffic accidents in 10 minutes. Hamilton police reported 20 minor accidents in 75 minutes during morning rush hour. Hundreds more late for work.

A bread truck at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, skidded 600 feet along Highway 8 after colliding with a car. No one was injured.

Cars slid off roads, skidded sideways and coasted down hills as traffic crawled along.

Cameraman Denies Charge He Paid Soldier to Kill Man

PARIS (AP)—Pictures taken in Algeria last fall—showing a French gendarme shooting down a rebel—became a last-minute issue today in the campaign for Monday's general election.

Georges Chassagne, Algerian correspondent for an American newsreel—company, denied "the scandalous accusations" that he bribed the gendarme to kill the rebel for a newsreel shot.

The charges were first made by the newspaper Express, former premier Pierre Mendes-France's organ. Later the government said the story was true and the interior ministry in Paris charged Communist influence against the cameraman and the gendarme, without naming either.

Premier Edgar Faure's cabinet and L'Express of acting for "electoral ends" and of "losing sight of the elementary sense of national interest." The government accused the paper of damaging army morale.

The pictures, although widely used abroad as newsreels and as still photos in newspapers and magazines, had never been published in France until L'Express started its campaign Thursday.

Chassagne, a Frenchman who was born in Algiers and has lived there most of his life, has refused to give his own story. In a declaration for newsreel and television cameramen in the offices of his employers, the Movietone News, Chassagne said he took the pictures in question Aug. 22 during a clean-up operation in the village of Aina Bid.

Chassagne said he went with five other persons—movie cameramen and reporters—to witness an operation at Aina Bid, where "innocent victims, including women and children, had been massacred by rebels 48 hours before."

He said security forces were in the process of cleaning up a nomad camp and discovered rebels on whom were found personal belongings of some of the victims.

Chassagne said a gendarme and six or eight French soldiers were clearing out tents and lodgings in the village and that he took his pictures in the course of this operation.

"I was carrying out my duties purely as a journalist," he said. "I did not give a stiffen that was asked for any posing for pictures. I never saw the gendarme before. I have never seen him since and I personally never bribed any gendarme."

Chassagne said he knew nothing about governmental legal action against him.

Mendes-France's Paris office issued a statement protesting the bribery charge. It said: "Our respondents receive orders to be scrupulous and impartial information. They have no knowledge of their ever having failed in this duty."

The photographer was not identified, but he was understood to be in Paris.

The government admission fanned the inflamed the bitter political rivalry in the Paris area between Mendes-France, chief opponents in the Jan. 2 elections of a new national Assembly.

L'Express reprinted five pictures of the shooting from the newsreel film—which first appeared last month—and with it a number of atrocity stories by reporter Jean Daniel. "The affair of the film is confirmed," the paper says in a headline today. It also prints a statement by Pierre Viansson-Ponte, French censorship in Algeria withholding the facts of the campaign.

From Faure's side, Algerian Governor General Jacques Soustelle charged in an election speech at Lyon that the picture was made "on the occasion of a military campaign" in the United National.

The gendarme shown in the photographer has been charged with corrupting a civil servant, and that the latter will be tried by the military court.

Mendes-France has criticized the tactics of the 200,000 French troops in Algeria but has made no specific charges of atrocities. He has been campaigning against what he calls Faure's do-nothing policy in Algeria, and has predicted that a policy of force will lead to a situation worse than the French debacle in Indochina.

BELIEVE WOMAN STOLE MILLION FROM LOAN FIRM

Charge Virginian With Embezzling $100,000

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A businesswoman well known for her contributions to charity faces a $100,000 grand-larceny charge in an embezzlement case which eventually may total $1,000,000.

The charge was placed Thursday against Miss Minnie G. Mangum, 52, a 32,000-a-year official of the Commonwealth Building and Loan Association. She was accused of embezzling the $100,000 from her employer over a period of a year.

State attorney Aylmond Tabb said he had been advised that there were 4 or 5 million dollars involved which would swell the total to at least $800,000 over five years. A company spokesman said it may be two months before auditors can determine the exact loss to the firm.

The spokesman said the company has recovered assets valued at $200,000 from Miss Mangum, including property worth $50,000. One of the homes was the modest bungalow where she lived with her sister.

GAVE TO CHURCH

Miss Mangum was released Thursday night on $25,000 bond.

She regularly attended the Port Norfolk Methodist church. She has been a Sunday school leader for years. She also is said to have generously given $8,500 to the church building fund.

Miss Mangum joined the firm 28 years ago. She worked her way up to the position of executive secretary-treasurer.

There have been a quarrel with an employee that led to Miss Mangum's troubles with the law. Mrs. Ruth Bradbury, a teller in the banking and bookkeeping knowledge, drew blood last fall after coming to Norfolk with her sailor husband from Waukegan, Ill.

The argument was over the filing of an account card, and it took place on a day when customers were checking the books, Mrs. Cannon was fined $100 or 6 by Miss Mangum, who called her a "troublemaker."

Then someone tipped federal authorities, and federal bank auditors moved into Commonwealth Dec. 16.

Phillips said Mrs. Cannon has been rehired, but neither would say when she will return. She played in exposing the thefts.

Woman Asks Trial by Jury

MONTREAL (CP)—A 33-year-old woman who told police she attempted to kill Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin when he visited Montreal for her son was arraigned in Montreal Court Thursday.

Martha Robertson, a native of Russia, surrendered to police Wednesday, almost after a letter at a branch of the Bank of Montreal refused to cash a cheque demanding $2,000 in cash.

Police arrested her on saying she had just been reunited with her son and wanted to buy him a property. She said he was separated from her husband and the child when they fled to the country of a couple at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Mrs. Robertson chose jury trial and was ordered by preliminary hearing Jan. 5 on the complex charge.

Judge Rene Theberge freed her on $500 bail after defence counsel Antonio Lamer said she was needed to look after her 10 and 13-year-old sons

Guide Fatally Shot In Cabin On Newboro Lake

Woman Owner of Cottage Being Questioned by Police

BROCKVILLE (CP) — George Franklin Knapp of Newboro, 45-year-old district fishing guide, was fatally shot early today.

Provincial police said they are investigating the shooting but would not say whether or not they suspected murder. They were called at 4:45 a. m.

Dr. N. W. Kerr, coroner, examined the body and will conduct a post mortem at Westport this afternoon. He said the man had a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

State attorney Kenneth Atkinson of Brockville said he is expecting a report on the shooting later today.

Knapp was a bachelor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knapp of Newboro, 35 miles northwest of Brockville, in Leeds county.

The shooting was reported to have taken place in a cabin on an island in Newboro Lake. The lake has been frozen over for some time.

Police were later reported to be questioning Mrs. Virginia Ricks, owner of the cottage where Knapp lived year round. Mrs. Ricks is reported to have called police about the shooting.

Gale Warnings Hoisted in Coastal Areas

LONDON (Reuters)—Gale warnings were hoisted in most coastal areas of the British Isles today as strong winds lashed the area for the third straight day.

Several damaging winds inland were blowing themselves out, but were being followed by rain and colder weather from continental Europe. Rain, hail, sleet and snow were forecast for the northern parts of Britain.

Meanwhile, an air-sea search began today for the 211-ton Dutch motor ship Ruby, now more than 24 overdue on a trip from the River Tees to Blyth, England. The search normally takes five hours. Ten men are aboard.

The British salvage tug Romanis is towing the disabled 1,000-ton Norwegian merchant ship Sidsel K through Pentland Firth in the storms to Gravesend. The Romanis left North Shields to answer to the Norwegian ship's distress call and took her in tow during the night.

Year's Traffic Death Toll in U.S. 38,500

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council today estimated the 1955 United States traffic death toll at 38,500—the highest in 14 years.

The estimate came as many states took emergency action to hold down the frightening toll over the next three days—the New Year's holiday which safety officials fear will set another record for deaths on the highways. The record year's high was 1941's 39,969 deaths.

The council based its estimate on a projection of reports of 34,000 fatalities and 1,000,000 injuries in the first 11 months of the year. A later survey, taken Thursday by The Associated Press from completed police records, showed at least 38,751 traffic deaths.

Most of the state records on which the council's estimate was based were complete through Wednesday or Thursday. Some were complete only for 10 months. In New York state, where official figures lag, they were complete only through September.

The council figures list delayed reports, of 1,178 through New Year's Eve and deaths later from injuries received in traffic through bring the over-all total for the year to 38,500, an actual count probably will be available in another month.

SOLDIERS CALLED OUT

The council predicts that 400 will die in the three-day New Year's weekend, which would be a record for a New Year's holiday period. The greatest previous toll was 407 over the four-day 1952-53 holiday.

Arizona, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin have ordered out the National Guard (militia) to help cope with the New Year's threat. The national guard normally helps state police patrol highways.

$350,000 Fire Burns 37 Trucks, Postal Building

TORONTO (CP) — Fire department and police officials today sought to determine the cause of a fire Thursday night which destroyed a dilapidated two-storey parcel post/delivery building and at least 37 trucks.

Loss was placed at a possible $350,000—$250,000 for the post office-owned building and $100,000 for the trucks.

Cannes were first noticed shortly after 11 p. m. by watchman William Lewis. Flames an hour later had spread through the warehouse-type structure, leaping nearly 100 feet in the air.

The trucks, owned by a cartage firm and also by the post office, were parcel post/delivery vans parked in the building ready for morning loading.

H. W. Bacon, owner of the firm, said a fleet of 40 trucks was destroyed—and estimated their value at between $30,000 and $100,000. It was not known how many were in the vehicles were in the building. Three more may have been delivered.

The building, said by Mr. Bacon to be more than 30 years old, was located at York and Fleet streets behind the post office. It was used also for storage of mail.

He said the fire would not result in any delay in mail delivery. Other vehicles from his 240-truck fleet would be substituted for those destroyed.

Individual Planes for Infantrymen Is Latest Scheme for U.S. Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Thursday ordered the development of individual "aerocycles." They will be powered experimentally in an effort to get infantrymen off the ground to move faster and farther.

The aerocycle is developed by Dolackner Helicopter Inc., Mount Vernon, N.Y., looks like a cross between a motorcycle and the old U.S. Navy's "flying platform."

The army said tests made at Camp Kilmer, N.J., proved that men without flying experience could learn to operate the machines in 20 minutes.

The soldier stands on a platform over the rotor blades and guides the 200-pound "aerocycle" by leaning in the direction in which he wants to move. He controls his speed by squeezing a throttle on handle bars, much as people control motorcycles.

Mounted beneath the rotor blades, which are 20 feet and upward lift, are one large inflated plastic "pontoon" and two smaller plastic cylinders attached to the end of the 7-foot-five plastic bags provide stability while the machine is in the air and also act as shock absorbers for landing, and flotation for the landing happens to be on water.

The aerocycle is designed to carry a pay load of about 300 pounds and to fly at a maximum speed of 63 miles per hour with a range of about 150 miles.

The first machines are powered by a two-cycle Mercury outboard motor rated at 44 horsepower.

CONOVER FAMILY HAS CONNECTIONS IN THIS CITY

Readers may recall a photo- graph on the back page of last night's Ontario Intelligencer showing a gathering of four gen- erations of the Conover family in Ontario.

Oldest in the group was 91-year- old Harvey Conover. Mrs. Harry Burns, wife of Belleville veterin- ary, Dr. Harry Burns, is a grand- daughter of Harvey Conover.

The family also has another connection with the Belleville dis- trict. Miss Grace Conover, daughter of Harvey Conover, once taught at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

The Conover family traces its history on this continent back through 16 generations.

Police Blotter

City and district police spent a routine night on the night watch.

Despite conditions of snow on streets in the city there was only one accident of any consequence reported to the city night desk.

The incident occurred at the cor- ner of Victoria Ave. and William St., where the car of Dr. Ephraim Reilley, RR. 2, Belleville, went out of control and hit a hydro pole. Damage to the vehicle was $100.

In the county district ac- cident a vehicle owned by Gordon Pringle, of Shannonville, collided with a car driven by Albert W. Hawley of Frank St. Damage to the Heinze vehicle was $175, while about $35 damage was caused the other car.

It should be one of the most colorful events of the season with the brilliance of the traditional Christmas with gay scenes and the more sombre black and white of formal attire. A buffet dinner will be served at 6 o'clock. Music will be offered by the Mellow-tones orchestra.

Members of the Belleville Club and their guests will adhere to tradition with a dinner dance in the club's spacious rooms.

The popular Club Commodores is again holding forth with a gala musical show and the traditional New Year's entertainment of- ferings.

The Kinsmen Club, long noted for its fine hosting of New Year parties, will again hold forth at Tobe's Country Gardens. The club- men, their wives, sweethearts and guests will enjoy a turkey dinner and dancing.

The Masonic Temple will be the scene of a happy throng as the Royal Arch Masons play host to members of the craft and their guests at a well-planned dance with a turkey plate for all.

A buffet supper, hats, horns and the rest go with your tickets to the party at the Quinte Dance School of Dancing.

And you will be turkey-fed at the Club Cedars where Chuck Collins and his Mixers (that's an orchestra) will hold forth at the annual New Year's frolic.

PARTY AT PICTON

Over in Picton the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment are holding a New Year dance Friday night in the armouries. Ellis Mc- Linlock and his band will be on hand and what should be a rousing party.

New Year's dances are being planned for the following centres:

Many private parties beginning with lavish dinners are added to the general celebration. Houses and apartments will resound to the midnight strains of corsage or- lotimate friends when the magic hour arrives.

Managers of the Belle, Capitol and McCarthy theatres are leav- ing no stone unturned for the choicest motion picture fare for those celebrating in this man- ner. Noise-making gadgets, gaily- colored hats and community cheer will be the order of the Year.

From the white-tie-and-tails functions to the plaid-shirts-of-the square-dances, it looks like one of the noisiest merriest New Year's celebrations in some time.

PRICES WILL DIFFER

Parties and prices will differ. About the only thing that will show any degree of constancy will be the post-celebration head- ache which will be just as dis agreeable after a ten-buck outlay as a fifty dollar splurge. Aspirin and bicarbonate tabs are un- changed.

And a final tip. Don't be a trader. Don't "swap" the chitch on a highball, cocktail or bottle for that of your car.

Beside the grandparents will be on the "old river." You can feel fine but that doesn't mean you have to pay one.

Plenty of Fun, Merriment On Tap for New Year's Eve

The busy round of year-end partying by Canadians in general and Bellevillians in particular winds up Saturday night (it's with the biggest blowout of them all—the New Year's celebrations.

It should be a fitting climax to the holiday seasons whoop-de- do with another sizable hole being made in the old man's cheque book.

If you're going all out on the evening's fun with dinner, dance- ing, drinks, noisemakers and the rest of the New Year celebrative paraphernalia, the Christmas wal- let is due for a large new wrinkle if you're married—and want to show the little woman a good time —that means extra. You'll need a baby sitter. If you are putting on the dog, and doubt local service with a magnum or two of cham- pagne thrown in, you may have to call on junior's piggy-bank.

If you want to be Aly Khan for your Rita and take her to a met- ropolitan centres of whoopee, it will set you back somewhere from $40 to $75. Major hotels in the big cities are charging anywhere from $15 up per coupple for din- ner and dancing. Your fun or giggle-water is extra—and forget- ting tips.

But wherever you are and whatever you are, there will be plenty of places to celebrate. You can practically name your own price. If you are a stay-at-home you will awake New Year's day with a clear head, no regrets, no acci- dents and no hiccups. Besides telo- vision will provide you with ex- cellent programs.

Here in Belleville arrangements for one of the noisiest, happiest most rip-roaring New Years on practically been completed. From here it looks like the 1956 chee- rio will receive one of the best welcomes ever extended him by the Old Lady of the Bay and her environs.

Topping the list of social events here is the New Year's formal dinner-dance in the of- ficers' mess at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the Bridge Street Armouries. Lt.-Col. Edward E. S. Fairman, Mrs. Fair- man, the regimental officers and their ladies, will play host at a gala party.

Obituary

NORMAN R. DUETTA
(Trenton)

The funeral of Norman R. Duet- ta, 106 Quinte Street, Trenton, was held Thursday, Dec. 29th, from the Wesver Funeral Home, Trent- ton. Rev. Eric Brain, of the Christian Missionary and Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, conducted the service.

Bearers were Clarence Beattie, Daniel Benn, Beverley Foster, Harold Robinson, William Sills, and Douglas Wilson.

Interment took place in White's cemetery.

The deceased was born in Prince Edward County, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Duetta, and lived in Prince Ed- ward County and in Toronto prior to taking up residence in Trenton five years ago. He had been em- ployed by the Canadian Explosives and for some years by Breay Nash Motors of Trenton.

He was a member of the Christian Missionary and Alliance Tabernacle of Belleville.

He died in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Tuesday, Dec. 27, after having been in poor health for two years. He was 56.

Surviving are his wife, the for- mer Nora Rollin; five nieces and five nephews. He was predeceased by a sister, Mrs. Byanna Fritz.

OLIVENNE LANDON
(Ramore, Ont.)

The funeral of Olivenne Landon, of Ramore, Ont., was held Tues- day, Dec. 27th, from the chapel of the Wesver Funeral Home, Kirkland Lake. Rev. B.S. Norwood conducted the service. Rev. Arthur Schulte led the prayers at the graveside in New Liskeard ceme- tery.

Bearers were Wesley Landon Jr., Earl Landon, Ernest Landon, Landon, and Marcel Massier.

The deceased was born in Fort Kent. She died in Kirkland Dis- trict Hospital on Saturday, De- cember 24, after a long illness. She was 32.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Landon; one brother and two sisters, Mrs. Ed- mond Rhodes of Ramore; and Mrs. Leon (Barbara) Pritz, of Shannonville.

Also surviving her are three brothers-in-law, Albert, Ethel Burns, of New Liskeard; Mrs. Ed (Hazel) Vardy, of Bancroft; Mrs. Lawrence (Irene) Wannamaker, of Fort Stewart; and two half-broth- ers: Mrs. Ernest of Ramore, and Ross, of Detlor.

MRS. ROSS BURTT
(Trenton)

Eva May Burtt, wife of Trenton's mayor, Ross Burtt, died today in the Trenton Memorial Hospital. She was 59 year, her death ended a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Burtt was a life resident of Trenton. She was born there, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Variaalen.

She was a member of Grace United Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Ross and Victor, both of Trenton.

Resting at the Wesver Funeral Home, Trenton. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Youth Committed To Stand Trial On Rape Charge

One of three Belleville youths charged with raping a 17-year- old local girl last November 7th, Ronald Snarpe, 19, of St. Paul Street, was committed for trial by Magistrate T.Y. Wills in county magistrate's court this morning.

The committal was made by Magistrate Wills at the conclu- sion of the preliminary hearing. The court indicated its willing- ness to accept property bail of $5,000 for the accused.

Preliminary hearings for the two other youths charged with the offence will be held Thurs- day, January 5th. The two other accused are Garry Marriott and Gulseppe Facenda.

By consent of Defence Counsel Ronald Case, Crown evidence taken in the Sharpe preliminary will apply to Facenda's hearing but an entire new preliminary hearing is being asked for Marriott by his counsel, Kennelly G. M. Ross.

Hall is down witnesses in the Sharpe preliminary were heard several weeks ago, the proceed- ings then being adjourned until a biologist from the Attorney General's department could come to Belleville to testify. Heard today was H. J. Funk of Toronto who told of examining for stains the clothing worn by the girl against whom the offence was committed and clothing worn by the three accused youths.

Mrs. Madeline Hooking, nurse at Belleville General Hospital, and Provincial Constable J. Fullerton also testified.

The three youths are charged with raping the young girl on a sidetrack east of the city where they had taken her after picking her up after she left the Belle- ville Drive-In.

Three Persons Hurt in Crash, $500 Damage

TRENTON (Special) — Three persons were injured and property damage was in the neighborhood of $500 when two cars collided at the Henry Street and MacLellan Avenue intersection Wednesday.

Mrs. M. W. Andison suffered an injury on the right side near her chest, riding in the car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Mas- ter.

In the other car, Mrs. J. Dupon, 22, received a two-inch cut on her left leg below the knee while Rhea Dupon, 18, sitting in the back seat, was thrown forward and bumped her forehead. The in- juried were treated at the Trenton Memorial Hospital by Dr. G. W. Telfer.

PETS CUT

New Year's eve celebrating be- gins here tonight. Golf and Country Club members received a bonus at entertainment. The directors announced that the annual party of dancing and eating making tonight would be free of charge. Patrons may have to buy the turkey plate, however, at two dollars per person.

Also in store for the club's New Year's party was offered at $10 a couple.

Personnel at the both RCAF stations are prepared to see the old year out, and the new year in in elaborate style. The prices have been cut to the minimum. Airmen will have to pay $1.25 apiece for a meal at the Wing- tergarden, while all other messes from corporals to officers are ask- ed for $3 a person.

Celebrants planning on driving to and from entertainment should be wise to observe warnings is- sued by local and provincial law enforcement units. Remember po- lice will be keeping a very close eye on drinking drivers.

Ice Fishermen Having Good Luck on Bay

TRENTON — (Special) — There is little complaining among ice fishermen these days. Good catches are regular while all of the en- thusiasts share the luck.

Yesterday morning Fred Carr of Dundas Street East was rewarded for making an early trip. He caught four beautiful pickerel in an hour and was on his way back home by 8 o'clock.

Police Sergt. Gordon Steenburg also elated with his good fortune the first time out this year. He was on a two-day pass and proudly brought it up through the hole without trouble. Hank Larman and Bob Cottrell are other Trenton fishermen finding the pickerel bit- ing better than other species.

Trenton's shanty village con- tinues to grow on encouraging news. Latest count shows 41 huts in place and others visible across the bay from the Glen. The ice is clear and more than a foot thick in most places.

Amnesty Offer Expires Feb. 8

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) —Malaya's four-month- old amnesty offer to Communist terrorists will end Feb. 8, 1956, following the failure Thursday of "peace" talks with Communist leaders, it was officially announced here tonight.

The end of the amnesty, which came into force last September, was announced by Tengku Ismail Abdul Rahman, chief minister of Malaya. He took part in unofficial fail peace talks earlier this week with Chin Peng, leader of the out- lawed Communist party. The Com- munists refused to accept investi- gation of their loyalty, which they identified with surrender, or re- patriation to Communist China.

At the end of the amnesty, as well as other surrender terms in force before it was declared, will mean all-out war to smash an estimated 3,500 Communists still in Malayan jungles.

20 Industries Located in Eastern Ontario

OTTAWA (CP) — Industrial ex- pansion reached a record level in eastern Ontario in 1955, the East- ern Ontario Development Associa- tion said today in a year-end re- port.

The association, which is sup- ported by private and public mem- bership, said that during the year more than 20 industries either lo- cated in eastern Ontario or ex- panded their activities. They in- clude manufacturers of chemicals, drugs, textiles, electrical appli- ances, wood and building products and light engineering and service industries.

"These industries are expected to account for an overall increase in employment of approximately 4,000," the report said. "Thus, 1955 has been the best year in our history for industrial place- ment."

The association said it expects a higher rate of industrial expan- sion in 1956. The review said ne- gotiations are now being conducted with a variety of industries with a view to their location or expansion.

During 1955, the association said, major emphasis was placed on the development of tourist industry and industrial opportunities aris- ing from the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

The association last year also:

1. Decided to urge the Ontario government to establish a trade board in eastern Ontario.

2. Appointed a committee to work with a group in the province's eastern Ontario tourist attractions.

3. Started work on a long-range plan of highway development in eastern Ontario which will be sub- mitted to the Ontario government.

Most Big Clubs In New York Are Sold Out

NEW YORK (AP)—New Yorkers by the millions are going to live it up at an assortment of new and bob-tailed New Year's Eve.

Most of the big clubs in town are sold out, or will be before the first glass is raised Saturday eve- ning. Prices are about the same as last year, with a top of $30 a person at the Ambassador Hotel on Park avenue.

Reservations generally are run- ning ahead of last year, and some of the little fellows may be hurt. State shut its bars at 4 a.m. closing time on Sunday morning. Last year, spots could stay open around the clock if they obtained a special all-night license. No such privilege is available this year.

Most top-price places offer for the admission charge a meal and en- tertainers, plus dinner, dancing and souvenirs. Drinks come extra.

Mandatory formal attire is ap- parently a thing of the past. It's required only in some of the plush- ier hotels.

Most of the smaller restaurants —and some of the larger ones—are holding open house, but means no reservations required, and no in- crease in regular prices.

Riff Mountain Rebels Active

RABAT, French Morocco (AP) French posts in northeast Morocco were on the alert today after a series of attacks by Nationalist terrorists in the Riff mountain re- gion.

One Moroccan soldier was killed and two were wounded in an attack Thursday on a post at Bab Taza, 50 miles northeast of Fez. A num- ber of other minor engagements were reported in the region dur- ing the early morning darkness.

The action was the first reported in the Riff area near the Spanish Moroccan border in several weeks. Elsewhere the protectorate appeared calm.

Police at Beni Ouiid drove off the attackers with artillery in a two-hour battle. The rebel casual- ties were not known.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Base metals touched another new index peak in first-hour activity on stock exchange today after breaking through the September highs for the first time Thursday. The increased demand for metal issues was reflected in the briskest trading in several weeks—1,298,000 shares at 11 a. m.

Utilities and refining oils were strong among industrials but otherwise the list was trendless in light trading.

A spring of low-price mines marked up gs' of pennies. Senior base metals rod cautiously. Noranda firmed ¾.

Golds and uraniums traded sluggishly with changes limited to pennies.

Fractional gains among the senior western oil issues were posted by Calgary and Edmonton, Home Oil A and B and Canadian Collieries.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged on the market.

The egg market was weak with offerings in excess of a quiet demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture, eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 51; A medium 46; A small 42; B 42; C 37. Wholesale to retail: A large 56; A medium 53; A small 47; B 47.

Butter solids: Canadian, first grade, Ontario 58½ (nominal); western 58½ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 3-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate 99 15-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.80 1-16, down ¼.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were uneven at the Ontario public stockyards this week. Calves were actively strong. Hogs were steady and lambs were 50 cents a lower dredgeweight higher.

Cattle receipts were some 2,400 head more than last week and 1,200 head more than the same week in 1954. Western cattle receipts of 313 head were comparable to last week. Western stock calves were only 28 head.

Western receipts were mostly replacement cattle. Shipments to eastern slaughterers were light and there were no exports to the United States.

Feature of the week was the dull steer trade. In spite of improved quality, buyers were reluctant to pay steady rates because dressed beef costs were too high in relation to wholesale dressed prices.

The selling side tried to hold steer prices steady but were forced to lower the price scale 50 cents a hundredweight lower.

Heifers and dry-fed yearlings sold steady on a good demand. Cows were actively strong and bulls gained 25-50 cents a hundredweight. An estimated 600 head of stockers and a few slaughter steers were unsold at the close.

Prices
Choice steers	$19.50-20; good
steers at $18.50-19.50; choice heifers	$18; commons $12-15; good heifers and steers $17-18; choice cows $13 to $13; mediums $14-17; common $11-14; better steers and heifers $9-12; choice stockers mostly $21-22; good fed yearlings $20-21. Choice vealers $23; good kinds with a strong top f $12; good light heifer type calves $20; commoner cutters down to 6; good hearts bologna bulls a general top of $13, exterior bulls to $14; common bulls medium light bulls down to $9.

Golds and uraniums traded slug gishly with changes limited to pennies.

Fractional gains among the senior western oil issues were posted by Calgary and Edmonton, Home Oil A and B and Canadian Collieries.

Hogs unsettled with packers and saw little action with a few good stockers selling up to $18.25. Medium weights sold at $18.00 common at $14-16.

Light run of calves cleared actively at firm prices. Good vealers sold at $28-29 with choice selling to $30.50. Mediums were $25-27 with commons at $12-19. Grass calves sold mostly from $12-17. Good light sheep sold up to $10 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

Support Price To Be Continued On Eggs in '56

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to continue the support price on eggs in 1956 at 38 cents a dozen for grade A large at storage points, unchanged from 1955.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today that the announcement should give assurance to producers they will receive prices for their eggs in 1956 at or above the equivalent of the support price. He said further details will be published in the new year.

The government took a sharp loss of almost $700,000 in its 1954 egg support program. This year the loss has been only about $50,000.

Nikita Khrushchev Claims Pearson's Reply Shortsighted

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev, general secretary of the Communist party, Thursday said L. B. Pearson made "a shortsighted statement" in connection with the Soviet leaders' visit to India and Burma.

Khrushchev, reviewing the Asian journey he made with Prime Minister Bulganin, told the Supreme Soviet:

"Between us and the leaders of the countries we visited there are no two differing opinions on questions of peace.

"In certain countries, however, our trip was met in a very unfriendly and even frankly hostile manner by some people, including officials, and gave rise to virulent outbursts against us. This is true mainly of Britain and the United Sta s of America.

"This lir- was taken up, or to be more exa ecbced in other countries. Ca la, for instance, where the forei secretary, Mr. Pearson, ma a shortsighted statement.

"We h re been condemned, sermonized and subjected to other forms o pressure because we, in their n t, have wronged the colonialis because we have severely con emned this form of oppression and plundering of the peoples of the colonial and dependent countries by the imperialists."

Khrushchev apparently was referring to a speech here Dec. 8 in which Mr. Pearson said the Soviet leaders' anti-Western remarks in India and Burma were "almost an insult to the intelligence" of their audiences.

The Russians displayed ignorance of the sensibilities of their audiences and of what is going on in the Western world, Mr. Pearson said. Khrushchev's charge that Britain attacked the attack by Nazi Germany on Russia in 1941 must have been made for "bad political reasons." He said it was hard to believe the Soviet leader did not know better.

TOO MANY NICKELS

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Joseph L. Richetti's trouble was that he had too many nickels—27,400 of them, in fact. Police booked him on suspicion of burglary Thursday after they found the nickels in his apartment and accused him of robbing a safe and carrying off 200 pounds of the coins last Friday.

B.W. Brown Ends 50 Years In Shoe Repair Business

An association of over half a century in the shoe repair business will be ended this week for Bernard W. Brown, owner of Brown's Shoe Repair on Bridge Street.

On December 31st Mr. Brown will retire from repairing shoes and will turn over his business to Fred Mason.

Born in England, Mr. Brown came to Belleville more by accident than by design. When he came to Canada in 1907 he expected to locate in Peterborough. Then after four months in that city he visited English friends who had located in Belleville and has since made his home here.

Shoe repairing has been a lifetime vocation for Mr. Brown. At an early age he apprenticed in a shoe making shop in Liverpool, receiving the equivalent of $5 per week in wages. Later he opened his own business but sold out to come to Canada.

He worked first in Belleville at the Norman Shoe House and married in 1911 to Miss Emma Hawke, and a year later opened his own business at the present location of Brown's Shoe Repair.

At that time shoe repairing was strictly a hand operation, according to Mr. Brown. Soon, however, machines began to appear and with the introduction of machines came a speed-up of production.

In 1912 when Mr. Brown opened business in the city there were 12 shoe repair shops there. Today the number is still six despite the big growth in population.

MACHINES MAKE DIFFERENCE

"Machines have made the difference," Mr. Brown noted. "They have allowed fewer shops to do more business."

In the nearly 50 years in which Mr. Brown has been in business in Belleville he has trained many men who have gone out to open shops of their own, both in this city and elsewhere. Among these were Alf Goodwin, George Henley and Edwin Naylor, Jack Jones, Sherwood W. Henley, Picton; J. Henley, Cobourg; W. Newton, Trenton; Bert Adams, Belleville, and Erwin Pike, a nephew who returned to England to open a shoe repair shop.

The late William Hart worked with Mr. Brown for 40 years and for many years was in charge of the Bridge Street shop.

Fred Mason, who is taking over Mr. Brown's Bridge Street business, has been in the shop since 1946.

GIVING BUSINESS AWAY

"I'm not selling the business, I am handing it over to Mr. Mason as a reward for faithful service through the years," Mr. Brown said.

At one time Mr. Brown operated two repair shops in Belleville.

His Campbell Street business was sold in 1948 to Bram Humphreys.

The name Brown has long been associated with the shoe repair business in this city, but the shoe repairman with the English accent is also well known for his work with the Salvation Army.

"I have been associated with the Salvation Army for as long as I can remember," he said.

As of January 1st, 1956, Brown's Shoe Repair will be but a memory, but Mr. Brown's work with the Salvation Army will continue.

Yalta Documents Shed Light On How Cold War Originated

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late state secretary Cordell Hull once angered his fellow members of Franklin D. Roosevelt cabinet that his former chief aide, Sumner Welles, "seemed to be operating a second state department" without interference from Roosevelt.

The late Joseph Stalin plainly told Roosevelt soon after the 1945 Yalta conference that he intended to have a Poland a government which would establish "friendly relations" with the Soviet Union.

Someone advised the United States in advance of Yalta that it wanted to break up Germany into smaller powers, "demilitarize German industry," and collect reparations in machinery over a 10-year period.

These and other fragments of history—some of them shedding added light on the origins of the cold war—are disclosed in the publication of more than 40 previously secret documents bearing on the Yalta conference.

The state department printed the documents together with a vast accumulation of other papers in a 1,032-page volume put on sale by the government printing office late Thursday.

Only these 40 or so items are from the chest of Roosevelt with minor developments of the 1944-45 period. The bulk of the Yalta papers were made public last March. Now the whole collection has become available in book form at $5.50 a copy.

Joseph Reap, state department press officer, said the new papers came from "scraping the barrel" in the Roosevelt library in Hyde Park, N. Y., and from various government sources.

The new additions provided some interesting footnotes to the history of that period in the end of the war, and included a humorous one.

That was Sir Winston Churchill's reaction to the decision to meet at Yalta. There had been prolonged negotiations over the site among Washington, London and Moscow.

The late Harry L. Hopkins, special presidential assistant, wrote Roosevelt from London in January 1945, shortly before the Yalta conference, that he had talked with Churchill and found the then prime minister well. Hopkins continued: "He says that if we had spent 19 years on research, we could not have found a worse place in the world than Magneto (code name for Yalta) but that he feels that he can survive it by bringing an adequate supply of whisky. He claims it is good for typhus and deadly on lice which thrive in those parts."

Says Canadians Will Earn, Spend More Next Year

MONTREAL (CP)—The coming year promises to be one in which Canadians will be "producing more, earning more, spending more, saving more and investing more than ever before," J. G. Crean of Toronto, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today in a year-end statement.

Fulfilment of the promise, said Mr. Crean, requires that Canadians exercise their common sense and initiative and preservation of a favorable climate for further economic expansion places heavy responsibilities on labor, management and governments, which should work together as a team.

Unemployment Practically Nil Says Minister

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Hon. Clare Mapledoram, Ontario minister of lands and forests, said Wednesday night that unemployment in the province was "practically nil" and the general outlook for winter works was "unusually good."

He credited the St. Lawrence seaway, atomic home building and large-scale industrial development with cutting unemployment almost to nothing.

"Winter work is being carried on and the picture looks exceedingly bright," he said.

Extensive use by paper mills helped the winter employment situation in the north, he said. Hauling has been slow but now is moving into action and will be carried on throughout the next several weeks."

He said construction of the seaway was responsible for the fabulous decrease in southern Ontario.

SHOOTS TWO SONS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 29-year-old mother told police she shot her two sons to death Thursday because she believed people looked down on her and the boys since her release from a sanitarium.

Chairman Against Giving Property Owners Damages

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Robert Moses of the New York State Power Authority protested Thursday against proposals that would give property owners the right to sue for damages for fluctuating water levels on Lake Ontario.

Moses, in a letter to Lew Jordan, chairman of the United States section of the International joint commission, said U.S. Representatives Harold C. Ostertag (Rep., N.Y.) and Kenneth B. Keating (Rep. N.Y.) are attempting to have provisions included in a commission order to give property owners the right to obtain damages for changing water levels.

Moses asked that the power authority be given an opportunity to be heard before any provisions for damage or "arbitrary damages" are adopted by the commission.

SAME APPLIES

"We have a duty to protect prudent investors in public revenue bonds against the acts and demands and we shall do so," Moses added. "The same thing applies to our Canadian partner, the Ontario Hydro which must also fight extortion."

"From the beginning certain Lake Ontario groups have been using pressure politics to establish a basis for future huge damage claims," Moses said. "We shall continue to resist such efforts publicly."

"There is no equitable or solid basis for such claims for supposititious damages and any such award will accrue to the property owners," he said.

Moses said the joint commission has never made a decision on Ontario levels, which have recorded a peak of 249.3 feet, will have a maximum level of 24 feet under proposed regulations.

He said it is one thing to raise and lower levels and "quite another to anticipate claims and to foment future demands for damages."

Students Forced Out of Hotel In Night Clothes

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Ontario high school students skiing expedition were forced in their night clothes early this day when fire broke out at Shalet de Lac Beauport, a hotel here.

The blaze, which started from defect in the oil furnace, was quickly extinguished and there were no injuries.

More than 80 students from Ontario cities are spending a week at this resort 30 miles north of Quebec City, skiing and improving their French at the same time. The visit is sponsored by Visit Interprovinciales, an organization whose aim is to encourage changes between English-speaking French-speaking students.

Plan Support For Workers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Representatives of organized labor in Ontario's border area met Wednesday night to discuss measures to be involved in the 103-day-old General Motors strike.

A special committee was set to rally union members in aid of the strikers. It includes representatives both of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor which united the two labor bodies.

Officials said United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) funds supply meat, local unions will issue vouchers for the strikers but other payments are routed to contributions by organized Canadian labor generally.

THIS IS NO DUTCH TREAT

The world will wait with bated breath to discover what is going on at The Hague, over in Holland. A 23-year-old girl has decided to sue a doctor for recognition as their child. She and another girl were born in the same hospital on the same day. They met at a wedding earlier this year and each was struck by her own resemblance to the other's family. Orderly birth days planned to sue the other's legal parents for recognition, claiming they were switched at birth.

The girl, however, has dropped her suit. Her counsel reuters' report of the status of the suit of the other girl, to put it mildly, somewhat less than enlightening. The place we are told that a court has declared her illegitimate; in another that the court has ordered illegitimate medical examinations and investigations.

Somebody ought to talk to this girl like a Dutch uncle. Its sort of thing, we should all have to go and wearing veils, like Moslem women, as soon as we had parental age.

"And these are your two sons," says the gushing new doctor. "I would have known they were brothers the minute I saw them; both of them are so like your husband."

It is embarrassing enough to have to inform the new doctor that one of them is the heir of the household, the other is the son of the plumber who is fixing the sewer. It is even more embarrassing if this mistake sent both the hostess and the plumber rushing to the phone to inform their respective lawyers that the parental recognition were pending.

STOVES CAUSE FIRES

Six more children have died horrible deaths, trapped their flaming homes.

They are just the latest in a long and heart-rending list of fire victims.

In most of these cases the homes have been heated by coal-burning or wood-burning, coal-burning or oil-burning stoves—stoves now officially immaterial.

Stoves are generally not housed in basements of frame, wood-filled, inflammable materials. They occupy space in the family living quarters.

Pipes pass through partitions. Drapes or clothes are nearby.

With proper precautions, stoves can be used to heat homes without causing fires. But a little carelessness or a little forgetfulness, and they can be used to heat homes without causing fires. But a little carelessness or a little forgetfulness, and they can be used to heat homes with such an almost fatal combination.

The day that the last stove is condemned will be time enough to talk about having settled all the material needs of our people. Until then, the lives of little children will be endangered.

CANCER STATISTICS

Look at those Christmas cigarets!

Well, light up and be happy.

What, those stories about cigarets causing lung cancer worry you?

Well, let's see now, perhaps the reader would be interested in a little item from London, England.

Ministry of health statistics show that 261 children under the age of six died of cancer in Britain in 1954—triple the 1920 figure.

The population of Britain certainly has not tripled in the past 34 years. Nor is it likely that any of the children were heavy smokers. So it appears that something else besides the smoking of cigarets has been increasing at a tripling rate. Whatever it is that has tripled the deaths of children could be responsible for increased cancer among adults, including lung cancer as well as other types.

UNUSUAL SOLUTION TO AN OLD PROBLEM

Olivia Dionne says that he does not regret issuing statement saying that he will have opened between one and four surviving members of the family of his quintuplets and the other members of the family.

"Mrs. Dionne and I remained silent about the matter for a long time," he says, "but the embarrassment we are suffering over the separation became so great we felt obliged to make public how we felt about it."

Others of mothers have faced similar situations in the past. Yet, strangely enough, none of them ever seems to have thought of this simple method of relieving themselves of their embarrassment. None of them ever dreamed that the cure for a heartache was to be found in streamer headlines in the nation's press.

OPTIMIST'S VIEW OF THE WORLD

Nicest Christmas present, to the most people, is provided by a letter in "Toronto Saturday Night" from Dan McCallum of Vancouver.

"The work of the world," says Mr. McCallum, "is done by the 95 per cent who are practical and scientific."

This gives us nineteen chances out of twenty to be considered both practical and scientific, and all-time high for our stock on the public opinion exchange.

Same holds true for everybody else.

FATHER TIME

Old Father Time is never stopped by any signal light.
He never has to heed a sign: "No
thirsty left or right."
He never meets a traffic jam. In all this world he can Through rain or shine or good or ill who just keeps travelling on.

Old Father Time is never stopped by accident or train;
His hour hand upon the dot the same shall will gain.
He will not pause for flood or fire
nor ever heed the shouts,
Nor stand upon the curb to watch a circus street parade.

The sun comes up and then goes down and Father Time moves on.
There's nothing in this human play he stops to look upon.
So many roads to choose, so many hours a day
He measures out to men on earth let come or go what may.

But man must wait for halts and tides and stop for signal lights—
And even pause to wish his loved ones well or climbing mountain heights.
While Father Time just goes trudging on with sure and measured beat.
I think I'd rather be a man and sometimes stop to eat.

New He!p In Parking

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Now they are providing casters for cars to solve the problem of getting out of, or into, a tight parking situation. But the motorist still requires some help to get the free space at either end of his parked vehicle to be able to use it.

The product of British resourcefulness, it works this way. First the car is backed as far as it can go and two steel platforms mounted on swiveling ball-bearing casters placed one in front of each rear wheel. Then the car is driven ahead a few inches on the platform, which then becomes the path to be pushed sideways until the car can be backed out of its parking space quarters by reversing the process.

The big problem seems to be to get the tire inches fore and aft to get the little platforms under the wheels. A helicopter attachment on the roof could be the answer.

Napoleon Died of U!cer

(Montreal Gazette)

Two specialists of Northwestern University, Chicago, believe they have solved a medical mystery 134 years old. In a new study of Napoleon they declare that Napoleon did not die of cancer, as commonly believed, but of an ulcer, an affliction unknown in medical lore at the time of his death in 1821.

Their explanation is more than medical. Drs. Clifford Barborka and E. Clinton Teeter say that the famous Napoleonic pose, with the hand tucked into jacket or blouse, was a direct result of the disease. Because of the pain Napoleon had relieved the pain of the ulcer by the doctors, and thus another tradition becomes less impressive.

Napoleon believed he had cancer, a family disease. He made a dying request that a post-mortem be held so he could believe he was dying of "the same illness as my father." He thought that medical evidence might be able to prove his son "Tell him how he can guard against it and how he can be saved from the dread of it which has so afflicted me."

Recent study of the tissues of the Napoleon viscera, preserved in the Northwestern College of Dental Surgeons in Evanston, proves that the dread of a malignancy was needless person then they thought for striking the famous Napoleonic pose.

Tokyo Grows Despite War

(Edmonton Journal)

A remarkable example of the vitality of a modern metropolis is provided by Tokyo's area that the population of Tokyo as now passed control in the post-war period to increase over the last pre-war figure of 7,378,000. This makes Tokyo almost the world's third largest city, close behind London and New York.

What makes this so notable is the terrible manner in which Tokyo received in World War II.

American air raids in 1945 alone destroyed or burned out 50.8 square miles of the city's most cd in Westerns, when I was young and went to them, it was all fun play. Villains died with a flesh wound from the first shot in the first reel.

Today, Westerns have gone mature. Heroes no longer die in forty-fives. They use them, all right. But they don't kill anybody. It's all a lot of noise with their guns, though the villains aim. But, at the right moment, always, the hero and his stupid friend close in throw their guns down and fight it out man to man with the most terrific punches you ever heard. They're as realistic as leather, thin pistol shots.

It's very interesting, this recent decline in sunplay in our Westerns. I doubt if a villain has killed a hero in months, maybe years. They all end up grovvy from left hooks to the jaw, and get run by the sherrif, with a long, long term in jail pending.

In the '30's, where you now see most Westerns, they last half an hour. Nowadays they have got ill figured that I can tell exactly at what point the action will start in the punching begins. Say the Western starts at 9 o'clock. At 9:05 or so you can see the situation developed. The next five minutes consists of the villain getting away with the gold. The third five minutes is devoted to the utter confusion of the posse, and it is pretty obvious he is not going to be able to do a thing about it except. His sidekick partner and friend is doing everything in his power to help.

However, quite suddenly, with horses galloping at extraordinary speed, at twenty minutes past five, one election to next.

Facts About UN Members

(St. Catharines Standard)

Something was salvaged, after all, from the big argument over Canada's membership in the United Nations. Indeed, the end result, which was finally admitted, was almost as good as the original plan to admit 18 nations. Canada had recovered the earlier resolution, which provided that 18 nations be admitted, including Outer Mongolia and Japan. That went down to defeat finally, but it made a comeback was quickly passed Wednesday. The two nations dropped from the list were Spain and Japan.

There had been bitter opposition from Nationalist China to the proposed admission of Outer Mongolia. Nor was the West happy about the idea. However, it felt it could compromise to get as many nations in as possible, and to make the UN more truly representative.

It is easier to compromise. Russia did a switch and moved that 18 nations be admitted. And the switching was accomplished in a matter of minutes. Membership is now 76.

The 18 nations which now take their seats in the UN have a total population roughly equal to that of the United States, about 165,000,000.

Their combined land area, more than 2,500,000 square miles, is a little less than that of the United States.

Italy is the largest in population and Jordan is the smallest. Libya is the largest in area and Albania the smallest.

The 18 include 10 European nations, four in Asia and one each in Africa and the Middle East. Thus Western, West and East Germany and Switzerland remain out of the United Nations.

Here is a rundown on the vital statistics of some of the new members.

Albania — A Soviet satellite peoples republic in the Erst Caucasus. Population 1,000,000. Land area 10,631 square miles.

Austria — A republic in Central Europe freed last fall of four-power occupation.

Jordan — Kingdom in Palestine Bahan area. Population 14,400,000. Land area 91,671 square miles.

Ireland — Republic in Southeast Asia. Population 3,000,000. Land area 26,600 square miles.

Italy — Republic in Southern Europe. Population 41,000,000. Land area 119,974 square miles.

Finland — Republic on Baltic Sea. Population 4,000,000. Land area 130,165.

Ceylon — Island in the Indian Ocean. Member of the British Commonwealth. Population 6,000,000. Land area 25,332 square miles.

Spain — Nominal monarchy under the dictatorship of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Southwest Europe. Population 25,200,000. Land area 194,783 square miles.

Portugal — Independent republic in Southwest Europe. Population 8,000,000. Land area 34,240 square miles.

Libya — Constitutional monarchy in Africa on Mediterranean Population 788,000. Land area 668,340 square miles.

densely built up sections and drastically lowered city-zone of dwelling industrial plants. Casualties were exceptionally high, 100,000, and the area must have been numbered.

the shooting starts. By five twenty-three, the shooting has reached its terrific crescendo with bullets flying to one on the villains. They're aiming. You can tell by the whine of bullets passing close to the head of the hero's stupid partner, the rocks that splinter off the cliffs, though not really aiming. He's just shooting blind.

Then all of a sudden, he decides to do the Manly Thing. This is what all the devotees of the new Westerns have been waiting for, I guess. He stands up straight, frees himself from the cliff and runs in the end. That is about five twenty-seven, leaving just enough time for the windup of the picture, which is characteristically abrupt in Westerns.

I have it so figured that I can go upstairs and read for twenty-three minutes. When I hear the shooting start, I know I have three minutes to get back down and have light a cigaret and begin my leisurely study of Westerns.

I get in front of the TV just as the first blow is struck.

Is Relief of Pain A Miracle?

A Chicago lady wonders where I got my medical knowledge and how I can call myself a doctor. The lady may she has had arthritis for many years and she knows there is no cure for it, but she has found some relief in the wonder drugs to relieve the pain. The lady is beginning to wonder if some of the doctors want to keep you in pain so they can get rich. She has tried many things but in June she started taking "Meticortelon" (or that's the way I read it) under the doctor's direction, and "believe me" when I say it is really a miracle drug, as the pains left me within 48 hours. I started with 4 tablets a day and now seven months later only take two a day, and I defy you to say they don't help."

The Chicago lady then closes with a remark that has become a "I wish you would explain your attitude toward anything that helps people."

The Chicago lady and a great many others probably have an idea how much I have been misled for my attitude toward all things I believe would help people.

Probably few readers will recall that the conductor of the personal health column first embarked in praise of a "miracle drug" in a glowing manner. That poor geek had just witnessed a "miracle" in a patient almost totally disabled by the rheumatic pain was given a few doses of a new wonder drug and presently got up and danced around the room.

All too soon after the piece had been printed the patient was suffering from the same old pain and disability, and the first reports of serious toxic or poisonous effects of the drug appeared. So I printed, as soon as possible, an apology and a warning.

It was the only time I have been deceived by the "miracle" or "wonder" drug hokum, and I'm ashamed of it.

The Chicago lady gives little information concerning the nature of her trouble. She calls it arthritis, yes, but I venture to say her trouble is not arthritis at all, but actually the rheumatic.

Chronic arthritis is long continued inflammation usually from infection, of joint or joints. Rheumatic (not arthritis) is the way of saying physical degeneration of joint tissues. From long observation and study of the question I have come to regard joint disease as a natural process of more than a year in duration as rheumatic rather than arthritic.

This distinction is significant in relation to the prevention and treatment of chronic joint disability, by correcting the particular factors mainly responsible for physical degeneration. Fatigue is supplementing the diet with adequate daily rations of iron, P and O, thiamin, riboflavin and A. Not for three months, but from now on.

Strength for The Day

STILL THE ENEMY

When the Apostle Paul was preaching at Lystra, he observed in the congregation a lame man who was crippled from birth. Upon the unmistakable evidence of Christian faith given by this man who, as we would say today, rated a miracle. His faith back of the miracle is always welcome. God's miracles are conditioned only by man's faith. Appealing miracles can be re-enacted in modern times if we have apostolic faith.

When the man leaped up and walked, the multitude were so amazed that they declared Paul and Barnabas to be immortal gods from Olympus and prepared to offer sacrifices to them. Such action, of course, the missionaries spurned, and they used the occasion to preach straight from the shoulder to this heathen people, a sermon on the nature of the one true God and on the folly of false gods.

Let us never forget that in modern life we, too, are confronted at point beneath a thin crust of civilization and culture. Thousands of men have no religious faith, nor send their children to Sunday school. Good works are more often sought after than Christian grace. Multitudes today worship success as a fetish and believe they can secure it without the exercise of Christian faith.

Heathenism is still in our midst.

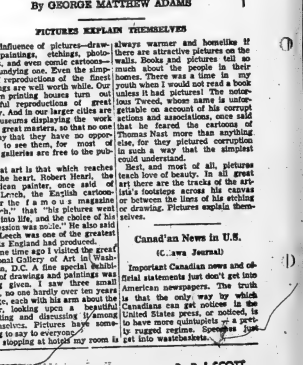
PICTURES EXPLAIN THEMSELVES

The influence of pictures—drawings, paintings, photographs, graphs, and even comic cartoons—is an undeniable factor in their homes. There was a time in my youth when I would have read a book unless it had pictures! The notorious Twees, whose name is indelibly associated with all his corrupt actions and associations, once said that he feared the influence of Thomas Nast more than anything else, for they pictures explained to him in a way that the simplest could understand.

Nast, and many of all, pictures teach love of beauty. In all great art galleries we watch the artists's footsteps across his canvas or between the lines of his etching or drawing. Pictures explain themselves.



Canad'an News in U.S.

(C..ava Journal)

Important Canadian news and official statements just don't get into American newspapers. The truth is that the only way to get news printed is when you get noticed in the United States press, or noticed, is to have more gullibility or a greater rugged regime. Speeches just go into wastebaskets.

PUC Member Retires from Post After 27 Years

PICTON. — This weekend, H. Bert Tully retires after 27 years as a member of Picton Public Utilities Commission. This has been continuous with the exception of one year.

Mr. Tully's long and outstanding service was marked at the commission's meeting this week Mayor H. J. McVicar and H. G Blakely spoke in appreciation following which the mayor made the presentation to Mr. Tully of a suitably engraved silver tray.

As a member of the Commission Mr. Tully played an important role in having a water system installed in Picton in 1922. He was active on the committee planning the town's sewerage system and also in expanding the town's lighting and power system.

Mr. Tully will be succeeded at commissioner by Jack H. Ward, P. Eng., who was elected to that office recently.

PICTON

2 Babies Born Christmas Day

PICTON. — Thirteen babies were born at Prince Edward County hospital from Dec. 23 to 25. Of these, two were born on Christmas day. A daughter was born on the 25th to Warrant Officer and Mrs. Robert Hawkins, Picton Heights, and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cooper, R. 5, Picton. A son was born to former Picton residents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wilson, Picton hospital, also on Christmas day. Three of the other birth in hospital here missed being Christmas day babies by a matter of hours.

Commented a nurse, "the stork was busier than Santa Claus at the hospital this year."

PICTON

Postmaster, Staff Complimented on Handling of Mail

PICTON. — Postmaster Ross Greenfield and staff here are receiving many comments on the manner in which they handled the rush of Christmas mail. During the height of the rush, from 22 to 24, every night saw all incoming and out-going mail handled.

Postmaster Greenfield reported yesterday that just over half a million cards and letters were handled at the local office. A total of 600 bags of parcel mail was also handled. In addition, the staff was concerned with the usual first class personal and business mail, newspapers, magazines and general wicket service.

Volume of mail here has shown a steady increase, due not only to an increasing population of the town but from the Army camp. As well, mail from six rural post offices and also rural routes is handled here.

Admits Prisoner Escaped from Cell Block

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. R. B Gibson, penitentiaries commissioner, said Thursday a prisoner escaped from his cell at Kingston penitentiary Christmas Eve but was captured before he could scale the prison wall.

Gen. Gibson said the prisoner, whom he declined to identify, apparently used a hacksaw to cut the bars of his cell door. The prisoner went through one or more doors and entered the prison yard where he was spotted by guards.

Gen. Gibson declined to give further details pending an investigation.

Vigorous Battle Shaping Up Over Sale of Gas in States

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A vigorous, months-long battle is shaping up over a proposal by an American pipeline company to import natural gas from the projected trans-Canada pipeline and sell it on the wide-open market in the north-central United States.

More than 100 groups — representing consumers, gas companies, pipelines, coal miners, railroads and labor organizations—have indicated they intend to intervene in the request by Transcontinent Gas Transmission Company and its affiliate, Midwestern Gas Transmission Company, for official permission to import 200,000,000 cubic feet of Canadian gas daily from the trans-Canada line at Emerson, Man.

Tennessee Gas filed its request with the federal power commission Oct. 10 along with a companion request to export U.S. gas to Canada at Niagara Falls to help build up an eastern Canadian market for the Alberta gas.

Since then, 125 groups h a v e notified the commission that they intend as interested parties to intervene in the application, and industry spokesmen have predicted the hearing will develop into one of the most publicized in the commission's history. With that many interveners, they say, the proceedings may drag on for months and possibly years.

No date has yet been set for the hearing, expected to start sometime in January.

Not all of the interveners are against the importation of Canadian gas. Many of them are municipalities and smaller gas companies which will support The plan in the hope of getting more gas supplies.

IMPORTANT ISSUE

The proposal by the $626,000,000 Tennessee Gas Company, which operates the world's largest natural gas transmission network, is the key to present Canadian plans to pipe gas 2,200 miles from the prolific fields of Alberta to the industrial markets of Ontario and Quebec.

Under an agreement reached in Ottawa late in the fall, Tennessee has become a one-third partner in the Canadian enterprise.

The decision of the federal power commission in the Tennessee application will be a determining factor in the fate of the Canadian line. If the forces opposing the importation of Canadian gas manage to defeat the Tennessee proposal, the all-Canada route for the trans-Canada line could well be stopped for the present.

With a lack of industrial markets along the route in western Canada the trans-Canada line can be made economically feasible under the present set-up only if arrangements can be made to pipe the Alberta gas deep in the north-central U.S. market at some point on the Manitoba-U.S. border.

Scientists Think That Radioactivity May Be Convulsing Floors of Oceans

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Is radioactivity causing slow convulsions in the rock formations underlying the oceans? A scientist who specializes in studying the seas believes this may be so.

Two clues picked up by researchers in the last five years point in this direction, Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, told the American Physical Society in a paper prepared for today.

The evidence is based on the fact that radioactivity causes heat, and that the rock bodies underlying the oceans as well as those below the land all contain small amounts of "hot" atoms—uranium, thorium, radium and others, including one kind of potassium.

Individual samples of rock from under land areas contain more "hot" atoms than rocks from beneath the ocean, Dr. Revelle reported, but, astonishingly, the average amount of all radiations from undersea rocks is a little greater than the average for those from beneath the continents.

MAY GO DEEPER

A plausible explanation for the strange difference between underland and under-sea heat, he said, may be that the rocks under the waters, even though they contain fewer hot atoms per cubic yard, may produce more total radioactivity because they may extend deeper into the earth. He was the first clue.

The second came from heat measurements in two particular spots in the Pacific. One was in the great Aleutian trench, a canyon in the ocean bottom off central America. The other was 500 miles to the west, where a mountain-like ridge rises from the ocean as a whole.

Dr. Revelle said this could mean that cold rock masses are moving downward under the trench, with warm rock areas moving upward under the ridge. The movement, the scientist said, is something like liquid coming to a "rolling boil" in a pan—part of it rises, rolls and goes under again.

The convulsing movement is slow, possibly the rate of one mile in 100,000 years, the scientist suggested.

It will take many more measurements to show for certain that the heating is due to radioactivity. An alternative explanation, Dr. Revelle said, might be that even though heat is being generated by fission in the earth, the surface is cooling and contracting, producing mountains and deeps like wrinkles on an apple when its skin dries and shrinks.

Protest Transfer Of Superintendent

TORONTO (CP)—Cobourg district residents are protesting the transfer of William Little, superintendent of the Cobourg boys training school, to Queens Park source said Thursday.

Mr. Little, father of Mr. Little to the training school at Brampton was one of four announced recently by Reformer Minister Root. They were designed to give the superintendent first-hand experience in administering reform institutions, he said.

Mr. Little has been superintendent at Cobourg for six years. The transfer is effective Jan. 1.

RECORD TOLL

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's traffic fatality toll reached a record 122 Thursday, with the death of a 21-year-old man from injuries he suffered in a Christmas Eve accident. The previous record was set in 1948 when 121 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents.

Power Output Increased by Five Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's capacity to generate electric "juice" for power-thirsty consumers increased by five per cent in 1955 and promised to grow faster in the next two years.

The northern affairs department in a year-end review of the power industry found Thursday, said the 1955 increase in generating capacity of 629,630 horsepower brought total output to 17,931,254.

More than half the increase this year was accounted for by addition of five units with total output of 325,000 h.p. at the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's Sir Adam Beck-Niagara generating station No. 2.

The rise in generating capacity during 1955 was smaller than the average increase for the last five years of 1,014,000 h.p. but the department said projects under construction will add about 1,000,000 h.p. in 1956 and that much more in 1957.

EARLY STAGES

Projects still in the preliminary stages would provide an additional 4,000,000 h.p., including the massive St. Lawrence river power project which is scheduled to provide 1,200,000 h.p. by 1963.

Hydro - electric projects under construction in Ontario, besides the Lawrence development, were a 74,000-h.p. generating station at Manitou Falls on the Winnipeg river, scheduled for completion next year and the Whiteclay Falls generating station on the Winnipeg river, 70 miles east of the Manitoba border, expected to provide 53,000 h.p. in 1957.

About 1,000 miles of transmission and rural distribution lines were put up across Ontario this year, bringing power to some 48,000 rural consumers, including 138,400 farmers.

MANAGER DIES

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Christy Walsh, manager of many sports celebrities and founder of a newspaper syndicate, died at his home Thursday night, apparently of a heart attack. He was 64. Only Wednesday Walsh presented coaches' all-American awards certificates to Hardiman Cureton and Bob Davenport, UCLA track football players. He had organized the coaches' awards board, which originally included Howard Jones of Southern California and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame.

BANCROFT

Jr. Red Cross Director Speaks On Refugee Problem

BANCROFT.—Immense refugee problems confronting South Korean authorities were outlined by the Director General of Junior Red Cross in Korea in an address given at the December meeting of the local Red Cross branch.

The director, who prefers to be known as "Mr. Lee," although that is not his real name, is a member of a once wealthy North Korean family which lost its entire possessions when the Reds overran their country.

Mr. Lee told his listeners that 8,000,000 North Koreans had fled to the south during the last four years. There were also 200,000 war widows and 200,000 orphans to care for.

KOREAN RED CROSS EFFECTIVE

Korean National Red Cross, established under great difficulty in 1949, was now an effective organization treating 2,000 patients a day. Throughout South Korea there are seven Red Cross hospitals, six outpatient centres, four mobile teams and 11 ambulances.

Giving a brief survey of the history of Red Cross in his country, the speaker said that, in 1949, the national group operated under the sponsorship of American Red Cross. The first campaign fund proved so successful that the American workers were able to withdraw their support.

In 1950, when the Reds captured Red Cross headquarters, the president and several members of the staff were taken captive and have never been heard of since.

In 1953 the organization's funds were frozen by the government and, when released after devaluation were worthless.

Illustrating the international effectiveness of Red Cross, Mr. Lee told of one occasion when the largest hospital in South Korea was full for only 24 hours. No funds were available and 200 patients were in danger of freezing to death. An appeal was made to international headquarters and sufficient money was guaranteed immediately by Canadian Red Cross. Canadian Junior Red Cross, too, is giving constant assistance by supplying funds for all food supplies, set of teachers and rehabilitation supplies at the Korean orphans' T.B. sanitarium.

FRANKFORD

Rabbit Hunting Trip Fatal for Frankford Boy

FRANKFORD.—A rabbit hunting trip on the outskirts of Frankford village proved fatal Thursday afternoon for Larry Conrad, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conrad of Frankford, Ont., when a .22 rifle accidentally discharged, the bullet striking him in the chest near the heart. The boy died almost instantly.

Police said that Larry had gone hunting rabbits with Jackie Brown on the hills west of Frankford. About 40 rods south of the Lloyd Adams' residence they climbed a stone fence. Conrad handed the rifle to Revoy to climb the fence and the gun discharged as it was handed back.

Dr. D. McMullen of Frankford, was called but there was nothing he could do. Coroner Dr. J. V Byrne said there would be no inquest.

Larry was a student at Belleville Collegiate, where he travelled each day by bus. He is survived by his parents, a brother, Douglas and a sister, Kay.

Provincial Constable Louis Perkins of Bellesville and Chief Ed. McGeachie of Frankford investigated.

Scarf Sorcery

By ALICE ALDEN

Scarf magic works both ways this season. One way is provided by our manufacturers who have produced lovelier scarfs than ever, the other part of the magic is the wonderful ways you can wear a scarf to extend the wardrobe.

Glenlee has come through with super real winners this autumn, but none nicer we think, than this fall foliage design in deep hued harvest colors, frosted with winter white on a big silk square. Softly draped about the neck, the scarf becomes a stet, turning a sweater and skirt into an ensemble. Beautiful, too, knotted at the throat to fill in an open-neck sweater, and some of the new sweaters really are open necked.

L.O.B.A. Installs 1956 Officers

At a recent meeting the, members of LOBA No. 350 held the installation of officers at the Orange Hall, Church Street.

Past Mistress Sister Lena Akey was the presiding officer with her assistants being all past mistresses, namely: Acting Dep. Mistress, Sister Eva Jury; chaplain, Sister Mabel Asselstine; Director of Ceremonies, Sister Annie Cherry; recording secretary, Sister Minnie Dougherty.

1956 OFFICERS

The officers for the year 1956 are: Immediate Past Mistress, Sister Annie Akey; Worthy Mistress, Sister Melissa Thompson; Deputy Mistress, Sister Rita Foster; Junior Dep. Mistress, Sister Nellie King; treasurer, Sister Flora Bell; financial secretary, Sister Hazel Maracle; recording secretary, Sister Keitha Ferguson; chaplain, Sister Ruth Bateman; director of ceremonies, Sister Amelia McKenzie; First Lecturer, Sister Lue Lucas; Second Lecturer, Sister Clara Bentley; Inner Guard, Sister Mabel Thompson; Outer Guard, Sister Marjorie McPherson; Committee Sisters, Edith Allin, Gertrude Gist, Margaret Thompson; auditors; Sisters Mabel Asselstine, Amelia, McKenna and Annie Cherry; visiting committee, Sisters Melissa Thompson, Mabel Kent, Eva Jury, Lena Akey and Keitha Ferguson.

The installation ceremony was carried out in an efficient manner.

After the conclusion of this ceremony, the regular order of business was resumed.

Sister Melissa Thompson held the lucky ticket on a crocheted chesterfield set.

After the closing ceremony, the members exchanged Christmas gifts from the gaily decked Christmas tree and enjoyed a social hour.

Before the meeting, the members had assembled at Lattimer's Town room where they partook of a lovely turkey supper.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Assoc. Holds Christmas Pageant

The children of Queen Elizabeth school entertained their parents at their school on Tuesday evening at the P.-T. meeting when the Christmas pageant was presented.

Mrs. Purdy presented the past presidents with pins.

The room count was taken and the shield was won by Miss Young's class.

Mr. Gordon Anderson, principal, acted as master of ceremonies for the program which opened by Mr. Wallace's class singing "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" and "Silent Night"; Susan Robinson of Miss Sullivan's class, delighted the audience with a reading "Christmas Toys"; tiny tap dancer, Miss Paula Scott, representing Miss Sullivan's class followed.

Marilyn MacDonald from Miss Emerson's Grade II thoroughly delighted the parents with her recitation entitled "Not So Bad with Dad", by Edgar Guest.

Pupils of Miss Elson's class sang "Susie Snowflake" with "Miss Susie" herself appearing in pantomime. Susan Blanchard gave a fine exhibition of baton twirling, ably representing Mr. Anderson's class.

Mr. Marrer's pupils amused and delighted the audience with their pantomime "Not So Foolish".

Offering a change of pace was Miss Anita Tandem, representing Mrs. Baccerda's class with a tap dance.

Miss Harris' pupils did a delightful play entitled "The Christmas Strike" and finished with Christmas carols.

Mr. Anderson's grade added further carols and the Nativity scene by Miss Young's class brought the program to a fitting conclusion.

The children were all given treats and dismissed for home with their proud parents.

STREETCAR PILEUP

BARNSTADT, Germany (CP)— Five streetcars crashed with some 300 passengers piled into each other here Thursday, causing injuries to about 45.

King George H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

King George Home and School Association held the December meeting recently with "Open House" with Mrs. Mel Garieppy, vice-president, presiding.

There was a short business session.

A collection was taken for Mr. Farnham, school guard, as a Christmas token of the parents' appreciation.

The Glen Club, under the direction of Mr. Boate, Grade VIII teacher, was much enjoyed. This is always a special treat at a Home and School meeting.

Mr. Cousins introduced the speaker, Mrs. Wanda Sine, who gave an enlightening talk on the "Primary Unit System".

As this was "Open House" a large number of parents took advantage of the opportunity of visiting the classrooms and meeting the teachers.

Refreshments were served.

Women's Institute

W.I.

WELLINGTON — The Christmas meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall on December 20 when about 36 members sat down to a delicious pot-luck supper which was more like a banquet with everything from soup to nuts except the soup. After all the food was disposed of, and the dishes cleared away, the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. R. Ellis.

Mrs. William Jackson gave her report on the collection for the National Institute for the Blind which was a very good one. Collections with the help of some of the members and the Board of Trade and Mrs. Boyle of the Hillier W.I., amounted to $272.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Jackson for her work.

The annual Christmas boxes were planned for the sick and needy. $5 was voted out to spend on toys for a few children. It was decided to send ice cream to the Old People's Home in Picton, this is something the Wellington W.I. has done for several years.

A letter from the Children's Aid was read and $10 was voted to be sent to them. A letter from the county president, Mrs. S Brooks, asking for a representative of W.W.I. to attend the T.B Association meeting to be held in January was also read.

The next meeting will be the annual bingo meeting with every member bringing a prize for it and also a friend.

Mrs. J. Calliou and Mrs. D. Murphy, who were to be hostesses for the evening were absent due to illness. Hope they are better now.

Mrs. Ellis was in charge of the following program, which was arranged by Mrs. Calliou: "Poem of the Month," by Mrs. C. Platt; carol, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," by all; "Current Events," by Mrs. Yeo; carol, another carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," piano solo by little Miss Mary Callow was enjoyed.

The exchange of Christmas gifts with everyone receiving a gift.

A vote of thanks was given to the ladies who helped get the tables ready for the supper, by Mrs. Harris.

All joined in singing "Auld Lang Sine," and "The More We Get Together," which brought a merry Christmas meeting to a close.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PATTERN FOR CHRISTMAS THANK-YOU NOTES

You'll have a really good time writing your Christmas thank-you notes if you write them promptly! For fresh and bright in your thoughts is the giver's Christmas kindness to you, and your delight in being remembered and in the remembrance itself.

So dip your pen in appreciation Now. Let's go! Greet the new Year with a cheer that all your Christmas thank - you notes are written. And think what a wonderful feeling this will be, on New Year's Day in the Morning!

Here's a simple pattern for your thank-you notes . . . in 3 easy steps.

First Step: Thank for the thought. Give your note a charming send-off by bowing your appreciation for the thought that prompted the present. It's a dull note indeed that begins "Thank you for the lovely handkief you sent me," "I love the book you sent me," or "I love the book you sent me for Christmas." Here's first emphasis on the thing. On the other hand, such a literal beginning as "what a dear friend you were to make me so happy at Christmas time!" shows embarrassed regard to your note. Now you're on your way, chatting with your friend as personally and informally on paper as you would face-to-face.

Second Step: Thank for the present itself. With enthusiasm, certainly. Why not. If possible, naturally you realize that the more enthusiastic your words the more friends will welcome them. Do, please do mention the present by name . . . don't vaguely write about "your present," giving the maddening impression that more than a possibility that you don't remember what the present was. Actually the very best way to have the present right in front of you . . . while you write . . . then give with your words. Please don't be satisfied just writing that it's "lovely" or "pretty" the present is. You know you can do better than that. Chat enthusiastically about special features of the gift. How about the charming color? . . . your friend will be delighted to have you mention how you will always longed to own just that kind of evening bag? . . . certainly your friend will be enchanted to be told this happy fact. Will the gift have a special lasting use in your life? . . . that's certainly a comforting fact to tell your friend, who doubtless pondered deeply about this before she or he chose the gift. Or show your discrimination by saying something about the smart and or interesting design, or the handsome material, and perhaps the dramatic marking or monogramming. Just a few suggestions, these, to guide you to make your friend happy, proud that he or she had the good taste to choose just that gift.

Third Step: Your closing bow. A few words of devoted greeting to your friend, salutations and good wishes for the New Year. For example: "Dearest love to you, Kathrine dear, and now and always my thanks to you for your Christmas goodness to me. And here's every good wish to you for your happiness and well-being in the New Year. And let's start the New Year right by meeting soon, very soon, very soon."

DONORS TO BABY-GIFT SIGN ACCOMPANYING CARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We live in a small apartment house and everyone knows everyone who lives here. And of course we all know the kindly superintendent very well and his kindly wife. She is soon to have a baby, and as they haven't much money, four of us tenants got together and decided it would be a good idea, for each of the tenants to give a sum of money to give her as a "baby gift" because she would best know what she needed for the baby. We decided on a modest sum, from each, and we've collected this sum from most of the tenants. But now we're stumped by the unfortunate fact that some, a very few, have refused to contribute. Now our question is: Do you think we should write on the enclosed card "From the tenants" or the names of those who do contribute? — S.M.

I suggest that on the card to be enclosed, you write a message to the mother-to-be, explaining that the money is for her to buy something for the baby-to-come, and then have each donor sign her own name.

POST-WEDDING-TRIP RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman.

I am to be married soon, and will wear a white Italian-taffeta wedding dress, ballerina-length, and a shoulder-length tulle veil. The groom-to-be is from a city quite a distance from where the wedding is to be, and therefore many of his relatives and friends will not be able to come to the wedding. So, after we return from our wedding trip, my dear parents-in-law are to give "another" reception, so that I may meet the relatives and family friends who live in the city where we will be making our home. I have some questions about this. Would it be proper for me to wear my wedding dress and veil on this occasion? Would it be proper for my maid of honor, my fiance's sister and my only attendant, to wear the dress she wore as my attendant? It so happens that at this time my mother will be visiting a cousin of hers who lives there. I should tell my in-laws about this, shouldn't I? — Bride-to-be

Yes, on this important occasion you would wear your wedding dress . . . naturally the relatives and friends will be delighted to see how you looked on your Wedding Day! However, you should not wear the bridal veil, and you should not carry a bridal bouquet. Your maid of honor should wear her 'attendant's' dress. And of course you should tell your in-laws that your mother is visiting in their town . . . for she should be invited to be a member of the receiving-line.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

CARE OF THE EYES

Eyes strained from close work respond beautifully to a few moments of rest.

Conscious of the fact that lovely eyes are the focal points of a pretty face, most girls are paying special attention these days to the latest methods of eye make-up and are becoming increasingly expert in the use of mas ra, eye liner, eye shadow and crayon. But too often, we fear, are concentrating on these "externals" of eye beauty without giving enough thought to the health of the eyes. Constant observation impresses us with the fact that, among working girls particularly, too many orbs reflect weariness, irritation and lack of fresh air. And this is a pity, since eyes cannot be at their beautiful best unless they are truly healthy.

A few quiet moments each day think how important sleep, fresh air and diet are to the beauty of the eyes. Insufficient sleep, for instance, invites tiny lines around them, reduces the eyeball and dims their natural lustre. Lack of fresh air encourages the dark circles which lend a drooping and drowsy appearance. And a diet which is not rich in vitamins-particularly in vitamin A—leads to eye infections and night blindness. If you have the slightest suspicion that you are not getting enough food containing Vitamin A, step up your consumption of them immediately. Foods which abound in this essential are citrus fruits, all garden vegetables, but especially the dark green, leafy type and the yellow ones like carrots, turnips, pumpkin, etc. and all dairy products.

Strained eyes react well to both rest and exercise—which is something for the office worker to remember. If watery, bloodshot or tired-looned too much close work, take a few minutes several times a day to give them both. Blinking is one of the best exercises since it stimulates circulation. Another good one is to stare at a large clock on the wall—or, if there is none available, conjure up an imaginary one — and roll your eyes, clockwise, mentally taking note of each number as you circle the dial. Do this 20 times, closing your eyes for a second after each revolution. Then repeat, counterclockwise.

To rest the eyes between chores, close them tight and place the palms of your hands over the lids and keep them closed until you see nothing but deep black. When you first close them, you may be aware of shooting "lights" and colors—especially if you have been working under electric lights. But keep them covered, while your head is thrown back in a relaxed position, until all the "lights" have disappeared and you see nothing but black nothingness.

Keep eye drops or an eye lotion in your office, too. Used a couple of times a day, they're soothing and they help to wash away dust and grit. Bathe them at night, too, and in cases of severe reddening, lie down in a dark room for ten or fifteen minutes with a cooling pad of witch hazel or eye lotion placed over each lid.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT YOU PROPOSE TO DO IS CONTEMPTIBLE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 23 years old and have been married a little over a year. I am 17, and the second time 19. The first marriage lasted one year and eight months, the second nine months.

When I got my first divorce I married eleven months later and thought at the time I was really in love but, to be truthful, I don't think I will ever love anyone but my first husband. I was only a child when I married him and I guess the divorce was all my fault. I only wish now that I hadn't got it. He got married again to a girl who ran around with many other men, so he recently divorced her.

I have tried to win him back but it seems useless. I have written him several letters and sent him a birthday card and present, but I have heard nothing in return. I did get a response from him at first, but nothing more since then. I have been told that he never had for me is gone.

Now I want divorce from my second husband have gone steady with my first husband. So now I have two children, a home and always longed to own just that kind of evening bag? . . . certainly your friend will be enchanted to be told this happy fact. Will the gift have a special lasting use in your life? . . . that's certainly a comforting fact to tell your friend, who doubtless pondered deeply about this before she or he chose the gift. Or show your discrimination by saying something about the smart and or interesting design, or the handsome material, and perhaps the dramatic marking or monogramming. Just a few suggestions, these, to guide you to make your friend happy, proud that he or she had the good taste to choose just that gift.

Third Step: Your closing bow. A few words of devoted greeting to your friend, salutations and good wishes for the New Year. For example: "Dearest love to you, Kathrine dear, and now and always my thanks to you for your Christmas goodness to me. And here's every good wish to you for your happiness and well-being in the New Year. And let's start the New Year right by meeting soon, very soon, very soon."

UNITED CHURCH S. S.

SHANNONVILLE — On December 22nd the United Church Sunday School held a Christmas entertainment in the Sunday School hall.

The room was nicely decorated with Christmas garlands and bells, winter scenery, and a star-tipped Christmas tree with gleaming colored lights.

A splendid program was given with the Rev. T. Hogerwaard as chairman, and Miss Marina Mastin presiding at the piano.

The program was opened by a few remarks by the chairman and prayer, after which the audience joined in singing two Christmas carols, "Infant Holy," and "Joy to the World."

Lyle Clarke gave an address of welcome which was followed by a recitation by Mary Anne McFarlane. Then the entire school recited a chapter of Scripture and sang "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Recitations were given by Jonathan Herrington, Con. Reid, and Sharon Reid.

'A Christmas exercise and song, 'Christmas Star' was given by the Junior Pupils, while Cheryl Judy, Douglas Osborne and Ronald Akey each gave a recitation.

The Junior Choir gave a selection, "Over a Cradle," with Miss Gail Judy taking the solo part.

During a short intermission, the collection was received by Tom Hinchey and Donald Little.

Danny Bradley then recited and Miss Beverly Scruby gave a reading, "The Birthday of a King."

The Junior girls and boys sang a number, "A Song for Christmas," which was followed by a recitation by Sylvia Jean Lazier. "Road to Bethlehem," a Christmas pageant, was given by a number of pupils, with Miss Marina Mastin as the pianist.

The final number was "Point's

New Year's Eve Party at Hon

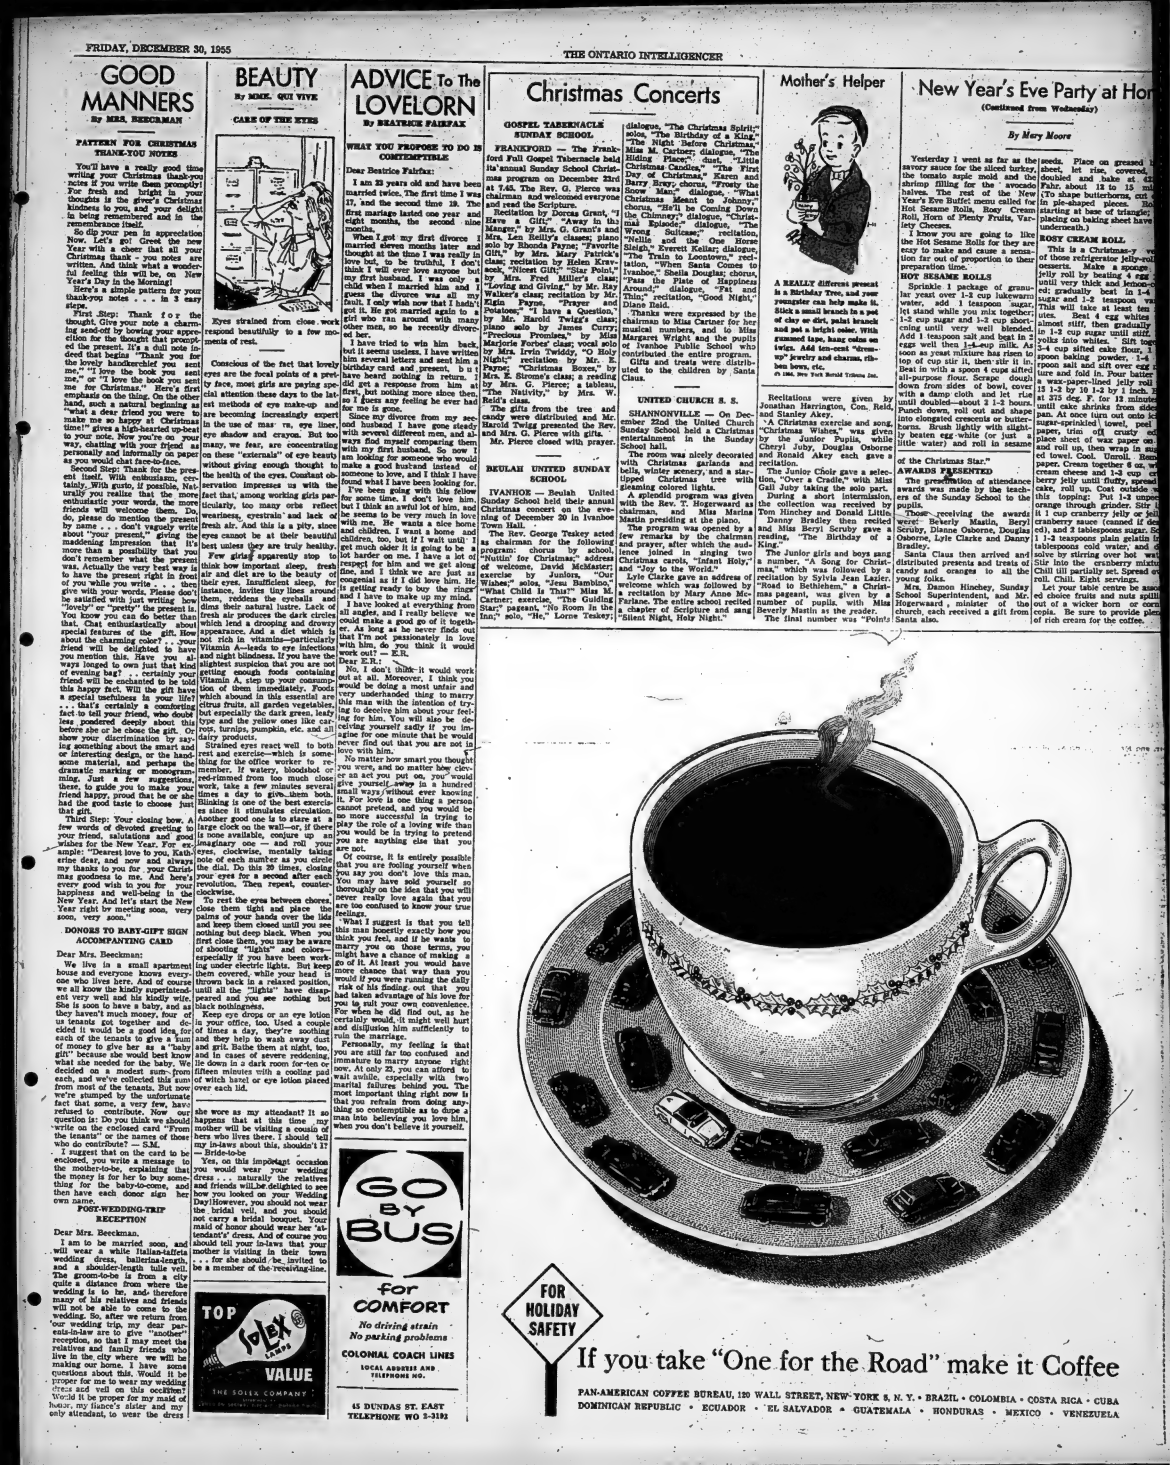
By Mary Moore

Yesterday I went as far as the savory sauce for the sliced turkey, the tomato aspic mold and the shrimp filling for the avocado halves. The rest of the New Year's Eve Buffet menu called for Hot Bouillon Rolls, Rosy Cream Roll, Horn of Plenty Fruits, Velvety Cheeses.

I know you are going to like the Hot Sesame Rolls for they are easy to make and cause a sensation far out of proportion to their preparation time.



HOT SESAME ROLLS

Sprinkle 1 package of granular yeast over 1-2 cup lukewarm water, add 1 teaspoon sugar, let stand while you mix together; 1-2 cup sugar and 1-2 cup shortening until very well blended. Add 1 teaspoon salt and beat in 2 eggs well then 1-4 cup milk. As soon as yeast mixture has risen to top of cup stir it, then stir it in. Beat in with a spoon 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour. Scrape dough down from sides of bowl, cover with a damp cloth and let rise until doubled—about 2 1-2 hours. Punch down, roll out and shape into elongated crescents or bouillon horns. Brush lightly with slightly beaten egg white (or just a little water) and sprinkle in sesame seeds. Place on greased baking sheet, let rise, covered, for doubled and bake at 425 Fahr. about 12 to 15 minutes. (To shape bouillon horns, cut in pie-shaped pieces. Now starting at base of triangle, place dough on baking sheet have undermost.)

ROSY CREAM ROLL

This is a Christmas-y way of those refrigerator jelly-roll desserts. I bake a sponge jelly roll by beating 4 eggs until very thick and lemon-colored gradually beat in 1-4 cup sugar and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. This will take at least two minutes. Beat 4 egg whites almost stiff, then gradually beat in 1-2 cup sugar until stiff; fold yolks into whites. Sift together 1-4 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 spoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt and sift over egg mixture and fold in. Pour batter in a wax-paper-lined jelly roll pan 15 x 9 by 10 1-2 by 1 inch. Bake at 375 deg. F. for 12 minutes until cake shrinks from sides pan. At once turn onto sifted sugar-sprinkled towel, peel paper, trim off crusty edges, place sheet of wax paper on and roll up, then wrap in moist towel. Unroll. Remove paper. Cream together 6 oz. w cream cheese and 1-2 cup sugar, jelly until fluffy, spread cake, roll up. Cost outside of this topping: Put 1-2 unpeeled orange through grinder. Stir in 1 cup cranberry jelly or jellied cranberry sauce (canned if desired), and 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoons plain gelatin in tablespoons cold water, and dissolve by stirring over hot water. Stir into the cranberry mixture. Chill till partially set. Spread on roll. Chill. Eight servings.

Let your table center be something of choice fruits and nuts spilling out of a wicker horn or cornucopia. Be sure to serve pieces of rich cream for the coffee.

Wellington

CHRISTMAS 1955

WELLINGTON — Christmas Day passed quietly here in pleasant, sunny weather, early services in the United and in the Anglican churches, followed by family gatherings in the homes. We enjoyed a fine dinner of roast beef with roast geese and all the trimmings, the only drawback, for us, the absence of a sister who is ill. Gifts and cards were displayed and admired and the evening followed with a Christmas program over the radio. First came Dickens' Christmas Carol, portraying the redemption of all his worldly avarice and subsequent conversion; this was followed by the broadcast of the speech of our beloved Queen Elizabeth; then came the Hour of Decision put on by the Presbyterians and Methodists in North Carolina and opening with the hymn "Joy to the World, the Lord is Coming" with the Christmas story by St. Luke following. Other carols were sung, then came a message from evangelist Billy Graham, and a stirring sermon by a missionary who was conveying to every hearer the story of the Christmas season, and the need of making room for Christ in our hearts and homes. We enjoyed also being today no room for Christ in a world of strife, hate and unrest; in a world of pleasure; in a world of grasping greed, and even in the church circle. His wonderful Christmas message suggested the writing of the following poem, "No Room."

NO ROOM

No room at the inn, just a manger ride
For the Babe of Bethlehem.
Though an angel proclaimed the Saviour's birth
And heavenly hosts sang of peace on earth
And glad good-will toward men.

No room in the home, be it cottage or hall,
And noone in the busy street,
Though wise men followed the star of God
Of the radiant light of the Nazarene
And laid treasures at His feet.

No room in the rich man's gilded home
To room in pleasure's throng
Though the Glory of God lit up the sky
And the shepherds watching their flocks by night near by
Were thrilled by the angel's song.

No room in the heart for the Prince of Peace,
No room for the Saviour dear—
May the heart long-filled with hate and pride
Swing back the door this Christmastide
That Christ may enter in.
— Helen B. Anderson

Rocket Blasts 500th Goal As Canadiens Whip Leafs 5-2; 'Pocket' Gleams

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

While senior baseball was relegated, temporarily it is hoped, to the sidelines, sports in 1955 brought four Ontario championships to the athletic wigwams on the banks of the Moira.

Hockey, softball and lawn bowling trophies won in Belleville mantels is an array of provincial championship glory. .

Point Anne Cementmen brought hockey honors to the village at the lake and Pat Maracle. Resting on a mantel in the clubhouse are trophies emblematic of the Trent Valley Hockey League and the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate "C" championship. And nearby in all its new-born glory you will see the proud Canada Cement Association intermediate industrial classification. This handsome bauble represents the third inter-industrial sports title to come to Ox Point in the year nearly finished.

Major softball honors were brought to the city by Bob Tremble and his indomitable Bobcats who ousted a powerful Toronto squad in hard-fought intermediate "AA" series after bowing to the finals a year ago. Point Anne defeated the Waterloo Seagrams in a three-game tourney to win the coveted industrial trophy. .

Belleville's first provincial lawn bowling championship in many years came home in 1955 with the honors resting on the shoulders of Gordon Watkin and Bruce Miller, who won the Ontario doubles title. This doughty pair nearly annexed the Dominion title in doubles, being nosed out in the finals.

The Corbin Gold Trophy, Ontario's most prized rifle bauble went to the Trinity rink of Hamilton in the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club's Civic Holiday Ontario classic. . . . . .

Back in the realm of ball, the Bobcats won the city "A" title with the "A" crown going to the Orfuns, eliminated in early OBAA play-downs. Point Anne were ousted in the intermediate "A" series by Peterborough. .

Minor softball enjoyed another outstanding season with the moppets covering themselves with glory albeit no provincial titles came this way. The peewees went to the finals and were beaten by Toronto while the bantams lost out to a Queen City team in the semi-finals.

Leo Luccifolo's starry girls' softball team, the Shellettes, carved a fine name for themselves in their first year of operation, going through in the southern Ontario finals and bowing to the ultimate all-Ontario champions, the Goderich Dodgers.

Despite the all-out efforts of Manager Jack Carson, the Belleville senior baseball club, 1954 co-champions with Oakville, were forced to call off operations due to the lack of a league in which to play. Bartlett banners, however, were held aloft in the city by Paul Haggis juniors, who after giving a highly creditable performance in the district league, were eliminated in OBA playdowns by a powerful team of youngsters from Oshawa.

Minor baseball had another outstanding season with the bantams going down to defeat after reaching the Ontario finals. Teams of peewees, midgets and juveniles gave splendid accounts of themselves both in league and playdown battles.

In senior hockey the Memos finished a rugged season in fourth place and went on to eliminate the Cornwall Colts in the group finals. Meanwhile the Kingston Goodyears had eliminated Whitby. They defeated the Memos in the group finals and ultimately won the Ontario senior "B" championship.

Minor hockey, like other moppet sports, had a banner year with nearly 600 youngsters on the rosters. The bantams, midgets and juveniles were ousted early by Kingston teams in the OMHA playdowns.

Belleville hockedom made two valuable contributions to junior "A" teams this year with Bobby Hull going to the St. Catharines Teepees and Gerry Goyer now carving a name for himself with the Guelph Biltmores.

Lawn tennis enjoyed another fine year with the Quinte club winning the Bay of Quinte League championship.

Various tournaments and individual play on the links during the season marked the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club as one of the outstanding golfing centres of the district. A feature was the increased membership and subsequent increased activity on the green and fairways. The ladies' division marched one of the most successful seasons in years.

Marathon swimming entered the sports calendar in 1955. Winsome Betty Barry, whose parental home is here, negotiated the tough 18-mile grind down the reaches of the Bay of Quinte from Picton to Deseronto. The attractive Oshawa nurse has her sights lined on the English Channel next year.

Tommy Pedder, former weightlifting champion here, put Belleville on the marathon map with his sixteen-mile swim of the Bay of Quinte from Trenton to Belleville and his gallant but unsuccessful attempt to win the honors in the Atlantic City marathon.

And this city can bathe in a spot of reflected glory. Gary Schreider, who learned his minor football on Belleville gridirons, was one of the outstanding stars of the Queen's University team which climaxed a colorful season with its first intercollegiate gridiron title in 18 years.

Kingston's soccerists won the Eastern Ontario Soccer League title defeating Carleton in the finals. Peterborough Soccists and Belleville City were the other teams in the loop. Minor soccer did not develop due to lack of outside co-operation. The Canadian Legion sent a minor team to Toronto, but according to reports, the season ended there.

The Garrison Badminton Club has been very active in season and late spring was host to the Central Ontario Badminton Association's annual tournament. Some seventy members are in active play and many potential stars are looming on the battledore horizon.

Yachting honors came to the city during the summer when the joint United States District Six and Canadian Power Squadrons held a rendezvous here. It was a thoroughly successful four-day meet with Belleville craft distinguishing themselves against experienced opposition by carrying off some of the major prizes.

Richard Freres Bright Stars In Habitants' Win Firmament; Hawks Claw Blues, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens were in the middle of a two-game losing streak. For the high-flying National Hockey League leaders that proposition is a thing and they were in need of inspiration.

Then along came the incomparable Rocket, Maurice Richard, with a goal before the game was two minutes old.

It was his 500th NHL goal and it was all he needed to inspire the Montreal Forum fans needed Thursday night to bring the red rout. It also provided the push the Canadiens needed to go on and defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2.

Toronto's loss dumped them into fifth place with their closest rivals, Chicago Black Hawks, took over fourth spot by downing Detroit 4-2 victory over the Rangers at New York.

The slow-skating Detroit Red Wings continued their drive for second spot as a homestand 4-3 win over the tail-end Boston Bruins left them hanging onto the Rangers' coat tails.

Toronto's loss dumped them into fifth place with their closest rivals, Chicago Black Hawks, took over fourth spot by downing Detroit 4-2 victory over the Rangers at New York.

The slow-skating Detroit Red Wings continued their drive for second spot as a homestand 4-3 win over the tail-end Boston Bruins left them hanging onto the Rangers' coat tails.

15-POINT LEAD

When the points were added up, Montreal with 53 was 15 ahead of New York, Chicago with 38 and Hamilton with 34 points, Chicago behind and Toronto two points behind Chicago. Boston, with 24 points, remained in the cellar by five points.

It was largely a Richard family affair in Montreal. Maurice's younger brother Henri scored what proved to be the winning goal and assisted on three others.

Maurice broke up a 2-2 tie early in the third period, taking a pass from his brother and beating Leaf goalie Harry Lumley on a long drive.

He also helped out on the Rocket's momentous tally, aided Dollard St. Laurent in the only goal of the second period and was in along with Maurice Dickie Moore's drive in the third before Jean Beliveau cleaned up the goalmouth.

The Leafs staged one strong rally that netted them their two goals in less than two minutes in the second half of the first period. Ted Kloo and Dick Duff were the scorers.

Bill Gadsen's two goals helped Detroit edge the Bruins before 12,000 fans at Boston last week through their 18th successive game on Detroit ice without a victory.

They took an early lead on the first of Marcel Bonin's two goals but were topsiced. It after Gord Howe tied it up midway in the second and Dineen beat goalie Terry Sawchuk to put the Wings ahead. Hal Laycoe for Boston and Norm Ullman for Detroit were other scorers.

Goals by Johnny Wilson and Hank Ciesla within 24 seconds in the final period clinched the Hawks' second straight win over the Rangers at Madison Square Garden before 14,387 fans.

Forrtier in the third New York had tied it up on goals by Dean Prentice and Phil Cadely. Eddie Litzenberger and Glen Skov shot Chicago into a 2-0 lead in the second after a scoreless opening period.

All six teams are in action Saturday with Chicago at Montreal, Detroit at Toronto and Boston at New York.

Martinez Wins

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., scored his 20th straight victory Thursday night by knocking out Peter Mueller of Cologne, Germany, at two minutes and 31 seconds of the second round in the Milwaukee Arena. Martinez weighed 131½ to 135 for Mueller.

CIRCUIT APPROVED

REIMS, France (AP)—A government inspection group Thursday approved the revamped Reims racing circuit as the scene of the sport which was stopped in France after the Le Mans disaster which killed 83 people.

The inspection agency, was created by the government after the disaster and charged with seeing that changes were made in insure safety at all auto racing circuits.

SKATING TONIGHT

Foresee Fight Between 'Sugar' Carmen Basilio

NEW YORK (AP)—Away off in the distant future, say September at Yankee Stadium, a Sugar Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio match is hanging in the sky.

"We're looking toward a Basilio match outdoors," said Ernie Bracco, Robinson's co-manager, Thursday as he discussed the future of the three-time middleweight champ.

"We're anxious to get the rematch with Bobo Olson over as soon as possible," he said. "It's good news to hear they (Olson and manager Sid Flaherty) are going to take up the option. The date isn't definite but they tell us the tentative date is Feb. 24 at San Francisco."

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, said any talk of such a match was "pretty far in the future." He said it had been discussed briefly, only because it had been mentioned but there was nothing concrete.

Longden Rides Canadian Winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Veteran Johnny Longden rode his first winner of the Santa Anita winter meeting Thursday aboard the Irish-bred Canadian horse Prefect II, a grass course specialist.

Longden captured the $10,000 Wildlife Handicap over the 1½ mile and one eighth on the turf in 1:51 3-5. The horse is owned by Alberta Ranches Ltd., of Calgary in which Longden is interested, and trained by Longden's son, Vance.

Prefect II scored a half-length victory over the favored Lychnus of the King Ranch, with Neil McCarthy's Red Hoss, also an Irish bred, getting the show.

Stars Last Night

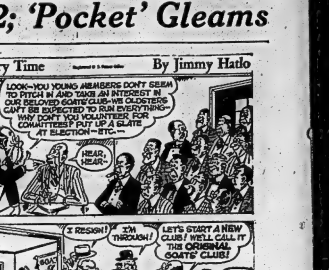
Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Montreal, who scored the 500th goal of his career and added two assists as Canadiens defeated Toronto 5-2 at Montreal.



Henri Richard, Montreal, who more than matched his older brother's performance with a goal and three assists.

Bill Dineen, Detroit, who scored a pair of goals to lead the Red Wings to a 4-3 victory over Boston at Detroit.

Marcel Bonin, Boston, who scored two of Boston's goals in defeat.

Eddie Litzenberger, Chicago, whose goal and two assists led the Black Hawks to a 4-2 win over the Rangers at New York.

Thirty-Seven College Players Placed On First National Football Draft

OTTAWA (CP) — Thirty-seven football players graduating next year from five eastern Canada universities will be on the proposed first national football draft when East and West professional leagues meet next month at Winnipeg.

The college draft, started by the Big Four League a few years ago, will be observed for the first time next year by the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

A single draft system for both leagues is one of several new steps intended to bring about greater East-West uniformity in professional football. In the past western teams could—and did—outbid eastern clubs for drafted players.

It was learned today that the list of college players graduating next spring from seven circulated to all nine pro clubs who will meet at Winnipeg Nov. 19-22.

Names have not been disclosed. But it was reported that 16 of the 37 college players are from the University of Toronto Blues. Queen's, champion in the Senior Intercollegiate Union, has nine graduating players; University of Western Ontario has three and McGill University, three.

McMaster University at Hamilton, which played exhibitions last season after a year in the senior ranks, again has four players on the draft list.

Operation of the draft has not been settled, but informants said one suggestion is that first choice should go to the last-place team in the league whose champion lost in the Grey Cup game.

That would give first pick to Ottawa Rough Riders, since Montreal Alouettes, Big Four champions lost to Edmonton in the Grey Cup game. Second choice likely would go to Calgary Stampeders, who trailed in the WIFU standings, with succeeding selections, alternating between East and West according to how the teams finished in their leagues.

A similar draft list is supposed to come from western universities. However, western colleges have no senior football except for the University of British Columbia which plays under American rules in the United States' Evergreen conference.

Meanwhile, the past WIFU practice of a negotiation list of eight players from each province is being adopted in the East. The list is designed to protect a club's right to players approached in the U.S. and to Canadian players from colleges, intermediate, junior and high school ranks making their entry to pro football.

CARDS SIGN MIZELL
ST. LOUIS (AP)—The signing of lefthander Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell was announced Thursday by St. Louis Cardinals, and general manager Frank Lane put a million-dollar estimate on his value.
The 6-foot-all pitcher, in the army for the last two years, was signed in Cuba where he is pitching for Havana in the Cuban Winter League.
Lane called the Cardinal office to come from western universities. However, western colleges have no senior football except for the University of British Columbia which plays under American rules in the United States' Evergreen conference.
Meanwhile, the past WIFU practice of a negotiation list of eight players from each province is being adopted in the East. The list is designed to protect a club's right to players approached in the U.S. and to Canadian players from colleges, intermediate, junior and high school ranks making their entry to pro football.

Aces Trumped

Former Russian Hockey Stars Missing from 1956 Lineup

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—There have been some changes made in the Russian national hockey team.

A sauna shower at Russia's 17-player list submitted Thursday to Olympic Games officials shows six new stars from the 13 man dressed to play Penticton Vs last spring in the big game of the world championships.

Russia's 50 loss may have something to do with the fact that at least two top stars are missing, and that all new players seem to be forwards.

MAY BE TOO OLD

The biggest surprise involves the missing name of Vsevold Bobrov the ace centreman who guided Russia to a world championship in its first attempt in 1954.

At 34, the idolized Russian air force officer may be past it, or he may be hurt.

Bobrov, a former crack soccer player, was the big man in the Russian strategy. Linemate Ezerman finds it also missing.

The fact that all the new players seem to be forwards indicates that the play-for-keeps Russian hockey board of control wants more scoring punch, another forward.

A calculated second-period bodychecking attack slowed Ha team to a walk at Kreield, Germany, March 4 as Canada got back the title that Russia won with a 7-2 beating of Toronto Lyndhursts.

Report from overseas indicates that the Russians, who hadn't expected anything like that before are mixing it up more this year.

GOALIE IS BACK

Both Bobrov and burly defenseman Nikolai Sloqvenev were named to the tournament's all-star team. Sologubov and every other Russian goalie since Nikolai Sventsov is back again, as well as both goalies.

Still listed as first-string goalie is Nikolay Puchkov, He was yanked after all five Canadian goals had whizzed past him, and Grigoriy Shelekhov, a young fellow who finishes up with some three-foot vertical leaps, got his place.

Also retained is forward Alexsegn Guryahev, top U.S.S.R scorer in the tournament with seven goals.

Bobrov was a special Canadian target on orders from playing-coach Frank Warwick, who was dumped heavily twice in the second period, once by 135-pound Warwick himself and clipped the ice, score sheet along with the rest of the maroon-clothed Russian players.

Russia submitted its list of Olympic players Thursday to winter games officials at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, where play in the 10-country hockey section begins late in January. Rickshaw Jackson Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League will represent Canada.

FOOTBALL VET DIES

OTTAWA (CP) — James Lorne (Jim) Wright, an oldtime football player who was with the Ottawa Rough Riders when they won the Grey Cup in 1919 and 1920, died in hospital here Thursday. He was 60.

Dave McCann, former Rough Rider coach, recalled Thursday night that Wright scored the winning touchdown in the final against Queen's University in 1925.

"He played inside wing, a very good one, too," McCann said. "And he was probably one of the most popular members of the team."

Wright played with the Riders from 1916-27 but remained active in many sports. Last year he broke his leg while skiing in Switzerland.

Minor Hockey

The district juvenile league opened with a bang at Memorial Arena last night when Wellington blanked Belleville Team One 3-0 in a rough and rugged battle that was halted by a brawl with six minutes left to play.

The usual number of squirt and midget games were also played. Close action in the squirt division saw the Red Wings and Black Hawks tie 2-2, the Maple Leafs edge the Canadians 3-2 while the Bruins shaded the Rangers 3-1.

The midget feature of the evening was Team One's 4-3 victory over the strong Team Five crew. In the other games, Teams Four and Three battled to a 2-2 deadlock while Team Two downed Team Six 4-2.

JUVENILE

Wellington boasted a fast, smart young hockey club and took advantage of Belleville penalties to take the decision. Referees Brooks and Fraser had a tough one on their hands as elbows, sticks, knees and what-have-you flew throughout the game.

The winners scored their initial goal at the nine minute mark of the first period with the locals two men short. C. Morton deflecting the twine on a pass from N. Holden. No further scoring took place until 2.54 of the third when Platt fired the insurance marker from Gurney's pass. Bill Foster of Belleville was serving a major penalty at the time.

Gord St. Louis missed a great chance to break the loser's goose-egg when he was in on a clean breakaway only to be beaten at the goalmouth. Penalties were many and things finally got out of control with six minutes left to play when both teams surged to ice for open battle. The game was halted at this point with warnings issued to the Belleville lads by coaches and league executives.

SQUIRT

Raymond Smith paced the Maple Leafs to their victory, potting both his team's markers. Jimmy Maires was the Canadien marksman.

The Bruins rode to victory on goals by Bill Leslie and Jim McGuire while Mike Aros tallied for the Rangers.

In the 3-3 tie, Richard Ives gumned home both Hawk markers with Tommy Bennett and Frank Farrow scored for the Red Wings.

MIDGET

Gord Fuller led Team One to a narrow win, scoring two goals with Doyle and Gary Rowbotham getting the others. Belanger had an assist. Bern Boulter had a goal and assist in addition with Brennan and MacDonald also scoring and Jack Elliott assisting on one.

Musgrove tallied both Team Three's goals with Kennedy and Boomhower drawing helpers. Terry Spencer and Butcher were the Team Four scorers with O'Neil and Moreau claiming assists.

Team Two had a pair of goals for Team Two with Jim Jones and Galpin also netting goals. Hull and Kvarda had assists. Jim Hook and Skelly claimed one and one each for Team Six with Regent helping on one marker.

Series Umpires Wrong Twice Say Cameras

NEW YOR K(AP) — Brooklyn fans "see" the world series again Thursday when the official movies were shown to New York baseball writers and guests of the big league clubs but the umpires lost a couple of decisions to the camera men.

If you can believe the camera, Billy Martin of New York Yankees stole third safe when he tried to steal home in the sixth inning of the first game and Jackie Robinson appeared out when he stole home in the eighth inning of the same game. Plate umpire Bill Summers called Martin out and Robinson safe and all the movies in the world never will change it.

BACKS THE UMPIRES

Commissioner Ford Frick quickly came to the defence of the umpires when questioned about the plays after the pictures

"Let's back the umpires," said Frick. "You've got to remember the umpire is right behind the plate and the cameras are not. I saw many pictures in the paper after that game. One showed Robinson out, one showed him safe. The umpires are in the best position to see."

Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher who put up such a spirited argument when Robinson was ruled safe, was unavailable. What he saw only strengthened his original belief that, "I always thought I had him" said Yogi.

Roy Campanella, Brooklyn catcher and only member of the Dodger team present at the pictures, watched the plays on Martin "The umpire called him out" was his only comment.

Graham Scores Three as Bilts Edge Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Billy Graham scored three goals including the game winner as Guelph Biltmores defeated Hamilton Cubs 7-5 Thursday night in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A contest before 2,500 fans, largest crowd of the season.

Trailing 5-3 going into the last period, the Bilts staged an uphill battle to run Cubs' winless streak to seven games, 13 including exhibition contests.

Other Guelph scorers were Dan Bellisle, with two, Ted Maki and Tom Jenson.

Guy James with two goals, Max Szturm, Haddon and Brian Smith were the Hamilton marksmen.

Last Guelph goal, scored by Bellisle, was fired into an empty net as Hamilton coach Duckey Skinner gambled with a sixth forward in place of goalie Denino Riggio in the last 90 seconds of play.

Guelph coach Ed Bush became involved in a fracas behind the Bill bench and defenceman Ron McMillan of Guelph was given a game misconduct in what proved to be a wild game.

Guelph outshot Hamilton 38-25.

'Rocket' Rips Records Ragged But Never Won Scoring Crown

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who sets a record every time he puts the puck in the net, reached a new milestone Thursday night—the 500th goal of his NHL career.

The goal was a flukey one—bounced in off the Rocket's skate —but it didn't dull the enthusiasm of 13,784 rabid Canadiens' followers who had barely taken their seats when Richard brought them to their feet again cheering.

The marker was scored at 1:39 of the first period and started the Habs on their way to a 5-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Richard now—has 443 goals in regular league play and 57 more in playoff competition. At 34, he still shows no signs of slowing down. His 57 points so far this season are only four points less than league-leading Jean Beliveau and his 21 goals one less.

The Rocket holds just about every important scoring record in the books. His 782 points in regular play constitute a record, along with his 844 points including playoffs.

SHARES ONE RECORD

His 50 goals in one season also are tops and he shares the mark for most points in one game with eight. He also holds several playoff marks, including five goals in one game and 12 in nine playoff games. His 57 goals in playoff play are the most ever chalked by a player, as are his 81 points.

Strangely, Richard has never won the National Hockey League scoring title, despite all his records. A suspension for the last two games of the season cost him the crown last season, when teammate Bernie (Boom — Boom) Geoffrion edged past him and took the title by one point.

Richard had been leading the race up to the time of his suspension for striking linesman Cliff Thompson. He also was sidelined for the playoffs.

Tiger-Cats Sign Ex-Eagles Coach Jim Trimble

HAMILTON (CP)—Jim Trimble former head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has been signed to a two-year contract to coach Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

Hamilton officials said Thursday the 24-year-old former Illinois star signed the contract Wednesday night in New York with Jake Gaudaur, newly-appointed general manager of the Tiger-Cats.

Financial details were not announced.

Trimble was released by the Eagles two weeks ago because of differences between the coach and team executives said was the result of showing the team made this season. Picked in pre-season estimates by the club to beat, Eagles wound up in fourth place.

REPLACES VOYLES

Trimble left New York Wednesday night to begin work on signing prospective new players for the team. He plans to attend the Grey Cup Bowl game at Miami Nov. 26. Gaudaur is arranging to get reports on players in other bowl games.

He replaces Carl Voyles at the Tigercats helm. Voyles, who quit three weeks ago to take a real-estate job with a Hamilton financier, coached the team six years. He never missed the playoffs and won one Grey Cup.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard is making his bid to overhaul teammate Jean Beliveau of the National Leagues in the race for National Hockey League scoring honors.

Richard fired his 500th goal of his career and collected two assists Thursday to move into a tie for second place with 37 points, four less than Beliveau. He is also only one point behind Beliveau's 22 —the top amjing mark.

Bert Olmstead of the Canadiens shares second place with Richard with Jim Bathgate of New York, who picked up an assist Thursday.

Gordie Howe rapped in his 14th goal of the season for Detroit and is in fifth place.

Glenn Hall of Detroit continues to lead the league goalies in shutouts with seven.

SAFETY'S the word for '56

a worthwhile resolution

Safety is nothing more than a state of mind. Just being alert can keep you out of trouble most of the time—because a real, unavoidable and unforeseeable accident is very rare. So make up your mind to outsmart any accident that might head your way in '56. If you feel like daydreaming any time . . . don't do it while you are walking or driving. And if you are doing a dangerous job with power tools or electricity, CONCENTRATE completely. That's all there is to it. Watch for the hazards. Keep home equipment in repair . . . keep stairways clear. TAKE THE OBVIOUS PRECAUTIONS ALL THE TIME AND YOU ARE HALF WAY TO ENJOYING A SAFE-YEAR FOR YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY.

Como and Gleason Battling For Top Audience on Saturdays

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Perry Como is a cool, dry fish next to Jackie Gleason.

The networks, agencies and advertisers that create the sound and fury of television warfare have now locked these two in combat for the larger audience in their Saturday evening spots opposite each other—Como on NBC-TV and Gleason on CBS-TV.

Despite all the drum-beaters, it's a somewhat less earth-shaking conflict than the Battle of Gettysburg, NBC says that Trendex finds Como has topped Gleason for the last two Saturday nights.

How does Gleason feel about this? Above his desk he has hung a large, smiling portrait of Perry Como.

Donald O'Connor Temporarily Abandons Movie, TV Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "As long as I can remember, my family never bothered to plan ahead. They never worried about the future as long as there was applause to be had. But I wondered what would happen when the applause was no longer there."

This was Donald O'Connor's explanation of why he has temporarily abandoned his blossoming movie and television career.

The talented young performer made these observations between rehearsals in a studio above the Hollywood bus station. In these unique surroundings he was preparing for his date at Las Vegas' Sahara, his only professional engagement during his long vacation.

O'Connor, a serious young fellow despite his talent for clowning, explained that he had been working steadily since he played in his family's vaudeville act during his earliest years. He came to movies at 13 and has been in them ever since, minus time for the army.

"I never had any time to plan," said Donald, now 30. "I didn't want to burn myself out too early. It seems to me they can get tired of you very soon.

"So I have turned down all TV offers. I own 19 TV films that I have done, but I think I will withhold them from circulation. To let go of them would defeat what I am trying to do—avoid being seen too much by the public."

He added that his present plan is to make only one picture a year, or three every two years at the most. And if he does relent about TV, he will make a rare appearance in a spectacular-like production with a strong story, not the usual revue.

Did he find it hard to do nothing after a lifetime of activity?

"Yes, I did," he said. "The first few weeks were murder; I didn't know what to do with myself. There's an art to doing nothing, and I finally got the hang of it. It has been very enjoyable."

Donald has occupied the time by doing the things he has never had the time to do. He took a leisurely trip through Europe—pure pleasure, no work involved. He takes an occasional look into his music publishing and housing development business. His principal pastime is writing.

He even fulfilled his longtime curiosity about how he would look with a moustache. He grew one that aroused a rash of pro and con among his friends. He ended the controversy by shaving it off.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Dec. 31, 1955:

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The last day of this year, and it is an interesting day for practical matters, as well as for the artistic professions. Also for wholesome fun. Don't invite irritability!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Venus and the Sun, in favorable aspects, augur for a happy, successful day for you active, pleasant folks if you are also careful. Necessary chores and routine pastimes equally honored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Purely mental work may not be easy now, but this is a period in which you can make good use of interests of worth — especially in the artistic professions, home, family affairs. Logic will count.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't disarrange a well planned schedule but do make changes for improvement where you think you could. Keys warn against pettiness. Be broadminded.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun, favorably situated, is most encouraging for your affairs and for achievement in activities of value, usefulness, progressiveness. You can practice finesse and amiability with care now.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A good day in which to search for new and better ways and means for honorable attainment. Don't be too hurried but maintain a steady pace. Acquaintances! Within reason.

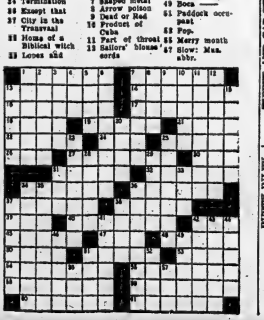
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Read Taurus, please. This can be a varied, stimulating, and generous day, depending upon your management of it. Don't permit irritability or petty things to stymie your better self.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You should be inspired to accomplish in both personal and general ways, to send off the old year with sincere thanksgiving for blessings received and to hang hope for good tidings ahead.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Excellent influences for enduring, sound matters. Selling, buying, children's affairs. Time for frank, gain. Enjoy some of the more artistic things occasionally, and rest.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — It's up to you to show how clever you can be in arranging day's program — handling all things to best advantage! Don't strain; make time for recreation, relaxation.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Mars, the only planet unambitious in aspect, suggests that you curb impatience and do not act without deliberation now.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You can gain or work, depending upon duties and your health. Putting the right pursuits in their respective places will help you to achieve new advantages. Think, plan to do better — always.

You born today have a nature highlighted by bright qualities, a variety of talents, strong aptitudes. You are self-reliant, practical, capable of getting much knowledge. This Zodiacal Sign has given the world many noted thinkers, learned men and women. Be careful lest the use of clever self-consciousness hold you back. Obstacles unbend with your keen manipulation. You can go far in mechanics, architecture, building, manufacturing, the professions. Birthdate of: Chas. Edward Stuart, "Young Pretender" to Brit. throne.

SWEARS IN FORCE

BARRIE (CP) — County court Judge J. G. Harvie of Barrie Wednesday performed the swearing-in ceremonies which brought into being the new town police force. Heading the 15-man force is chief Edward Teckhart, formerly a detective sergeant with the Kitchener police department. Barrie had been under provincial police jurisdiction since 1946.

Fluoridation Beaten

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A move toward fluoridation of the city's water supply went down in defeat Thursday as a majority of public utilities commission members demanded more medical facts and figures on the issue.

Mayor Peter Laing, who moved the resolution which failed to find a seconder, said fluoridation had the unqualified support of Ontario department of health, Dr. Thomas-Elgin health unit and city council.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I miss the old-fashioned butcher. This way there's nobody to cry to about the prices."

Girl Presented With Horse by Hanover Bank

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Karen Ann McGuire, whose bid for Nashua fell $1,250.95 short of the price commanded by the star performer of the Estair Stud, got a horse Thursday, anyway.

Starry-eyed but mute in her happiness, the pretty girl from Nashua, N.Y., was formally presented with an eight-year-old chestnut gelding at the Round Hill Club stables, and she didn't have to part with the $23.03 she was willing to pay for Nashua.

The horse, which Karen named Hanover's Wishing Star, was a gift of the Hanover Bank of New York which handled the auction sale of Nashua and other thoroughbreds in the estate of the late William Woodward Jr.

Nashua went to a syndicate which submitted the high bid of $1,251,000, but the bank was impressed by Karen's offer of $23.03—all the money she had—and the accompanying letter which expressed her lifelong love of horses that it decided to present her with one.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was in my room reeding this week's Atomic Comics, and pop put his head in, saying, Benny, you must of been using my hammer. It's nowhere around, and this is the usual whereabouts whenever you're the last one that had it, he said.

Did you look in your tool chest? I said, and pop said, Being a man with neet habits and an orderly mind, that's naturally the first place I looked. Now suppose you compose your own mind into some sort of order and try to remember if you were using it, and if so why and where, he said.

Well G, I kind of think I did take it for something, I said, and pop he pop said, Now we're getting somewhere, and-I hopelt's somewhere near her hammer. Why was you using it for? he said.

I don't exactly just remember, I said, and pop said, Then when was it? If you can recall when you had it I may be able to get a clew as to where, he said.

Well I should pop, if my memory body could tell me where, and what for, it would have went to work to remember when, I said, and pop said. Yee gods, start thinking.

I am, pop, I haven't stopped thinking, I said, and pop said, Then stop. I remember when I used that hammer last, and that reminds me why and where. It was in the garage, and I got a telefone call and I leened the hammer neerby in the corner of the garage, and that's where I'll find it. Something told me it was on the correct orderly line of questioning, and I was right. Well, thanks for your help, old boy, he said.

You're welcome, pop, I said. Being the happy end.

BRITISH SHIP AGROUND, CREW ON SHORT RATIONS

An aerial view of the British freighter Judith Mary, covered with a thick sheath of ice, result of the cold wave sweeping Europe, and hard aground in the Baltic off the town of Lourtsa. The S.S. Hercules, which was sent to the rescue of the stranded freighter, received a message from the Judith Mary's captain, which indicated the crew was having a bad time with colds and lack of food. (Central Press Canadian).

PLANE CRASHES IN RESIDENTIAL AREA

Remnants of a jet plane which screeched out of the sky above densely populated Levittown, N.Y., are doused by firemen who answered the alarm when the diving plane struck a parked car. No one was hurt and only the plane and the car were demolished, a near-miracle for the crowded residential area. The pilot baled out at 2,000 feet after fighting a losing battle with flames from a height of 6,000 feet. He landed safely on a lawn.

House Fires Claim 26 Lives in Less Than Week

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

House fires in Canada have claimed the lives of at least 26 persons during less than a week.

A Canadian Press survey Thursday showed that since the beginning of the Christmas holiday season at 6 p.m. last Friday, fire has claimed lives each day, part of the 26 known dead are children.

Five persons, two of them children, died Wednesday in fires in Quebec, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

Six children perished Wednesday in fires in Quebec and Manitoba. Four persons died in a hotel fire in Quebec Monday and 11 persons died in fires during last weekend.

Prince Edward Island is the only province without a fire fatality in the period. There were nine such fatalities in Quebec, three in each of New Brunswick, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, two in each of Saskatchewan, British Columbia, and Alberta, and one in each of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

tives and friends on Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clarke and children spent the dinner hour Christmas night with Mr. and Mrs. John Galliven.

Messrs. Raymond and Robert Chambers spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sills and family, of West Huntingdon.

Some improvements are being done in the interior of the schoolhouse during the holiday week.

The annual school meeting was held at the school on Wednesday morning.

Sunday School Lesson

Even Sincerity Is Not Enough

BY ROY L. SMITH

The Jews of Jesus' day were the most sincere people of that ancient age. In their standards of domestic life, sex, concern for the poor, and a dozen other areas of human experience they were definitely superior to the surrounding pagans.

It came as a terrible shock, therefore, when Jesus called down an evil generation. It seemed incredible that they should demand of them a stricter stewardship than that which they observed in their meticulous tithing, their elaborated ceremonies, and their devotion to the law.

Yet that was exactly the thing He did demand—an attitude of open-mindedness, a willingness to stand morally by great ideals, and a faith in an entirely new set of spiritual principles.

OBLIGATIONS OF OPPORTUNITY

The prophet Jonah and the Queen of Sheba had been loyal to the light they had. There was much they did not know, and for that very good reason they could not be held responsible. The Jews of Jesus' day, having been given more light, were the more responsible.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for Jan. 1 is "Jesus Rebukes Insincerity."—Luke 11: 14—12:3, 54-59.

There is a profound principle of life just here, to which the modern Christian must give the most faithful attention. With the problem of surplusage plaguing the Americans, and the problem of hunger stalking much of the rest of the world, the matter of obligation becomes a moral accusation.

SIN OF CLOSED MIND

The sin with which Jesus confronted His audience was their refusal to listen to the word of truth when it was presented to them.

One of the sins of this modern day is its indifference in the matter of searching for the truth. We have become so engrossed in the glamorous art of accumulating goods that we have lost much of our interest in the good.

A great book calls for a great reader; a great sermon calls for a great hearer; a great statesman calls for a great citizenry to support him.

SINCERITY NOT ENOUGH

The rock base of any good religion is sincerity resting down on truth, but it is highly important that we shall realize the fact that even sincerity is not enough.

Those who caused the young man Stephen to death were, without a doubt, sincere in believing they were defending an ancient faith against it enemies.

Those who burned the martyrs did so in the belief that they were defending God and the faith in which God stands.

The witch burners of New England were conscientiously sincere, even though their minds were darkened.

Millions of good and sincere people have been found, in one generation or another, on the wrong side of great moral issues for no better reason than that they were ignorant, or that their minds had been closed against the truth by fear or prejudice.

There is an old adage to the effect that it makes no difference what one believes so long as he is honest in his belief. This false premise has been responsible for innumerable woes foisted upon the gullible public.

The foot-binders of China and the widow-burners of India have been sincere people, but they have also been mistaken. Those who have defended the caste system have done it in all sincerity.

Let it be said, than, with utter frankness. Any religion that attempts to close the mind of men to the truth is an enemy of mankind, and no amount of sincerity can atone for its sins.

BONARLAW GIRL DIES IN CROSSING CRAS

Divorcee Charged In Pistol-Slaying Of Fishing Guide

Tragedy Follows All-Night Party in Newboro Lake Cabin

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A fourtimes-married divorcee from Syracuse, N.Y., has been charged with murder in the pistol-slaying of fishing guide George Franklin (Tom) Knapp, 45, following a late-night party in the secluded island lodge where she had planned to spend the week-end.

Mrs. Virginia Ricks, 42, an attractive, socially - prominent brunette, was taken into custody early Friday after she telephoned police from her leehound island on Newboro lake, 35 miles northwest of here.

Provincial police found the body of Knapp, shot in the hip and abdomen, lying on the living room floor. A .38-calibre revolver and a shotgun were on a chair nearby.

Mrs. Ricks and another man, Francis Baker Byrnes of West-port, Ont., were awaiting in the room. Byrnes was a close friend of Knapp.

KEPT FOR YEARS

Knapp, whom Mrs. Ricks had known for years, was to have appeared in Brockville next week on a charge of assaulting a police officer during a Christmas Eve brawl in a beverage room at Westport, which borders the lake. A resident of Newboro, he was a widower with a 13-year-old son.

After police had questioned Byrnes, the woman was charged with murder before justice of the peace W. R. Johnson here late in the day and remanded to Jan. 6 for preliminary hearing.

She was kept most of the day in the lockup at Westport. She tried to duck photographers behind her scarf when she left in custody for the drive to Brockville.

During the day she telephoned an uncle, Harold Brewer, Syracuse motel owner and auto dealer. He drove to Brockville.

Police said the shooting occurred early Friday morning following a scuffle instigated by Mrs. Ricks, Knapp and Byrnes. They said Knapp left the cottage some time after midnight and returned in a drunken condition about 4:40 a.m.

CALLED POLICE

Inspector David Adair of the provincial police criminal investigation branch said Mrs. Ricks called the police at the resort about 4:45 a.m.

She told constable Clifford Perry: "There's been a shooting. Will you come right out?"

It was learned here Thursday evening Byrnes had been driven across the frozen lake to the island by Jack Monk of Nebworo, a cousin of Knapp. Monk and Byrnes were invited to stay for dinner but Monk left after a few minutes.

Mrs. Ricks, graduate of an exclusive girls school, is a daughter of the late mayor Charles Hanna of Syracuse. Her last husband was James Ricks, member of a wealthy New York family. They were divorced in 1954.

Residents of Newboro said Mrs. Ricks has spent considerable time at the lake in the last 20 years. She was often seen with Knapp.

One report said that she also operated a resort resort on an other lake and vacationed annually at Newboro lake.

Middie Age: When you feel on Saturday night the way you used to feel on Monday morning.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Not much change in temperature is expected in Ontario over the New Year's week-end, and there is a chance of threatens in the way of storms. Temperatures Friday night should get slowly in southern Ontario from about 15 early in the evening to near 25 this morning. The normal trend may be similarly reversed tonight.

There was a little snow during the night mainly in the central and eastern sections of the province, but accumulation was slight. A little snow may be expected again tonight, and New Year's morning.

Withdraw Charge Cameraman Paid For Shooting

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS (AP) — Bitter political battling over charges of atrocities in Algeria brought the French election campaign to a heated close today. The voters will pick a new National Assembly Monday.

Premier Edgar Faure late Friday night condemned the "murderous act" of a French gendarme who shot down an apparently unarmed Algerian prisoner last August. But his government backed down on earlier charges that a cameraman for an American newsreel company had bribed the gendarme to do the shooting was "contrary to all regulations and all instructions" for coping with rebellious nationalist extremists in Algeria. However, he added that it was disgraceful that the incident should have been used for what he called last-minute political exploitation.

Faure said the incident had not been brought to official attention earlier at the top government level. Speaking at Dole, in his home district near the Swiss border, Faure promised he would pursue the matter further Monday.

WIDELY PUBLISHED

Pictures of the shooting were widely published for the first time in France Thursday in L'Express. A Paris daily supporting ex-premier Pierre Mendes-France's bid for a major political comeback in the Monday voting, Mendes-France, fighting Faure and the premier's allies, has based his campaign on the nationalist rebellion in Algeria. The former premier says the Algerian strife must be ended by an agreement such as he made with the Tunisians or it may turn into another defeat like Indochina.

Publication of the shooting picture produced the most dramatic development in the election campaign. The interior ministry charged Thursday that George Chassagne, 34, a Frenchman and Algerian war correspondent for the American - owned Fox Movietone News, had been the unidentified gendarme in order to get the pictures.

Chassagne flew in Paris from Algiers early Friday and denied the charges in a sworn statement. "I never asked for any posing of pictures. I never saw the gendarme before. I never gave him since, and I certainly never bribed him," Chassagne said.

Finally, prior to Faure's speech, interior ministry officials acknowledged the police action in refusing to back the earlier charge of bribery in connection with the shooting.

Woman Throws 6 Children to Safety From Window of Fire-Swept House

BAIE ST. PAUL, Que. (CP)— A 22-year-old pregnant woman Friday saved six children from a fire that took the life of one infant.

Two young men were injured in the fire that destroyed the two-storey station and the upper storeys of the building at nearby Cascades des Caps, about 70 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The victim was three-year-old Carol Bouchard, son of one of the employees of the garage, Gerard Bouchard.

Firemen and town officials praised the courage of Mrs. Gerard Bouchard, who led the children to a window through dense smoke and threw them, one by one, into the snow, 25 feet below.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Death of three children in a fire at Prince Rupert, B.C., was the most tragic of three blazes reported Friday across Canada which claimed the lives of five children. The fires continued a sombre record of house fires which since the beginning of the Christmas holiday season have claimed the lives of 31 lives. The Prince Rupert fire occurred Thursday night. In five days—five-month-old John David Kelly was burned to death at Sussex, P.E.I. when his home was destroyed, and another child, Carol Bouchard, 3, died at Baie St. Paul, Que.

At Prince Rupert three children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gurney died when fire destroyed their two-storey home. Two children, Fidelia Eleanor, 1, and Darlene Joan, 3, died in the blaze and their older brother, Vaughan, 6, was dead on arrival at hospital.

Fire chief Earl Becker said the house was a mass of flames when firemen arrived at 11 p.m. Both parents and three older sons were reported downtown at the time. Cause of the fire was not determined.

SECOND-RANKING ANGLICAN CHURCH PRELATE DIES

Most Rev. C. Garbett Called 'Hiking Bishop'

YORK, England (CP) — Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York and second-ranking prelate of the Anglican Church, died today at the age of 80.

The archbishop announced last month that he planned to retire soon because of age and ill health. He underwent a major operation last May and could not fulfil public engagements until September.

He became Archbishop of York in 1942 after gaining fame as "the hiking bishop" because of his habit of tramping through the streets of his parishes in a purple cassock with his pastoral staff to conduct services and chat with the faithful.

A statement issued from his residence said:

"After some days of increasing weakness the archbishop died peacefully early this morning."

WAS OUTSTANDING

Dr. Garbett was one of the most outspoken and outstanding personalities in the Anglican Church.

He was known for his pronouncements on social and moral questions, he publicly supported Britain's nationalist extremists in the Algeria. However, he added that it was disgraceful that the incident should have been used for what he called last-minute political exploitation.

Faure said the incident had not been brought to official attention earlier at the top government level. Speaking at Dole, in his home district near the Swiss border, Faure promised he would pursue the matter further Monday.

CCF Leader Claims Six Staff Members of Training School Dismissed for Slugging Boys

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said Friday night at least six staff members of the Cobourg Training School for Boys have been dismissed during the last two years for slugging boys.

Mr. MacDonald said in a statement that "brutal treatment" resulted in boys receiving a broken jaw or arm.

He added:

"One of the victims of this brutal treatment, resulting in a broken nose, was the lad who, after leaving the Cobourg and Bowmanville training schools, eventually ended up in the Guelph reformatory where he took his own life by hanging about a year ago."

Reforms Minister Foote, Deputy Minister C. H. Basher and officials of the school were not available for comment.

Mr. MacDonald's statement referred to a proposed shift of supervision of the Ontario training schools by the province's department of reform institutions.

The transfers were announced recently by Reforms Minister Foote, who said the shift was partly designed to give superintendents wider powers.

One of the transfers is that of William T. Little, now at Cobourg, to the training school at Hamilton.

A Queen's Park source said Thursday that Mr. Little's transfer had aroused public protests from the Cobourg district.

Said Mr. MacDonald:

"I am not surprised at the protests from the community of Cobourg. The final reasons lie in situation which is, for the most part, the product of the military-minded attitude in our reform institutions by top officials of the department.

"It is further complicated by the practice of making political appointments to the staffs of these institutions over the heads of superintendents."

Mr. MacDonald referred to a report submitted to the Ontario legislature two years ago by a select committee on reform institutions. The committee report was quoted as saying that "with a few notable exceptions the reform institutions visited are not living up to their name . . . The majority of persons sentenced to Ont. reformatories receive while incarcerated no effective stimulus to reform."

While some notable improvements have been made since then, they represent little or no change in the basic approach to Ontario reform institutions, he said.

He said there is insufficient professional training for staff to provide rehabilitation and the difficulties of a superintendent in coping with the "military-minded" staff even when dismissed staff members are appointed over his head as political appointees by the department.

Holidaying Canadians Swamp Buses, Trains, Planes and Cars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Holidaying Canadians are on the move.

By the thousands they started swarming Friday to buses, trains, planes and family cars and the New Year's travel deluge promises to keep up until Sunday.

Even then transportation employees won't be able to sigh with relief. The return home will be just as hectic.

The present situation was the same from coast to coast: Anxious relatives waiting at bus and transportation servants, filled-to-capacity trains and buses and crowded highways and airways.

The weather man apparently is in an amiable mood. The situation was generally good with little snow forecast and temperatures slightly above normal for the season.

Extra flights were scheduled by Trans-Canada Air Lines for today and Monday in the Maritimes. Extra crews were added to Vlas. More buses were on the highways.

Six districts in the Laurentian mountains of Quebec apparently were in for a banner weekend. Hotels and trains in the area were expected to be running at capacity. Reservations in New York were especially popular.

Railway officials in Toronto expected that New Year's travel would be below that of Christmas but still big enough to add cars and sections on some runs, including those to Montreal.

Bus companies in Quebec were hoping for a stormless holiday. Favorable weather was forecast on the Prairies.

Highways in British Columbia were predicting near-record crowds on trains and TCA and Canadian Pacific Airlines planned additional flights.

All Serene Around Dionne Home After Quints Pay Visit

NORTH BAY, (CP) — All appeared serene at the Dionne household.

Three of the famed quintuplets are back with their family. Their xmas gifts exchanged and misunderstandings patched up.

The statement issued Friday by Mr. Dionne on the telephone call from his nearby Callander home to the North Bay Nugget attributed a recent rift in the family to a "mix-understanding."

Mrs. Dionne and the three girls —Yvonne, Cecile add Annette—approved the statement.

"There was a misunderstanding somewhere and it has been ironed out," said Mrs. Dionne.

Earlier in the week he said intruders were to blame for the four quintuplets' visiting the home of the family during the last few months.

Marie, the fourth surviving quintuplet, was unable to make the Montreal-to-Callander trip because she was considered not sufficiently recovered from a recent illness.

The other three girls were taken by the private car trip by their brother, Olivs, Jr., arriving early Friday at the family mansion.

"Mrs. Dionne and I stayed up all night waiting for the girls to arrive from Montreal," said Mr. Dionne. "The girls were tired from the long trip but we gathered under the Christmas tree and exchanged gifts."

That rift became public when none of the four quintuplets returned home for Christmas. Mr. Dionne said the girls had not sent the family a card, written nor telephoned.

In Montreal, meanwhile, newspaper reporters were not allowed to interview a weiress who entertained the quintuplets' had rented a few days before Christmas.

The first statement on behalf of the sisters came from L. M. Edwards, Montreal lawyer, president of the Guaranty Trust Co., the firm which administers the quintuplets money.

He said Annette, Yvonne and Cecile would go to Callander to see their parents and try to make peace with them. The girls, Mr. Edwards said, would make the trip to Callander to stop the rift from being magnified and being magnified out of proportion.

Mrs. Dionne said the Dionne home indicated the trip achieved its purpose.

She said Dionne: "We all seem to understand each other better now. Everybody feels happy about the reconciliation. We are also sure that there will be no misunderstanding such as has taken place recently."

The three sisters confirmed the statement.

Said Yvonne: "I do approve. I hope things will work out well and I think they will."

Cecile: "We all agree with the statement."

Annette: "We are sincere about it."

The three sisters said they did not know how long they would remain at Callander. Yvonne and Cecile have four days off work from the hospital in which they are in training.

BULGANIN STATES H-BOMBS DO NOT GUARANTEE PEACE

East, West Possession Does Not End Danger

LONDON (CP) — Russia's Premier Bulganin told a world possession of hydrogen bombs by both East and West is not a 100-percent deterrent against future wars, and the possibility of a thermonuclear war cannot be excluded.

But he also declared that another world conference "can be fruitful."

Replying to questions put to him by Charles E. Shutt, head of the Washington bureau of Telenews Canada, Bulganin said:

"It is wrong to assert that inasmuch as East and West possess hydrogen weapons, the possibility of a thermonuclear war is automatically excluded."

Bulganin's interview with Telenews was broadcast by the Moscow radio. Telenews, affiliated with Hearst Metrotone News, furnishes newsreel films to television stations.

Telenews had a written interview last January with Georgi M. Malenkov, then Soviet premier, in which he called for diplomatic negotiations to settle disagreements in the Far East.

KEEPS ON LINE

Bulganin, in his answers, flogged away at the theme that Soviet line that Russia still adheres to the spirit of last summer's Big Four summit conference in Geneva. The Russians have accused the Western Big Three on various occasions of violating the spirit of Geneva.

The West has countered that this "liberty" and Western speeches which Bulganin and the Russian Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchev, made in India and other South Asian tour violated the Geneva spirit.

Asked about the prospects for trade in 1956, Bulganin said in the interview that "international cooperation and trust are a fully attainable thing in our time."

After giving his views on war and peace, the Soviet premier conveyed "to the American people cordial greetings and best New Year's wishes."

Fire Destroys Grey Nuns' Home; Arson Charged

NICOLET, Que. (CP) — A seven-hour blaze, believed by police to have been deliberately set, early today destroyed the 100-year-old storey mother house of the Grey Nuns in this south shore St. Lawrence river community. Damage estimated officially at $500,000.

Police chief Edouard Beaudet, who gave the damage estimate, said the fire was set at least in one, maybe two persons later today. He said he had no comment with the fire.

The blaze started in the basement under an elevator. The chief said it was "incredible" that a fire should start there.

Big Montana Wind, Sack of Flour Judged Best Phony Tale by Club

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) —A Montana man and a hatchetwoman share the honors for telling the biggest whoppers at the Burlington Liars' Club contest for 1955.

Claude T. Yerkes of Kalispell, Mont., won temporary possession of a "diamond-studded, gold-plated" cuspidor for the tale of a big Montana wind and a sack of flour while Mrs. Ida Mae Hatchet of Burlington gave an honorable mention award to Vernon Charnetski of Presidge, Sask. for his story.

J. O. C. Hulett, the organization's founder and president, says Yerkes told about a sheep herder who lived in a small trailer house, and had his provisions brought out by the owner of the sheep.

"On a particular occasion," Yerkes said, "the provisions included a 100-pound sack of flour for which there was no room in the trailer. So the herder drove a couple of stout nails in the wall and hung the sack of flour on them, just outside the trailer door. During the night one of Montana's lusty-famous winds sprang down on him. Next morning the sheep herder looked out and was horrified that the wind had blown away the sack and left the flour hanging on the nails."

Charnetski sent in this whopper: "recently a friend of mine asked me about the height of the big pool grain elevator in our town. I told him I didn't know how high it was, but I did know of a carpenter who dropped his hammer while working on the roof. It took him exactly 10 days to get it, he found that the handle had rolled off while it was falling."

Lucy Fraser, 9, Victim; Father, Sister Injured

Truck Skidded into Side Of Train on Slippery Road

A nine-year-old Rawdon township girl was instantly killed her father and older sister were critically injured early Friday when their half-ton truck skidded into the side of Canadian National R ways train on the 12th concession of Rawdon township.

Killed was Lucy Fraser, Her father, Smith Fraser, about 40, her sister Carol, 17, were critically injured and two boys later d still unconscious at Belleville General Hospital.

The accident occurred shortly before nine o'clock at the 12th line C.N.R. crossing near Bonarlaw, about half-a-mile west of Hwy. 14 Highway. The three were on their way to Bonarlaw where Carol works at the W. J. Barlow general store.

FAILED TO SEE TRAIN

Reports indicated that the driver of the truck failed to see the C.N.R. Harmony car train as it and skidded into the side of the train. The truck was badly pulled. The impact spun the truck around, seriously damaging one side of the Vehicle.

Dr. T. McCarthy of Marmora, and Dr. T. Lewis of Stirling, attended at the scene of the accident. The injured were taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance of Stirling and Proctor's Ambulance of Stirling. Provincial police constable T. Lummiss of Tweed investigated.

Preliminary examination at the hospital showed that both Mr. Fraser and Carol suffered head injuries while in addition Mr. Fraser has several fractured ribs on the right side.

The father's condition was said to be more serious than that of his daughter.

Labor Minister To Name Head Of Rail Board

OTTAWA (CP)—The chairman of a conciliation board dealing with operating rail workers will be named by Labor Minister Gregg.

Companies had Unions failed to agree on a chairman, Mrs. Leonard Friday said, the appointment has been left in the minister's hands. Union contract requests are to expire at midnight Sunday.

Mr. Gregg was expected to announce his choice next week. The three-man board may get into action by mid-January.

The board, established after unions and companies reached deadlock in negotiations, will consist of the chairman and a representative named by each of the disputing groups. The companies and unions have about 50,000 members.

David J. Lewis, Toronto lawyer specializing in labor matters, is the union nominee. The company panel is Ira S. Smith, Canadian real lawyer and member of a similar board in the 1952 railroad dispute.

The board will make recommendations to the labor ministers on union demands for a 35-cents-an-hour increase, covering a general wage increase and a company-financed health and welfare plan.

The unions want a general 10-per-cent wage boost, roughly equivalent to 25 cents an hour on the average, it is figured. They have asked that the companies contribute a flat 5 cents an hour to cover a comprehensive plan that includes life insurance for workers and a hospital, medical and surgical insurance for themselves and their families.

WAGES, OUTPUT UP

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's wage bill rose by 26 per cent during the four years from 1951 to 1955, the Central Office of Trade announced today. Total wages went up by £850,000,000, while the output of manufactured goods increased by 13 per cent.

Police Will Be Extra Vigilant New Year's Eve

An appeal for New Year's celebrants to refrain from driving if they have celebrated to excess during yeay too well, was made today by Police Chief Walter Roberts.

At the same time the chief warned that police had been instructed to be extra vigilant in an effort to keep impaired drivers away from the wheels of their cars.

"The police are not out to try and curb frivolities or put a damper on New Year's Eve parties, we are going to do everything we can to prevent accidents," said the chief noted.

All leaves for police officers have been cancelled and the entire force will be on call to meet with any emergency, he said.

Making a plea for moderation in drinking and safe motor travel the holiday, the chief suggested that party celebrants look after those who might have indulged a bit too freely.

"Seeing that such a person gets home without driving his car could well prevent a serious accident," he said.

Charged With Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves Legare, 28, Friday was charged with the murder of Mrs. Raymond Desjardins, who was shot to death Dec. 23 at her north-end home.

Legare collapsed shortly after a coroner's jury found him criminally responsible for the death and was arraigned in his cell before Judge Rene Theberge.

His preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 5.

Among the witnesses heard was Mr. Desjardins, who was wounded in the chest above the lung and abdomen by the same assailant who killed his wife. He was brought from hospital for the hearing and identified Legare as the man who did the shooting.

Fair But Tough Campaign Opens Against Drivers

FREDERICTON, N. B. (CP)—After a 1955 record of 3,276 highway accidents, 122 deaths and more than $4,000,000 in property damage, provincial authorities today launched a new "fair but tough" campaign against reckless driving and other dangerous practices by motorists.

The province's revamped Motor Vehicle Act becomes effective at midnight tonight.

Under the new system, points are given for motoring violations and a 10-point rally rules the offender off the road for 30 days. Should he get the motorist on the rotating file and clerks can tell at a glance in the driver has been in trouble before.

Canada Stronger Than Ever Before Says St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent in his New Year's message issued Friday said Canadians have much to be thankful for. There were problems during 1955 they had surmounted far greater ones before.

His message said in part:

"While it is true that we are still living in a troubled world, it is also true that another year has passed without disaster having plunged into the unimaginable horror and destruction of nuclear war.

"As we look ahead to bright prospects for 1956 we have problems—some of them perhaps difficult problems—to face. But the Canadian people have surmounted far greater difficulties in the past. To the future we have more people and greater resources, more skills and greater knowledge. Canada is growing and is stronger than ever before . . ."

MASSEY'S MESSAGE

Governor-General Massey said in a New Year's message that 1955 has been kind to Canada as a home and on the international scene. He said he was grateful for the invitation to bring to you my good wishes for the new year, especially to those who, during my travels for the past 12 months, have come to me with such warmth and kindness."

Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, said in a New Year's message, also issued Friday night, that proper use of Canada's resources could put this country at the beckoning of a great period of expansion.

He said in part:

"We have the fortunate position of having most of the raw materials that now are in rapidly increasing demand throughout the world. If we adopt policies which will assure the greatest practical use of our own materials for secondary production in Canada, then we can say with confidence that we are just at the beginning of one more great period of expansion, which from time to time, throughout the centuries, have seen one nation after another become a great world power . . . ."

Obituary

JAMES LYNCH

James Lynch, a prominent Belleville coal dealer for 50 years, died in Belleville General Hospital on Friday, December 30th, after having been ill for one week.

The deceased was born in Thurlow township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lynch. As a young man he went to the United States to work with a bridge construction company and travelled throughout the States and Canada.

He later worked for a structural steel company on a project for the country. About two years he was employed by the Santa Fe Railroad at The Needles, California.

Prior to establishing the Lynch Coal Co. in Belleville in 1906, Mr. Lynch owned and operated two three-masted schooners which he worked in the freight business on Lake Ontario.

He retired from active participation in the coal business about 12 years ago and devoted much of his leisure time to fishing, which was his favorite sport.

He was a member of St. Michael's Church; an honorary member of Belleville City Council 1008 of the Knights of Columbus; a member of the Rod and Gun Society; the Belleville and District Fish and Game Association and the Wharf Street Debating Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Bessie Bolender; one son, William J. Lynch of Belleville; two daughters, Mrs. M. (Nora) Morey, and Miss Gertrude Lynch, both of Belleville.

Also surviving him are a brother and sister Vincent of Toronto, and Mrs. Alec Miller of Thurlow township.

The deceased is resting at the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien, 30 Moira West, where funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

JAMES MAXWELL TUMMON

The funeral of James Maxwell Tummon will be held Friday, December 30th, from the home of Mrs. Ernest Fox, Foxboro, to Foxboro United Church.

Rev. R. F. Darke conducted the service at the residence and was assisted by Rev. Ralph Ward, Rev Ray Rowley and Rev. H. M. Davis.

Bearers were William McCrea, Garth McCreary, James Anderson, John Cooper, Lloyd Clarke and Stan Sherry.

Interment took place in Foxboro cemetery.

MRS. DAVID E. TERRY (Trenton)

Funeral of Mrs. Nora Terry, Carrying Place Road, Trenton, who died in the Belleville and District Hospital December 27th was held from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton.

Interment was in White's cemetery. Officiating clergyman was Rev. G. A. Puttenham.

Bearers: Harold Jeffery, J. B. Rose, Robert Blight, Leo Fowens, Austen St. Croix and Bruce Holmes.

In her 58th year, Mrs. Terry had lived in Trenton and district all her life. She was born in England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hopkins and came to Trenton some 38 years ago after a brief residence in Saskatoon, Sask.

Active in several phases of community work she supported the Grace United Church Women and the Ladies' Aid and served in the work of the local hospital auxiliary. She had been in poor health for over a year.

She is survived by her husband, David E. Terry; two daughters and one son; Mrs. James (Jean) Mallory, Conger; Mrs. Ray (Irene) Wilkins, Montreal, Que., and Stanley Terry, Trenton.

Also surviving are six grandchildren.

Roberts Throws In Warning To Motorists

TORONTO (CP)— Attorney-General Roberts extended New Year's greetings to Ontario motorists Friday and threw in a warning to speeders.

In wishing drivers a safe year during 1956, Mr. Roberts said speeding motorists may be taken off the road for their first offence.

The attorney-general said if the New Year's weekend results in a repetition of the "appalling" Christmas holiday accident toll he will seriously consider asking magistrates to suspend the licences of speeders even on their first conviction.

HIGH DEATH TOLL

Twenty - seven persons were killed in car accidents in Ontario during the three-day Christmas holiday.

"The vast majority of drivers in Ontario are law abiding and citizens in their efforts to keep the accident toll down." Mr. Roberts said. "But there is a group that wilfully and deliberately violate the regulations.

"It is becoming increasingly apparent that there are a few motorists in this province who refuse to heed all the warnings and appeals we made to the last few months. These are the people we are after."

29 Navy Officers Get Promotions

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian naval officer who spent 1941 in the sinking of the British battleship Prince of Wales is one of 29 officers promoted to the rank of captain in the navy's half-yearly promotions list.

He is 38-year-old Stuart Edmund Paddon of St. Thomas, Ont. Victoria, who has been an acting captain (electrical) serving as deputy superintendent and co-ordinator of refit and repair on the west coast.

He is among 29 officers listed for promotion, 18 in the regular force and 11 in the RCN reserve. Commander rank goes to 25 while one, Chaplain Waldo E. L. Smith, C.S.C., of Hamilton, Ont., already becomes, a chaplain Class 4 (Protestant).

BECAME RADAR OFFICER

Capt. Paddon joined the naval reserve in 1936 from the University of Toronto and soon after became one of 125 radar officers loaned to the Royal Navy. For three years he served on major warships of the British fleet.

In 1941 he was in charge of the most complicated sea-going radar equipment of the time, on board the Prince of Wales. In that year the ship took part in the Bismarck engagement, the Atlantic convoy and meeting and battle convoys and finally was sunk in December off Malaya by Japanese aircraft.

He survived the sinking and later joined the battleship Warspite in June, 1942, before being transferred to headquarters here the next year. Since the war he has served two years in the cruiser Ontario and held a series of staff appointments.

IN MEMORIAM

BLAKELY. — In memory of a dear daughter, Eva Blakely, who passed away one year ago, December 31st, 1954.
Often a silent heartache,
Often a silent tear,
Always a loved one's memory,
Of her we loved so dear.
God gave her strength to fight it,
And courage to bear her pain,
But what it meant to lose her,
No one will ever know.
—Sadly missed by son Harold and family.

BLAKELY. — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Eva Blakely, who passed away one year ago, December 31st, 1954.
Within the garden of our lives,
Some rain is bound to fall,
But after that the sun shines through,
And dries it all.
God saw her pain and gave divine,
With all its healing powers;
Sweet memories of strength and peace,
To keep us through the years.
So fair a flower to bloom,
In the shores of ever green;
Eva's love lives in our hearts,
But the river flows between.
Some day we'll meet where eyes shall see.
The land of everlasting bliss,
Where love is living hand in hand,
And never say farewell.
Lovingly remembered by wife and sister Jessie.

BLAKELY. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Hester Blakely, who passed away January 1st, 1953.
A wonderful mother, one we loved so true,
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One million, that mother was true.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest, liberal, free and kind,
Loved by your friends and all you met,
A wonderful mother.
—Ever remembered by husband and children.

MACDONALD. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Ann Macdonald, who passed away December 31st, 1952.
One year has passed since the sad day,
One day,
When we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
—Sadly missed by son Hugh and daughter-in-law Vincent.

ARMSTRONG. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Arthur Armstrong, who passed away December 31st, 1953.
Two years have passed, but still we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade;
Loving thoughts will always linger,
Around the grave where our dear one is laid.
—Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

ARMSTRONG. — In loving memory of a dear father, Arthur Armstrong, who passed away December 31st, 1953.
—Ever remembered by his daughter Leila.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

BLESSED ASSURANCE

Blessed assurance, Jesus is mine!
Oh, what a foretaste of glory divine!
Heir of salvation, purchase of God,
Born of His Spirit, washed in His blood.

Perfect submission, perfect delight,
Visions of rapture now burst on my sight;
Angels descending, bring from above
Echoes of mercy, whispers of love.

Perfect submission, all is at rest;
I in my Saviour am happy and blest,
Watching and waiting, looking above,
Filled with His goodness, lost in His love.

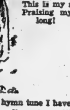
This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long;
This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long!

Here is a new hymn time I have written; what does it say to you?"

Mrs. Joseph Knapp, the composer of gospel music, asked the question one day as she and Fanny Crosby were chatting in the latter's home. When the blind hymn writer listened, Mrs. Knapp played her new tune on several times on the piano. Suddenly, Fanny Crosby's face was alight with inspiration.

"Why, that music says 'Blessed Assurance, Jesus is mine!' she answered. And that is how one of America's most beloved and blessed hymns came to be written.

Fanny Crosby, who never could remember having seen the light of day, has always been admired for the remarkable way in which she turned her handicap into a blessing. She never permitted anyone to express sympathy for her blindness. One day a clergyman, talking with her, mentioned her affliction. The blind poetess surprised him by declaring that she was sometimes glad to be sightless.



"You see," she explained, "when I get to Heaven, the first face that I shall ever gladden my sight will be that of my Saviour".

In her own account of the origin of "Blessed Assurance", Fanny Crosby said, commenting on Mrs. Knapp's hymn tune: "It seemed to me one of the sweetest tunes I had heard in a long time. She asked me to write a hymn for it and I felt, while bringing the words and tones together, that the air and the hymn were intended for each other. In the hundreds of times that I have since heard it sung, this feeling has been more and more confirmed".

A Lift For Living

Two Ways to View New Year

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

There is a little way and there is a larger way in which to start a New Year.

According to one method, we merely turn over a new leaf according to the other, we reexamine the whole record. The little way is to make a nice, neat set of new resolutions; the large way is to revamp the motives by which we carry them out. The little way is to think only of how we can get ahead during the New Year; the large way is to concern ourselves with the road by which others are to get ahead.

I realize that the most popular voices of our time are those which specialize in the secrets of personal success, those which tell us how to keep sweet in the midst of the world's bitterness, how to keep calm despite society's perils, how to win our own prosperity and happiness even though humanity at large is threatened by atomic warfare. And I realize also that one's own state of mind is the essential factor in personal happiness.

But I cannot believe it is this Christian attitude to be content with inner sweetness while the world is going sour, or to be satisfied with personal success while society heads into distress and destruction. And I feel sure that my thoughtful readers are starting this year of 1956 with a concern for the larger outlooks as well as the personal successes.

NEED BEACON LIGHTS

The late Dr. John Henry Jowett tells us that on a certain rainy night he was leaving his place of stay for the railway station. His host supplied him with a lantern which helped him to pick his way among the puddles, but it was a great help, said Jowett, when he came around a bend in the road and saw the station light.

In the dark night we need not only the flashlights of personal faith and courage to illumine the immediate steps, but also the beacon lights to show us the long road and the larger goals.

About a year ago Joseph Wood Krutch wrote a book, "The Measure of Man," in which he said that the present generation was less sure of what is ahead than any previous generation. He asserted that the only thing thoughtful men are agreed on as to the future is that things can't go on much longer as they are.

RACE SUICIDE

Why did he make such an arresting statement? Because now, for the first time in history, man has the power to commit race suicide. However bad people were in the past, they were not strong enough in their neighbors nor did they have the power to kill them all off. Now with our jet planes and our hydrogen bombs we have both the nearness and the power to destroy our fellow men.

If we keep on breeding fear and building bomb piles and increasing speed, we are headed for race suicide. We must find a new motive power to match our multiplying machine power.

As we face this issue, we recall how Saint Matthew closes the Christmas story of the "Wise Men." These are the lines: "And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way." Never in all the centuries since those words were written have we had more clearly the necessity of choosing between the road which leads back to Herod and the other way which leads forward from Bethlehem.

Consider the contrast between Herod and Christ which now confronts us. Herod's was the way of cruelty and Christ's the way of kindness. Herod's spirit from the Christmas stories of the old kings' threat to the Christ child stands the record of Herod's family history. It is a sordid succession of plot and counter-plot, bloody assassination. The blood of at least five of his wives was on Herod's hands. He held his position by force and hatred, playing faction against faction.

HOPE LIES IN NEW WAY

Our hope lies in the fact that more and more of today's "Wise Men" are seeing that our high-powered inventions cannot travel Herod's road. We must find a new way. For 25 years I have been working in the peace movement. Recently I have presided over the annual meetings of two important peace organizations. When I compare the interest in peace now with that of 1930, I take hope for 1956. The Prince of Peace is making progress.

Some time ago a Christian minister was speaking from a soapbox in Hyde Park, London. An unkempt and unwashed heckler interrupted him by shouting, "Christianity has been in the world for nineteen hundred years, and now look at the world!" The preacher shouted back, "Water has been in the world for two million years and now look at your face."

The other way from Herod's road starts where each of us stands.

For Parents Only

Are Books In Your Budget?

BY NANCY CLEAVER

Are there books in your family budget? If they have no definite place, they are apt to be crowded out by other leisure activities and other demands on your purse.

Most people spend their spare time on what they really want to do and their money on what brings them most satisfaction. When mother and dad look back on their childhood, and compare it with their children's lives, today's world is a different, less leisurely one. A generation ago family wealth was much less radio listening and movie going. But if in their youth, parents gained a love of books, they will want to pass on to their sons and daughters this great source of joy.

Because reading must compete with so many other exciting activities, it is more important than ever that good books, attractive and worthwhile, should be readily available in our homes. If children are "exposed" to books, the right choice of books for their age, they are almost sure to "catch" a love of literature.

Regular visits to the public library are valuable. A teacher who is enthusiastic about books may stimulate a child's reading. But there is no substitute for parents who love books and take time themselves to read. Fathers and mothers who believe that a good book is always an excellent investment are likely to have children to whom books matter.

REFERENCE BOOKS

Reference books such as a good dictionary, Roget's Thesaurus, Bartlett's Quotations, etc. should have their own place. Then they can be found quickly when any member of the family wishes to check on a fact.

The number of homes also have a section in the family library for plays, for poetry and for other types of books. This supplementary reading list for schools offers a wide range of titles in various classifications. These frequently give guidance in the purchase of a book.

Not long ago a librarian mentioned that she had often seen an adolescent discover the fascination of biography in reading one of these prescribed books. She added "once a reader of biography, always a reader of biography."

We agreed with her and we recalled that Archer Wallace, when he was a guest in our home years ago, was asked "What is a good rule in selecting a book?" He answered, "You'll never go wrong on a biography!" This stimulated us to explore more faithfully this fascinating field.

In a fine biography the reader enters into the life and thought of another person to an amazing degree. In such a book the reader finds himself sniffing the salt sea air of the Atlantic; tending the precious light whose beams keep ships on the right path; visits on the B.C. coast and lives among the giant trees, or enters into the experiences of others.

BOOK CASE

A book case for a child's room can be made by a father handy with crate. A book shelf is an inexpensive addition. A boy or girl likes beloved books among other prized possessions.

Don't reserve buying books, just for birthday and Christmas gifts! Give them as a regular item therein the family budget! Then no matter where you live you can echo Edgar Frank's words:

"Think not my life is small
Because you see a pipe alone;
I have my books; I have my dream.
A thousand souls have left for me
Enchantment that transcends
Both time and place.
And so I live in Paradise,
Not here."

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

What was the name of the man of whom Saul, King of Israel said, "You are more righteous than I; for you have rejoiced me good, whereas I have repaid you evil. This day you have declared how you have dealt with me. You did not hid me when the Lord put me into your hands."

Then in wonder at this magnanimity of David, the King added,

"For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go away safe? So may the Lord reward you with what you have done to me this day."

This man was pursued by Saul, with three thousand men in the wilderness of Engedi. Saul went into the cave to rest, not knowing that this man and his little band of friends were hiding there. The friends urged this man to attack the King, but this man, refused saying,

"The Lord forbid that I should put forth my hand against him, the Lord's anointed."

Find this man's name and read this story in 1 Samuel Chapter 24.

SHOULD ELIMINATE POWER WASTE

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in a year-end statement, says that the use of electric power in Ontario increased twice as much in 1955 as had been anticipated.

This may force the commission to step up plans to increase facilities, which it had hoped to defer for a few years.

This is getting to be a familiar story. The people of Ontario are continually surprising the HEPC by their appetite for electricity.

The Hydro Commission's first big surprise, of course, was shared by almost all Canadians. There was no postwar slump.

Since then industrial expansion has demanded more and more power every year.

Individual citizens are using more electricity, too. The average home has many more electric appliances today than it had.

All this is the result of prosperity. Long may it last.

Still, this steadily climbing demand for power is wearing the point, if it has not already passed it, where it will create serious economic problems for the commission and therefore for the users of electricity.

The St. Lawrence River, we have been told repeatedly, is the last big undeveloped source of hydro power in southern Ontario.

Already Hydro has had to construct two steam generating plants. It has plans well advanced to use uranium as a fuel for the generation of electricity.

Steam plants are costly, and this method of generating power than is an efficient hydro plant. Nuclear energy, for some years at least, is likely to be more costly than later power.

Our constantly climbing consumption of electricity thus forcing us near the point where it is going to prove costly power expansion to satisfy these demands.

The Hydro Commission, quite properly, has been endeavoring to satisfy the requirements of the people. This done, however, possibly not the best, and may not even have an adequate solution. Besides endeavoring to meet demands, the Commission could try to reduce the extent of these demands. That is what an individual does when his pay or the cost of his living starts to put a strain on his pocket-book.

Any suggestion that the demand for electricity should be curbed immediately is met with the objection that such a course would stifle progress and hamstring prosperity. That would be true if the curbs were applied in a manner that was unreal. Canada, for instance, suffered from the elimination of waste, and today some electricity is wasted.

The curtailment of waste is a task which would be very difficult for the commission, but simple for its customers. To gain the co-operation of its customers all that Hydro has to do is to convince co-axe to waverse; to thinking with regard to rates. It was not able to do this even in the face of wartime shortages; perhaps, however, this revolution in thinking could now be achieved in the face of the evidence that a continual threat of a shortage of power is a condition which is likely to be with us for many years.

If Hydro's rate structure is so devised as to encourage the use of electricity. Generally speaking, the more electricity that is used, the cheaper the rates. This was an ideal arrangement for the expansion of business, when that was not only desirable but imperative. It completely reverse the rate structure, imposing higher rates for heavy consumption, would be dangerous. At the same time, there is no reason why there should be a policy which, in some instances, results in a consumer wasting power, or using it for luxuries, and permits him to pay for this needless power at a lower rate than others pay for necessary consumption? The drafting of rate schedules which, while not discouraging expansion and an increased use of electrical equipment, would still discourage waste is surely beyond the ingenuity of Hydro's very capable engineers.

A second realm in which the layman may conceive the possibility of a more efficient use of the power we do have is in the utilization of off-peak power. Municipal commissions have set an ideal example in one field, the use of water heaters. Perhaps, however, it would be possible to devise other means of shifting demand for power to periods in which consumption is now far below the peak, resulting in considerable saving to Hydro commissions and, therefore, to their customers. It is probable, though, that savings in this field would be much more difficult to achieve than the elimination of waste of power through a revision of rates.

FISHY!

The Colchester County Hospital in Truro finally has got rid of more than two tons of canned fish that the institution's dietitians and patients alike found unpalatable.

This seems to be stating the situation mildly. The fish, 4,700 pounds of a surplus bought by the Canadian Government, arrived at the hospital without advance notice, six years ago. A hospital commission offer to sell drew no bidders.

The problem of disposal was solved the other day when the commissioners presented the whole lot to their chairman, a mink rancher at Stewiacke. The response of the mink to this offering has gone unrecorded. (Sydney Post-Record.)

THE OLD YEAR

He will not live the night through. The old year lies on his death bed, pale and tired and worn.
He will not wake to greet us with the morn.
Upon the stroke of twelve our years will appear
Another who will take his station here
To bear the self-same burdens he has borne,
Welcomed as he was once with bell and horn,
And in twelve months, like him, to disappear.

Nothing will change unless the weather
Is marked will change.
The same four seasons,
wintertime and spring,
The summer flowering and
autumn's harvesting
Will grace the world. No love, no passion strange
Will stir us from the habits that we know—
Unless men world-wide over will it so.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 31, 1935

HAPPY and PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO ALL.

Building permits issued by the city engineer's office during the year now ending amounted to an estimated value of $145,925; last year the permits issued had an estimated value of $76,455.00. The number of permits issued was 42 in each year.

Mr. W. F. B. Lewers, who is succeeding Mr. G. A. C. Weir as manager of the Bank of Montreal here, Mrs. Lewers and their daughter, Miss Lewers, have arrived from Chatham, Ont., Ontario, where Mr. Lewers was manager of the bank's branch for some years.

Mrs. F. Allore and her son, Mr. W. Allore, left on this day for spending a few days in Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Olive Hamilton of Detroit, Mich., is visiting with her home and friends here.

Miss Bertha Gilbert, Reg. N., a graduate of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Young, Pine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Avery, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Allison, Dundas, Ontario, are here to spend New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. R. Browning, Hillside Street.

Miss Kathryn Gallagher of this city will attend the New Year's Eve ball at the Newman Club, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cole are here to spend New Year's with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, Charles St.

30 YEARS AGO

December 31, 1925

Miss Florence Nelson of Trenton is the guest for New Year's of Miss Mary G. C. Dupras, Hillside Street.

Mr. E. Stacey of this city will spend New Year's with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clarke of Hamilton are here to spend New Year's with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Clarke, Foster Avenue.

Mr. W. Hatch has returned to Detroit, Mich., after spending the Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Hart, Murney Street.

Mr. Charles Hanna, ex. M.P., has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce for the year 1926.

40 YEARS AGO

December 31, 1915

Mr. Harold McCoy is home from St. Catharines to spend New Year's Day.

Mr. Reginald Geen, Owen Sound, is here to spend New Year's with his parents, the Rev. A. L. Geen and Mrs. Geen, at Moodie Cottage, West Bridge St.

Miss Victor Mackie is visiting friends in Toronto.

Controller F. B. Spence of Toronto will speak in Bridge St. Methodist Church next Sunday evening.

The following were elected members of the Separate School Board by acclamation: J. M. Trudach, M. R. Doyle, J. Hogan, Walter N. Bregalzi, L. P. Hughes, Gerald Fitzgerald and the Rev. Father Killeen.

50 YEARS AGO

December 31, 1905

Mr. William Elliott, Sheriff of Hope County, South Dakota, is visiting friends in the city and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Demill of Bay Crest, Avondale, Tyrrel Rd., will be at home to their friends on New Year's Day, it being the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Many friends will be pleased to extend to them congratulations and good wishes.

The residents on portions of Coleman, Moira, Lake and Moira Streets, who were inconvenienced yesterday owing to water surrounding their houses, were fortunate in the unpleasant situation. During the night the temperature became cooler, the rain ceased and the water drained away. The water in the river also took a decided drop.

We see by our favorite newspaper that the world's largest cave is to be explored by a group of students.

This could be put to interesting use, and many will come to every mind.

Space could be found for two professors who think civilization is evil, and for TV "artists" who think that everything under the sun is clean and wholesome.

Mayor's Letters to Hospital Officials

The texts of letters from Mayor Jack Both to Mr. A. McLean Haig, general chairman of the Hospital Campaign Fund, and to Mr. J. N. Yanover, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital, have been released to the press today. These letters are in connection with a broadcast by Mr. Haig on Dec. 3 and letters from Mr. Haig and Mr. Yanover which were published in the Ontario Intelligencer on Dec. 15.

Following are the texts:

December 28, 1955

Mr. A. McLean Haig,
General Chairman,
Hospital Campaign Fund,
Belleville General Hospital,
Belleville, Ontario.
Dear Mr. Haig:

In reply to your attack on the Mayor, in your political broadcast on Friday, December 2nd, over CJBQ of which you are reported to be the owner, and in the Intelligencer of December 3rd, and to your reply to my speech of December 14th, 1955, I make the statement of political broadcast due to the timing of your address and in my opinion it should be classified as such.

You as Chairman of the Fund Raising Campaign have a right to the press a lengthy statement, which I have read at the end you do not vouch for them as correct but merely say, "All figures given in the press have been supplied by the office manager, and only with this qualification can I guarantee their accuracy."

I had hoped when I wrote you, that I would get a detailed statement verified by the Chairman as being correct, this I have not received. Your general statement shows a total of $59,272.72, which may or may not be correct as you imply. I have a figure showing a cost of approximately $50,000.00.

What I had hoped from you, sir, was a detailed statement of costs, such as telephones, office supplies, office rentals, commissions, salaries, contingencies itemized, with dates of payments concerned, if necessary an auditor's report. But failing this I have nothing to apologize for but on the contrary, any and all the citizens concerned, while I have not filled my obligation.

Is it that you yourself wished to avoid the actual amount outstanding?

Do you think, sir, that all the people are informed of the correctness of the figures passed out by the office, or do you earnestly believe you could carry on your own business with such a variation in your accounts from day to day? I believe you owe an explanation

Marriage Rate Worries Eire

Dublin friends had asked me to ...bring them a book on the Index ...which means that it is forbidden ...by Rome. So I bought it hoping to ...have a chance to read some of it ...on the way, but with the priest ...beside me and the smoke I got into ...difficulty. I kept it in my bag ...and thought with intuitive pleasure ...to the Irish priest telling of his life ...in Japan as a missionary. He was ...extradited from Japan and Japan was happy.

A GOOD CHRISTMAN

An Irishman is either very, very happy or very, very sad. He was the former on arrival at Dublin and I had been in Japan he asked me how Christmas was in B.C. churches there. I had not, not one. Then I asked him if he had seen the tenements of Dublin. He had and we toasted each other a "skeat". Then in very good time he got me, I am quite the largest helping of sherry I had ever seen.

Then we talked. He was one of twelve children and if ever you broke bread in his home you had conversation with a priest, give the bishop the choice of Christmas guests of Mrs. Estella Chisholm, Stirling.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

TO TELEPHONE TO WELCOME SON'S FIANCEE

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

Our son, who is living in a city several hundred miles from here, has just written us that he has become engaged to a girl who lives in that city. We haven't met her, but he writes charming things about her and her family too. We can't at this time go to see her, which we would like to do. However, we are very anxious for her to know how happy we are about their engagement, and we want to make as personal a connection with the family as is possible at this distance. So I am wondering if, instead of the usual letter of welcome-into-the-family, it would be proper for us to telephone her, I speaking with her first, and then my husband speaking? And even if we have finished our conversations with her, would it be proper for me to ask to speak with her mother?—Reader.

Yes, it would be entirely proper and very thoughtful too, for you to telephone your son's fiancee, and for all concerned this would probably be a more satisfactory and personally satisfying . . . you could say your words with graciousness and such heart-warming welcome. (I suggest you make arrangements with your son for a time when he is to be at his fiancee's home . . . so that he may make the introductions over the telephone, and take part in the conversations.) And yes, you speak with her first, then your husband would speak with her. Then of course ask to speak with her mother, have a warm-hearted mother-to-mother chat with her about "our children." Your husband should also speak with her, and you both should have a chat with the fiancee's father.

INITIALS ON BATHROOM LINENS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

We have just received from an aunt of mine a combination wedding present (we were married last month) and Christmas present, of three sets of handsome towels for the bathroom. My aunt enclosed a check with the present, explaining that this was to pay for the monogramming of the towels, as she was not sure how I would like to have this done. I'm not sure either. I think I'd like to use three initials. But which ones should they be? And should they all be of the same size? It seems to me that I've noticed that sometimes one of the initials is larger, but if so, which one? — Mary.

Three initials are the best, the smartest, and now, after your marriage, you use the initial of your first name, your maiden surname, married surname. For example, M. L. T., for Mary Leighton Thompson. If you choose to have all three initials of the same size, they are placed in the regular order, as you would read them, M. L. T. But if you wish to feature the initial of your married surname (as is done, and very artistically, in many designs) this initial is made much larger than the others, and is placed in the center. And very often the large center initial is embroidered in a different color, artistically harmonizing, or perhaps a different shade of the color used in the other initials. Or of course you may design, or have designed, a monogram artistically combining three initials.

(Mrs. Beecham will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI-VIVE

FOR A BEAUTIFUL NEW YEAR

Beauty resolutions for the new year save time, work miracles.

The ending of a year invariably gives one pause. There is never enough time in a year, much less a day, to carry out all our good intentions. But, where beauty is concerned, all of us can outline a program in which every moment counts, yet does not interfere with chores. Such a plan should begin with the New Year and should continue right through the day until bedtime. It can be adapted to the individual, of course, but how about the following for an effective set of New Year's beauty elections?

(1) I will brush my teeth carefully—with some regard to the gums, since this may save me money later, in brushing my up per teeth. I will hold the brush with bristles turned slightly upward, at about 33 degree angle with the gums, beginning the stroke above the line of the teeth, and bringing the brush down. I will do the same, reverse, for the lower teeth. This takes no more time than incorrect brushing and will prevent recession of the gums.

(2) I will wash my face thoroughly and follow it with an astringent dash of cold water This will not only be a fine stimulant to my circulation and an "eye-opener," but will help to give me a radiant complexion.

(3) I will eat a proper breakfast, one that does right by my body chemistry and, while I'm having my fruit juice, toast, egg and coffee, I'll plan my day's schedule. Then I won't go haywire as the day progresses.

(4) Just before I go out, I will remember to put lotion on my hands—and also on my elbows and kneecaps if I'm wearing a long sleeved dress or sweater.

(5) I will give myself plenty of time so that I will enjoy my walk to the bus or subway. And I'll remember to take long, deep breaths when I'm walking. I will try to get in a walk on my lunch hour and another one on the way home if I don't get sufficient exercise otherwise.

(6) I will devote some time every evening to one or another beauty chore. I will be efficient about this and plan a night for shampooing and wave-set; another for a manicure; a night for a pedicure; a fourth for a good facial. And, of course, Every night I will give my face and body the most thorough cleansing possible.

(7) I will watch my diet and concentrate on the essential foods. I'll eat only those which are rich in vitamins and minerals and I'll skip the unessential fats, sweets and starches.

(8) I'll watch my posture. (9) I'll be scrupulous in the care of my wardrobe, and (10) I'll learn the secrets of make-up that do the most for me!

And this time next year—well, you just won't know me, I'll be that lovely!

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU STARTED WRONG; PERHAPS YOU CAN END IT RIGHT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

At 22, I have been married—and very happily—by a year and a half. I have a husband who couldn't be more loving and considerate, and I love him dearly, yet I find myself in a very curious state of mind.

This has come about because a fellow I was going with before I met my husband has recently come back into my life. Out of a clear sky, he called me up one day and asked if he could come by and say hello. I said yes, as I thought it would be nice to see him again.

When he came, he told me that when I married this other man he had advised the company for which he worked to transfer him to another city. Then, after all this time, he decided he wanted to come back to the home town, and they went along with him and transferred him back again. He admitted that it was largely because he thought he could see me now and then that he wanted to come back.

I thought there would be no harm in meeting him downtown occasionally, because there is no question of my being in love with him and I late giving up an old friend entirely. He seems happy and satisfied to see just meet for a late-afternoon drink occasionally, but I am beginning to feel that in doing so I am not being fair to my husband. I am also puzzled as to how I can so much enjoy the company of another man when I am actually deeply in love with my husband.

What do you make of all this? — Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. H.:

Just because a girl takes a husband, it doesn't follow that she must immediately cut herself off from all her old friends. Nor does it mean that she loses interest in other men, doesn't enjoy a seeing them any more. Even married people who are truly in love with each other need normal companionships with friends, in addition to the companionship with their mates.

What being married does mean in this respect, however, is that old friendships must be brought into proper allowance for the fact that the girl has a husband, and the man a wife. And any friend who is not willing to accept this, and conduct himself accordingly, must be ruled out.

The ideal thing, of course, is for the old friends of both wife and husband to become friends of both, but this is not always possible. Sometimes a husband is bored with some friends of his wife, and vice versa. In such a case, it shows a fine spirit of love, understanding and trust if each is willing to have the other keep, and see, those friends he or she wishes.

If you feel that the actual thing you speak of will accept and enjoy it's place as a friend of both yourself and your husband, you might have some very pleasant times together. The first step might be to tell your husband about him, and suggest that have a group of old friends to dinner and include this one. This would give the young man an opportunity to see what a happy girl you and your husband are. Such an object lesson might have a very good effect.

If, however, he is the type that prefers undercover finagling with the wives of other men to straightforward friendships, then of course, you have no choice but to send him off for good and make it stick. Needless to say, you should have made the mistake of seeing him on the sly, but perhaps it is not too late to set things right.

FOR a Hallowe'en party table: a pumpkin centerpiece holding a small gift on a long ribbon leading to each guest's place. Polished apples are fun as candleholders— and a hole for the candle, and a slice off the bottom of the apple to make it stand firmly. Overtaken, sun, R.T. Bennett Release Inc

Annual Appraisal

By Mary Moore

The last day of the year has arrived 'round once more and it is time to take stock of our accomplishments.

How have you done?

Has your cooking improved? Have you applied the lessons you have learned to the better nourishment of your loved ones?

Can you report of the children that they have increased in wisdom and stature and in grace with God and man?

It is a tall order that mothers have to meet.

The health, happiness and well-being of the great majority of the Canadian population is in the hands of mothers. If I dared to go a little further I'd say the booming economy of Canada is directly traceable to the inspiration and determination of its mothers. I do so dare.

With all encouragement I hope some of your nagging problems of rebellious children or faulty nutrition or cooking failures or slim budgets have shown some signs of being solved. The process is slow—sometimes disheartening —but if you keep trying and believing, it is sure.

The great majority of your letters to me are optimistic and full of the "everything's fine" spirit.

You help me with my work. Just yesterday I received a letter from a reader in a western city who looked up a name in the local telephone directory and reported it was listed there, because I had said here that I had a name but no address to which to send a requested recipe. Such little neighborly courtesies are in constant evidence. When I can't find a certain requested recipe and put an S.O.S. for it in this column, dozens of you always come rushing to my rescue. One letter that touched me most said "If a survey were taken on 'who-would-you-like-best-to-have for-your best door neighbor?' guess who'd be chosen?" Golly I'd love to be geographically able to run into your kitchens when you are in the midst of a baking spree. I want you for my next door neighbors too.

This year I've made 50 lbs. of various fruit cakes, starting last May before we went overseas, and I have exactly one cake left. Are some of you running short of fruit cake? If so would you like a quick, easy, elegant one? My hairdresser says this cost under $2.00. I made it last year but did not keep track, but it weighs about 2 lbs. and is light in color and packed with huge chunks of fruit and nuts.

CONFECTION CAKE

Sift together 2-4 cup unsifted flour, 1-4 teaspoon each baking powder and salt. Combine in mixing bowl 1 lb. whole Brazil nuts with brown skin left on, 4 oz. each drained red and green cherries (buy 2 4-oz. bottles) and 1 lb. choice whole but seeded dates. Mix half the flour through them. Beat 3 eggs well, beat 2-4 cup sugar into them well and add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, then the remaining flour. Now mix everything. Press into well buttered loaf pan and bake 1 2-4 hours at 325 deg. Fahr. loosely covering with foil until last ten minutes. I suppose this would keep well but I'll never know.

Blessings on you and H New Year!

1955 CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS REVIEW

New Mines, 1st Woman Mayor, Top District News Stories

The biggest stories of 1955 for Belleville and district were happy ...

Marmoraton Iron Mines Limited at Marmora, which started full-scale production and shipping of ore in May, topped the county's news stories.

Close behind it was news of the opening of the Sicroft Uranium Mine at Bancroft.

Top city story for 1955 was the election of Belleville's first woman mayor.

Other big news was made in Marmora with the armed robbery of its Toronto-Dominion bank, ... spectacular jewellery from the store of Paul Mercier.

This year, too, the city was host to the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival. More unhappy news was made by the reporting of nearly 40 violent deaths in highway accidents, shootings, fires, drownings and airplane crashes.

INDUSTRY

In March ... Tuesday Uranium, ... decided at Bancroft, gave that district a potential ... of $700,000 expendi- ... development of $700,000 expendi- ... tures for exploration and expen- ... ditures for its properties. The month ... after there was a report of a ... mining claim at York River, near ... the village, followed by yet an- ... other report of uranium activity ... here taken at Chandos Lake.

Provincial and federal officials and dignitaries took a ... to Marmora early one morning in May to open officially the ... ore-making operations of the Beth- ... lehem Steel subsidiary. The ... ore is shipped from the ... mine by a special railroad line to ... docks at Deseronto, where it is loaded ... for the U.S.

In July, Deloro Smelting and Re- ... fining Ltd. commenced con- ... struction of a $500,000 refinery at ... No. 3 highway at Belleville. ... The refinery will be in production ... early in 1956.

In the city the biggest industrial ... story was the Corby Lock Com- ... pany's purchase of the Belleville ... Lock and Peterborough Lock com- ... panies' assets and the start of ... set hardware manufacturing firm ... in Canada.

Production also was in the spot- ... light with the announcement by a ... Toronto scientific products firm, Ca- ... nadian Schokbeton Limited, that ... it will locate in the town.

CRIME

There was a rash of minor crime ... throughout the entire district dur- ... ing the year, with safe-crackers ... having themselves something of a ... field night.

Out of it all came two big stories. ... Most daring was the robbery of the ... Bank of Toronto - Dominion ... of Marmora by two bandits who ... escaped with $5,645. Biggest rob- ... bery of the year was in Belleville ... itself when yeggs successfully es- ... caped in the night with $40,000 ... in jewellery from the Front street ... steady pace.

Veterans, Newcomer Returned to Provincial, Municipal Governments

A big year for politics in our district, the provincial election gave Elmer Sandercock (Ind't) and Roscoe Robson (right) renewed terms as Hastings County representatives to the provincial house. Jim Forrester received a landslide victory over Mayor Jack Both in Belleville's municipal elections to become the city's first woman mayor.

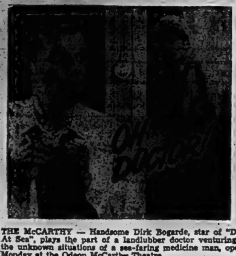
House Appraisal Rates Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—Home builders will be able to get bigger National Housing Act loans in most areas under higher appraisal rates announced Friday by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The upward revisions—first major rise in the appraisal rates in three years—will not affect the individual loan ceiling of $12,800 which is fixed by statute and remains unchanged.

It also does not affect the maximum 6 per cent interest rate on insured National Housing Act mortgages.

Stewart Bates, CMHC president, said the over-all increase in basic appraisal values used to decide the lending value of a house—results in from increases in residential building costs.



A LITTLE COLD WAR

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A policeman chilled early Thursday to an east-side home found the wife inside was clothed and armed with a hammer but the husband shivering outside was not. Constable John Fisher said he acted as mediator between the couple after persuading the wife to unlock the door and managed to persuade the woman to grant her spouse safe conduct but the husband, who said he later left the wife's anger appeased, the husband's confusion covered and the peace restored.

Bergen and His Helpers Open Weekly TV Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Edgar Bergen, who confesses "I'm the fellow who said comedians should not be on TV every week," starts a weekly television show next Tuesday.

Thus ends the longest and oddest holdout against regular TV by a top radio star. While his fellow comics all leaped into the new medium, Bergen had steadfastly refused to follow.

Despite an early foray into TV Bergen declined to do anything but an occasional guest appearance. But his new show, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" starts Tuesday on CBS. He told the reasons for his succumbing:

"I had two ideas about television. For one thing, I didn't want to be on more than once a month. And my idea for a show was to take Charlie and Mortimer to foreign lands. But sponsors didn't want a monthly show, and they said my idea was a travelogue.

"What they were buying was comedy shows and quizzes. So I'm giving them a comedy quiz."

Edgar will interview married couples with the aid of Charlie McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd and the bachelor girl, Effie Klinker. This allows the dummies to haunt the contestants, and Bergen can make them apologize.

The ultimate prize in the Bergen show is $150 a week for a year.

Minor Hockey

Only one close game took place in the pee-wee action at Memorial Arena this morning, the Bruins edging the Rangers 1-0. The Canadiens and Black Hawks went on scoring sprees to gain easy wins, the Hawks 7-3 and the Red Wings and the 6-3 over the Maple Leafs.

The Bruins' victory came on a goal by R. Blaker, unassisted, in the second game of the morning. This was featured by some fine goaltending.

Dennis Hull and Stu Mulhead were the Black Hawk sharpshooters, each rapping home a brace of goals, while Ted Butcher added a goal and assist. R. Gaffney and J. Hosang scored the other goals. Fred Spafford and Joe Clapp were the Wing marksmen, both on solo efforts.

Teddy Rowland fired the three-goal hat trick in the Canadiens' triumph. Jimmie Rutherford, Rodney Pollwell and Bobby Boyce each had a goal with Bob Jeffery claiming one assist. Leonard Struthers and Peter Armstrong accounted for the Maple Leaf goal.

Three bantam games were also on tap for this morning and the results will appear in Tuesday's paper.

Winners can continue trying until they lose.

Pre-Season Predictors Wind Up At Half-Way Mark With Pinkish Faces

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

DANGEROUS GROUND!

Gerry "Stew" Mulligan, sports editor of the Brockville Times Recorder, heaved a luscious lump of optimism into his sports stock-pot yesterday. It all stemmed from that 6-1 shellacking the Maggies handed the supposedly invincible Whitby Dunlops and was climaxed with Gerry giving Mike Rodden the push-over-I-want-in order on the well-known limb of prediction.

Gerry was in columnar high gloo. His sports potage simmered with choice bits of prediction. Not only did the down-east Irisher from Niagara Falls presage that his beloved Maggies would finish in second place (egad, no) but he penned the opinion that the Dunlops "are just another hockey club that can be halted by any eastern group club that shows the required hustle and drive."

But let him say it himself. We quote:

"Having ventured this far out on a limb, we might as well go all the way and predict the order of finish of the five senior teams. Our choice as first-place finishers has to be the Dunlops. There is still a mathematical chance some other club will overhaul Whitby, but the possibility is too remote. We call the Magedomns to finish second, and before Mike Rodden and crew collapse in mirth it might be well to list the reason for this pick. The Magedomns are a different hockey club today. When the season started they were overloaded with "name" players who failed to produce. The deal vowed to gone new and the boys remaining have an added incentive to win as many games as possible. They are playing under a new co-operative agreement in which gate receipts will determine the stipends. Since they have a financial, as well as sentimental, interest in the fate of the club, they won't give up until the last whistle is heard. The more games they win, the better the crowds should be, so the Magedomns have set their sights on nothing less than second spot and we have to go along with them. As for Kingston, we'll put them in third. The chance of being ousted from second position by the Magedomns is enough for the Goodyears for one day. Danny Cox will steer Belleville into the fourth berth playoff spot and Ray Miron's Cornwall crew will be watching the playdowns this year."

It is the time of year for good resolutions and goodwill towards men. Unfortunately we cannot share cheek-to-jowl the bubbling optimism of the estimable Gerry, nor, as was said before, do we believe Mike is a threesome along with the Mulligans and Mikes on that limb of prediction.

"What we will venture to say is that if the "lower bracket" teams, as they are more or less fondly dubbed by the honorable Minister J. Redden, produce their hockey potential there should result a bristing battle for the third and fourth spots. Mulligan goes into the wild blue yonder with his prediction that the Maggies will finish in second place and the Goodyears in third, with the TPT's in fourth slot and the Cornwall Colts pastoring in the sidelines.

Figure it out, Brockville has played eighteen games with 22 left. The Maggies have won six and tied two for 14 points. The Goodyears have won 13 and tied one for 27 points, with 20 games left to play. The Maggies must win seven with the Goodies dropping a like amount in order to nudge the Kingston club by a point. Possible, but not probable.

And do not tell the Colts about it. They have won three of their last four starts and were forced by process of protest to relinquish another winner. At the moment they are tied with the TPT's in fourth spot with eleven points, and by the same token don't dismiss too lightly the chances of our side to reach the charmed circle. If we were a "predictin' man" we would select Whitby, Kingston, Belleville and Cornwall for the play-down series. Unless, of course, the Maggies resort to some sort of consistency after their brilliant win over the Dunlops.

PIGSKIN PARADE

Ole King Football rules the roost via the airwaves over the holiday. The Bowl games from Florida to Maine, New York to California will offer excellent television fare and help chase the New Year's cobwebs.

This afternoon you can watch the Gator Bowl clash between Auburn and Vanderbilt and after the final whistle blows flip the dial and take in the Blue-Gray classic.

Monday afternoon the airwaves will be plugged with forward passes, punts, touchdowns and tackles as no less than four games hit the antennae. The classic is the famous Rose Bowl clash between Michigan State's Spartans and the UCLA Bruins. The famous Parade of Roses will be televised at 11.45.

From a strictly football point of view this department selects the battle at the Orange Bowl between Oklahoma's Sooners and the Maryland, Terrapins. This should be a brilliant clash between two undefeated, untied squads. You can take in the Orange Bowl game and still be in time for the Rose Bowl epic at 4.45.

Starting 1.45 is the Cotton Bowl struggle between Texas Christian University and the Mississippi team in a split-T duel. At the same time the Pittsburgh Panthers joust with the "Hamblin' Wrecks" from Georgia Tech in a Sugar Bowl battle.

Habs' Backers Sitting Pretty Blues Confounded Everybody Leafs, Wings Disappointment

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A couple of months ago the experts scanned progress reports from National Hockey League training camps and then predicted who would end where in the 70-game league race.

Montreal Canadiens, many said, would win the league championship in a breeze, thus displacing the once-mighty Detroit Red Wings who had taken the accolade for seven straight seasons.

After the Habs, the other five teams were chosen in this order: Detroit, Boston Bruins, Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers.

Since this is the last day of 1955 and slightly more than half the schedule has passed, let's see how the predictions are standing up.

The walk-the-Montreal followers must be patting themselves on the back. Canadiens are in front with 53 points and their stars seem to be getting better by the game.

But, oh those Rangers! They've confounded everybody. Last place, yes? No sir: They're in second spot with 38 points, 15 behind Montreal. The Wings are running close to the Blueshirts with 34 points.

The Hawks are in fourth spot, only two points behind Detroit. Two points separate Chicago and Toronto. In last place are the Bruins, with 25 points on eight wins and nine ties.

HARVEY HURT

The Canadiens suffered a bit of a blow Friday. They said all-star defenceman Doug Harvey will be out of action about two weeks because of a broken bone in his right hand. The Montreal leader pulled up Bob Turner from Shawinigan Falls Catarracts of the Quebec League to take over for Harvey.

Harvey, one of the outstanding defencemen in the league, hasn't played since last Sunday, when he was hurt in an engagement with the York.

The Rangers may be without rearguard Lou Fontinato tonight when they meet Boston at New York. He was kicked in the ribs when he checked Chicago defenceman Lee Fogolin Thursday night. Fontinato missed Friday's practice and was reported to have had trouble with his breathing.

In other games, Detroit is at Toronto and Chicago at Montreal. Sunday Rangers go to Boston and Hawks to Detroit.

Ski Conditions

TORONTO (CP) — About 20 ski centres in Ontario reported excellent to poor conditions Friday with tows operating at 16 of them.

Excellent conditions were reported at Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake and Sundridge; good at Barrie, Beachville, Haliburton, Midland, North Bay, Owen Sound, Sinclair township and Sudbury-Lavack; fair to good at Chatsworth, Collingwood and Flesherton-Markdale; fair at Dundas, and Orangeville-Hockley; fair to poor at Newmarket and Toronto Sunnidale; poor at Coboorg and Huntsville.

No tows are operating at Bracebridge, Owen Sound, or Toronto's summit. Skiing by floodlight is a feature at Sinclair township.

Wins Curl Title

WELLAND (AP)—A St. Catharines collegiate rink skipped by Paul Wickham defeated Don Powell of Welland high school 13-3 Friday to win the Division T title in the Ontario schoolboy playoffs.

The St. Catharines rink, defeated in the Ontario schoolboy bonspiel last year, will travel to Orillia Jan. 14 for the 1955 final.

In semi-final play St. Catharines defeated Hilton Westdale 8 and Welland won 11-6 over Burlington high school.

WIN BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (CP)—San Francisco Dons, No. 1 college basketball team in the United States, Friday night won the holiday festival tournament at Madison Square Garden with an easy 70-52 victory over UCLA. The tournament brought together many of the best collegiate basketball teams.

Sports Stars 'Officiate' at Baby's Birth

DETROIT (AP) —At William Beaumont Hospital in suburban Royal Oak they're thinking about listing as "assisting physicians" in a birth certificate: "Drs." Leon Hart, the star end-fullback of the Detroit Lions, and Art Houtteman, Cleveland Indians pitcher.

The birth certificate will be for Houtteman's son, a seven-pound, two-ounce boy Thursday night at the Houtteman home before a physician could get there.

Hart, a neighbor, was visiting the Houtteman in suburban Birmingham when accidently there was a distress call from Mrs. Houtteman in the kitchen.

WITHOUT WARNING

Leon and Art rushed out. Mrs. Houtteman was having a baby. There hadn't been any warning pains.

The two men, experts on such things as forward passes and sliders, pooled their meagre knowledge of medicine and nature.

Shortly Hart was chortling: "Look at the hands on him. What a quarterback he'll make." Just as Art started giving Leon an argument about those hands having palms, the doctor arrived.

Mother and son were hustled off to the hospital, where both were reported doing fine.

Junior Hahs Tie Maroons

CHATHAM (CP)—A goal-hungry team of Montreal Junior Canadiens battled Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League to a 3-3 tie Friday night in an exhibition game before 1,450 fans.

Rusl, Boucher with two, Dudych and Laforge were the Montreal goalgetters.

Lloyd Ferguson with two third-period goals paced the Maroons. Tiger Power, Cec Kolanos and Eric Unger scored the others.

Montreal led 1-0 at the end of the first, and 3-2 at the close of the second before the Maroons came back in the final period to tie it up.

'Sleeper' Play Injures Goalie

BARNSLEY, Eng. (Reuters) Soccer goalkeeper Gerald Walshaw, 25, with the rear of the crowd in his ears, dashed up-field and booted the football for all he was worth.

Blood flowed from his toes—he woke up.

He had stubbed his foot against the 1-edpost and had to be treated in hospital for a split toe.

Dutchies Play 3-Game Series In Europe

LONDON (CP) — Arrangements are being made for the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen "to play a two - game warmup series in Europe before defending Canada's Olympic hockey crown at Cortina, Italy.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Friday night tentative plans have been made for the Dutchmen to play one game in Scotland and two in Czechoslovakia in mid-January.

"I am waiting for word from George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association before completing arrangements," he said.

The veteran British hockey official said the CAHA president had asked him earlier this week to see if arrangements could be made for a few exhibition games.

Present plans call for the Dutchmen to play a game at Paisley, Scotland, Jan. 16 and then to fly to Prague for games against top-flight Czech teams Jan. 18 and 19.

Ahearne said it is "too early" to announce names of the teams that will oppose the Canadians.

He also said there is little chance of the Canadians playing a post-Olympic exhibition series in Europe.

"I understand they plan to fly straight back to Canada," he said.

WINS BOAT RACE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Buck Lindemeier of Detroit won the Orange Bowl regatta's nine-hour marathon race Friday with an average speed of 40.561 miles an hour. His inboard boat circled the 135-miles course 85 times.

Head Was Up Indians Hang Collar on Dutchies Tied With Bulldogs for 2nd Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Don Head registered his first shutout of the season Friday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League. And he did it the hard way—by blanking the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Stratford Indians, backed by the brilliant playing of Head, moved into a tie for second place with Windsor Bulldogs by defeating Dutchmen 4-0 at Stratford in the only engagement of the night.

Kitchener - Waterloo, however, maintained its 14-point edge over the Bulldogs and Indians. Dutchmen have 44 points.

Tommy Walker, Lou Bendo, Doug McKay and Mickey Roth scored in that order to give Stratford its win over the Dutchmen.

Walker gave Indians a 1-0 lead in the first period. Bendo and McKay made it 3-0 during the middle frame and Roth closed out the scoring just after the midway point in the final 20 minutes.

Referees Maurice Walsh of Ajax, Ont., handed out eight minor penalties during the game, four to each team.

Kenora Rink Wins Title

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eighteen-year-old Jack Robson and his deadly-shooting Kenora, Ont., rink Friday night captured the Manitoba high school curling championship by scoring a one-sided 17-4 victory over Glenn Cooper of Winnipeg in a sudden-death final.

The result brought about a unique situation for the Canadian high school final at Fort William, Feb. 20-23, in that three Ontario rinks will participate—the Kenora foursome representing Manitoba, and the Ontario and northern Ontario champions. The Kenora curling clubs participate in Manitoba as members of the Manitoba Curling Association.

Members of the Robson rink are lead Jack Newman, 17, second Jim Lawrence, 17, and third David Brown, 17.

Odds Drop Sharply

Sentiment Goes to Underdogs In Weekend Bowl Classics

NEW YORK (AP)—A sudden shift of sentiment toward the underdogs incited new interest today in the weekend mash of bowl football games.

There's not more than a touchdown difference in any of the big games, according to latest odds, and some of them may be reduced to "pick 'em" status by kickoff time.

While Oklahoma's U.S. championship held firm as a seven-point choice over Maryland in the "prestige" conflict at Miami, Michigan State saw its edge over UCLA in the Rose Bowl cut to six from seven points and Georgia Tech, once a whopping 13-point choice, fell to six over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl.

Fluctuating odds on the Cotton Bowl at Dallas made Texas Christian first person ever Mississippi, then Ole and finally back to seven. It appears the experts aren't sure anywhere.

The flashiest of all bowl programs, matching nine of the top 11 teams in the Associated Press' final season poll, opens today with the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and a duo of attractions involving picked all-star senior players.

The largest of these is the annual East-West Shrine game at San Francisco, to be witnessed by 61,000, with Howard (Hopalong) Cassady of Ohio State making the East squad a seven-point favorite.

Auburn is a six-point pick over Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., where 36,000 are expected to see the 2 p.m. EST kickoff. The Blue forces are a slim six over the Greys in the North-South at Montgomery, Ala., and Maryland's title to choice between the Skyline and Border Conference all-stars in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz.

Canucks Thump Teeps in 11-5 Rout Goyer Scores Two in Blits' Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros got off to a slow start in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior league this season but now they're making up for it.

Marlboros, who won the Canadian junior championship last season for the first time in 26 years, are now riding on a seven-game undefeated streak. They racked up their sixth win in that string Wednesday night as they defeated the Billmores 9-6 at Guelph.

Scoring eight goals in the first period, Marlboros' Terrier Canucks snapped a three-game losing streak and moved three points ahead of second-place Toronto St. Michael's Majors with an 11-5 rout over the Teepees at St. Catharines. Barrie Flyers moved out of sole possession of the basement by defeating Hamilton Cubs 6-2 at Barrie.

Marlboros' victory moved them into third place with 27 points, just four behind Canucks and one out of second place. Teepees are fourth with 25 points, four ahead of Guelph and six in front of Hamilton and Barrie, who are tied for last place.

The largest Guelph crowd of the season—2,500 fans—saw Marlboros give the Guelph team its fifth straight defeat. Goyer scored two of the Canucks' goals.

Bob Pulford led the winners' scoring with a pair of goals. Singles went to Walt Boyer, Ken Girard, Al MacNeil, Ron Casey, Bob Nevins and Ron Farnfield. Gerry Goyer and Ron Howell scored twice each for Guelph. Bob Fortna and Billy Graham were the other marksmen.

Centre Stan Baluik paced Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks to their second win in six starts against the Teepees with three goals. Wally Bradley and Ken Gribbons scored two each. Willie O'Rec, Abner Martin, Ken Broadhurst and Terry Youngberg fired the other Canuck goals. Pat Kelly counted two for St. Catharines' goals with Don Carter, Ab McDonald and Mart Thompson getting the others.

John Forhan counted a pair of Flyer goals. Al Morreau, Joe Josephson, Danny Patrick and George Sandercock added the other Barrie tallies. Bill Binnie and Cummings Burton scored for Hamilton.

Movies Blast 'Hooliganism' Charges Show Stanley Used Fists, Not Stick

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs Friday went to the defence of Allan Stanley of Chicago Black Hawks, who allegedly struck Leafs defenceman Hugh Bolton with his stick in a National Hockey League game here last Saturday.

Leaf officials said movies show that Stanley hit Bolton three times with his fists, not his stick. The blows cracked a bone in Bolton's forehead. He has been out of action all week.

It was reported after the game that Stanley, Hawk rearguard, had chopped Bolton on the head. The movies were shown Friday to Toronto sportswriters.

Toronto coach King Clancy said:

"We felt it proper to release the movies for two reasons. Hockey was taking a lot of abuse from the high-sticking charges which had nothing to do with this case, and Stanley was being unjustly criticized for not dropping his stick."

The movies showed that Stanley dropped his stick as soon as he was charged from behind by Bolton, who rushed to the defence of teammate Ted Lindsay during a shoving incident in front of the Chicago goal.

Stanley was given a five-minute major penalty for high sticking and a major for fighting. The two majors called for an automatic 10-minute misconduct. Bolton was sent off with a major for fighting.

'Dedicated Disley' Britain's Hope In Olympics

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Mike Ivor Disley, an indomitable outdoor type who scales mountains with the same relish as he sprints over a steeplechase course, is one of Britain's great hopes for a gold medal at the Olympic Games in Melbourne next November.

The irrepressible young Welshman, tanned sportsman of the year in one of Britain's numerous year-end polls, is known to British sportswriters as "Dedicated Disley"—a pale, lean 30-year-old who puts every ounce of stamina and determination into his running.

"I want above all to win a gold medal for Britain in the Olympic Games," he told reporters recently.

If he does, he will be the first British man to win gold medal in Olympic track and field events in 56 years. Last man was tall, bespectacled Albert Hill, middle-distance runner who won the 800 metres in record world time at Los Angeles in 1932.

HAS WON BRONZE

Disley has already gained an Olympic bronze medal for Britain, awarded for his third-place finish in the steeplechase event at Helsinki in 1952, just two years after he first tried the obstacle race.

He had been dismissed from Britain's team in the straight distance events by Geoff Dyson, British track coach, who told him: "Give up trying. You're something that no one else is doing."

Disley, then a London schoolmaster, became a steeplechaser, a grim all-out runner with a floppy bareback of hair who bounced when he cleared the barriers and water hurdles of the 3,000-metre course.

A steeplechase, often called the "most merciless" of all track tests, generally involves an assortment of 28 solid obstacles and eight water jumps.

Canadian All-Star Track and Field Team Announced

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 1955 Canadian all-star track and field team was announced here today by Fred Rowell, chairman of the national track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The fourth - annual selections, covering 28 categories, were made from "information received from committee members from coast to coast," Rowell said.

Harry Nelson of New Westminster, B.C., topped both the 100- and 200-yard events and Rich Ferguson of Toronto, who shared John Landy and Roger Bannister home in the British Empire Games' mile-mile relay, topped Canadian milers.

Glamorous Jackie MacDonald of Toronto topped the women shot putters but came second to Penelope Marie Degress of Burnaby, B. C., in the discus.

ON TENNIS TOUR

TORONTO (CP) — Top-ranking Canadian tennis players from Montreal to Vancouver today are preparing for a full-scale invasion of United States and Europe.

Leaving this week - end for a three-month tour of Florida are Anne Bagge, 22-year-old Danish star now playing out of Toronto, and Don Platt, 25, Toronto, member of the 1954 Canadian Davis Cup team.

Miss Bagge, Platt, Fla., they will join Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., Canadian singles champion, and Montreal's Henri Rochon.

Meanwhile, at Vancouver, Paul Wiley is getting set to join his former Vancouver doubles partner, Larry Barclay. They are scheduled to sail Jan. 13 for Paris and the French and Italian Riviera championships and probably will join Toronto's Don Fontana at Monte Carlo.

New Poison May Control Lampreys

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables.)

As you know, the sea lamprey has invaded the Great Lakes in such quantity that this pest has reduced commercial fishing in those waters almost to the vanishing point. For years the Government scientists have been striving to find some means whereby this predator can be controlled and, eventually, removed.

Traps, of course, have been of little avail. Electric weirs have been effective in keeping the eels from the spawning grounds in the tributaries of the lakes. These, however, are but a partial solution to the problem.

Now it is a happy thing to report that the years-long search for a poison, which will attack lamprey eels without harming other species of fish at last shows every indication of reaching a successful conclusion. Not too much has been made public concerning the experiment discovery and, according to Secretary Douglas McKay of the Department of the Interior, the result may not be completely conclusive, but all present evidence indicates success.

In all, about 2000 poisons have been tested. As it sometimes happens in research projects, new and useful hypotheses have turned up. A good many promising leads for the development of other effective fish poisons have come into focus. You can see quite readily how a poison which will attack one species of fish and only one can be of tremendous help in some of the problems incidental to fish management.

The lamprey eel poison, if it lives up to present expectations, will kill the five generations of eels which live in the mud while they mature. Adult lampreys, attempting to reach the spawning grounds, will be killed by the electric weirs.

For some reason—and this has always been an obscure and inexplainable thing—most of the biologists who have done this important work have been silent, in the report. By all means, we should know who these men are, but their place in the story is at present, the collective hat of this Department is off to them. They have done and are doing a job of inestimable value.

Out in Salt Lake City there is a statue that was erected in honor of the sea gull which saved the city at just peril time time to time. In our opinion, a statue of these biologists should be erected at a prominent place on the shores of Lake Michigan, placed there in honor of men who have done a valuable service to humanity.

CASUALTY REPORT

Of course, every year almost about this time, we read of hunting accidents. Admittedly these accounts make dismal reading, as does any tale having to do with needless waste of human life. However, there are things about this report that make you wonder whether, perhaps, the present legal regulations which govern the right to carry guns in the field during the shooting seasons might not need some revision.

As matters now stand, it is far too easy to a secure a hunting license. All you have to do is to fill out a form, plunk down your money, and if you are an American citizen, you get your license, just like that.

Now remember, a gun is a lethal weapon. It can kill, just as dead as can an automobile. You know what I'm most thorough in order to get your driver's license. Why not institute similar tests for gun licenses?

The 1955 Casualty Report, as published by the American Rifleman, breaks down accident cases into percentages. That way, it gives you a better picture. Here are the percentages simply scream "amateurism" and "lack of training." Let's take a quick look at some of them:

1. Of 1,346 cases, 27 per cent of the shootings occurred at ranges of 10 yards or less.

2. Of 865 cases, 19 per cent were shootings of 7-8 years experience and 22 per cent of 3-5 years experience—long enough to overcome initial fears, but caution with firearms but not long enough to make rules of safety well-known or automatic.

3. Of 1,412 cases, 12 per cent showed victim conveyed by shooter swinging on game; 11 per cent—victim mistaken for game; 10 per cent—shooter stumbled and fell; 2 per cent—clubbing cover or game with weapon; 5 per cent—trigger caught on bush; 3 per cent—weapon fell from insecure rest; 3 per cent—concealed objects, etc., with loaded weapon; 4 per cent—removing weapon from vehicle.

In this list, 27 per cent of the accidents happened because the shooter ignored one basic safety rule—a gun should be kept "on safe" until the very moment of shooting. In other words, 27 per cent of the injuries were self-inflicted.

Don't you agree with me that fitness to handle firearms should be proven before licenses are issued?

By the way, if you want to look over this complete report, write to American Rifleman. I'm sure they will be glad to send you a reprint.

OUR CHANGING WEATHER

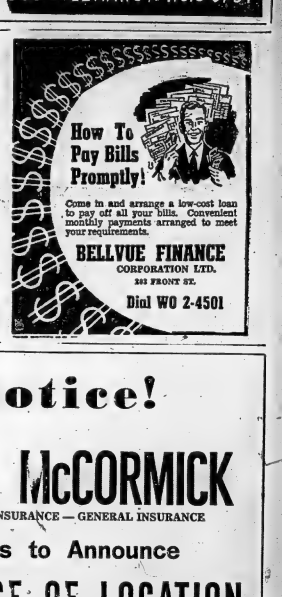
Some time ago, Sir Winston Churchill, in an address to Parliament, is reported to have said: "I believe, the House of Commons (not sure about that) it may have been the House of Lords) anyway—he stated in effect that if the atomic scientists did not stop repeating things with their experiments they would ruin our weather for the next 5000 years.

I'm sorry I did not save the reprint of that speech. Perhaps I'm misquoting Mr. Churchill. The fact remains that Weather Bureau to the contrary notwithstanding, our climate surely is undergoing very radical change. Cool and I speak collectively—opinion backed by personal observation, is that the atomic test bombs each have a decided effect upon the weather which immediately follows that test. We have watched this during the past few years.

Nowadays a year does not pass without having new records of extremes set up—highs and lows in wind and temperatures. You see them in the newspapers. The coldest day on record in this country happened last year at Rogers' Pass, Montana—60 and a fraction degrees below zero. By the same token, sunny Florida has a record—2 degrees below zero, and not so long ago.

While the scientists deny any connection between bomb tests and atomic bombs, they simply do not try to explain such things as abnormal melting of the polar ice caps, the increase of approximately 4 degrees in average daily temperature right here in Pennsylvania; the radical changes in the hurricane routes, from Florida to the northeastern states, and so on.

All this has its effect on wildlife. Pennsylvania is now overrun with pheasants—an exotic which only did not live here when I was a boy. Now our countryside supports chiggers—those microscopic little red bugs whose bite makes you itch like a wench.



The hot weather last summer and fall drove all of our spotting woodcock, the "local birds" out of the area long before the legal shooting season. Some states report exceptionally late migrations because of warm weather. And to make things worse, there is one definite case of a heavy northward migration, of woodcock in the fall when they should be flying south.

In former years we used to have a scattering of doves hereabouts. Now we have excellent dove shooting. Moreover, the birds stay here instead of migrating to southern states. One flock spent last winter on the outskirts of Toronto, Ontario.

Sympathy, it seems should be extended to the weather forecasters and the writers of almanacs. All the lore of former years now must be discounted. No longer is there a beaten path of experience down which these fellows can walk. Nature is writing a new set of rules. Now it is up to us to learn those rules and forget the old ones; better still, we can take the weather as it comes and not worry about it. That is what we must do in any event.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

SUNDAY, JANUARY 1, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—When you must do a thing, do it without quaums or misgivings. Do all things to the best of your ability and with the best intentions and you cannot help but gain blessings.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Do not become upset at criticism—it can help. Even if not deserved, it serves to teach tolerance and gracious understanding.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—If you forgot something, made a mistake or used wrong judgment don't hesitate to say, "I'm sorry," or "that was my fault." You will gain more in dignity and prestige if you do.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your nature is an innately happy one, and you can often be among the most interesting persons in a gathering. So don't ever let moodiness or misgivings lead you astray! Today calls for good humor.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—When you are nail way through a situation don't sit back, relax or count your winnings. This is a good time for reviewing, planning for a better year.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Heed the words of those more experienced than yourself. Only her can you gain knowledge and understanding.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Rest now and plan for an active week ahead. Start with God's blessings at your church, and keep your inborn good humor to the fore.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Don't be caught in a run of any kind. If you haven't achieved as you should in the past year, find a new method, approach, etc. You can do it!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This Sign of the Zodiac is usually a symbol of steady-going achievement, but perhaps you can improve matters still further. Today do some thinking about tomorrow, the future.

December 23 to January 21 —) — Be careful not to make poor exchanges, rash statements, careless moves. Such tendencies are prevalent now. You have a head: use it.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You have the mental agility to adjust to necessary changes; there may be some now. And you will do a good job if you have more faith in yourself and your talents.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Today's influences may not bring all the opportunities you would like but you can have a satisfactory day if you show a reasonable and just attitude to all.

YOU BORN TODAY are practical, energetic, persistent, and have unusually fine mental powers. You may not care for managerial work but may decide upon a literary or other individualistic career. Nevertheless you can make very practical decisions and could hold a business position with success. Other assets are farsightedness, insight into others' motives and the ability to choose the shortest road between two points. Correct tendencies toward self-consciousness and aloofness.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You can all acquire habits, good and bad — and we all do. Over a lifetime one may say that practically everything done is along habit lines. So look into yours today. It is a ripe period for thinking.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You may find that you are opposed at many points now. Uphold sound convictions staunchly, but don't argue just for the sake of arguing or become annoyed.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — While things that are vital to the solution of problems and to happiness are likely to be forgotten if you are not careful, set a sound pace, plan a cautious route, and go forward with faith.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Born after July 19th? Be most tactful now, and listen to others' opinions. For all: Note Gemini and proceed in like manner.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Do things in the order of their importance now. Don't rush from one task or activity to another without spending sufficient time on any one matter. Protect your interests as you should. Check methods and systems.

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — You often help others who find themselves in unhappy circumstances. Yet at times you neglect to handle your own affairs as astutely. Plan, study a bit today — with future security in mind.

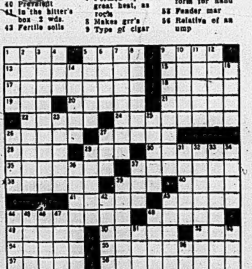
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Without so much rigor as to overtax yourself, aim for high goals, best returns. Where you can help another, don't hesitate. Likewise, in best form, does good deeds regularly. Eat, drink sensibly.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — "Giving in" doesn't mean losing prestige as many think. In fact, the one who can say, "you're probably right" gains in status with those to whom he accedes. A little diplomacy goes a long way.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — If you have been maintaining a brisk pace lately, slow up; get sufficient rest or your nerves—and eventually your work — will suffer.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You may not have all smooth sailing today, but any unusual effort directed toward progress or betterment will meet with good results. Keep improving your skills.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — This day's planetary aspects augur well for your particular talents and for any intelligent efforts you make to improve your status, to gather greater knowledge and know-how.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — With friendly rays from your natal planet, you should profit by what you do well—maybe win new stature. Don't fear expansion; try the unusual if it is sound.

You born today are a self-reliant, sturdy individual, but also a self-conscious one. You can be contradictory as well as generally capable. You may often think more clearly, write better in solitude. When appreciated, you show your many powers, become inspired. You can help others by showing stamina yourself. You appreciate artistic, can attain much through your intuition.

19TH CHILD AT 21

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP)—Eli Lucas, 21, announced the birth of his 19th child Thursday with the hope that "there will be many more children to bless our home." Thirteen of his children were by his first wife, who died several years ago, and six were by his second wife, whose age was not learned. Neighbors described her as "many years his junior."

CENTENARY

Departing Residents Honored With Fine Gifts

CENTENARY. — Mr. and Mrs. Byron Harder opened their home on Saturday evening, for a farewell party in honor of two departing families, the W. J. Slavin's and the Harm Block's. Mr. Robert Percival was chairman for a program of Christmas carols led by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson, accompanied by Mrs. H. Hancock. Mrs. Hancock and Eileen delighted with a piano duet of Christmas music.

The Slavin family were invited to take seats of honor. Mrs. W. Slavin read an address of appreciation and Mr. Gillie Sills presented them with a wrought-iron floor lamp and magazine rack. A magazine rack. Mr. and Mrs. Slavin replied fittingly and all joined in "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mr. Reg. Edmondson read an address from the congregation in Mr. and Mrs. Slavin and family, who are moving to Belleville. Mr. Jack Sargent, Mr. Edgar Ray, and Roger Harder presented his family with two ornamental chairs and a magazine rack. Mr. and Mrs. Block replied suitably and received the gifts and spoke of their sojourn in the community and invited all to their new home.

Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a social hour together.

Garden Notes

New Floral Faces for 1956

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Two seed catalogues came in with the Christmas cards.

They are just as colorful as the cards and juvenile scenes interesting arm-chair gardening. Then too, they remind me to check the garden magazines for other catalogues. Beside offering the latest flower seeds, a study of some of these catalogues offer a wealth of garden knowledge.

Some quiet evening in the holidays I may get to last year's catalogues, go through them and discard some of them.

The All - American Selections awards have been announced for 1956.

A petunia tops the list again. It is the ruffled type with dark veining, multi-tone for bedding and borders. Last year's winner, Pallette, a single petunia, is being offered by many seed-catalogues this year.

In the vegetables, Gold Pak carrot is the winner, Long and slender of good growth and crisp sweet meat, this promises to be good for the market gardener.

A snap bean, Seminole, was held over from last year's awards to allow more seed to be produced enough seed for marketing. It is said to excel the Tendergreen snap bean.

In the gladiolus group Royal Stewart also was held over to allow for more stock before it was introduced. This year will see it on the market — a "royal red" pronounced. Ralph Hemmert, Apple blossom was 1954 winner, is a big white with flushed pink margins.

Another seed company is also introducing some new flowers. The first feature is the New Century Hybrids, the first a polyploid strain. It also gives prominence to the new Cuthbertson floribunda sweet peas, Palomar cucumber, tenderbest bean, silverbell squash and foremost sweet corn.

Each of the big seed companies have several fine offerings in both vegetable and flower field. Look for the ballet petunias, (who said petunias are common), floradale rose snapdragon, blue aster, pigmy primrose marigold, Lady Gay sweet pea and balcony salmon and Pinocchio petunias. Pinocchio is a dwarf morning glory yellow, handsome in a solid bed.

There are nut trees, landscape plans and ornamental trees, bulbs and thornless roses offered in the catalogues.

For seasonal garden news, new products and material subscribe to at least one garden magazine. You can see copies at your local libraries.

U.S. Still Aims At Liberation of Captive Peoples

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — President Eisenhower closes out an eventful and never-to-be-forgotten 1955 today, hopeful that the new year will bring restoration of his health.

Besides his heart attack, another thing which made 1955 eventful for him was the July Four conference in which he took part in Geneva last July. That conference raised the hopes of the world that Russia finally had decided to pursue a more friendly attitude toward the West.

HOPES DIMINISH

But Eisenhower saw those hopes diminished during the latter months of 1955 and then perhaps explode in Thursday's blast at the president by Premier Khrushchev, the Soviet Union's Communist party boss.

Khrushchev accused Eisenhower of violating the spirit of the Geneva conference and of "crude interference" in the affairs of eastern Europe. The red leader said the interference came in the president's Christmas Eve radio broadcast to the people of that Soviet-dominated region.

The U.S. replied Friday in a statement issued by James C. Hagerty, White House secretary.

"The peaceful liberation of captive peoples is a policy that said, "has been, is, and—until success is achieved—will continue to be a goal of United States foreign policy."

SATELLITES MEANT

The statement, approved by Eisenhower, made it clear the captive peoples mentioned are those in the Soviet satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The White House reply took note of Geneva, where that was the message and another by State Secretary Dulles. "It was accord with the spirit of Geneva."

The statement then said any relaxing of the peaceful purpose of the United States to achieve liberty and justice for the oppressed peoples of the world."

...UR CAR

Faulty Coil Can Prevent Easy Starting

By EUGENE MILMOE

An important member of your car's ignition system is the coil. Essentially a transformer, it steps up low voltage of the battery or generator and delivers needed high voltage through the distributor to your spark plugs.

Although the coil itself is not too often an immediate source of trouble, it could be to blame if the points are burned or pitted, engine is missing, starting is difficult, or if you cannot start at all, even with a push.

Whether or not an ignition coil is defective can be quickly determined by modern test equipment. Sometimes, it is unjustly accused when the fault actually lies with a loosely connected high tension lead which permits arcing. This condition can cause heavy corrosion, and of course, excessive resistance at the terminal socket.

L.F. writes: "I have a 1955 V-8 model with standard shift, and when I drive around 15 mph it is very rough and jerky. The dealer can't find anything wrong with ignition, fuel or compression. How you can help solve this trouble."

(A) Has the dealer made certain carburetor idle adjustment is correct?

HOT AND COLD PLUGS

J. From A.T.: "I understand one may use hot or cold spark plugs depending on the kind of driving his car is subjected to. Please tell me what type would be recommended for a 1954 station wagon which is used primarily for short delivery runs in city traffic?"

(A) Under such conditions, you will undoubtedly find that hot plugs are best for your car.

W.S. asks: "I believe one of my front coil springs is sagging slightly. Is there an approved method of correcting such a condition — or is a replacement necessary?"

(A) On most cars, the use of steel shims is approved for raising sagged coil springs. If more than two or three shims are needed, however, the spring should be replaced.

W.N. writes: "When my 1955 car with automatic transmission is under way, it gives out with a whistling-like noise. It seems to me the noise occurs only when the transmission is engaged, although I may be wrong. Have you any suggestions?"

(A) If this whistling noise originates at the transmission, an inspection and tightening of the torque converter control valve could be the answer. This, of course, is a job for a mechanic thoroughly familiar with your type of transmission.

CLAPPING SOUND

H.R. asks: "My new car has a clapping sound when the motor is cold, whether idling or in gear. This noise develops a bell-like tone when the motor warms up. If I drive at low speed, the sound is quite plain. According to the service shop, my hydraulic valves are to blame — but two other mechanics say it is a piston knock. Who is right, in your opinion?"

(A) From your description, I must take the side of those who diagnosed the trouble as piston slap.
